Alumni Reunion

By Cameron Coffman

June, the month of roses and brides, graduations and class reunions, is almost gone. The roses and brides are still here; in reality the graduations and class reunions are over, but in the minds of those 400 graduates and the 200 alumni, who returned to the University of Kentucky campus for the 1931 commencement, the graduation and class reunion will live forever. Representatives from the classes of '81, '91, '01, '11, '21, '29, and those of '86, '96, '06, '16, and '26, helped to make this reunion one of the most brilliant and memorable affairs in the history of a University of Kentucky alumni gathering. The members of these classes were the special homecoming guests of the year. But more than fifty members of the other classes were welcomed by their friends and classmates.

Twenty-five years have passed since the class of 1906, which had a roll of 54 members, received their degree. After these twenty five years largest enrollment at the reunion, entertained with a luncheon at the Lafayette hotel.

The Alumni banquet, which was given, Thursday night, June 4, was attended by 200 alumni and guests. Mr. Thornton Lewis, '06, was the principal speaker of the evening. The subject of his talk was "The Need of Leadership." The oldest alumni to return to the reunion was Prof. M. L. Pence who was graduated in the class of 1881. Prof. Pence, who was the guest of honor at the reunion, is the last surviving member of the class of three who were graduated just 50 years ago. Judge Richard C. Stoll, '95, spoke on "The University of the Past," and President Frank L. McVey spoke on "The University of the future." He told in what way the alumni might help, and in what ways the university might profit by their assistance. He placed the responsibility for the future progress of the University, in part at least, approximately one half of this class once more returned to roam the campus of the much changed university. Different sights met their gaze, new buildings adorned the once vacant sections of the campus, and a beautiful blue grass campus was presented to those who have not had the opportunity to witness the changes that have taken place from year to year. In their views every material thing was changed with the possible exception of a few of the oldest buildings on the campus, but there was still one inanimate thing that had prevailed among those students of a quarter of a century ago—it was that indomitable spirit of friendship that had once more come together to help make the reunion of 1931 a huge success, or as it has previously been said, one of the most memorable affairs in the history of a University of Kentucky gathering. On June 4 this class which had the distinction of having the in the hands of the alumni, and urged them to contribute their advice and interest to further or advance the progress of their Alma Mater.

The 1931 Alumni Reunion Groups at Maxwell Place

Mr. Leon K. Frankel, '00, president of the Alumni Association, acted as toastmaster, and Mrs. Herndon, '07, responded with a short talk. On account of the numerous talks and responses during the banquet was continued a little longer than was expected. After the banquet a dance was given in the ball room of the Lafayette hotel by the Lexington Alumni Club. Miss Marguerite McLaughlin president of the club, was in charge of dance program. Nearly all of the classes of the university were represented at the banquet and dance.

Other entertainment which was presented for the visiting alumni was the play, "Paulo and Francesca," which was given by the Guignol Theatre, on Wednesday night, June 3., at the amphitheatre in the rear of Memorial Hall. This play had previously been presented to the public, but by request it was again presented for the benefit of the visiting alumni. Dr. and Mrs. Frank L. McVey entertained with a tea Thursday afternoon at their home, "Maxwell Place", which is located on the campus, in honor of the alumni. At this time a picture was taken of the entire group of alumni who were present.

President and Mrs. Frank McVey entertained the members of the 1931 graduating class with the traditional senior breakfast Friday morning, June 5, at their home, Maxwell Place. At 10:00 o'clock Friday morning the annual commencement exercises were held in the Men's gymnasium which is located on the north end of the campus on Euclid avenue. 150 alumni participated in the commencement parade down the hill to the gymnasium.

One of the most unique affairs of the alumni reunion and commencement exercise was the awarding of an M. A. degree to Mr. George H. Hailey on behalf of the graduate members who were present at the luncheon.

This luncheon concluded the festivities which were arranged for those returning for the reunion, and 400 more names were entered in the secretary's office as alumni of the University of Kentucky.

Some of the alumni who attended the reunion and registered at the university are:

1881

Prof. M. L. Pence, only living member of the class.

1901

at the same exercise in which his daughter, Mary Virginia, was receiving her A. B. Mr. Hailey was graduated from the University of Kentucky in the class of 1901. He is a graduate of the college of Engineering where he received a Bachelor of Mechanical Engineering. A period of 30 years separate the first graduation of the two members of the Hailey family.

