Each September a number of freshmen, bewildered, disgusted or dissatisfied, pack up and go home.

To take care of the inexperienced customarily recognized in freshman men and women, Dean Jones last semester proposed the plan for a permanent freshman advisory council.

Each year a number of freshmen, bewildered, disgusted or dissatisfied, pack up and go home.

significant. Only 600 new cases were recorded in 1930 compared with 3,500 in 1937, and so far this year an equal number of new cases already has been reported.

Behind The Eckdahl

About two months ago (two to be exact), we were reading about a fellow who started out to write a story.

In fact, we ourselves have started out to write numerous stories; we finished some of them and have rejection slips to prove it.

But this fellow who started out to write a story just wrote one sentence. Then he stopped.

He read the sentence and knew there was no use trying to finish his mess; he couldn't have kept up the terrific creative pace.

It was: "Old Mr. Winterbottom gas a cold stern man."

Sign seen at nearby nightclub: Check hats, coats, and KD's here.

Freshman Ode I've stood enough Of college stuff.

Harry Williams says he can't understand it. The Student Union house rules definitely state that no child unattended shall be allowed in the building.

Accommodations Department The following have asked to be mentioned in this column.

Not Nice? But Necessary! From the looks of things, the coming year, 1939, will not only tend to make the American public health minded but keep it healthy.

No soil is narratively more fertile than the dirt that is thrown during sports rush week.

Worst of the tales to circulate during the male siege was that the Deltis were building an apartment house across from their lodge.

Against him, and they did call him Sumbowly knocked.

Biblical Rushing seems to have us by the throat. To vent the beam from our bonnet, we quote the parable from the thirteenth chapter of Isaiah.

Apology to Nan Kirby for the mistake appearing in the last column stating that she was a Tri-Delta transfer from Florida.

Master Clock
A master clock is now located in a room especially fitted for it in Memorial hall. It is never in error more than fifteen seconds.

Each week the master clock is wound and set in time with a western union secondary clock located in the same room.

The secondary clock automatically winds and sets itself each hour by naval observatory time from Washington.

Hall clocks in the various buildings work on the principle of an electromagnet. Impulses from the master clock sends an electric current to the hall clocks. This impulse charges the electro magnet which pulls a cog wheel through a small space.

This cog wheel is divided into sixty equal parts, each representing a minute. In this manner the minute hand on the hall clocks moves a minute at a time.

A dial on the master clock is set to ring the bells on the hall clocks at any series of time intervals desired.

Contacts on this dial then make a complete circuit so as to send an electric impulse through the bell of a hall clock causing it to ring.

There are more than 100 bells on the University, all of which are controlled by the master clock and therefore ring in unison.

Before 1910 students were summoned to class by a bugler. This individual would take his place on a prominent part of the then small campus and blow long and loud.

When the campus became so large that a bugler's efforts were too puny a steam whistle was attached to a boiler in the engineering building.

This whistle became a distinct part of student life during the ten years that it reigned on the campus. It was a favorite trick of the students to tie the whistle down so that its blasts echoed and re-echoed over the campus.

How to pick this season's FOOTBALL WINNERS

A FOOTBALL EXPERT TELLS YOU IN THIS WEEK'S POST

WHAT MEN FROM HERE WILL BE IN THE HEADLINES? A football expert makes some prophecies, and gives you a team-by-team appraisal of your competition. Tells how the new rules affect the game, whether 1938 football will be conservative or razzle-dazzle, and what the colleges think about the new legal athletic scholarship introduced in the Southeastern Conference. Here's some lively dope about teams, trends and players; read it in the Post this week.

MR. GLENNON—THE YOGI OF WEST NINTH STREET. For years, in burrows throughout the world, Mr. Glennon had studied the breath-control problem. Read what happens when he finds a book called "The Secrets of Hindu Yoga Breath Control," and aided by a quart and two, tries it out. A swell new story by Guy Gilpatrick, wherein Mr. Glennon steals a letter box.

A WOMAN SPY IN BERLIN CAN'T TRUST ANYBODY! Not even her employers. Perhaps not even herself. The Gestapo ordered Anna Kleinman to trap a "harmless, rather stupid" young Englishman. The records in File No. 36475 tell you what happened. A dramatic story by William C. White.

