TRIBUTE

Approximately 50 members of the ROTC unit at the university attended the dinner given at a downtown hotel by the Officers Reserve Corps Tuesday night to hear Capt. W. A. Cunningham deliver the principal address of the evening. This was by far the largest number of university militarists which has ever attended the dinner of the corps, and in this attendance The Kernel sees and expresses appreciation and of good will toward the Captain, who before coming to the university, served in the World War and was given the Distinguished Service Award for exceptional bravery and who has received many other honors.

Few instructors in any department of the university make themselves so popular with their students that these students will attend a meeting at which they are making an address. Many are sort from whom students are glad to escape after class hours. When it is possible for an instructor in any department to so win the cooperation and support of his students that 50 of them attend a meeting at which he is speaking. The Kernel always will be ready to recognize him as a leader, a gentleman, and a teacher of the highest order.

THE OCTOBER CAMPUS

With a rustle of flaming leaves and a creaking of wind-puffed boughs, the fall season has taken its blushing possession of the University of Kentucky campus—a campus which annually with the advent of autumn, is transformed into a pageant of glowing color. Situated in the Old South, the university grounds with a multiplicity of shade trees and extent of virgin bluegrass, surpassing that of almost any other school in the country, are most responsive to Nature's changing moods. Even the least watchful student or the most scholarly inclined hardly can fail to appreciate the beauty of a passing Indian summer.

The Kernel has noticed that though professors fret, the eyes of even the most diligent students occasionally roam from books to the outdoor campus beautiful. We feel, however, that long drawn out as are the stolen glimpses they can never be so enjoyable or so effective an escape from book cares as a stroll about the grounds themselves.

Vine-covered mechanical hall, with its frontage of fall-dipped lawn; the dahlias gardens, one of the finest collections in the country, radiant in October flush; the botanical gardens, with their blend of shrubs and old stone; the sunken gardens of the art centre; the pattern of searing poplars swaying near precise acres of the stadium; the autumn-dyed trees, moss-coated benches—all offer Nature's gifts to the campus wanderer. The grounds of the university greet him with colorful tribute.

The Kernel feels that the majority of university men and women appreciate the readily visible flashiness of the campus in October garb. Nevertheless there is much that is hidden, round the corner from the path-herding throng. To see the richest vagaries of the fall-fashioned grounds, students must wander, not pathward but across campus.

WHY?

The Kernel is reliably informed that when an order for books is placed at the university bookstore any copies of that book which are on reserve at the library are removed from the shelves and placed under lock and key. There they remain until it is too late for the students who need them to use them.

This plan probably is followed in order that the bookstore may be assured of a sale of every book that is ordered. This would be particularly applicable on novels and other material which is ordered by English classes at the university, which are read for an assignment, and which afterwards is discarded.

That it may be necessary to assure the bookstore of the sale of every book ordered is not questioned by The Kernel. We can easily understand that when an order is placed for a book the agency placing the order expects to sell it. What we cannot understand is why it is necessary for those students who cannot afford the book to order it when it would be possible for many of them to use the books which are in the library. It naturally would be an inconvenience to them to use the library books, and at times it might even be impossible for them to do so. If they are willing to take this chance, however, and if the instructor makes no concessions to them if the book is not obtainable, then it seems only fair that they should be permitted to save the money which probably is needed much more in meeting other expenses. Such an arrangement would cause several students not to order books, but this would bring no actual loss to the bookstore.

Why the books which are ordered are taken out of circulation we do not know. We believe that this practice is unfair to the student, and, for this reason, should be abolished.

OUTSIDE SUPPORT

When the train carrying the Wildcats to College Park, Maryland, passed through Ashland, many persons assembled at the station to wish the squad luck in the contest and to assure it that it had the support of the citizens of Ashland. The crowd which gathered was much larger than the group which gave the team its send-off at Lexington. At Ashland the Big Blue supporters reached through the train windows to shake hands with the Kentucky gridmen, at Lexington a small crowd unenthusiastically bid them good-bye.