After the graduation exercises the University Board of Trustees entertained the alumni and the members of the graduation class at a luncheon in the University Commons. 500 alumni and graduates were present at the luncheon. President principal speaker of the day Mr. Clarence A. Dystra, City manager of Cincinnati, Ohio, who delivered the commencement exercise address to the graduation class. Mr. James Parks, member of the Board of Trustee, and Mr. Leon Frankel, president of the Alumni Association, gave short addresses. Mr. William Young, president of the class of 1931, gave a farewell address to the alumni

UNIVERSITY ON THE AIR

Two hundred and seventy-one radio programs of general educational, agricultural, and musical interest will be heard from the University of Kentucky extension studios of WHAS, Louisville, the last six months of 1931, it has just been announced. This great expansion of time on the air is due chiefly to the popularity of the offerings coming over the air during the past two years and a half from the University and the resulting cooperation of WHAS in making these high-type radio programs available to the general public.

Beginning September 28 the University College of Agriculture will broadcast five fifteen minute periods a week at 12:45 p. m. instead of the three they now use. The "What the Farm Folks Are Asking" period will be continued on Friday and the usefulness of the College of Agriculture to the farmers of Kentucky and neighboring states will be increased by the talks offered the other four periods each week. These programs will not only be of interest to the farmer but many will have an especial appeal for the housewives and children.

Results of the many experiment tests and studies which the Experiment Station is making, not only on the Lexington, farm, but at the substations at Quicksand and Princeton and on the various demonstration fields over the state, will be broadcast to farmers from time to time.

The specialists on the College and Station staff will continue their discussions of soil treatment, crop production dairying, poultry raising, marketing, disease control and other phases of Agriculture. Care will be taken to keep the talks to good sound, useful information of everyday value to farmers.

Five fifteen minute musical programs are planned each week between 1:00 to 1:15 p. m. and they will run to gamut from a classical string quartette to the well known Blue and White dance orchestra. An unusual presentation will be the "Mountain Melodies" program of Kentucky mountain ballads to be presented each Wednesday.

Five series of general educational talks will be presented each week between 1:15 and 1:30 p. m. Eighteen series in all will be given with titles such as "Engineering in the home", "Kentucky and western movement in American history", "The Kentucky constitutional convention", "On the foothills of Parnassus", "Bacteria in relation to man", "Government", "Your foods and what they do for you", "Common sense about art", "Geological journeys in Kentucky", "Hawaii" "Popular tax talks", "Ancient life and literature", "Safety Education", "Parental Education", "Through the net", "Some reasons why we behave as we do", and "Journalism and the news". From four to eight talks will comprise most of these series. Kentuckians interested in their own history will wish to hear a series of four Kentucky folk-lore plays to be presented—the historical situation actually acted out before the microphone. The junior member of the family will find his chief interest in the series of five talks on "Through the net", basketball technic, by Adolph F. Rupp, head basketball coach at the University.

Neighboring states are taking advantage of the opportunity offered by the University of Kentucky to obtain a liberal education through the loud speaker. Booklets will soon be off the press listing the University of Kentucky. Radiocasts for the last six months of 1931 will be gladly sent to all writing to the University.

EDITORIALS

NEW LEGISLATURE AND U. OF K.

Editor's Note—This editorial published in the June 26 issue of The Kentucky Kernel not only expresses the hopes of the student body, but alumni as well. Alumni, heed the call of service for your university and so use your influence that the university may prosper to its proper degree as the result of the new legislature.

* * * *

IN NOVEMBER the citizens of Kentucky will elect representatives to a new legislature which will convene in Frankfort next year. In the interest of the university we express the hope that it is a good legislature.

The university needs a good legislature, which is another way of saying that the people of Kentucky need more foresight and wisdom in their law-makers at this particular time than they have since the Civil War period. Not within the last generation have Kentuckians had so little money, and the period of financial recovery either will be shortened or lengthed by the wisdom or the lack of wisdom shown in apportioning the public money among state activities which are essential and productive, or among those which are non-essential and political.

Largely, higher education in Kentucky is circumscribed by the university campus. In the last analysis, education must stand or fall, succeed or fail, by the standards maintained and by the services rendered by the university. Leaders of the next generation now are preparing for that leadership on this campus. The preparation these young Kentuckians are receiving is better than it was a decade ago. It could be further improved with the aid of the next legislature.

