

McMullan And Malcomb Win Sullivan Medallions

The Sullivan Medallions, the highest honors that can be conferred upon graduating seniors at the University, were awarded yesterday to Leroy McMullan, Shelbyville, and Joyce Ann Malcomb, Louisville.

The awards for "the possession of such characteristics of heart, mind, and conduct as evince a spirit of love for and helpfulness to other men and women" were made by President Frank G. Dickey at Honors Day ceremonies in Memorial Hall.

Dr. Dickey earlier in the ceremony presented the distinguished teaching award to Dr. Charles A. Walton, professor and head of the Department of Materia Medica, College of Pharmacy, who spoke to the honorees on "The Privilege of Responsibility."

Honored during the program yesterday were 228 students that ranked in the top three percent of their respective colleges. Omicron Delta Kappa also presented book awards to 37 students named by their department heads as outstanding students.

In presenting Miss Malcomb for the award, Dean of Women Doris M. Seward said the education major typifies that group of persons "who work quietly, generously, and without thought of reward and honor."

Miss Malcomb has earned money for her college expenses. She is a member of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary whose membership is based on scholarship, leadership, and service.

She has served her residence group on the governing council, as president of Holmes Hall, and as president of the House Presidents' Council. Her other activities have included serving on the student council of her church group, singing in the choir, and teaching Sunday School.

McMullan, a College of Agriculture and Home Economics student, has been active in Omicron Delta Kappa, Lances, and Lamp and Cross, men's leadership societies. He has served in Student Congress, on the Student Congress Judicial Board, and has been active in the YMCA, Phalanx, and with his church group.

McMullan, who has been awarded a graduate assistantship to study toward a master's degree, was presented for the award by Dean of Men Leslie L. Martin "for the manner in which he demonstrated, through his leadership, those ideals of selfless service to others."

Miss Malcomb is the daughter of Mrs. Mable Malcomb, 1560 Clara Avenue, Louisville, and McMullan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy McMullan, Shelbyville.

Dr. Walton told the group that those surpassing in intellectual achievement have a responsibility to society which has provided the opportunity for achievement.

The society which has granted you the privilege of a university education soon will grant you the ultimate in privilege—that of a major responsibility for society's progress and well being, Dr. Walton told the honorees.

"Nothing can reduce a culture or a great civilization to insignificance more quickly than the failure to actively seek individual responsibilities," the professor said. "I sincerely trust . . . that you have learned that the most valuable gift which the University can offer to the deserving is that rare privilege of responsibility which few recognize and fewer accept."

In March, Dr. Walton was awarded the first annual $500 Alumni Association Award for distinguished teaching.

President and Mrs. Dickey held a reception and tea for the honor students and their parents and guests following the convocation.

Behind Bars

Kernel Sweetheart—Miss Margie Smith, like TV's Sheeba, is queen of the jungle—jungle bars, that is. Photographer Ed Van Arsdall, something of a Tarzan himself, snapped Miss Smith, a freshman commerce student from Harlan, just as she was wiggling to the tip-top of the jungle bars at the University's Coldstream Farm.

Dr. Stroup Chosen Distinguished Prof

Dr. Thomas B. Stroup, who has been professor of English at the University since 1938, yesterday was named the College of Arts and Sciences Distinguished Professor for 1961-62.

Dr. Stroup was elected to the post by his fellow faculty members in the College of Arts and Sciences and as holder of the award will be released from his duties for one semester to do research and writing at full salary.

He will deliver the College of Arts and Sciences Distinguished Professor Lecture next April.

The professor is the 18th winner of the coveted award established in 1944 as a means of recognizing outstanding academic achievement. Dr. Shelby T. McCloy, professor of history, was the holder of the award for 1960-61.

Dr. Stroup holds the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's degrees from the University of North Carolina, and is the author or editor of six

'Frat Actives Spoofed'

Stock Market Project Was Hoax

In March the Sigma Chi fraternity pledge class became the talk of the campus for their "rags to riches" story of financing pledge projects by playing the stock market.

Yesterday the story was exposed as a hoax. This is what happened. The 25-man Sigma Chi pledge class was searching for a prank to pull on the active chapter when they decided to tell the actives they were investing money in the New York Stock Exchange.

They told the chapter that each man had contributed $25 to the initial investment of $350 used to purchase stocks.

Pledges Jim Kegley and Tom Bunch were given credit for hitting on the idea and supposedly were handling the buying of stocks.

Bunch and Kegley explained to the actives that they had bought a certain stock and when the stock began to increase in worth they would sell at a profit.

The pledge class followed up the prank by keeping a set of books and opening a checking account.

Engineering Exhibits Feature Moon Rocket

High school students who visit displays featured at the annual Engineers Day open house today will have a chance to pilot a rocket ship to the moon.

