Chances For A 3. Standing Are 3 In 100, Report Shows

By VINCENT CROWDS (Kernel News Editor)

If scholastic standings acquired last semester by women in the residence halls are representative of the local academic ability...

According to statistics compiled by the dean of women's office, only nine of the 328 residents in the women's halls made an A's last semester...

Those making the straight "A" were Ann Odor, Milmie Schreiber, Jess Gog, and Doris Zenger in Jewell hall; Jane Birk, Ellen Roper, and Shirley Thomas in Patterson hall; and Dixie Dexter and Charlotte Thomas in Boyd hall.

Seventy-six, or 23 percent, of the dormitory enrollees failed to achieve the required standing of 1. Of these, the highest percentage ranked in Patterson hall. Only ten members of the senior hall, Jewell, were in this group.

Broken down into groups of 5 differences, the report showed: Standings: Pat. Boyd Jew. Total 40-48 8 19 22 20 50-59 26 34 27 8 56 100-149 28 24 11 8 150-199 22 28 22 8 200-249 12 20 19 6 250-309 9 12 13 6

Over ten percent of the women ranked in the 2.5-3 group. Among these were 13 students from Jewell hall, 12 from Boyd, and nine from Patterson. Approximately 50 percent of the 328 fell into the middle class, from 1 to 2.

Magna Cum Laude Besides the women with perfect standings, those from Jewell hall who made the magna cum laude group, 2.5 or above, were Elizabeth Clifton, Belinda Moss, Esther Pier-

Coop Is No Longer A Coop, Kendall Reluctantly Admits

Project Converted Into Private Enterprise When Students Dodged Work, Responsibility

Because of lack of student interest and unwillingness to accept responsibility and to work voluntarily, the Student Cooperative has turned into a private enterprise, George Herman Kendall, business manager, told The Kernel yesterday.

Kendall declared that he believes that the majority of the student body desired a cooperative, had started the movement solely for the benefit of the students. However, he pointed out that the anticipated student support had not materialized and the only alternative was to turn the cooperative into a private enterprise.

Machinery For Conscription Ready To Roar Into Action

On Campus Tomorrow This Boynton Must Be Good--The Propaganda Says So

With advance publicity rivaling that of a circus parade, Prof. Percy Boynton will speak on "Best Books and Best Sellers" at the second general convocation of the speaker at 8 a.m., Wednesday in Memorial Hall.

An author and poet of note, Professor Boynton has written numerous school and college textbooks on English and American Literature, history and composition.

His latest books are "Literature and American Life." He has also edited several books, including "A Book of American Poets" and "Mark Twain's Tom Sawyer."

Prof. Boynton received an A.B. from Amherst and an M.A. from Harvard, has been on the University of Chicago faculty since 1909. He is also a co-fellow and first chairman of the University of Chicago Round Table.

Three times during the past week students have opened their mail boxes to find mimeographed announcements, ranging from a resolution to a bid of valedictorian.

"Sorry, Fred, I'd love to, but I'm Percy Boynton," was the startling information on one announcement.

The "football" list, the waiters at the "Hangout," and the winners for a parade were all missing according to the announcement.

Pollock writes, "A prize of five dollars was offered by the Convocation committee to the student in the art department submitting the best poster published in the Lexington paper."

Francis Pollock, art major, was awarded the prize: A two-color poster depicting the convocation, the waiters at the "Hangout," and the winners for a parade were all missing according to the announcement.

Cooper Will Speak To Ag Assembly

All agriculture faculty and students are requested to be present.

War Spirit Swept Campus At Conscription Time In '17

By BOB AMMONS The approach of compulsory military training 23 years ago found the University in a state of intense patriotism and restless energy.

Some even considered a petition to the general feeling of the time which marks today.

For, where 1940 students appear to be, the students of 1917 were not only a high pitch of excitement, but also a sense of duty.

Miss Margaret Lester, new director of the women's residence halls, and Dr. George O. Leasington, president of the Newman club, were among the speakers.

The monthly meetings were scheduled for the second Sunday of each month.

Gabrelian Chosen Chairman of Club

Gabriel Gabrelian, arts and sciences student, was chosen temporary chairman at the initial meeting of the International Relations club yesterday afternoon.

Gabrelian will have charge of the club during the first year. The club will meet on Monday and Tuesday nights at 8 o'clock.

WHY I WILL VOTE FOR WILLKIE

By Scott D. Breckinridge

(Editor's Note: This article by Scott D. Breckinridge, a junior in the College of Law, is the first in a series of two on the presidential election.)

Leftist economists interpret our system as one that must expand to exist. They say it has reached the limits of its expansion-hence it through. The Administration in Washington sums this up in its description of our economy as 'mature'.