It seems that students of the university should be the most enthusiastic and loyal followers and supporters of the team, regardless of rain, and it is a reflection on the student body here that—from the evidence—it is held in much higher regard by the people of the state than by the students themselves. If the citizens of Ashland can leave their homes, forego motion pictures and other entertainment to come to the station to assure our team of their support, it seems that an equal demonstration on the part of students here is the least that could be asked.

EPITAPH FOR A GERMAN SOLDIER

He thought his country right and loved her well.
 He marched a hundred miles on bleeding feet,
 And crouched in puddles with a crust to eat.
 A bloody crust that had a powder smell.
 He sang to drown the roaring of a shell
 The vision in his eyes was very sweet—
 He saw a flower-bordered German street
 And with a clean French bullet he fell.
 And those that loved him, never are to know
 If he was even shovelled in a trench,
 Grotesque and grim who was their fair delight.
 From that sweet seed but recollections grow
 Without a ray of hatred for the French,
 He fought for what was wrong—but he was right.
 —LOUIS HOW

ALARM

She turned her head
 And looked him in the eyes.
 But not for long . . .
 'Say!' he was quick and spry
 She screamed!
 (They were alone in this old house)
 The little co-ed
 And the big bad mouse.

Arthur Russell Thorndike
 Is Noted Actor and Author

Arthur Russell Thorndike, one of the outstanding actors who will appear in "Twelfth Night" and "Hamlet" when the Ben Greet players come to the university October 27, is an author as well as an actor. His exceptional career warrants the recalling that he was born at Rochester, Kent, England, February 6, 1885, the son of Canon Arthur John Webster Thorndike. He was educated at St. George's school Windsor Castle, and at the King's school, Rochester.

As a boy, Russell Thorndike sang in the choir at the Chapel Royal, Windsor Castle. He was boy soloist to the late Queen Victoria, and last sang at Windsor on the occasion of her funeral. He was a student at Ben Greet's academy of acting. He made his first appearance on the stage at the Theatre Royal, August 4, 1904, as "John Rugby" in "The Merry Wives of Windsor." In September, 1905, he came to America with Ben Greet, and made a first appearance in New York in "Henry V." He remained with Ben Greet's company for four years, playing numerous parts. On his return to England he appeared at the Court theatre, London, under William Haviland and Gerald Lawrence. In 1911, he accompanied Matheson Lang to South Africa and thence to India and the far East in extensive reports. At the outbreak of the war, Mr. Thorndike served with the First Westminster Dragoons in Egypt and Gallipoli in 1914, and was invalided out in 1916, shortly after which he joined the "Old Vic" company under Ben Greet, where he remained

THREE TRUSTEES WILL BE ELECTED

Six Have Been Nominated for Vacancies on U. K. Board; Election to Close December 1

Election of three alumni members for the university board of trustees closes December 1, according to Wellington Patrick, secretary. Ballots, listing the six nominees, and a short biographical sketch of each were mailed October 1 to graduates of the university.

One of the three successful candidates will be appointed January 1 to fill the vacancy temporarily because of the expiring term of E. B. Webb, present alumni member. Some of the nominees are: L. K. Frankel, Lexington; W. H. Grady, Louisville; I. J. Miller, Lexington; Clifton L. Thompson, Paducah; E. B. Webb, Lexington; G. H. Wilson, Lexington. Following are short biographical sketches of the men.

Leon K. Frankel, Born, April 28, 1878, at Louisville, Kentucky. He was graduated from the College of Engineering, University of Kentucky in 1900 with the degree of B. M. E. Member of the firm of Frankel and Curtis, Architects and Engineers, since 1919.

Mr. Frankel, being connected with the Alumni of the University, protested against his name being entered on the election ballot at the time nominations were made. The Board ruled that it was without authority to leave off his name but gave him the privilege of making a statement in connection with his name that he does not desire to be voted for. Such a request was received from Mr. Frankel in writing and is recorded here by the Secretary of the Board on this authority.