The "rocket ship" is housed in the Engineering Annex on South Limestone Street.

Built especially for Engineers Day, the "ship" is actually a four-piece electrical apparatus designed to simulate a ride in a real moon rocketship.

The apparatus consists of two analogous computers which imitate the "feel" of a rocket ship in space; a radar-like screen in which the pilot sights the moon; and a control panel.

To pilot the ship correctly, the student must sit at the control panel and keep the moon sighted in the middle of the screen. Because of the tremendous mass of the theoretical ship, the moon sighting is extremely difficult to center for any length of time.

If the student is successful in centering the moon for 30 seconds he will be awarded a first-class space pilot license. If he keeps the moon sighted near the center, he may receive a second class license.

If he fails to sight it anywhere near the center, he is limited to the piloting of helicopters and airplanes.

Other exhibits, which will be demonstrated in Anderson Hall, are a light-seeking robot, a three channel high fidelity stereo set, a hot water rocket, vehicles that skim along on a cushion of air, and a driverless tractor. All exhibits are in the experimental stage.

Students and faculty members will operate and explain all displays.

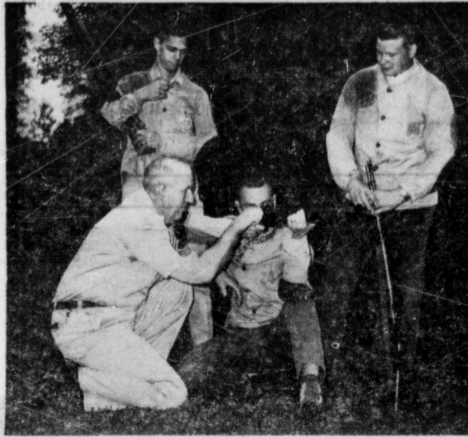

Displays will also be presented by departments related to engineering: architecture in the Reynolds Building; chemistry in Kastle Hall; physics in Pence Hall; bacteriology in the Funkhouser Building; and highway research in the Highway Materials Research Laboratory.

Demonstrations of student activities will be from 1-4:30 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. All display routes for visitors will start in the study hall, second floor, Anderson Hall.

Steady There

Two UK Troupers practice for their final show of the year tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. in Alumni Gymnasium. The show, called "Hey! Ride!", will feature somersaulting, dancing, and singing. A preshow clown act will begin at 7 p.m.

Rifle Team

Block And Bridle Club Sponsors Horse Show

Quarter horses will make their first appearance in the Blue Grass at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow for the Block and Bridle Club's Quarter Horse Show at Coldstream Farm on the New-town Pike.

The event will feature races, spectator judging of quarter horse geldings, and a performance demonstration on reining and and cutting.

More than 150 entries from five states will enter competition, according to Bob Garrigus, College of Agriculture graduate assistant.

A morning clinic will begin at 9 o'clock at the stock judging pavilion on the campus.

Graduate Test Scores Higher Than Last Year

Seniors in the College of Arts and Sciences scored higher in all three fields of the Graduate Record Examination Area Test than last year's seniors.

Scores from the test given March 24 released yesterday by the University Testing Service show that the UK mean in social studies was 475 compared to 465 last year.

The mean in Humanities was 524 compared to 507 the preceding year. In natural sciences, the mean was 510 compared to 495 last year.

Comparing the University mean last year with 161 colleges throughout the United States giving the Graduate Record Examination Area Test in 1956-57, a base year,

4 UK Journalists To Meet Today With Gov. Combs

Two journalism students and two instructors will attend a press-government seminar in Frankfort today. They and approximately 140 Kentucky newspaper editors will exchange ideas about state government with Gov. Bert Combs and members of his cabinet.

Attending the seminar from UK are Mike Weninger, Kernel managing editor; Ed Van Hook, Kernel associate news editor; Victor Portmann, assistant professor of journalism and secretary of the Kentucky Press Association; and J. A. McCauley, associate professor of journalism.

UK Band, Chorus Schedule Recital

The University Symphonic Band and the University Chorus will present a joint recital at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Guignol Theatre.

The band, directed by Bernard Fitzgerald, head of the Department of Music, will play works of Bach, Rossini, and Frackenkohl.

Aimo Kiviniemi will conduct the chorus in selections from Brahms, Zingarelli, Randall Thompson, Bruckner, and a group of folk songs.

The Kentucky Woodwind Quintet, assisted by Herbert Hermann, pianist, will give a concert at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in Guignol Theatre.

The quintet will play selections from Haydn, Berezowsky, and Mozart.

