PERSONALITIES AND POWERS

LADY LESLIE MACKENZIE

Reprinted from Time and Tide, London, England., April 20, 1928.

When Shakespeare made Portia remark that her little body was "awearry of this great world," one wonders if he meant to draw attention to the fact that, in the case of women, at least, it is rare to find outstanding intellectual ability and restless energy housed in a massive, physical frame. The great women of history are nearly always little women. Yet it is curious how the popular fallacy persists which links intellectual greatness with large bodily proportions.

It is to the great little women of history that Helen Leslie Mackenzie belongs. She has been the champion of many causes, but the problem which has always claimed her keenest sympathy is the condition of the children of the classes we complacently call "lower." The circumstances which first focussed her interest upon this problem were part of the aftermath of the Boer War. Then, as in more recent days, the question of national fitness and physique occupied the center of the stage and the same outcry arose which, probably, follows every big war. "How are we going to produce an A1 nation?" Her husband had been appointed by a Royal Commission to investigate the condition of Edinburgh school children, and Lady Mackenzie undertook to act as his secretary and, in this capacity, examined no fewer than 1,400 children, besides making 700 visits of investigation to their homes. It was an arduous piece of work but it proved, beyond a shadow of a doubt, that medical inspection during school life was a more effective means towards racial fitness than the work of the drill-sergeant, however competent, in after years. She had the satisfaction of seeing regular medical inspection made compulsory on Scottish School Boards in 1908.

Indeed, she is one of those lucky ones whose dreams always seem to come true. In 1904 she had been elected to the Edinburgh School Board, and during the ten years she remained on it, the "wee-one," as her electors affectionately called her, saw established everything she had been fighting for—medical inspection, feeding centers for necessitous children, special schools for cripples and mental defectives and the building of the first open-air school for delicate children. She might well be called the children's champion. Where their welfare is concerned nothing is too hard or too difficult—and nothing is too trivial if it is going to add, in any way, to their happiness. "New heavens and a new earth" mean for her just a world of happy children with plenty of health in their little bodies and the seeds of good citizenship carefully planted in their little souls.

In 1914, Lady Mackenzie, with Lady Aberdeen and Mrs. Ogilvy Gordon, started the Child Welfare and Maternity Movement in Scotland. Years of close study of child-life amongst the poor had convinced her that five years of age was "too late in the day" to start the supervision of the future citizen. Something had to be done for the babies, the toddlers of three and four and their mothers. A travelling exhibition was organized, thoroughly representative of all phases of maternity service and child welfare. With this, Lady Mackenzie visited hundreds of towns in Scotland and did excellent work, in rousing local authorities to the need for child-welfare schemes.

To describe the long list of activities in which Lady Mackenzie takes a leading part would simply to to enumerate the principal movements in Scotland which have for their objective the well-being of children. Even in her capacity of lecturer on Local Government to the Edinburgh students she continues to emphasize the fact that the family is the growing point of society and that, therefore, any system of local government is based on the needs of the child.

* * * * *

Lady Mackenzie has no oratorical arts, but she never leaves an audience as she found it. Her simplicity and uncompromising directness; her humor half pawky, half caustic, altogether Scotch—above all, her transparent sincerity, win their way straight to “the general heart of man”—the deeps in every human being that respond instantly and unreservedly, to a genuine appeal on behalf of genuine suffering. There is a rare definiteness about everything she says and does. From her profile to her politics—everything is clearly cut. She is the Mrs. Poyser of social service, cumbered about many things but “getting through” quietly, deftly and swiftly; and like that lady, she has a fine scent for the axe-grinder, the sham sentimentalist—in fact, for shams in every form—and she can be formidably frank in exposing them! Her utterances are crisp and fresh as the salt sea foam and with just that nip in them which can be delightful or disconcerting—according to the taste and fancy, as Sam Weller would say, of the listener.

One likes to picture her as the daughter of a long line of hardy, East coast, seafaring folk. She has in her eyes the bright daring of the men who go down to the sea in ships, mingling subtly with the patient wistfulness of the women who watch and wait. The well-balanced head, so trimly set upon her shoulders, tells its tale of quiet confidence, and practical ability, but on the brow sits, broodingly, the spirit which dreams dreams and sees visions.