Of even more importance than adequate educational equipment to the university is a faculty outstanding among those possessed by the other universities of comparable size and importance. Men and women who have the mental and spiritual touch of imparting knowledge are naturally the foundation upon which a modern institution is built. Such teachers are rare and when they once are acquired a means should be found to pay them more than the present constitutional limit for state employees. Every worthy university activity should be amply financed in order that those engaging in these activities may work to the best possible advantage. In this connection a few thousand dollars, mixed with an active interest and desire to work on the part of students, would make The Kernel even more outstanding among collegiate publications.

During the last ten years the university has suffered at the expense of a number of secondary schools which were established by former legislatures. These schools now receive very large sums from the state in proportion to their enrollment. In no way do they take the place of the university but they took funds which otherwise would be available for the university. Whether the decision to establish these schools was that of statesmen or politicians remains to be seen.

The university admittedly is the greatest and most important part of higher education in Kentucky. In great degree the university can be held responsible for the mediocry or the excellence of a new generation. Money wisely provided by the next legislature for the needs of the university will be worth all other appropriations. Such an appropriation will be an investment in the youth of Kentucky through an agency best able to equip them for distinguished future service.

We are looking for the next legislature. May it put the university in the budget first, instead of last.

OUR alumni have come to life, yes the officers and the university administration both feel that the alumni of our great university are beginning to open their eyes to the many things that have been thrown around their lives by the University of Kentucky. We have just come to a close of the most successful year both in the life of our association and the university, why, because our alumni are beginning to respond to the pleas for support, not necessarily financial, but they are beginning to support the university with words and deeds that are bound to contribute to its growth.

During the June commencement many of the "grads" of the reuning classes as well as others returned to add to the celebration, during which over four hundred more were graduated to our ranks. Many others who could not attend the meeting of their class send telegrams, and letters conveying their regrets and saying a few words to the old class.

This sentiment which is being built up among the classes is going to give added stimulus to the already progressive administration of our school and is certain to count for great strides along educational lines.

KENTUCKY ALUMNUS

DISCIPLINE

DISCIPLINE rules are sometimes practically abandoned when applied to athletics it seems. Even our most thorough discipline measures are sure to crack unless applied to all alike.

THE ALUMNI TRUSTEE

ON OR before the first of July this year a letter will be mailed to all alumni whether members of the alumni association or not, by the secretary of the Board of the Trustees of the University of Kentucky for the purpose of nominating an alumnus for the board.

The Alumnus urges upon you the duty of your voting as soon as this ballot reaches you, and furthermore it urges upon you as the most active and interested of Kentucky graduates the duty of getting other graduates to cast their ballot.

For many years the alumni were without representation of the governing board of our institution, and many complaints on the situation were heard that has now been corrected and every two years the university pays out some several hundred dollars to hold this alumni election. Now that we have representation on the board we want a representative number of alumni manifesting interest in putting him there.

Please head this request for a big vote this year, and encourage others to cast their vote.

NEW CHAIRS ARE INSTALLED

In accordance with the usual progressiveness of the College of Engineering there have been made several improvements since the close of school which will offer an added attraction to students of that college. The outstanding addition consists of the installation of 100 chairs in Dicker hall.

The chairs are the product of the forge shop and were made under the direction of Steve Saunier, instructor in practical mechanics. The framework of the chairs is of iron with slat bottoms of walnut. Many interesting and original designs have been wrought in the iron backs, such as the date of the year, the initials of Dean Anderson and Mr. Dicker, tongs, hammers and emblems of the university.

Steve Saunier, the originator of the designs, and his assistant with the aid of the numerous students of practical mechanics, accomplished the chair making in three weeks and the finished product was installed in the hall the day before commencement.

Though the chairs are now so equipped, they have been constructed in such a manner as to permit the addition of rubber tips to the legs which would be an advantage should the hall ever have a tile floor.

THE '06 CLASS

THIS month's Alumnus will not be complete without a few words in the editor's column regarding the great class of 1906.

This class meeting just twenty-five years, one-quarter of a century after their graduation, returned for the class reunion in numbers, of course not all of them were back, for some have passed to that happy hunting ground, others are located in foreign countries and dame fortune kept others from returning. Nevertheless, out of the class of fifty-four that said goodbye to their Alma Mater twenty-five years ago, over half returned to clasp each others hands again, to wave the old '06 flag again about the campus. Even one of the number who is making his home in Spain, sent his cherrio hello in a letter postmarked in time to get here for the class luncheon.