In 1938 business activity was as low as in '32, when the New Deal was elected. I am sure the monetary rises were not all due to government. Now that war affects such industries as steel, etc., the charts are not so reliable.

Does the New Deal purport to run on this record? Perhaps it does not understand our system. Now that war affects such industries as steel, etc., the charts are not so reliable.

Would Put Idle Capital To Work? If invested, reinvested, paying wages and other income, buying goods and doing business, this idle capital would act as a better pump-primer than we have experienced recently.

There has been no substantial disagreement over reform, but reform cannot be confused with recovery-fiscal policy bears that burden.

That they are to be used for the benefit of the students of the University and to the Student Legislature. (Signed) GEORGE HERMAN KENDALL.

An Attempt To Define The Word 'Americanism'

There is a lot of talk these days, especially in the letter columns of the nation's press, about "Red-blooded Americanism."

As in many another case involving a definition, it is easier to point out those things which Americanism is not than it is to derive an exacting formula.

Americanism, for instance, is not self-satisfaction; and yet many U.S. letter-writers state by implication that it is just that.

These are the people who believe more in erecting billboards celebrating "The American Way" as tribute to democracy than they do in the actual practice of the democratic way itself.

And surely there can be little basis for placing patriotism and intolerance under the same heading. Yet we hear even today—and increasingly so—it would appear—of poll taxes which we call "democratic" because they keep two thirds of the South's citizens from voting.

Book Blames Fellow-Travelers For Breakdown Of Democracy

By Allenby E. Winer

Required reading for every intelligent American is a brilliant, searching and unsparring book by William Schlam. Call To Action. For here are answered many of the disturbingly insistent questions of recent weeks, in clear, sharp chapters, covering every phase of democratic disintegration abroad, and warning against the cynical forces of totalitarianism already at work in the Western hemisphere.

Why, asks Dr. Schlam, were the Allied armies taken by surprise when almost every feature of the Nazi military technique was known around the world? What was the fallacy of the "purely defensive strategy?"

How was the spiritual disarmament of the democracies accomplished? What part did the superficial intellectuals of the fellow-traveler type play in building cynicism and distrust of democratic institutions among the young?

Tomorrow's Registration And It's Significance

Tomorrow night nearly 1,000 men students and staff members will file into Alumni gymnasium to register for the first peacetime military draft in the history of the American nation.

As we have said before, were it not for two accompanying factors this would be the most astounding action—an act so unprecedented that in happier times it might be protested vigorously as "Fascistic" by a few of those concerned.

It is hardly probable that any such opposition will be raised now, nor is it desirable that any be. In the first place, only a person running away from the truth could regard the present age as a "peacetime," and so object to the draft of these grounds.

And, in the second place, the fact that the President and Congress have made it possible for every collegian to defer his training period for one year is evidence in itself that the draft is not a tool of a domestic Fascist.

So tomorrow night's registration, painful as it may be to some of our number, actually is nothing more or less than a case of a democracy doing a distasteful thing in the most democratic way possible in an effort to defend itself from a world revolution.

Kendall Defends Cooperative, Invites SGA Investigation

To the Editor of The Kernel: In reply to your editorial criticizing the Student's Cooperative to which I belong I have the following to say.

For years University students have wanted a Student's Cooperative; it has been discussed by about every group on the campus. But we have never had one until this year. That is, I have tried to accomplish what has been talked about and even planned by thousands of other students.

Not having any previous experience in the business a few mistakes have been made. That is to be expected. But we are ready and willing to rectify them. We told the Cooperative and we do not plan to change our policy.

How Draft Works
Five days after registration, local boards will assign serial numbers to each registrant (thousands will have the same number), and on lottery day, a suitable digitary will draw a capsule from the glass bowl used in 1917. Each capsule contains a numbered slip. Registrants with the drawn numbers will receive detailed questionnaires probing into every aspect of their life. Questionnaires must be returned to local boards within five days. Other lotteries will follow.

Completion of the year's training enrolls the personnel in a limited reserve, subject to call for a period of 18 years or until the age of 45. If Congress deems the nation in peril at the end of the year, the draftees may be held under arms indefinitely.

questions prepared on blank forms, which he returns to the assistant registrar. The assistant registrar receives the forms and gives the registrant a certificate which he must keep with him at all times. If the card is lost, the registrant must apply for another one as soon as possible. About 20 minutes are needed to register.

Establishment of the system in the past has been at the request of Gov. Keen Johnson to Acting President Thomas Poe Cooper as a convenience to students who ordinarily would have to register downtown.