Resolution read at the Seventh Semi-Annual meeting of the Frontier Nursing Service held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Johnston in Fayette County, May 11th, 1928:

* * * *

Since the last Semi-Annual meeting, the Frontier Nursing Service has suffered a great loss in the passing away of Mrs. Mary Breckinridge Maltby.

Three years ago the Frontier Nursing Service, then known as the Kentucky Committee for Mothers and Babies, was organized. Even before the formal organization, Mrs. Maltby had expressed her faith in the work about to be undertaken by a tangible token. She made the first contribution, the sum of one hundred dollars, as a proof of her conviction that the effort soon to be begun was necessary and commendable. Ever since then, Mrs. Maltby has been of great assistance not only financially but through her interest and her prayers, and through the inspiration of her personal presence one summer in Leslie County.

The Frontier Nursing Service records with great sorrow its great loss in the passing from this earthly sphere of Mrs. Maltby, and tenders the deepest sympathy to the daughters who are so sorely bereft, to her brother, the Hon. Clifton R. Breckinridge, to her niece, our corresponding secretary Mrs. Carter, and to her cousins, Miss Bullock and Mr. Cabell B. Bullock. Our special love and sympathy goes forth to our Director, who has lost the counsel, help and devotion of a beloved aunt, who was at the same time a dear companion and friend.

THIRD ANNUAL REPORT

FOREWORD

On our third birthday we again present to the public, which has generously supported us, a complete accounting of all our affairs. We have not condensed in any way the auditor's reports, feeling that the details will be of interest to the 1387 people who have contributed financially. We should like to add, however, that many gifts were in kind rather than money, and to refer the reader to a list of them in another section of the report. In addition we have been receiving, since September 1927, $150.00 monthly from the State Board of Health, which cannot be included in the Treasurer's reports, as it is paid through the county.

The work of the Service has been greatly augmented by its building program during the past year. The Up River Center (Jessie Preston Draper) is finished; the Possum Bend Center (Frances Bolton) was entirely built; the Hyden Hospital and Health Center has been carried nearly to completion, and the preliminary arrangements are made for the new center (Clara Ford) in Clay County, on Red Bird River near the mouth of Big Creek.

Even a casual glance at the itemized expenditures falling under Construction, will give some idea of the difficulty of building in the mountains. We ask our friends to bear in mind that all of these buildings are situated on mountain trails, reached only by mule teams, anywhere from six to thirty-four miles from the railroad, and that those supplies which could not be procured locally, such as hardware, plumbing, cement, etc., have had to be hauled, in all weather, over these trails. For the stone hospital at Hyden we have brought in three carload lots of cement and plaster and have had as many as fifteen teams engaged at one time in hauling them across.

A fall of rain and a rise of the river would stop all hauling for two or three weeks. We consider it a great compliment to our teamsters that none of these supplies have been injured or lost enroute. They were kept well protected by wagon covers and were never taken through the fords when the water was high enough to wet the wagon bed.

The largest and most difficult piece of construction has, of course, been the Hospital and Health Center at Hyden, now within a month of completion. It is built of the native stone, given for a nominal fee from his quarries by Judge L. D. Lewis of Hyden, and stands on the slopes of Thousandsticks Mountain on the site given by our State Chairman, Dr. Alexander J. A. Alexander. The central portion is from the Mary Parker Gill Estate, through the U. S. Trust Company, and the right wing is Mrs. Thruston Ballard's memorial to her daughter, Mrs. David Morton. The combined building has two wards of four adult beds each, with space for as many children's beds, and for at least twenty-five additional patients for special clinics. There is an operating room, a laboratory for the health officer, a dispensary and waiting room, and suitable kitchens, supply rooms and baths. There are also sleeping and living quarters for the nurses of the district service, the supervisor and a bookkeeper. A special feature is a wide sleeping porch on the upper story, with double glass doors so arranged that the patients' beds may be wheeled in and out. From the broad verandas of the building a lovely prospect opens, up and down the Middle Fork of the Kentucky River and the windings of Rockhouse Creek.

It is for the dedication of this building, which takes place Tuesday, June 26th, that Sir Leslie and Lady MacKenzie are coming over from Scotland.

REPORT OF THE NURSING WORK of the
FRONTIER NURSING SERVICE

MAY 1, 1927—APRIL 30, 1928

There were 3,444 people attended during the year by the Service. Of these 324 were babies under two years of age, which have been seen at least once a month and as far as possible twice a month. These figures also include 536 children from two to six years of age and 1,265 school children.