Society Editor Says Goodbye As Campus Picks Up Loose Ends On Final Parties

By TONI LENNOS

At the risk of sounding brilliant, I take the liberty to inform you all... it's almost over. This weekend will bring the last round of formals and the next-to-last group of beach parties (the jolly folk will be going strong till the last minute).

But, there has definitely been a big drop-off in the social whirl... or is it the advertising space in this glorious tabloid which is falling by the wayside. At any rate, there is a definite dilemma, more space than news to fill it.

However, being that this may be the final Friday in which I may be permitted to expound upon the social aspect of the college scene, it's time to disclose to you the one distinguishing remark that will supposedly follow me to my grave.

SAE And Sigma Nu Formals

But, of course, in true sleuth style, that must wait for the end of the column. In the meantime, the formalizers for the evening will be the Sigma Nus and the SAEs.

The SAEs will be partying at Tates Creek Country Club. An informed source stated early this afternoon that possibly they would gather for continued festivities at one of the various area lakes Saturday.

The Sigma Nus, being very fond of their old homestead, especially since they may be moving out soon, will be looking for that brand of happiness that grows back in their own back yard. Their White Rose formal will be held under the stars with Don McDonald playing "Spring Night in Sigma Nu Land." They'll be heading for Herrington tomorrow.

The Phi Deltas will be wandering over to Winchester to John McCann's farm, and... the Sig Eps will be going to Joyland.

The Delta Zetas and their dates will be picnicking at Sleepy Hollow tonight, with dancing too.

Fiji Island Party

The Fiji men will begin their Fiji Island Week-end with a Bermuda party at the house tonight. They'll head for Sleepy Hollow tomorrow for swimming and sunning in their sarongs. Later that night they'll return to their lil' grass shacks and feast upon the coconuts. The "Romans" will entertain with exotic melodies from the South Seas. The other half of the dynasty, the "Empires" will be playing at the party this evening.

The men of Kappa Sigma, in a true show of individualism, will be holding a bachelor dinner in Louisville this evening. The Deltas will be celebrating their founders' day at the Downtowner. Bob Hardy, former UK quarterback and fraternity alumnus, will speak.

The Phi Deltas are presently undecided about their plans for tomorrow. A trip to Boonesboro is presently on the agenda along with a return to Danceland tomorrow night.

Delta And Phi Tau Formals

Winding up the formal filing will be the Deltas and Phi Taus. The Deltas will be journeying to Cumberland Falls tomorrow after a brunch at the house. A banquet will be held before the dance that night.

The Phi Taus will be waltzing at Natural Bridge tomorrow night to the music of Ralph Major and the Big Little Band.

The Alpha Gamma Rhos will move out to the country for a Western Roundup party at Coldstream Farm. They will be running an agricultural survey to see exactly how high the corn may grow by the fourth of July.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon will complete their weekend with Parents Day Sunday. A dinner and a coffee hour will be held at the chapter house.

And now for the climax of the year. In the true spirit of social journalism, I've made an amazing discovery, a new social order... Alpha chapter of Beta Omega Nu, national honorary fraternity devoted to public service and social leadership, and dedicated to the worthy maxim Beer Or Nothing. Members are urged to watch this column for notice of further functions to be performed by the chapter especially the upcoming Mother's Day Party.

And for the final note — here's to bigger and better parties.

Delts Observe Founders Day

Delta Epsilon of Delta Tau Delta will observe its 37th Founder's Day with a banquet at 7 p.m. tonight at the Downtowner Motel.

Bob Hardy, former UK quarterback, will be the guest speaker. George Kavanaugh, UK comptroller, and one of the founders of the local chapter, will make a special presentation to the fraternity.

Awards will be presented to the outstanding fraternity member and the outstanding pledge. Jim Host, former UK baseball player, will also be honored.

DELTA ZETA

Delta Zeta held its annual Senior Banquet Monday night at the Holiday Inn.

Awards were presented to Jo Ann Aylor, senior appreciation award; Nancy Moore, outstanding pledge award; and Carolyn Cox, most improvement in scholarship.

Keeping Pace With Future

The University's Greek system will soon be two sororities richer, but it will be enhanced to a greater extent than merely that of increasing the number of social sororities from 10 to 12.

Phi Beta Phi and Delta Gamma will bring with them more than just a potential increase in sorority membership, they will bring enthusiastic new blood to the campus. The addition of the two groups will mean that there will have to be a new and greater emphasis on rush among the existing sororities.

There is a certain appeal to being a charter member of a young and growing group. We need only look to UK's youngest fraternity, Phi Gamma Delta, for an example. Fiji has made great strides since it first colonized here just a few years ago. There was some consternation over whether the University could support another fraternity when Phi Gamma Delta first came onto the campus. What has happened since has shown such concern to be needless.