The 50-odd questions on the questionnaire are divided into 13 series which, in general, ask for name, age, address, social security number, physical defects, education, occupation and employer, kind of work last five years excluding present occupation, marital status, income, objections to registering military experience, imprisonment terms, if any, and other pertinent information.

Series 2, 7, 11, 12 and 13 are confidential while 8 and 12 deal with theological students and ministers, and persons whose training is offered by law. Eligible college students must register, and may be drafted for but not before July 1, 1941. Theological students and ministers will not be drafted, but must register. Conscientious objectors who substantiate their convictions against war will be assigned to non-combat duty.

After a thorough consideration of many points and a physical examination, about 5,000 men will be eligible to call. The law stipulates that no more than 500,000 men may be called for any one year. Those summoned to physical exams and passed will be told when and where to report. Length of enlistment term dated from that day and hour.

Completion of the year's training enrolls the personnel in a limited reserve, subject to call for a period of 18 years or until the age of 45. If Congress deems the nation in peril at the end of the year, the draftees may be held under arms indefinitely.

Pershing Rifles To Meet Tomorrow

Sophomore members of Company C, Pershing Rifles, will report for drill Wednesday, Capt. R. H. Gloom announced. Freshman aspirants are asked to turn out the following Monday.

Freshman members of the ROTC will be extended bids to try out for the precision drill unit by officers and members of the company. Captain Gloom said the system of giving bids has been adopted in order to cut down the number of applicants so that more time might be given to instructing new men.

Captain Gloom added that freshmen who wish to try out for Pershing Rifles but do not receive bids should see him.

Running Wild

By ROY STEINFORT

Kentucky's 7-7 deadlock with Red Sanders' Vanderbilt Commodores actually started four days before Saturday's bitterly fought fray on sun-bathed Dudley field.

Tuesday night after the Commodores, guided by their Coach, Red Sanders, had finished scrimmaging against Kentucky's plays as depicted by the Vandy yearlings, the retheaded Vandy coach was taken to a Nashville hospital where he underwent an emergency appendectomy.

The Vandy players returned to practice Wednesday sorrowed by the news of their coach's operation, but more determined than ever to defeat Kentucky in the coming Saturday game. Moreover, it was learned that afternoon that Maurice Holdgraf, captain and veteran tackle, wouldn't be able to play against the Wildcats because of a bruised leg. Gloom was afraid that night in the Vandy locker room.

With barely enough men physically fit to round out two teams, the Commodores bore down relentlessly the rest of the week in practice.

Coach Speaks To Team

Eight minutes before the kickoff of Saturday's game, assistant coach Bear Bryant, in whose charge Sanders had left the team, told the 32 players in the Vandy locker room that he had a surprise for them. A surprise it was indeed.

"I don't want to upset you with this talk," said the voice of the stricken Red Sanders through a special loud speaker telephone from his hospital bed to the Vandy dressing room. "I've been with you in every move the past two days. "I will be with you in every play today. Hit hard. Give them everything you have. Pick right up where you left off at Princeton last week."

He had only a few words to say to his players. But those words were more than sufficient to inspire the Commodores and cause them to out-do their performance at Princeton the previous Saturday, when they lost only by a conversion, 7-6.

Tears In Their Eyes

When the players rushed out of the dressing room and onto the field, their eyes were stained with tears. Never have we seen a team fight harder than they did.

For 49 of the 60 minutes the inspired Vandy eleven, fighting their hearts out for their coach, led in a game, 7-0, a game in which they were figured to lose by that same 7-0 score.

With two minutes and 45 seconds remaining in play, the tide turned in Kentucky's favor. Startling and growling, the touchdown-hungry Cats were given the ball on Vandy's 11-yard stripe as the result of a slugging penalty against the Commodores. Well, you know the rest of the story. Hardly a hand touching him, Dutch Ismael crossed the coveted lines standing up.

In the remaining seconds to play, five Vandy players were helped off the field exhausted from the bitter battle in the nineteenth meeting of the two schools.

Now, maybe you can see why Kentucky was held in check Saturday. It was the Commodores' day. They received a goodly share of the breaks and made the most of them.

Long on courage and short on men, they gave Kentucky a game that they will long remember.

Society Will Meet

La Circle Francaise will meet at 7 p. m. Thursday at the home of Prof. Wilhelm Blaine Schick, 833 West High. Harold Dunn, president, will preside. French students interested in membership in the club may attend.

Commodores' Fighting Eleven Blasts Kentucky's Dream Of Unbeaten, Untied Season

Cats Tie Score With Two Minutes Left To Play

By ROY STEINFORT
Kermit Sports Editor

The hope that Kentucky would go undefeated and untied in the 1940 grid campaign, a cherished dream that loomed a possibility after three foes had been dispersed with in easy fashion, was partially eclipsed Saturday by a gallant Vanderbilt eleven that deadlocked the Cats 7-7 on Nashville's Dudley field.