By TOSY ROSE

The Southern Conference football championship race has narrowed down to six unbeaten and united teams. Of these eleven with perfect records only Tulane, Georgia and Tennessee appear to be strong enough to be considered as potential champions. These favorites appear safe at least for another week as Georgia meets Vanderbilt; Tulane clashes with Georgia Tech, and Tennessee battles North Carolina.

Harry Mehre's Georgia Bulldogs, who have been growing at the championship door for two years, appear entirely too strong for the Vanderbilt Commodores. Coach Mehre has developed the greatest team that the University of Georgia has ever set upon the gridiron. It has taken him three years to develop the Notre Dame system to the perfection that his pupils have now attained. Mehre believes his team this year is one that can be compared with the great eleven that were produced at Notre Dame under the great master mind—Knute Rooskie. At any rate the Bulldogs are top-heavy favorites to win from the Commodores.

At New Orleans the Green Wave of Tulane should drop any hopes of the Tech Engineers for a victory. Georgia Tech is capable of putting up a mighty good fight but Tulane is just too powerful for most any team at the present time. Bernie Bierman has developed one of the greatest lines that the south has ever produced. It has been the work of the forward wall that has brought such success to Tulane this season; against Vanderbilt last week Bierman's line was a thing of beauty, perfect coordination combined with an abundance of power. It was no wonder that Vandy was overwhelmed. It looks like an easy victory for Tulane.

Tennessee is not expecting much trouble from North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Major Neyland has again produced a wonder team—it seems that the Volunteers will have easy sailing until their last two games of the season against Vanderbilt and Kentucky. The Tar Heels are hoping to keep the score low; they are not even considering a victory.

South Carolina should win from Clemson in their annual battle at Columbia. The Clemson Tigers have been traveling a rough road all season while South Carolina has enjoyed a smooth season. Washington and Lee and Virginia will meet in their traditional battle at Lexington. Hope means absolutely nothing in games involving Virginia teams, in these games past performances are forgotten—only the fighting spirit remains. We pick the Generals to win.

Florida and Auburn will battle it out at Jacksonville; this game should be a real struggle. The Gators are mighty hard to beat at Jacksonville and as both are evenly matched we pick Florida for this one reason. Alabama should be able to down Sewanee without much effort. The Crimson Tide still carries a terrible wallop regardless of the Tennessee result.

Kentucky is favored to win from V. P. I. in a battle of giants. The V. P. I. line will average 197 pounds while the Wildcat wall will average around 200. In the Maryland-V. P. I. game we are expecting a schedule of practices picked by the Cadets to win. Maryland is in very poor condition and the Cadets are just now hitting their stride—it looks like a victory for V. M. I.

Duke is expecting another hard game in their clash with Wake-Forest. It seems that Wallace Wade cannot get his offensive machinery clicking in all the games. His son Duke has been very weak on the offense. Duke looks a winner although the game should be a close fight. North Carolina State will clash with Catholic University. It is hard to get a line on this game but if the Catholics have anything at all they should win from State.

Mississippi and Southwestern appear very evenly matched in their game at Oxford. Ole Miss has been up against tougher competition than its opponents, this alone gives them a slight edge.

Louisiana State will have a hard time downing Arkansas; this game seems to be a toss-up. Arkansas at the present time is occupying the cellar position in the Southern Conference while Louisiana is undefeated in the Southern Conference.

Street Presbyterian church. Robert Gilmore, president, presided.

The program for the year was planned and the Rev. Howard Morgan, who led the discussion of the club last year, was selected to lead this year's group. New members were presented at this meeting and the officers were introduced to those present.

Next week Dr. A. W. Fortune, of the Central Christian church, will lead the discussion according to the announcement issued by Reverend Morgan. Several outside speakers will lecture before the club during the year, according to present plans.

The next meeting will be held at 12 o'clock Wednesday at the same place.