We are sure that just as Phi Gamma Delta has proved to be a definite asset to the fraternity system, so will Delta Gamma and Pi Beta Phi benefit the sororities. Many women have dropped out of rush before pledging because they failed to find what they were looking for in existing groups. Many such women may be drawn to the new sororities, thereby bringing a number of members into the sorority system who would have otherwise never become Greeks.

The addition of the two sororities fits in well with the University's plan for general expansion by making it possible for the sorority system to expand with UK's growing enrollment—an enrollment that has outstripped the present sororities' ability to keep pace with it.

It is with an eye toward the future expansion of the University and the growth of the Greek system that we welcome Pi Beta Phi and Delta Gamma to the campus and wish them great success here.

A Welcome Newcomer

The University has been honored by the recent decision of Omicron Delta Kappa to move its national headquarters here and we should like to join in welcoming this group to our campus.

The establishment of the headquarters here will be an asset not only to the University, but also to the UK chapter which was organized in 1925.

Evidence of the value of the men's leadership society for seniors and graduate students is seen in the services rendered to the University by the society. In the past four years alone, UK students have received more than $5,000 in scholarships and book awards.

We trust that the entire University community will join in making the ODK headquarter's stay here a pleasant one, and one that will be remembered long after the society's offices have been moved away.

Peace Corps May Meet Suspicion Abroad

By DAROLD POWERS

America's Peace Corps volunteers will meet suspicions overseas as to their motives because of America's great richness and its association with European colonial powers.

This was stressed at a recent panel discussion of international students at the State University of Iowa by Subramaniam Shastri, India.

"There will be the shadow of the State Department at all times," he declared. Though he thought suspicions could be overcome, he also reported that Russian technicians—coming from a poorer country with no West European alignments—do not arouse the same initial suspicion.

Shastri emphasized that the world knows what American leaders say and that what they say about the Peace Corps will be an element in its acceptance overseas.

In this connection, one might wonder how Asians, Africans, and Latin Americans would react to some simplified version of the Senate hearing exchange quoted earlier which would depict Sen. Fulbright as chuckling that the Peace Corps must be a good thing because the Russians were afraid of it—or what they might make of Barry Goldwater's Feb. 24 remark in the Senate that the Peace Corps idea appealed to him because "... such a program can maintain and promote the respect of our republic in foreign countries." There is no indication that underdeveloped nations desire to be a party to attempts via the Peace Corps to put Russia on the defensive or to promote respect for America.

In a letter to this writer, Gamal Abdel Nasser, president of the United Arab Republic and a spokesman for African neutralism, said, "... the Youth Corps, proposed by the American president, would serve a good purpose, should it aim, solely and in good faith, at the promotion of economic and social development in emergent countries, without any attempt or intention to exert or cultivate special political influence. . . ." Nasser indicated uneasiness about possible "re-infiltration and revival of extraneous dominance in newly independent countries."

THE READERS' FORUM

Unfair Housing Rule

To The Editor:

I understand that next year, in accordance with the Board of Trustees ruling, all male students must live in state University housing, that all junior men, except active fraternity members, will be required to live in the dormitories.

This is an unjust decision for three principle reasons:

1. It is stated by the administration that the fraternity houses are state university housing. This may be so, but they are special and privileged housing which I, as a University student, have no access to even though I were willing to pay the extra fees. Much is made during rush of the superiority of fraternity housing, and rightly so.

2. Admittance to a goodly portion of this state university housing is dependent on race and religious creed. This is a barbarous practice and should not be allowed in state housing.

3. In allowing the fraternity members out en masse because of their membership the University is dividing a natural class and setting up a special and privileged one. This both unfair and unconstitutional.

For the above reasons, no matter what merits may be put forward, the system of forcing the independents to live in dormitories while the so-called Greeks are allowed to move out into their special housing should be abolished.

RICHARD WAITMAN

Birch Society Scored

To The Editor:

In reference to the letter printed in the Readers' Forum May 10 by Prof. P. L. Mellenbruch on his reaction to the John Birch Society, I was shocked to read that one of UK's educators condones this Anti-American society. Apparently Mr. Mellenbruch thought highly of Sen. Joseph McCarthy. Personally, I consider McCarthy in the same historical class as Benedict Arnold of America's revolutionary period. McCarthy's idea of guilt by association in his famous witch-hunting campaigns and dubbing persons with socialist ideas as radicals were and still are thorns in the sides of responsible United States citizens. I should ask Mr. Mellenbruch why an idiotic organization such as the Birch Society should be told honestly, sincerely, and without malice toward this Un-American Organization? What, Mr. Mellenbruch, is "Communist" socialism?