ALSO: Soda Poppers Can Take It, by Jerome Barry, and Love is a Happiness, by Dorothy Thomas. My Day in Coars, in which Arthur Train, creator of "Mr. Tatt," tells you of Abe Hummel and other celebrated shysters who once paraded before the criminal bar...How they catch your Friday's Fish, as told and pictured in color by Bernard Brodlove...Editorials, poetry, fun and cartoons.

Alumni News

ROBERT K. SALTERS, Secretary

This is the first issue of the Alumni News to appear for the school year 1938-39. Your help in sending in news about yourself and other alumni for publication in this column will be greatly appreciated. Help us to keep the alumni column "chuck" full of news.

Gives Valuable Material to Files Mrs. Irwin J. Shepherd, Logan Warner, 97, 1808 Punahou street, Honolulu, Hawaii, has given to the Alumni Office material which is of historic value to the alumni files. Writes Mrs. Shepherd: "I give me pleasure and satisfaction to contribute to the Alumni Association the wanted bulletins, Alumnus, and commencement programs, to help complete the files of the Association. I could only part with some of these because I believed that would be permanent files which many might find wanted information."

Materials received from Mrs. Shepherd are: Bulletins of the State University of Kentucky for May, 1915, and February, April, and June of 1925. The Kentucky Alumnus for September 1916, March 1917, May 1917, November 1917, and June 1921. Commencement programs for June 4, 1891, June 7, 1894, and June 3, 1897. Class Day programs for June 2, 1894 and June 6, 1894. The Kentuckian, alumni number, September 1901, and a 1913 calendar of the University.

Mrs. Shepherd's valuable contribution is much appreciated and same has been added to the permanent files of the Association, so that alumni may have the pleasure of referring to them.

Chippings Joseph K. Roberts, '32, assistant to the general manager of research and development of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, has been promoted to director of research with the same company. He will supervise research at refineries in Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Wyoming and Kansas. He is a son of Professor George Roberts, '99 of the University.

James G. Scrugham, '30, former governor of Nevada, was unopposed for the Democratic nomination as Nevada's lone representative to congress.

Letters "I have been out of touch with the University for a great many years. My father, Thomas Rollins Hardin, was a member of the class of 1874, always took interest in the Alumni Association, and was very devoted to the old school. I am very proud of the fact that President Peterson and Professor and Dean signed both his diploma and mine. I have had a photostatic copy of my father's diploma made and returned to sending the original to be placed in the Library as the gift of my brother, Kenneth Wesleyan, '12, and myself.

C. E. Hardin, '09 Weber Building, Lake Charles, La.

"I am looking forward to receiving the Kernel since it is the only contact I have with the University. Except for brief vacation periods the entire 24 years since graduation has been spent outside the state of Kentucky.

"I deeply appreciate you sending me the directory of the class of 1914 and I trust that our 25th reunion next June will enable me to renew friendships and acquaintances with many whom I haven't seen since leaving the University."

C. E. Lauer, '14 Care of Texaco Company, Port Arthur, Texas

"I am looking forward to the receipt of the Kernel with the University news and especially prospectus for the football season. The Kernel is my only source for accurate information as the papers in this section have practically nothing on Southeastern teams.

"As you know there are very few Kentucky men in this section. There may be a number that I do not know as I have not seen a complete roster for years. I occasionally see the following: H. G. Lytle, '11, 1384 Annunciation Building, New Orleans, La.; J. G. Roney, '17, Texas and Pacific Railroad Co., Dallas, Texas; A. J. Rankin, '16, 5312 El Campo, Ft. Texas; and John Butler, '20, State College, New Mexico." F. R. Naylor, 1003 Texas and Pacific Bldg., Dallas, Texas.

"I want you to know about a interesting discovery I made about a month ago in the Baker Hotel in Dallas, Texas. Quite by accident I happened to run across W. A. Wallace, known to all his friends as "Billy", who has been on the "lost" list for so many years. Since I hadn't seen him since June 1912 one can imagine how I enjoyed a visit with him. He was living at address is 810 E. Irving and I know that all of his old friends would be glad to hear of him through the column of the Kernel. He is now living in St. Louis and can be reached in care of John-Manville Co., S. O. Park, St. Louis, Mo.

"Although he has been lost for these many years I rather imagine he will come back to the "found" list very soon because he tells me that his daughter who is entering the university this fall." R. L. Jones, '12 Evansville, Ind.