For 49 of the 60 minutes of the bruising battle, staged before a gathering of 14,000 sun-bathed spectators, the amazing Commodores fought their hearts out for their ill coach, Red Sanders and led 7-0 in a game they were figured to lose.

Penalty Turns Tide

Then with the big clock showing two minutes and forty-five seconds in the fray, a break came Kentucky's way. This break, which turned the tide, came when the officials called a slugging penalty in the fading minutes after Noah Mullins had rammed his way for 21 yards to place the ball only 22 yards from the Vandy goal line.

Art Hebrovich, 165-pound Vandy starback, was accused of slugging and with his ejection from the game went an 11-yard penalty.

Three plays later, Dutch Ismael zoomed through the right side of the Vandy line, with hardly a man laying a hand on him.

The scene was tense. The extra point was coming up. Vanderbilt uses the value of an extra point, for they had lost to Princeton a week before on the conversion, 7-6. If they could block it, they would gain a win over a highly touted Kentucky team.

Jones Kicks Point

Junior Jones, Kentucky's quarterback, realizing the weight that rested on his shoulders, called Dave Zoeller back and gave him instructions as to just how he wanted the ball placed. Joe Bailey sent the ball accurately back to Zoeller. Jones kicked perfectly through the uprights and Kentucky staved off defeat from a fierce Vandy eleven.

The weakness of Kentucky pass defense resulted in the Commodore's first touchdown. Only eight minutes of the game had been played when Vandy quarterback, Mickey Flanagan, threw a perfect strike to long-striding Binks Bushmaster, who took the ball on the Cats' 13-yard stripe and scampered across the goal with Bob Herbert and Dave Zoeller closely pursuing him. Jack Jenkins kicked the extra point for the Commodores.

Smart Quarterbacking

In the final period, some smart quarterbacking by Junie Jones caught the Commodores napping on a fourth down. Needing two yards for a first down, the ball on their own 43-yard mark, Jones sent Dutch

Touch Football Managers Asked To Meet Today

A special meeting for fraternities and Independent managers of touch football teams to explain the reasons for the discontinuance of intramural football will be held at 4 p. m. today in the Intramural office in the basement of Alumni gym. Cliff Bailey, senior manager, urges all managers to be present at the meeting.

Hoy Promoted

Staff Sergt. Henry S. Hoy, rifle team coach and basic military instructor, has been promoted to the rank of technical sergeant. Lieut. Col. Howard Donnelly announced yesterday.

Ismael through the line for sufficient yardage for a first down. Two plays later, Zoeller uncorked a beautiful heave and Mullins, making a sensational catch of it, put the ball on Vandy's 22. Kentucky's opportunity to score died here, though when Zoeller overtook Jim Hardin who had sneaked all alone down to the east corner of the field. The pass skipped out of the outstreached fingers of Hardin and bounced out of bounds.

Statistics Given

The statistical story of the affair gave Kentucky a decisive edge in every department. The Cats gained 228 yards, 114 of them by rushing, to 166 for Vandy. Kirwan's Cats rolled up eight first downs to Vandy's three. Ernal Allen and Dave Zoeller completed eight out of 17 heaves. With Mickey Flanagan doing the pitching, Vandy completed four out of four in the first half, but failed in their only attempt in the final half.

Kentucky didn't look especially bad Saturday, but Vandy, keyed up by an "inspirational pep talk" from Red Sanders, their coach who underwent an appendectomy earlier in the week, played their hearts out for their stricken mentor.

Chances are Vandy won't play another game like Saturday's skirmish the rest of the season. But what a game they did play then!

TOUCH FOOTBALL IS DISCONTINUED IN INTRAMURALS

Four Were Injured In Opening Weeks Of Tournament

After four men had been injured in touch football games and practice sessions, the sport was discontinued by C. W. Hackensmith head of the intramural department. Melvin Brewer, Arts and Sciences sophomore, broke his jaw Wednesday in the game between Sigma Nu and Kappa Alpha. Maurice Anderson, Arts and Sciences junior, sustained a broken collarbone on the same day in the Lambda Chi-Phi Delta game. In practice games James Warren, Arts and Sciences freshman, broke his thumb and Willis Sutherland, Commerce sophomore, broke his collarbone.

Hackensmith stated that the injuries were due largely to the fact that the men wear no protective equipment while playing, and that most of the players are not in condition to play touch football.

"Soccer might be substituted for touch football," Hackensmith said, "but as yet, no definite plans in that direction have been made. I regret very much that we are forced to drop touch football from our intramural program."
