

The executive Committee of State University of Kentucky met pursuant to adjournment in President Barker's office May 3, 1916 at eleven o'clock A. M. Present, C. B. Nichols, R. C. Stoll, P. P. Johnston, Jr., J. E. Brown, Frank McKee and C. B. Terrell.

On motion made, seconded and carried the Committee to consider the question of the University printing and Printing Press was given further time.

Miss. Linda Neville appeared before the Committee and was heard upon her representation that free lecturers could be obtained at the University under the auspices of the State Board of Health, that the lectures would be upon such subjects as would include trachoma and allied afflictions. Upon motion made, seconded and unanimously carried, the matter was referred to the Committee of Deans of the University with direction that that Committee report to this Committee at its next meeting such recommendations as the said Committee of Deans deems advisable on this subject. The Executive Committee voiced its approval of such work.

President Barker made the following report for the Committee heretofore appointed concerning some publications in the Alumnus which is as follows:-

In obedience to your request, I took up the matter of the Alumnus with the Executive Committee, and laid before them fully your views on the subject of their rights to criticize the administration of the State or the University. We very readily reached the following conclusion, which I think will be entirely satisfactory to you:

There is to be but one more publication of the Alumnus this school year, and it is to consist of a directory of the Alumni. No change is to be made in the name of the periodical until after this school year. After the expiration of this school year, if the periodical is published at all, it is to be an entirely independent periodical without purporting to represent the University and to be edited by someone entirely outside the University and to be edited by someone entirely outside the Faculty or employment of the University.

The Committee expressed themselves as being entirely in harmony with your views as laid before them by me, and I anticipate no further trouble in this matter.

I had to act without the aid of Mr. P. P. Johnston who was on the Committee with me, but I called him up and he authorized me to go forward with the matter without him, which I did, as above stated.

The Executive Committee then took up the consideration of the proposed budget for the next year and made numerous changes and with the changes made, the budget was then adopted and ordered filed herewith, subject to minor alterations that may be made at the next meeting.

Upon motion, the Committee adjourned to meet on Monday, May 29, 1916.