Mr. Mellenbruch in his letter said, "I have also read that quite a number of Congressmen and other sensible and responsible persons are members of this organization." Does our learned Professor realize that the Birch Society supports the abolishment of communism and socialism in this country? Does he realize that this is a violation of the Constitution's first 10 amendments? Does he know that the majority of the society's members are conservative Republicans? I suggest that Mr. Mellenbruch and other misinformed persons read up on the John Birch Society. I'm not denying Mr. Mellenbruch his own personal opinions, but, if he doesn't want responsible citizens to disagree with him, he had better keep his beliefs to himself.

I feel that ignorance in an institution of learning should be abolished with the utmost urgency, especially in the faculty of the University of Kentucky.

I feel that Mr. Mellenbruch's closing sentence in his letter shows and proves his ignorance to me and broad-minded U. of K. students and faculty members.

DAVID S. FREELAND

Kernels

Ultimately, then, academic freedom is a right of the people, not a privilege of a few; and this situation is not affected by the fact that most people know little about it. It is the people at large who have a right to learn what scholars may succeed in finding out if they are left free and secure from reprobation. It is the people at large who have a right to the cultural and material benefits that may flow from the teaching and the inquiries of scholars who have nothing to fear when they make honest mistakes.—Fritz Machlup.

ploy. However, he also indicated some nations which would prefer United States operation of the corps—such as Pakistan—already receive assistance from the United States and might face a decrease in assistance if the United Nations took it over.

Peace Corps volunteers want to "fight problems, not people." They see the Peace Corps as nonpolitical. In a real sense, so do its planners. But the Communist bloc has to think otherwise. Nor do underdeveloped nations unanimously discount the possibility of foreign policy motives behind the Peace Corps. Volunteers will not be trained as spies, secret agents, provocateurs, political missionaries, or agitators. As far as they are concerned, their work will be humanitarian. But for better or worse, the Peace Corps cannot escape the bloc realities of this era. If it is to serve peace and not to produce unnecessary new friction, then we must search out and give due recognition to all its domestic and international implications—intended or not—for the cold war.

'King Of World' To Become King Of UK

By MIKE WENNINGER, Managing Editor

The King of the World is coming!

Homer A. Tomlinson, who titles himself "King of all the Nations of Men by Divine Call," will arrive Tuesday on the campus to make himself "King of the University of Kentucky."

Tomlinson, bishop and general overseer of the Church of God, says his coronation will be at the "campus entrance of the University" at 4 p.m. Tuesday.

Before the ceremony, Bishop Tomlinson will have a press conference at 2 p.m. in Room 211, Journalism Building. The conference will be open to the public.

The future king of UK says that at his coronation he will explain his "plan for setting up a 'School of Kings' on the campus to prepare a generation of men and women 'born to the purple' to administer 'Peace on Earth'."

In a press release about his coming, 68-year-old Tomlinson says he "will arrive at the gate with colorful and right royal robe and crown, carrying a portable throne, and, taking his seat, will display his banner 'KING OF THE UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY'."

Then he will ask for two young male volunteers to become "princes." He will pin a badge on each volunteer.

After the ceremony, the bishop will go to Scottsville to attend a two-day convention of the Church of God for the State of Kentucky.

Tomlinson has already crowned himself king of 39 other universities and colleges. At 4 p.m. today he will be crowned at Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala.

The news release from the Church of God's world headquarters in Queens Village, N.Y., says:

"Bishop Tomlinson does not count it robbery to call himself 'King of All the Nations of Men,' holding that just as he received a divine call in 1923 to be a bishop, he received a second call in 1954 to be a 'king,' to lead the way to peace on earth. He counts himself a 'king' in its original meaning, as a guide."

In 1952, the "king" stepped to run for president of the United States; his campaign was based on a "platform of righteousness." He was a write-in candidate of the Theocratic Party in last year's presidential election.

His 1960 platform included:

"For 10 percent tithes—for church and nation, instead of taxes.

"To end wars, crime, delinquency.

"To end use of tobacco, intoxicants, narcotics, gambling.

"Establish King James Bible as foundation of righteousness."

Tomlinson will be the Theocratic Party's presidential candidate again in 1964.

The bishop's Theocratic Party advocates a new form of government called theocracy. His press release states:

"God has also revealed a new form of government for our time, the Government of God for America, and for All the Nations of the World. This great new government is called 'THEOCRACY,' and means 'Government of God through His People.'"

"... Theocracy is destined to bring forth the fulfillments of this 32nd chapter of Isaiah, and this is already underway.

"... We first were stirred to the study of this form of government for the nations of the world in the 1911 Annual General Assembly of The Church of God, held in our new building, the first one we built save for a log cabin at the Fields of the Wood at Cleveland, Tenn., my home town.

"I was so thrilled by the expectations I heard of God's Government, ... I all but changed my course at the University of Tennessee from Liberal Arts to the Law."