This class gathered from the east coast around New York, from Chicago on the lakes, from Florida on the Gulf, and let the students and faculty know that they were in town. In 1936 this class says it plans to have every living member back. They had an enjoyable reunion this year and advise all other classes to get together whenever possible.

The class of 1906 surely must have been a great class when undergraduates for they still have lots of glamour.

SUMMER SCHOOL ENROLLMENT TO BE 1800

Inspite of, or possibly because of the present business depression, the enrollment for the summer session this year again exceeds all previous records of university summer session enrollment.

According to Prof. Ezra L. Gillis, registrar, the total number of students is 1,668 persons as The Kernel goes to press. Of this number, 1,536 were registered the first day, another record for any single day in the history of the school. Taking previous years as a gauge, Professor Gillis estimates a total enrollment exceeding 1,800.

Already there are 190 more students enrolled than the final count of last summer. At that time 1,308 students registered the first day. The total was 1,478.

Several older members of the faculty recall the growth since the first summer sessions about 1,900 when the school at this season was simply a private venture for teachers of the immediate vicinity.

VISITORS

Among those that have visited the alumni office since the close of the regular school term are W. H. Scherffius, '99; L. R. Kavanaugh, '29; Penrose Ecton, '29; Len Weakley, '30; Sam Houston, '29, and Arnold Combs, ex.29.

Alumni Election of Member to Board of Trustees of University

Nomination ballots are now being prepared and will be mailed to the alumni on or before July 1, for the nomination of one alumni member to fill the vacancy caused by expiration of the term of office of Mr. E. B. Webb, alumni member of the Board, whose term of office will expire on January 1, 1932. It is requested by the Alumni Association that the alumni, who receive the ALUMNUS and the ballots, will remind their alumni friends and relatives to mail the ballots in at the earliest possible convenience. The university spends approximately $600.00 every two years to carry out these elections. Therefore it behooves all alumni to give their support to this function of university government. It is your privilege and we urge all to vote and use your influence to get others to vote.

Under the provisions of the act of the General Assembly of Kentucky known as House Bill No. 173, January 24, 1918, three members of the Board of Trustees shall be appointed by the Governor from the alumni of the university, the term of office being for six years. One of these is to be appointed biennially and from three alumni members nominated to the Governor by the alumni of the university. The act further provides that the Board of Trustees of the university shall prescribe the method by which the alumni of the university shall make the nomination to the Governor of the three persons from whom the alumni member of the Board of Trustees shall be appointed. By act of the General Assembly, approved March 22, 1922, Alumni members must be citizens of Kentucky.

The following are the rules prescribed:

(1) Nominating ballots shall be mailed to each person entitled to vote not later than July 1. Each person entitled to vote shall have the right to nominate three persons for members of the Board of Trustees.

(2) The ballots shall be mailed to the secretary of the board in an envelope furnished for such purpose.

(3) No person shall receive a duplicate nomination or election ballot unless upon satisfactory representation to the secretary of the board that his ballot has either been lost or destroyed. No person shall be permitted to vote otherwise than by ballot.

(4) All nominating ballots shall be cast by noon of the day previous to the regular meeting of the Board of Trustees, but not in any case later than noon of September 15, and at noon on said date the said ballots shall be opened by the secretary in the presence of the executive committee and of such other persons as desire to be present at the opening of said ballots, and the ballots shall be opened in the room at the university set apart for the use of the Board of Trustees of the university.

(5) The names of six persons receiving the highest number of votes for nomination shall be placed upon the election ballots, and no other persons shall be voted for. In case two or more persons shall receive an equality of votes, the secretary of the board shall determine by lot the person who shall be the nominee.

(6) The election ballot shall be mailed to each person entitled to vote on or before October 1.

(7) The names of the candidates shall be arranged on said ballots alphabetically, and opposite the name of each candidate shall be a square, and the vote shall be cast by making a cross in the square opposite the names of the persons to be voted for, and shall be placed in the proper envelopes and mailed or delivered to the secretary of the board.

(8) With the election ballot, the secretary of the board shall mail a short biography of each candidate, which biography shall contain, among other things, the date of the candidate's birth, the date of his graduation, the degree which he has received, his present and past occupation, and any public service which he has rendered.

(9) Other than the short biography above mentioned, and these rules mentioned in paragraph 16, no other matter shall be mailed by the university to those entitled to a vote except the nomination and election ballots and the envelopes in which the ballots are to be returned to the secretary of the board.

(10) No person shall be permitted to vote in the election except by ballot.