Looking Over the Magazines

By NICHOLAS WINN WILLIAMS

"Street Scene"—A Digression

Those who have watched sympathetically the rise of Elmer Rice will welcome an article in the current New Republic magazine. Stark Young, one of the editors of the New Republic, reviews Mr. Rice's new play, "The Left Bank," and at the same time makes some critical comment on the work of this particular dramatist. In part, he says, "The Left Bank," well directed as it is by the author, is sure to strike many of Mr. Rice's public as a fine play. The review makes one speculate on Elmer Rice, the same man who wrote "Street Scene." Perhaps it is not the legitimate function of this column to discuss drama and the motion pictures, but a digression just now is quite justified, if we insist on justifying procedure other than that which is conventional. But then we are not sticklers for consistency or uniformity.

If one may indulge in superlatives, I may remark that "Street Scene" as a movie is one of the best of all times. Its status as a play needs no comment. Lending a talkie in such a manner is necessarily superficial since it is not possible to see all the pictures, (thank heaven!) Because the movies did not try to butcher an excellent piece, they succeeded in creating something good. The moral is obvious but the movies are too high-brow to be moral, or rather too practical minded to understand the inference that might come out of a bedtime story. In "Street Scene" one feels that it is all tragic; one feels stifled at the force of the bits of evidence as they pass by single file, each grim; even the more humorous seem sad although no melodramatic. Here one finds the humor of a city skyline in all its beauty, and specifically the monotony of a tenement house in New York city. People talking of the weather, hucksters selling their faces, old women gossiping all the scandal, a man worrying about his wife who is soon to have a child, the voices of children singing about the "farmer in the dell"—street scene. Elmer Rice is significant; he points the way without saying thus and so. It all goes to prove that photography may be an art, that realism may be more powerful than all our "pretty magazines." There is something; very depressing about adding machines and numbers, about "L's" screaming along about a row of buildings all in one color, about faces that seem weary and torn and sad, about—All of this is a digression, to be sure, but then—perhaps "Street Scene" itself is a wandering in short, a digression. More power to the movies!

Lexingtonians may look back and recall the days of Centre's "Praying Colonel" upon reading an article in a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post; it is called "Praying Colonel—Golden 'Tornado,'" and it is written by Mike Thompson with Wesley Stout. They are all there—Red Roberts, Bo McMillan, Red Weaver; there is even a photograph of a play made in the Centre-Kentucky game back in 1919. Uncle Charlie Moran was full of all kinds of surprise plays. One day out in West Virginia he sent a substitute on the field donned in a track suit and wearing spinter's shoes. Needless to say the man caught the pass and made the touchdown.

but the number is undoubtedly fewer than before the war. The major subjects American students take in Germany are medicine, chemistry and philosophy.

When asked if there was coeducation in Germany, Dr. Roesch stated that the majority of girls in the universities study the natural sciences and that far more study medicine than in the American colleges. Recreations and amusements for German students do not differ from ours. Tennis, swimming, and fencing are the chief forms of physical education. It is interesting to note that all freshman girls in the German universities must, as in America, take a year of physical education.

The cost of attendance at a university varies. Dr. Roesch believes that the cost depends on the student and on the town in which he studies.

A similarity of German and American universities is that they both use the lecture system extensively. A difference is that American professors require attendance at lectures while German professors do not.

Dr. Roesch stated further that journalism was not taught in the German universities.

NOTICES ISSUED FOR FALL SPORTS

There are several important notices emanating from the "royal court" of C. W. Hackensmith's intramural department this week, pertaining to volleyball.

According to "Hack," volleyball practices will be held in the Men's gymnasium on Wednesday nights. All independent teams wishing to schedule a practice night are to use the gymnasium in the basement of the Alumni gym. For those teams already organized and ready to begin practicing, there is a schedule of practices posted on the bulletin board in the basement of the Men's gym. The first volleyball practice held in the Men's gym, last Thursday night with a number of teams taking advantage of the opportunity to practice.