3 In Stylus Praised

By ROBERT WHITE, Instructor of English

There are something like 1,000 institutions of "higher learning" in the United States. At the barest minimum, 200 of these schools must sponsor publications such as the University's student literary magazine, Stylus.

Two hundred such magazines would mean that there are, this spring, approximately 2,000 fledgling poets and story writers flushed with the pleasure of seeing in print their names and their apprentice efforts at poetry and fiction.

Only about one percent of these students are likely to go on and publish novels, collections of short stories, and volumes of verse. And rightly so, for all but a small fraction of the 2,000 lack the talent, the determination, the perseverance that set apart the good writer.

As for the 20 or so who will turn out to be writers of some stature, they will, in years to come, make every effort to forget and escape from the poems and stories written when they were sophomores and seniors.

If two or three of them attain, in the year 2000, the eminence now enjoyed by T. S. Eliot and Ernest Hemingway, graduate students and scholars will dredge up their juvenilia and footnote and worry them in dissertations and critical articles, but the odds are that every one of the student poems and stories published this spring is doomed to as deep oblivion as that enveloping the horses which were also rans on the day Aristides won the Derby.

The consideration of such probabilities might lead one to dismiss the current issue of Stylus as ephemeral and worthy of little notice; the University's literary magazine does not pretend, however, to be anything more than a student literary magazine (it is edited and produced by students), and there is always the possibility that some of the students publishing there this spring will go on to become writers of whom one might be very happy to say, a decade or so from now, "I went to school with him at the University of Kentucky."

The three writers who stand out are Howard Doll, Larry Sams, and Charles Baker. The three of them display, in marked individual ways, two qualities which every writer needs: a firm command of language and a compassion which never lapses into sentimentality and which never veers into self-pity.

Howard Doll's poetry has become much tighter and much more precise since he first appeared in Stylus. He is a poet who is always in danger of letting his keen glimpses of the natural world become muddled by awkward shifts to the realm of the transcendental, but his poem "Soul" for the most part steers clear of such pitfalls, and his moving verses "On the Death of an Aviator" manage, in a most restrained fashion, to make the abstract fact of death terrifyingly real. There is no excess verbiage in his poems, every word counts and the verse line moves swiftly and surely.

The two short stories by Larry Sams and Charles Baker unfortunately suffer from a weakness which besets many beginning writers of fiction: the inability to construct a narrative action which is commensurate with the emotions and ideas which they wish to project.

It is irrelevant that Sams' central character is a jazz drummer—particularly irrelevant because so much is made of his occupation—and it is troubling that Baker's hero, who must carry the burden of the story, is more unrealized than any other character in "Epitaph." In order to keep their stories moving, both authors are forced to rely on flashbacks, and, in both stories, nothing really ever happens.

In Sams' "Lapping," the theft which closes the story is, in the bad sense, wholly gratuitous, and Baker's "Epitaph" suffers because he has not devised an action which will make his hero's decision meaningful and revelatory.

In spite of these faults, though, both stories are deeply compelling in their visions of human suffering and anguish and both exhibit a prose which is spare and at the same time incisive.

One can only hope, after reading these early efforts, that Doll and Sams and Baker will work and improve as writers. In the long run, the odds are against them—but if they are going to be good writers they know that already.

Blue-White Intrasquad Game Set Tonight

JOHN RAMPULLA

By JOHN FITZWATER
 Producer Blanton Collier will present an off Broadway production of "New Faces" at 8 o'clock tonight on Stoll Field. The setting will be the annual Blue-White intrasquad game.

Starring roles will be handled by Blue Quarterback Jerry Woolum and White signal caller John Rampulla.

The Blue squad enters the game as a heavy favorite with the veteran Woolum tossing passes, Tom Hutchinson, Dennis Schrecker, and Dan Riveiro at ends and Dave Chapman and Gary Steward running from the halfbacks.

All hopes for a White victory will be riding on Rampulla, receiving his first real test as a varsity field general. Last season the Miami sophomore handled Collier's punting assignments, but to receive a varsity letter. Rampulla will have to count on fullback Vince Semary, halfbacks Denny Cardwell and Clarke Mayfield, and ends Dan Haley and Keith Hutson for offensive backing.

As has become Collier custom, many of the lettermen and all the seniors have been excused from the game. Such top flight grid-ders as Irv Goode, Jerry Dickerson, Mel Chandler, Gary Cochran, Bill Ransdell, Bob Butler, Wayne Dixon, Junior Hawthorne, Dave Gash, and Tommy Simpson will not be in uniform.

Starting lineups may be subject to change by game time, but in yesterday's practice session the Blue team had Woolum, Chapman, and Steward along with fullback Ken Bocard in the backfield.