(11) The election ballots shall be cast by noon of the day preceding the December meeting of the Board of Trustees, and no ballot cast after noon of said date shall be counted.

(12) The election ballots shall be publicly opened at the university in the room set apart for the Board of Trustees, by the secretary of the board in the presence of the executive committee of the university and such other persons as may desire to be present.

(13) The three persons receiving the highest number of votes shall be nominated.

Alumni Election

By CAMERON COFFMAN

Leon Kaufman Frankel, Lexington, class of '00, was reelected to serve as president of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association. Miss Sara Blanding, Lexington, class of '23, and who is now dean of women at the university, was chosen to serve as vice-president. She succeeded Mrs. Rhodes Estill, class of '21, who is also of Lexington. James Shropshire, Lexington, class of '29, was reelected as secretary and treasurer of the association for 1931-32. Lulie Logan, class of '13, and Wayland Rhodes, class of '15, were reelected to serve on the executive board for the coming year.

Mr. Frankel, who is now connected with the Engineering and Architecture firm of Frankel and Curtis, was graduated from the College of Engineering and received his B. M. E. in 1900. Two years later he received his M. E. For the year 1900-01 he was assistant in shopwork and mechanical drawing at the university. In 1903-04 he was assistant in Mechanics of Engineering, and in 1914-15 he was at the head of this department. During his school year he was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha, social fraternity, and Lamp and Cross, senior men's honorary organization.

Sara Blanding was graduated with an A. B. degree from the Arts and Sciences College in June, 1923. While in school she was assistant instructor in Physical Education. Before she was graduated she attended the New Haven School of Gymnastics, of New Haven, Connecticut. In 1923-24 she was acting dean of women. In the fall of 1924 she attended Columbia University and obtained her M. A. degree. During this time Miss Virginia E. Franke was acting dean of women. Upon her return from Columbia in 1925, Miss Blanding assumed the duties of dean of women at the University of Kentucky.

While Miss Blanding was attending school she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and a member of Mortar Board, National honorary senior women's organization. Besides from being dean, Miss Blanding has numerous other duties. She is assistant professor of Political Science; a member of the Arts and Sciences Faculty club; the scholarship and attendance committee; the senate and council; chairman of the women's discipline committee; commencement committee; social hygiene committee; student social affairs committee; student loan fund; student welfare committee, and the rules committee.

James Shropshire, Lexington, was graduated from the Agriculture College in 1929 with a B. S. degree. He is now a member of the Fayette county school board and manager of student publications at the university. During his school years he established a memorable record for himself. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta, social fraternity; Alpha Delta Sigma, professional advertising fraternity, of which he is now national secretary; Block and Bridle, honorary agriculture organization; Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity, and men's student council. He now holds the position as southern secretary for Delta Tau Delta, and is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary campus leaders fraternity.

SUMMER DIRECTOR

DEAN W. S. TAYLOR

One of the most prominent educators in the South is Dr. W. S. Taylor, class of '12, dean of the College of Education, who is director of the University Summer Session. Dr. Taylor has made a special study of summer school work and has done much to advance Kentucky's status in that branch of education.

Mr. Frankel, the newly reelected president, who has just completed a very successful year, has been very instrumental in engaging active interest among alumni of the university. Through his efforts 13 former alumni clubs have become very active. Mr. Frankel has hopes of establishing an active club in Louisville, Frankfort, and in western Kentucky. It was through Mr. Frankel, in the first year of his inauguration, that the alumni field secretary was established. During the past year the executive committee has met ten times for business purposes and has inaugurated a trust fund. The alumni membership has been increased, an active legislative committee has been appointed, and an up-to-date bookkeeping record has been established.

MISS HULETT ILL

Miss Betty Hulett, '30, assistant to the secretary of the University Alumni Association, has been absent from her desk at the office for more than a month, due to illness. Miss Hulett is not expected to return before September, however, she has completely recovered from an operation, and after a rest will be back for the opening of school.

Mr. Cameron Coffman, an undergraduate, is handling the office routine during Miss Hulett's absence.

University of Kentucky Students Own and Operate Publishing Plant

(Written for the National College Press Association by William Shafer, University of Kentucky)

An outstanding achievement in college and university journalism within the last decade has been the purchase by students in the department of journalism at the University of Kentucky of the printing plant of The Kentucky Kernel, student publication at that institution.