All of the second round matches of the fall sports have been run off, and the third round is now in full swing. There was some keen competition in the second rounds, and many of the victors had a tough time over-coming their opponents.

Matches in the golf tournaments have been especially hotly contested, and have brought to the fore two good performers in the persons of Hagant and Lanning. Hagant is especially clever with the woods and irons, and already has one golf tournament to his credit. Lanning was the victor in a golf tournament held in Paris, Kentucky, this summer.

Lanning also has a victory in a golf tournament to his credit, having emerged the victor in a tournament held at the Piccadome course this summer.

In the golf tournament, the Kappa Alphas seem to be having the most success. They have six men entered in the event and all six of them are pretty wicked with the sticks. These six men suffered from the Kappa house have gone through all of their matches without suffering from a defeat.

The ancient and honorable art of tossing the iron part of the horse's hoof is under full sail. In the horseshoe singles, Malone, independent and Ross, Kappa Six, seem to be having the most success in tossing the shoe around the peg. These two men will meet each other in a match in the third round and a close race for honors is in store. The date of this match will be announced later.

Music Students Will Give Recital

A recital of the music majors of the department of music will be held at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon in the large studio of the Art center. University students, staff members, and townspeople are invited.

The program is as follows:

V. I. I. PREPARE FOR AN INTRAMURAL CROSS COUNTRY RECORD

Considers Kentucky Strong, but Gobblers To Give Their Best

By C. W. RUBLE
Sports Editor, "The Virginia Tech"

Blacksburg, Va., October 20: (Special to The Kentucky Kernel)—Following their unimpressive showing against William and Mary in Richmond in a game in which they were conceded great odds, the V. I. I. Gobblers started a week of hard training Monday, in preparation for their invasion of Kentucky this week-end. Coach Orville E. Neal, former Western Maryland star, was greatly disappointed that his eleven did not chalk up a victory over William and Mary and plans to exhaust every available means to strengthen his line-up before the game with the Wildcats.

V. P. I. gridiron fans noted with particular interest the 6-6 tie between Maryland and Kentucky Saturday, because both teams are future opponents. And it is the general opinion in the Gobblers' camp that had Kentucky got any of the breaks, the team from the Blue Grass regions would have won. But this opinion most certainly does not detract from the strength of the Maryland eleven.

V. P. I. considers Kentucky one of the three strongest rivals on her schedule and Coach Neal is taking no chances in his preparation for Saturday's battle. While the odds are unquestionably in Kentucky's favor on their home field, V. P. I. will be suffering from no inferiority complex when they race out into the Lexington stadium to give their best.

Kelly and Wright Considered Stars

The gridiron achievements of "Shipwreck" Kelly, in our opinion, one of Dixie's best backs, and Captain "Babe" Wright, star tackle, are known throughout the state of Virginia, as are others of the Kentucky cast.

With victories over Davidson College, who tied Duke Saturday, and King College, an overwhelming defeat at the hands of the unusual Georgia Bulldogs, and the regrettable tie with William and Mary, V. P. I.'s record doesn't look any too impressive. So Saturday, the "Techmen" will be out to give an excellent account of themselves against what we consider a worthy foe.

Line Will Be Heavy

The starting line-up which will probably face the Wildcats Saturday includes Al Seaman and Benny Palmer at the flank positions; Harry Stark, all-State tackle, and Bill Grinus, both 200-pounders at the tackle posts; "Big" Jim Swart 215-pound guard, and John Murphy who recently replaced Gene Hite in the Clobber line, at the

FRESHMEN MUST GROW SMARTER TO OPPOSE 'CATS

The Freshmen may have a good football team, no doubt they have. They have a good heavy line and a fast backfield that uses plenty of foot work, but they will have to grow a whole lot bigger, get a whole lot faster and the brain will have to swell plenty before they can go any place against the varsity or even pretend to stop the Wildcat backfield.