President McVey Traces Rapid Growth Of University From 1888 To 1938

Ed. Note—The following article was written by President McVey for the special 50 page edition of the Lexington Leader that commemorated the 50th anniversary of the paper's founding. The article first appeared in the special edition which was issued Thursday, June 20.

By FRANK L. McVEY
President, University of Kentucky

In 1888 the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Kentucky had a student enrollment of 235; in 1938 the University of Kentucky, educational outgrowth of that early institution, recorded a registration of 2,527 students for the fall term. Thus, from a small beginning, the state's largest institution of higher education has enjoyed a growth worthy of the hope and trust of those educators and citizens who have contributed to its development through a half century of progress.

Today, in reviewing the history of the commonwealth, the City of Lexington, and the institutions that have survived the past 50 years, it is interesting to read the history of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of half a century ago, and to measure, by the years, the increase in size, in enrollment and in service from the state institution of that time to the University of the present.

In 1888 the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Kentucky granted a degree to its first woman graduate, one of a class of five to receive diplomas that year and one of 51 graduates since the establishment of the Agricultural and Mechanical College. Up to the present, including the mid-year and June graduating classes of 1938, there have been approximately 10,600 students graduated from the University of Kentucky.

In Faculty Members
The University of Kentucky today meets the needs of the youth of the state with a resident teaching staff of 272; in 1887-88 there were 18 faculty members on the staff of the Agricultural and Mechanical College and of those only one was a woman. Professor James K. Patterson was also professor of metaphysics and civil history at that time, and the remainder of the staff consisted of Dr. Robert Peter, Emeritus professor of chemistry and experimental physics; John Shackelford, professor of English language and literature; James G. White, professor of mathematics, physics and astronomy; A. R. Crandall, professor of natural history; P. M. Helveti, professor of French language and literature, who also served as secretary of the faculty; John H. Neville, professor of the Latin and Greek languages and literature; M. A. Scovell, professor in agriculture and horticulture and director of the Experiment Station; J. R. Potter, principal of the normal department and professor of extra-curricular freedom which granted present-day students. However, even that early faculty was not so strict as to disregard a plea from one of the students for readmission, and the minutes of October 8, 1888, granted reinstatement to one of the cadets.

The Agricultural and Mechanical College of Kentucky established in 1878 as a separate institution from Kentucky University, under which organization it has functioned since 1882 as a department, was only 10 years old in 1888, and boasted its original holdings of 82 acres of campus, and an additional 48 acres in the Experiment Station plot which had been acquired in 1887 with the establishment of the station. In 1928 the University of Kentucky has 84 acres in its main campus and 600 acres in the Experiment Station at Lexington, besides a forest reserve at Quicksand, Ky., of 15,000 acres and a sub-experiment station at Princeton, Ky., of 600 acres.

Growth Is Rapid
So, like nearly everything men undertake, the half-century has seen a great advance in the development of the University. Particularly, for during that time the student body has increased, the staff has been enlarged, and numerous buildings have been erected. In the last two years seven new buildings have been added to the plant of the University and today the total value of real estate, plant and equipment amounts of $7,000,000.

The University has come into a larger relation to the state through its Experiment Station, Agricultural extension, and the various bureaus established for the purpose of rendering service to citizens. Thus it has made marked contributions to the commonwealth. Today the University consists of seven colleges, an experiment station with two sub-experiment stations at Princeton and Quicksand, a great agricultural extension organization, and bureaus of business research, government research, school service and publicity. The University has encouraged the association of organizations with it that would be helpful to the state, such as the Municipal League.

One of the marked developments that has taken place has been in the library, whose volumes number 215,000 making it the largest institutional library in the state and seventh in the South.

All these figures and many more indicate something of what has happened at the University of Kentucky.

BOOK REVIEWS

the whole establishment, Fraulein Gelscher—a competent Swiss.

In her turn, however, poor Almina was charmed by the masculine, intriguing cousin of Giulio and Elina. Roffredo di Castellone had a way with women, to which the innocent English girl fell victim. Disaster followed.

The tale is brought to a successful, and rather happy end by the great wisdom and endeavor of La Vestra Marchesa.

It is she who lifts the book from just interest to near-greatness. La Vestra Marchesa was nearly a century old, and still brilliant, keen, and observant. From her many years of watching people meeting up their lives, she had attained an impatient detachment, which covered a sympathetic and understanding heart. The tale of her reorganization of the province of Gardone, and the Almina-Roffredo affair is an epic of administration.