Ends were Hutchinson and Dennis Schrecker, tackles Tommy Brush and Herschel Turner, guards

Jim Hill and Jon Jurgens, and center Johnny Mutchler.

Rampulla's Whites will have halfbacks Cardwell and Mayfield along with fullback Semary running in the backfield. Haley and Hutson will be at the ends, Joe Brandel and Bill Baker at tackles, Bobby Lee and Bob Holman at guards, and center Mark Thompson will round out White starters.

Admission is $1 for adults and $.50 for students under college age. Stadium seating will be on a first-come basis. Students will be admitted upon presentation of their ID cards plus $.50.

Last minute changes shift Elmer Jackson and Bennie Monroe to the Whites and Louis Owen and Mike Basham to the Blues.

Quarterback Pat Counts has been added to the Blue team while Brandel was moved to the White team to fill in for injured Joe Moaja.

Hutchinson Faces Busy Two Days

Kentucky's Tom Hutchinson is in for a busy weekend.

The versatile sophomore from New Albany, Ind., will be a starting end for the Blue team in tonight's Blue-White intrasquad football game.

At the final gun about 10 p.m., Hutchinson will leave via car for Louisville where he will board an airplane for Atlanta, Ga. From there he will travel by car to Opelika, Ala., where he will join the Kentucky track team for the Southeastern Conference meet.

Since other qualifications are scheduled for today, Hutchinson can only enter the high jump. He was to have entered the broad jump, shot put, 100-yard dash, and low hurdles.

Hutchinson said yesterday that he hoped to find time Sunday to prepare for final examinations with the completion of football and track.

Syracuse University has had unbeaten freshman football teams the last three years.

Cat Trio Makes All-SEC

Kentucky shortstop Dick Parsons, pitcher Charlie Loyd, and catcher Allen Feldhaus have been named to the Associated Press All-Southeastern Conference Eastern Division team.

More honors will probably come to Parsons and Loyd this weekend, as the pair are expected to be named to the All-SEC team, which includes both divisions.

Others on the Eastern Division nine are Paul Booher along with Feldhaus, catcher; Jack Anderson, Auburn, first base; Jim Douglass, Auburn, second base; Milledge White, Georgia, third base; and Larry Nichols, Auburn; Tom Vandiver, Georgia; and Charley Thompson, Georgia Tech in the outfield.

Joining Loyd on the pitching staff are Dennis Aust, Florida, and Jimmy Boyd, Auburn.

It was the second year Parsons has made the team, his first coming as a sophomore in 1959. It was the first selection for Feldhaus and Loyd.

Fijis Blank Baptists, 3-0, For IM Softball Title

By BEN FITZPATRICK

Phi Gamma Delta blanked Baptist Student Union, 3-0, Wednesday night, to capture the 1961 Intramural Softball Tournament championship.

The IM finals, held immediately after the fraternity and independent bracket finals, was a tight, fast-moving contest, which was decided on a two-run home run by Rex Bailey.

BSU advanced to the IM finals by outlasting the Mechanical Engineers, 2-1, in an extra inning game while the Fijis handed Pi Kappa Alpha a 5-1 defeat to cap the fraternity crown.

Alert fielding by Fiji leftfielder Fred Copeland and rover Bailey backed up tight seven-hit pitching by Larry Proctor to pace the Fiji 10 to the win over BSU.

With a runner in scoring position, Copeland made an ankle-high running catch of a BSU bid for a hit to end a mild rally.

Proctor allowed only two runners to reach second and started a 1-4-3 double play to ease out of a fourth-inning jam.

The Fijis grabbed a 2-0 lead in the second inning when Copeland doubled to center with one out and Bailey, drove a four-bagger over the right fielder's head for the two runs.

An insurance run was added in the fourth when Ronnie Wagener singled sharply to right and moved on to third base as the hit was misplayed. Wagener came on to score when Copeland grounded out.

BSU threatened in the fifth and final inning. With two outs, Dick Branstetter and Dave Park rapped back-to-back singles. Copeland, however, hauled in a long drive by Burr Lawson to end the game.

In the PGD-PKA encounter, Proctor allowed only four hits in recording a 5-1 victory.

Pi Kappa Alpha scored its lone run in the second inning by collecting three of its four hits.

Glenn Adams started the inning with a single, Jim Boyer lined out to third and Mike Prewitt bounced into a fielder's choice for the second out, Herb Thompson and Gene Sayre singled, Sayre's hit driving in Prewitt. Pitcher Jack Goodwin flew out to Copeland to end the inning.

The Fiji's jumped on Goodwin for all their runs in a big five-run third inning.

Jim Nelson led off with a walk and consecutive singles by Lynn Coe and George Mills brought Nelson across the plate to knot the score at 1-1. Copeland followed with a decisive two-run double to left to give PGD a 3-1 lead.