Tuesday afternoon, after both the freshmen and varsity had been practicing on plays, blocking, tackling, etc. the freshmen were drilled over and put on defense. In spite of all the Big Greenies' could do, the Wildcat backfield showed no intention to be real wildcats by tearing the freshman line to shreds and racing down the field time after time behind perfect interference. Then Coach Gamage exclaims, "Here, take these freshmen down here and give me some players who can pretend to stop these men, anyhow!"

So, Coach Pribble trotted his freshmen back to their side of the field, and Gamage put in his second team to try to hold the Wildcats. The freshmen weren't downhearted. No Boy! They went to work harder than ever, for they knew that pretty soon they would be called over to try V. P. I. plays against the varsity and if they were successful they would reap vengeance on the varsity.

Consequently the Freshies started to work hard in learning the V. P. I. plays and it was not long before they were called back over to the varsity side of the practice field. Coach Gamage instructed his line how to play against the opposing team's formation and the battle began.

But, almost at the instant the freshman back received the ball to pass, he was on the bottom of the pile. On the next play the Greenie back was in such a hurry to get the ball and get away that he dropped the ball and four varsity players were upon it before he had time to think what it was all about. This continued for two or three plays, and then again the Head Coach said, "These fellows were taken back to their field by Coaches Pribble, Forquer, and Miller, and resumed practice among their opponents next week. They were not discouraged, for they knew that they had not gotten worse, but that the varsity was naturally gotten a whole lot better since the first few practices of the season when the freshmen were able to make gains through the Wildcat line.

Therefore, again the freshmen were taken back to their field by Coaches Pribble, Forquer, and Miller, and resumed practice among their opponents next week. They were not discouraged, for they knew that they had not gotten worse, but that the varsity was naturally gotten a whole lot better since the first few practices of the season when the freshmen were able to make gains through the Wildcat line.

Old Football Star Wishes He Could See 'Cats vs Vols

By HARRY COSTELLO
Georgetown U. Backfield Star, 1910-13

An old football player is forever wishing.

He wishes each fall he could be 20 years old again. He wishes he could carry the ball on that particular end run, on that particular double pass.

He wishes he could be in there to punt at that particular moment, to drop-kick that particular try for a goal from field.

Yes, he just wishes, and wishes, and wishes. From September to December.

Well, this old football player is no different than the others.

He wishes he could be a unit of the football team which this year is carrying the colors of the University of Kentucky. He refers to the Wildcat eleven which was Saturday held to 6-6 tie by Coach Curly Byrd's alert, intelligent, courageous, gallant Maryland team.

Touchdowns the better team (and plural is correct), Kentucky was defeated. It was a virtual victory for Maryland.

All honor, all glory, all credit, congratulations and cheers were for the Terrapins at the final whistle. Maryland deserved the adulation.

The Old Liners were glorious in that tie game. They turned a single opportunity into a surety bond. They rose to the occasion, inspired, and split even. They even outsmarted the Kentuckians at just the right moment of the game.

They played heads-up football, bang-up football, and came within two splashes of winning the battle. Even so, this old football player will take Kentucky for his money. And, in so choosing, he intends no disparagement, disincarnation or disaster to Maryland. He admits the Terps battled the Blue Grass boys to a veritable standstill.

Kentucky Gridiron Star

But, being an old football player, he persists in carrying his point. He insists, even on Monday morning, that he wishes he could call signals for "Shipwreck" Kelly, for Urbaniak, for Phipps, Richards, Andrews, Seale and the rest of the

32 BASKETBALL PRACTICES HELD BY COACH RUPP

The annual intramural cross country event will be run off at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The contestants will start from the cinder path on the South side of the stadium. C. W. Hackensmith, director of intramurals, has announced.

Officials for the event will be: Starter, G. Whitlow; Judges at the finish, E. Surgeoner, "Red" Swisshelm, and R. McVay. Judges at the turns, Beatty, Faber, Alexander, Morgan Scott, Hennessy and Kyle. Last year's winner of the event was Howard Baker, Phi Sigma Kappa.