The National College Press Association has asked the business manager of The Kernel to relate for publication the methods used by the Kentucky student of journalism in the building up of their plant. The following is in substance his story:

In 1923 twenty-five students of journalism who were also working on the university paper were called into conference by Prof. Enoch Grehan, head of the department, who announced that he wished to give them a real journalistic problem. That problem was to purchase mechanical equipment for The Kernel by their own efforts, out of funds procured through advertising, student fees, and job work. He told the assembled students that if any one present desired not to engage in the project for any reason whatever, he or she might retire without prejudice. The entire group remained in their seats.

The outline which was proposed by the students was as follows: The various units of the paper would be purchased separately. Part of the payment for each would be made in cash, and the remaining debt would be paid in installments.

In answer to a telegram a salesman for a linotype company arrive the next day, and before nightfall The Kernel had purchased a Model No. 14 linotype. This machine was operated for two years by students who were working on the paper. The type was set at the university and carried by automobile to a printing plant a mile and a half distant, where the press work was done.

The next summer this group of young journalists purchased a new two-page press, again buying on the installments plan. The new press and the necessary equipment increased the debt to $8,500. The Kernel was printed on this machine for two years, at which time it was sold and a used Miehle four-page press was installed, which is still in use. Two years later an additional No. 8 linotype was added to the equipment. This machine was also paid for on the installment plan.

Up to that time the plant and general equipment had cost approximately $18,500, of which about $17,000 had been paid. By the fall of 1930 The Kernel had begun to pick up considerable job work, and was offered the contract for the publication of the 1931 student annual. This contract necessitated the introduction of a press adequate to handle the job, and the paper then installed a No. 2 automatic press at a cost of $6,500.

To make a long story short The Kernel entered the session of 1931-32 with a plant worth approximately $25,000 and a debt of $6,000, having already paid $500 on the new Kelly press. The only income of the publication is job work among the students, advertising from local business men, and a subscription rate of 51 cents a semester, which is included in student entrance fees. The Kernel does not solicit job work from any source outside the university, thereby offering no competition to private printing plants in the city. The business of the paper is handled entirely by students and six of the members of the editorial and advertising staffs receive a small remuneration for their services. The paper is semi-weekly and has a circulation of 3,200.

The Kernel not only publishes the student paper, but fosters and underwrites the expense of Letters, the university literary publication, and prints the Kentucky Alumnus, the Kentucky Press, a departmental paper for the editors of the state, and the Kampus Kat, a humorous publication. The plant also prints the U-Hi-Lights, a weekly paper of the university high school, which is published in connection with the College of Education.

The Kernel is steadily reducing its debt, and expects to pay off the remainder of it by mid-year of 1933.—Reprinted from The Epsilog.

KENTUCKY SOCIETY OF CHICAGO HOLD "KENTUCKY JUBILEE"

Kentuckians living in Chicago area held a "Kentucky Jubilee" and dinner dance Thursday, May 28, at 7:30 p. m., at the Congress hotel. The event was under the auspices of the Kentucky Society of Chicago, the Kentucky Society of Evanston and the North Shore, the Kentucky Society of the South Side and the University of Kentucky alumni of Chicago.

The reception committee was composed of Mr. C. H. Gullion, president; Mrs. Cora McKee Connor, president of the Kentucky Society of Evanston and the North Shore; Mrs. Donald O. Dugger, president of the Kentucky Society of the South Side; Mr. C. B. Sauer, president of the University of Kentucky alumni of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin T. Traylor, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Carnahan, Mrs. C. H. Gullion, Mrs. W. A. Pusey, Mrs. E. J. Buffington, Mrs. Vance C. Roberts, Mrs. Arthur C. Green, Mrs. B. B. Button, Mrs. C. B. Sauer, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Ray Allen.

The purposes of the Kentucky Society of Chicago are:

"To keep alive, foster, and promote that love of their native state and that patriotic loyalty to their "Old Kentucky Home" for which all true Kentuckians are so justly proud and so widely noted, as well as to cement friendships, be mutually beneficial, and to promote acquaintance and social intercourse among all former Kentuckians."

Miss Mary Lewis Marvin and Dr. Ralph Tuck of the University of Cincinnati were married May 23 at "Audubon," the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Marvin. Dr. A. W. Fortune performed the wedding ceremony.

The bride will be remembered as one of the outstanding students at the university, having received both her A. B. and master's degrees here. She is a member of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority and elected sponsor of the band during her junior year. She was vice-president of Phi Beta Kappa, a member of Mortar Board and of Sigma Xi, scientific fraternity. The past year she has held a position at the University of Cincinnati, where she has been working toward her Ph. D. degree.