A four-base error by PKA leftfielder Brad Switzer allowed Copeland and Howie Reynolds to score. Reynolds had smacked a drive down the line and Switzer made a valiant running try, but the ball skipped out of his glove and the Fijis had their winning 5-1 margin.

In the independent finals, BSU barely squeezed out a 2-1 win over the Mechanical Engineers to earn the right to meet the Fijis.

BSU leftfielder Larry Bruce rapped a triple into left and Bob Patrick singled up the middle to plate Bruce and the winning run.

Bruce's triple, a soft fly, just eluded the hard-charging Engineer leftfielder, who electing to gamble, left his feet and dived for the ball. It bounced a scant foot in front and skidded by him, allowing Bruce to move to third. That was the game.

Intramural Softball Champions

Trackmen In SEC Meet

Fourteen Kentucky tracksters, six varsity and eight frosh, will be taking part in the Southeastern Conference track meet this weekend at Auburn, Ala.

UK's Keith Locke will be the lone favorite from the Wildcat varsity squad as his two-mile run time of 9:29.9 is the best of all entries.

Freshman Owen Basham will be the yearling favorite in the 80-yard dash, as his time of 1:56.7 is also tops this year. Basham's time is only .4 of a second off the SEC frosh record.

The 29th annual running of the SEC track and field championships will feature the top collection of varsity men in the history of the meet.

Cat varsity men in the meet include John Baxter, mile run; Tom Hutchinson, high jump; Locke; Ben Patterson, high and low hurdles; and Bill Smith, running broad jump.

Entries in the competition are Basham, John Berend, Paul Kiel, and John Knapp, mile relay; Dave Meredith, high hurdles; Cotton Nash, discus; and John Carlisle, pole vault. Bill Bufkin, Meredith, Nash, and Kiel will run the 440-yard relay.

He has taught at the University of North Carolina, Georgia School of Technology, Wofford College, University of Florida, and was head of the Department of English at Georgia Teachers College.

Dr. Stroup has served as visiting professor at the University of North Carolina, Tulane, Syrian University, and as a fellow at the Folger Shakespeare Library.

He has done research in the British Museum and has served as managing editor and a member of the editorial board of the Southern Folklore Quarterly. He has also served as a delegate to the Southern Humanities Conference and as a special lecturer at the South-Central Renaissance Conference.

At UK, he is a member of the Graduate Council, Library Committee, University Press Committee, Honors Program Committee, and was a member of the steering committee for the self-evaluation study completed last year.

Tennessee Tech Wins Soil Judging Contest

Tennessee Polytechnical Institute, with a score of 1,997 points, received the first place award at the First National Collegiate Soil Judging Contest held here recently.

Trophies were also presented to second place Texas A & M (1,940 points), and third place North Carolina State (1,939 points).

Other competing teams were from Kansas State University, University of Minnesota, Michigan State University, Ohio State University, Tennessee Technical College, and the University of Maryland.

Plaques were presented to the first and second highest individual scorers who were from Michigan State and Texas A & M.

Each team was composed of four members, but only the top three scores were tallied. The score of the alternate member was to be used only in the case of a tie and was not necessary in this particular contest.

The teams rated various kinds of soil for drainage, color, erosion, topography, ease in letting plant roots through, and water-holding capacity. The ratings were then graded to determine the team with the highest number of points.

Dr. Thomas B. Hutcheson Jr., associate professor of agronomy, termed the contest a success in spite of the weather conditions.

He said it is hoped that the soil judging contest will become an annual affair, but that future plans are not certain at this time. "However, if there is one next year, it will definitely be held somewhere other than the University," he added.

Cleo Smith Will Review Play Today

Cleo Dawson Smith, widely known lecturer and writer, will review the "Miracle Worker," a current Broadway play, at 4 p.m. today in the Music Room of the Student Union Building.

She was invited by the SUB Topics Committee to give the review. The "Miracle Worker" is the story of a young teacher's struggle to train Helen Keller.

The play won the Pulitzer Prize and the Critics Award for the best drama of 1960.

Mrs. Smith travels all over the world lecturing and reviewing. She has given reviews at women's clubs throughout Kentucky.

She received her Ph.D. degree from the University and has lived in Lexington for 30 years.

"She Came to the Valley" is the book she wrote about her life in Texas, where she was born.

In her reviews she gives a dramatization of the play. Following the review refreshments will be served.

M & O Featured On TV Workshop

The final program in the UK Television Workshop series will be presented at 12:15 p.m. tomorrow on WKYT.

The telecast will describe the duties of the Division of Maintenance and Operations. E. B. Farris, University chief engineer, will be interviewed by the show's producer, Joe Mills.