His time for the course was ten minutes and 46 seconds. This year's time is expected to be somewhat better, as there are several men who have practice rounds over the course in better than seven minutes. The fastest time for a practice round was turned in by O. B. Coffman, who has been over the course six minutes and 20 seconds. Second place last year was won by B. Massie, Phi Delta Theta, and third position went to G. Gottlieb, Independent. The fraternity team winning was Phi Sigma Kappa.

The route of the course, which is approximately one mile and a quarter in length is as follows: the contestants will start from the "burred yard dash" mark on the south side of the stadium, go around the quarter mile track once, thence out through the practice field gate in the rear of the Men's gymnasium, cross over the gulley on the west side of the small wooden bridge.

They will then follow the small stream to Limestone street, south on Limestone street to the Agriculture building. The runners will then pass in the rear of the "Ag" building, in front of Memorial hall, down through the hollow in front of the Dispensary, continuing across the campus and in front of the Women's gymnasium. Recrossing the gulley back to the West gate up through the practice field to finish at the starting point.

The entrants and the numbers they will wear: H. Hocker, 1; F. Clark, 2; C. Yenn, 3; F. Adams, 4; W. Lowenthal, 5; L. Mahan, 6; A. Mahan, 7; J. Gregory, 8; Z. Conley, 9; P. Cullen, 10; R. Sawyer, 11; J. Kendall, 12; H. Traynor, 13; J. Jenkins, 14; R. Tucker, 15; K. Glass, 16; T. Jenkins, 17; Smith, 18; S. Bishop, 19; B. Martin, 20; J. Gatto, 21; McGann, 22; N. Work, 23; B. Davis, 24; T. Ruppe, 25; B. Yankey, 26; R. Reuter, 27; B. W. Biggs, 28; C. Cawell, 29; J. Gatewood, 30; W. Massie, 31; T. Judd, 32; J. Ferguson, 33; C. Durr, 34; W. Cox, 35; I. Jacob, 36; A. Miller, 37; C. Coffman, 38; O. Coffman, 39; R. Pate, 40; H. Miner, 41; M. Gable, 42; R. 72.

Many of the players that reported had not appeared on the local courts before, and as yet, Coach Rupp has not had a fair chance to size them up. The squad will not be cut for at least two weeks which will give any latent plenty of time to burst out. Meanwhile the coach is making a plea for more material.

He says, "In a school of this size I know there are better players than have shown up so far. I want big, strong, tall boys able to stand the gaff of a hard season. The boys who have turned out look like a good bunch, and I hope I can find in them some of the ball players that I have been looking for."

The list of candidates that reported to "Red" Reynolds, manager, for equipment the first day are: T. Helm, L. Conleton, W. Conleton, H. Johnson, W. Oaks, J. Salvers, F. Settle, C. Yancey, H. Oeder, J. Atchison, J. Hughes, J. Demolsey, R. Clark, L. Crump, B. Hartin, K. Honperon, G. George, R. Money, H. Vincent, L. Davis, J. Maguire.

Trigg, 43; R. Smith, 44; Bushbaum, 45; H. Finn, 46; A. Black, 47; C. Lovell, 48; M. Darrell, 49; W. Shaffer, 50; W. Alver, 51; H. Baker, 52; B. Dawson, 53; R. Whiddle, 54; G. George, 55; V. Statement!

In a statement issued to the Associated Press yesterday concerning post-season charity football games, Coach Harry Gamage said, "I believe that every college or university football team should do its utmost in the way of a charity game for the benefit of the unemployed, either by a post-season game, where possible, or by the donation of the receipts from some of their regularly scheduled games."

With this view in mind, I am willing to prepare our boys for a charity game with any team, at the place that the Athletic Council should schedule for us."

Crippled Cynthia Canceled Football Game with Purples

Cynthia high school has notified Coach Petie Kemper of University high school that the Cynthia Bulldogs who were scheduled to meet the Purples on Pleadome's field Friday would be unable to play the game due to the fact that the Cynthia squad is in a badly crippled condition.