Dr. Tuck is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, of Sigma Xi and Phi Beta Kappa. He received his A. M. degree at the University of Oregon and his Ph. D. at Cornell University. He recently resigned his position as professor of geology at the University of Cincinnati to accept a commission tendered him by the secretary of the Interior to do research work in connection with

A new manual training department has recently been established at the Kentucky Houses of Reform, at Greendale, with R. P. Howard, a graduate of the College of Engineering of the university, as director of the manual arts work.

Older students are enrolled in the manual training classes and a group of them was recently taken to the College of Engineering for an inspection of the shops and laboratories.

Smith Park, professor of mathematics at Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College, was elected chairman of the Kentucky section, American Mathematical Association at a meeting held Saturday, May 9, at the university. Mr. Park succeeds Prof. J. Morton Davis, of the university.

Thomas B. McClelland, formerly of Lexington, where he was graduated from the university in 1907, but now connected with Porto Rican Experiment Station staff, has been appointed by Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the university at the inauguration of Carlos Eugenio Chardom as president of the University of Porto Rico, May 20. McClelland's acceptance was received by President McVey in May.

Miss Ellen V. Butler, cataloger at the university library, was selected secretary and treasurer of the Ohio valley region group of catalogers which met in Dayton, Ohio, Saturday, April 18. The university was selected as the 1932 meeting place.

The other officer named was Miss Bertha Schneider, Ohio State University library, chairman.

Miss Alleen Lemons, a graduate assistant in the mathematics department at the university has accepted a position as a member of the mathematics faculty at Murray State Teachers College. Miss Lemons was a member of the summer school faculty at Murray last year. She will receive her M. A. in mathematics from the university in June.

More than 60 years after taking his master's degree, Walter L. Church, 83-year-old resident of Long Beach, Cal., will reenter the University of Missouri this year for special work in sociology and education.

Church, a member of the college of arts and sciences class of 1867, also holds degrees from Washington University and the University of Kentucky.

He is a retired attorney.

The university quartet of 1923-24, conducting its first reunion since 1925, sang a program of several number for Gov. Flem Sampson and a large audience in the state reception room of the capitol the morning of April 17. The quartet is composed of E. M. Heavrin, former secretary to Gov. Sampson; Elbert DeCoursey, Earl W. Baughman, and Robert B. Crem.

James A. Anderson, Jr., connected with coaching at Ashland high school since 1921 has severed his connection with that department of the school and is to be succeeded by Paul Jenkins. Effective this fall, Jenkins will have charge of both football and basketball.

Jenkins is a graduate of the university of the class of 1928 where he starred in both football and basketball.

Thomas Edwin Warnock, 50, chief truck engineer, Detroit Motor Car Company and a graduate of the College of Engineering of the university in 1902, died at his home in Detroit Wednesday, after a brief illness.

Mr. Warnock was a native of Fayette county and since graduation had attained a high position in the engineering field. According to Dean Anderson, Mr. Warnock was an outstanding engineer.

Mr. Warnock's only son, Wendall S. Warnock, was graduated from the university engineering college in 1929 and is connected with the American Rolling Mills Company at Middletown, Ohio.

Besides his son, Mr. Warnock is survived by three daughter, Misses Lenore, Lucille, and Lois Warnock, all of Detroit, and one sister, Mrs. Lucien L. Vance, Lexington.

The Lexington Automobile club closed its fiscal year with a gain of 109 members, according to the report of President W. Emmet Milward, at the annual meeting of the club held Monday night, May 18, in the Palm room of the Phoenix hotel. While for the calendar year of 1930 the club, like many others in the country, showed a loss in the fiscal year ending April 30, of a membership of 1,088 compared with 979 at the end of April a year ago.

President Milward was unanimously reelected, Steve B. Featherstone was chosen vice-president and Sam B. Walton, treasurer. Directors elected were John G. Cramer, Ben P. Eubank, Alvin E. Evans, L. B. Shouse, William B. Embry, A. R. Marshall, Thomas R. Underwood, Ernest Thompson, Horace Wilson, Fred B. Wachs, Col. W. H. Edwards, Wallace Muir, Fred Bryant, and Joe Wilde.

J. Sherman Porter, secretary-manager, was elected to represent the club at the business meeting of the American Automobile Association in West Baden, Ind., June 1 to 4, and Mrs. Julia B. Dixon, routing manager of the club will be in attendance at the routing and sales conferences there to be held June 1 and 2.