The beautiful descriptions, the apt characterizations, the startling situations, and the sweeping plot makes this novel more than an interesting portrayal of manners and customs of Italy in 1905. Instead, though it is an over worked phrase—Enchanters' Nightshade is a "human document" written with understanding, wit, and humor.—B. M.

Memorial Hall, Impressive Sight To Freshmen

By STANLEY KNIGHT

One of the most impressive sights that greets the eyes of incoming freshmen is Memorial hall, a building that for the past ten years has towered in tranquil beauty over the campus.

Dedicated to the University's world war dead, the building is modeled after Independence hall, Philadelphia, and New England churches. In the lobby of the building are scrolls on which are inscribed the names of all the University men who died during the conflict.

Located on the southwest side of the campus, the building was designed by Warner, McCormack, and Mitchell, Cleveland architects.

The building's tower, which rises 135 feet above the grounds, contains a four-faced clock, with space above the clock for installation of chimes and floodlights.

This tower, with the front facade of the porch, furnishes the most striking resemblance of New England colonial design.

In the rear of the structure, a window with balcony overlooking the natural amphitheatre.

Fresco In Foyer
A fresco, executed by Lexington's Ann Rice, graduate of the University in the class of 1930, adorns the foyer. The effect, on entering Memorial hall from the front, is of a group of scenes depicting various steps in the history of Lexington. The pictures are read from the base upwards, and like turning the pages of a book, the scenes unfold, giving a graphic impression of the colorful episodes that stirred the lives of early Lexingtonians.

The auditorium of the building seats 1,060 persons while the natural amphitheatre has a seating capacity of 1,100. The stage of the hall will accommodate an orchestra of fifty pieces and is flanked on each side by the organ lofts. In the balcony is a projection room for motion picture machines.

Construction of the building was done by J. T. Jackson lumber company at a cost of $85,000. The structure, complete with amphitheatre, cost $107,250.

Just 10 years ago, on July 28, 1928, the corner stone of the building was laid.

In The Corner Stone
In a copper box in the stone were placed the following: memorial number, UK bulletin, July, 1919; roster of men in the service, UK bulletin, October, 1918, and the first page of the Kentucky Kernel, April 29, 1922, which contained the prize winning poem in memory of the nation's war dead, written by Mrs. Eleanor Duncan Wood.

A short history of the memorial building, by Raymond Kirk, secretary of the Alumni association; view book, UK bulletin, June, 1923; photographs of President McVey and Maury Crutcher, superintendent of buildings and grounds, and names of the board of trustees and administrative officers for 1927-28.

Copies of the Lexington Herald and the Louisville Courier-Journal of July 28, 1928, the program of exercises of the laying of the corner stone; copies of the Lexington Leader and the Kentucky Kernel of July 27, 1928, and a UK view book.

Souvenirs of the Lexington sesqui-centennial, 1925; Records of the Kentucky chapter of American War Mothers from 1924 to 1927; report of the War Mothers for July, 1928, and a list of the contractors of the building.

Calling 'Em Wild

By JOE CREASON

THE APPROACHING football year, more than any season in a long period, will test the loyalty of Kentucky football faithfuls. Much of the success of any collegiate football team depends on the support it receives from its personnel...

There is one group, the ancient order of Monday quarterbacks, who evidently come to games for the sole purpose of criticizing players, plays and coaches. Why these disgruntled critics attend games is more than I am able to say. Possibly the tactic of dubbing every football player a "bum" is one way of attempting to dispel an inferiority complex.

For example, at Stoll field Saturday afternoon at the Wildcats preview, I had a 50-yard line seat in front of three honorees: (1) that are so typical of this first division. Until the game was over, conversation chided only the hardness of the seats, the neglect of the stadium management in the field yard markers in the places and the paucity of grass on the practice field.

Remark number one concerned the opening kick which Wiley Carnes shined to the 10 yard line. This kick, they said, should have been higher in the air and to the goal line, in fact back at Stoll's high school they had seen a lot of kicks that had been better. Silence ensued until the varsity got possession of the ball.

PLANS CABIN

A "Friendship Cabin" of stones collected from every University in the United States is being constructed by Richard T. Abbott, Sr., of Chicago, according to a letter recently received at the University. Mr. Abbott requested a stone from the Kentucky campus to be included in the cabin.