The Purples are in fine shape, with the exception of Steers, guard, who received a bad leg from the Springfield game. Snap and vigor have been evident in every Purple workout this week and the Purples are expected to turn in a victory over their opponents next week.

The Cynthia team, after having lost all its starts this season, received injuries in the game played with Palmouth, Friday, that prevented further continuation of football. The team announced its official defeat in its history, losing to Palmouth 121-0.

rain football into the arms of Kentucky's average receivers. And such things would be a result of some heavenly act, as things look now. Virginia Tech brings a line to Lexington that will outweigh the starting lineup for Kentucky. Darrell Darby, mighty-midest, will perform at guard, and "Baldy" Kipping will cavort in the stead of Ken Andrews, who deserves a rest.
In the center of the Gobblie line there is one, Captain Gene Brown, all-Virginia center, who is considered a mighty fine back in Virginia, but in the center of the Big Blue forward wall there is one, Frank Senle from Virginia, whom we consider mighty fine. It will be interesting to watch the two fight it out.

It appears that the Tech cadets will bring along at least three sophomore backfield stars. There are two or three first year men on the Tech team, and they will start at fullback, and Pug Bach will see service if he lives 'til then.
V. P. I. holds a victory over Davidson College, who tied Duke last Saturday. Duke is considered formidable by Kentuckians, and the scores of the Tech and Davidson games may give the fans some idea of the strength of the team that the Gobblers will put on the field.

Strollers Hold Amateur Night

will be staged just before the Christmas holidays with a probable run of three nights. The play to be offered will be announced this week and tryouts are to be held in the immediate future.
Stroller amateur night has been an annual affair at the university since 1916 when it was inaugurated at the request of the university administration. At that time its specific function was to discourage the yearly street congregation of students on Halloween night by providing worthwhile entertainment. Since that time, as the practice of Halloween street-roving subsided, the date of the amateur night production has been changed.

Each year the organization chooses a number of plays for tryouts by Stroller aspirants. From this group are selected the amateur night performers and from the remainder, giving creditable performances, are chosen the Stroller ensembles. According to the director, more students tried out this year than ever before.

Engineers Hear Program Given By Ratliff Singers

The engineering student body was entertained at its general convocation held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in Memorial hall by a group of colored singers from the Ratliff Industrial Institute.
The program, which was presented through the efforts of the faculty of the College of Engineering consisted of a group of songs by the Ratliff quartet, and a number of solos. The selections were chiefly negro spirituals and were enthusiastically received by the engineers.
The singers are members of a group of students who, under the direction of Doctor Ratliff, are touring Kentucky, securing funds with which to operate their institution. The school is located in Louisville and is devoted to the training of negro youths in the skilled trades in which they are naturally adept.

let's all go to Turkey

Eastward ho! Four thousand miles nearer the rising sun—let's go! To the land of mosques and minarets—so different from our skyscrapers, stacks and steeples.
Let's see this strange, strange country. Let's see the land where the tobacco* grows in small leaves on slender stalks—to be tenderly picked, leaf by leaf, hung in long fragrant strings, shelter-dried and blanket-cured. Precious stuff!
Let's taste that delicate aromatic flavor—that subtle difference that makes a cigarette!

XANTHI . . CAVALLA . . SMYRNA . . SAMSOUN . . famous tobaccos!

*Turkish tobacco is to cigarettes what seasoning is to food—the "spice," the "sauce"—or what rich, sweet cream is to coffee!
You can taste the Turkish in Chesterfield—there's enough of it, that's why. Chesterfield has not been stingy with this important addition to good taste and aroma; four famous kinds of Turkish leaf—Xanthi, Cavalla, Samsoun and Smyrna—go into the smooth, "spicy" Chesterfield blend. This is just one more reason for Chesterfield's better taste. Tobaccos from far and near, the best of their several kinds—and the right kinds. And pure, tasteless cigarette paper, the purest made. The many requisites of a milder, better smoke, complete!
That's why they're GOOD—they've got to be and they are.