Detailed reports of finances, club activities and the situation generally were made by Treasurer Fred Bryant, Secretary-Manager Porter and President Milward.

Arthur L. Hodges, associate editor of the Nassau Daily Review, is now entering his sixth year in the service of the paper which he joined on May 4, 1926.

Mr. Hodges, a native Kentuckian, left his home among the blue grass hills to try his fortune in the metropolitan newspaper field at the insistence of the late Major Graham, of Lynbrook, when both attended the university.

In 1925, he took over the chair of editor of the New Era, the North Hempstead Record and the Oyster Bay Enterprise. In May, 1926 he joined the staff of the Nassau Daily Review.

Mr. Hodges started in newspaper work soon after entering college. For two years he served on The Kentucky Kernel as a reporter and during his junior and senior years he was editor of it.

Attracted to journalism by his college work, he joined the staff of the Lexington Herald after leaving school and remained there until Major Graham brought him to Lynbrook. On November 30, 1928, he married Miss Glenn Tallmadge, of Lynbrook, and has settled down at 20 Vernon avenue, Rockville Centre.

The University's New Library

By Cameron Coffman

The new University of Kentucky library, which has just been completed at a cost of $400,000, is the latest development in library construction. The building is fireproof of Georgian architecture and consists of four floors and a basement. The stack section is in a separate portion of the building and has eight levels. A total of 200,000 books can be contained within the present structure with ease. The amount of $30,000 was expended to furnish this building with the most modern and up-to-date equipment. In various reading, browsing, and seminar rooms, seats are provided for more than 500 persons and a staff of 15 full time and 20 part time student employees is necessary to properly man the building.

The basement of the structure consists of various service rooms including work rooms, room for preparing books for bindery, janitors' rooms, and a fireproof vault for rare and autographed publications as well as first editions.

The first floor consists of a large main lobby which will be used as a museum for rare books, coins, and other articles which might prove of interest to student and other visitors to this building. Glass wall cases will house poster displays and announcements of new books.

A check room off of this lobby will be maintained for the convenience of visitors. To the west of the main lobby is the reserve reading and to the east of the periodical reading. At the present time about 750 periodicals are received regularly by the University of Kentucky library.

On the second floor is another fair sized lobby containing the loan desk and the general card index files. Back of the loan desk is the main entrance to the stacks. To the north of this lobby, a long room illuminated with soft indirect light, and upholstered in restful overstuffed furniture is set aside as a browsing room. Students and faculty can come here, relax, help themselves to the numerous books, and read for the sheer pleasure of it. This browsing room gives an excellent view of the spacious campus and the athletic field which lies in front of the building. The east wing of this floor contains the offices of the employees of the library, bibliography room, cataloging department, as well as another storage vault. The office of Mrs. W. T. Lafferty, head of the women's work throughout the state, is also in this section. The west wing on this floor is set aside for the main reading room.

On the third floor a balcony, which partially encircles the main reading room, the desk lobby, and the browsing room, extends up two stories. This floor, however, has a classroom and a study room with individual desks for those studying library science.

The fourth floor will be given over to the graduate school. One entire room will house the Carnegie Art Library and another room will be occupied by a medical collection. Numerous seminar rooms will also be available.

Ninety individual study booths or carrels have been constructed in the stacks for members of the faculty and advanced students who do research work and must have a large number of books on hand.

Permits will be issued to those who have the privilege of using these carrels. An automatic elevator and booklift gives service to all floors of the building. A plan has been inaugurated in that portraits of past presidents and faculty members of the University will be placed in this building.

The new library will be open to the public from 8:00 a. m. to 10:00 p. m. daily and on Sunday from 2:00 to 5:30 p. m.

WE HAVE just completed a most successful year of business, and are entering upon another filled with even greater problems. We can solve them, but we need you.

Our work and association is not supported financially by the University, hence our only means of support are dues. To build an organization to be efficient and to accomplish worth-while things we must have interest manifest. This can be done in many ways. One we suggest, is by becoming an active member of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association. Tear off and enclose the attached coupon with your check to the Alumni Secretary, University of Kentucky, Lexington.

Alumni Secretary,
University of Kentucky,      Date .....
Lexington, Ky.

Dear Sir: Enclosed find my check for $3.00 for one year's membership to the Alumni Association, University of Kentucky. I want to help the Association and by so doing know that I will help the University, and take this means of expressing my interest.