Give 'Em The Works They would also be forced to play 60 minutes against such powerhouse teams as Alabama and Georgia Tech. Under these conditions they might discover that when a runner cradles over tackle for a 10 yard net it's not because the defensive team is laying down on their job, but due to the fact that the other 10 men in their rooms each night at 10:30.

Co-Ed Explains Pet Gripes of Unplanned Dates

The constant pet gripe of the girls now is that boys simply won't plan their dates!

Says one coed. "For the life of me, I can't understand these boys who call you up for a date and want to know what you would like to do. After all, he's the one who asked for the date and should have enough interest to plan it."

"The indefinite date is the worst!" declares another. "Yeah, I'll be around about eight. O. K.?" And that's that! heh the buzzer rings at 8:15 and if I grab my hat and coat and go flying down to greet him he is all prepared to spend a nice quiet evening in the parlor; or if I rush down hatless and coatless I find him impatiently wanting to take off to a show, then I have to hurry back to the third floor to throw on the wraps; or if I come down in street clothes expecting to go to a show, he looks me over once or twice and says, 'know if I'm not feeling well and why I decided not to go to the dance. How is one to know?'

WILDCATS WHIP

(Continued from Page One) encountered on alien turf. Another, one of the coming teams of the nation, will invade Stoll field November 18. According to Eddie Brietz, Associated Press columnist, West Virginia will be the team to watch in 1939. Last season, the Mountaineers shocked the entire football world when they held the highly touted Pittsburgh Panthers, last year's number one team in the nation, to a 20-0 margin. As usual, Tennessee will clamp the lid on the season when they appear on Stoll field for a bout.

The line-ups: Varsity Scott LE Parr Elmer LT Slagle Spickard LG Graban Hinkebein C Hulett Willoughby RG Beefer Linden RT Euter McCubbin RE Scholtz Sheppard QB Zechella Combs RB Jones Davis RH Kelly Carver FB Gately

Another pass, Combs to McCubbin was annulled a few minutes later because the pass was received outside the end zone. A series of plays, with the entire line opening gaping cavities, moved the oval to the first year Cats' 4 where Davis scored with a line plunge. Combs' pass to Scott netted the point and the margin was 34-0.

The freshman score came late in the final stanza when a varsity punt went out on the second 24 Jones circled end for a 40 yard advancement down to the Blue 36. Jones cracked at center down to the varsity 27. In two more tries Jones placed the ball on the 3-yard stripe. A reverse to the left side lost 2 yards, but on the next play Jones plunged over. The play was called back and the frosh were taxed 5-yards for an offside offense. Jones pumped around end for 7 yards and a moment later rifled a pass to Kelly for the six points. The game ended with the

SHIVELY ISSUES

(Continued from Page One) Combs twisted and turned down to the 1-yard line. Combs hit over center for the security for the 14th point, but Carnes' pass at this stage an entire new varsity team was enlisted and included: Spears and McCarthy, ends; Brown and Jacobs, tackles; Vires and Palmer, guards; Black, center; Jadowski, quarter; Zoeller and Weigand, halfbacks; and Isham, fullback.

The last marker of the opening half came late in the second period when, after taking the ball on the varsity 30, Zoeller, Weigand, and Isham alternated in moving the ball to the Kitten 23. From this point, Zoeller faded back to midfield and shot a perfect pass to Larry Spears in the end zone for the third Cat touchdown. Another varsity score came immediately following the kickoff of the second half. Combs accepted the kick on the goal line and returned to the 31-yard line. Combs side-stepped over tackle for a gain of 12 yards and Carnes in a plunge, moved the leather to the 50. McCubbin took Combs' spiral on the frosh 20, stumbled, regained his feet, and scored making the margin after Carnes conversion from placement for the extra point, 26-0.

PROF PREDICTS

(Continued from Page One) administrators' determination to construct an efficient Atlantic fleet as a safeguard was not disturbing to most Americans at first. But when reports, accepted as authoritative, were circulated that the very same fleet might possess some utility as a stop-gap along the Canadian Atlantic coast, public reaction was somewhat chilled although far from undermined.

Dr. Vandenberg's point of view, therefore, was entirely authentic. With France boasting a potential army of 4,000,000 and the mighty Maginot line entrenching 250,000 troops today, and with Great Britain fast completing an extensive army reorganization plan, two prominent European democracies are ready for action.