Beside nursing care has been given to 246 very sick people, of whom nine have died and 227 have recovered.

There have been 29 patients transported to hospitals in Lexington and Louisville, on passes given them and their nurses by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad.

The nurses paid 13,987 visits and received 11,645 visits at the nursing centers. They were on duty 20,706 hours.

GROUP WORK

There was an estimated attendance of 2,075 at the four large gatherings in which the nurses took part, where they spoke or handled exhibits.

At 452 special conferences, classes in Red Cross Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, special medical clinics by doctors, etc., there was a known attendance of 620 men, 1632 women and 1517 children—a total of 3,769.

INOCULATIONS

At the request of the State Board of Health, the nurses gave inoculations as follows:

Pneumonia-flu vaccine:	400 adults 805 children
	1,205
Typhoid vaccine:	1,291 adults 2,015 children
	3,306
Diphtheria T. A. T.:	64 adults 1,536 children
	1,600
A total of	6,111
Dressings and Nursing Treatments	653 adults 797 children
	1,450
Total	1,450

Specimens of various kinds sent to the State Board of Health for Analysis—151.

MIDWIFERY

The nurse-midwives have delivered 71 women in childbirth during the year and given them pre-natal and post-partum care. There have been two still-births. No infant has died in the first month of life. There has been no maternal death.

The cases include three placenta praevia, two central and one marginal. The Service was three days and nights in getting a doctor for the first of these placenta praevia, and over twenty-four hours in getting one for the second.

The midwifery cases closed during the year were 106. In addition to the 71 delivered by the nurse-midwives, 3 were delivered by doctors, 23 by native midwives, and 2 by a mission station nurse; 4 miscarried and 3 moved away. There were admitted 113 new cases. Forty midwifery cases are registered at the present date and carried forward as expectant mothers.

MEDICAL ATTENDANCE

The Service gratefully acknowledges its appreciation of the promptness with which the doctors have come on its call—sometimes from very great distances—and tenders herewith its gratitude to Dr. McKee, Dr. Stoddard, Dr. Heim, Dr. Boggs and Dr. Collins.

In this connection, we quote with permission the following letter from a mission station of the evangelical Church in Harlan County:

THE RED BIRD CLINIC

Beverly, Kentucky

Harlan S. Heim, M.D.

Lydia B. Rice, R.N.

April 23, 1928

Mrs. Mary Breckinridge, R.N.

Director, Frontier Nursing Service,

Wendover above Hyden,

Leslie Co., Ky.

Dear Mrs. Breckinridge:

I want to thank you for the information you gave me in regard to midwifery training for Miss Rice. I feel greatly indebted to you for the suggestions. The success that your nurse-midwives have had in this mountainous country has given me the idea that perhaps I could relieve myself of a great burden by having Miss Rice trained to handle obstetrical cases. I am having more and more of this kind of work to do and it is taking up a great deal of my time. If I had someone to take charge of these cases it would relieve me a great deal. We might even copy your methods and serve other communities beside our own here at Beverly. As it is now I am trying to serve a territory about 15 miles in all directions from Beverly (over 700 square miles) and that is almost too much.

* * * * You are certainly attacking the problem of infant and maternal mortality at its most vulnerable spot—the rural mother and baby. For what does it avail as far as statistics go to have the urban mother cared for by experts and hospitals if the isolated mother in the country goes without help. And it is an injustice also. Personally, I could not see practicing medicine in the city where I would have to wage a fight against my fellow-practitioner in order to make a living when there was a wide open country where a fellow could spend his energies fighting the elements and have patients enough and to spare. My little practice here has grown until already it is too big for one man to handle.

* * * * Be assured of my deep interest in your work and of my continued willingness to cooperate with you and the nurses in any way I can.

Very cordially yours,

(Signed) HARLAN S. HEIM.

Our Service values very highly the cooperation of Dr. Robert Sory, of the U. S. Public Health Service, who held trachoma clinics, with Miss Grace Harwood, in different sections of the county in the summer.

As food is so closely related to health, it adds its further gratitude to Miss Ruth Riley of the Home Economics Department, University of Kentucky, for her canning demonstrations through the summer; and its great admiration of the work of the American Red Cross in its astoundingly prompt and effective relief of the crop situation at the time of the storms and floods.

Lastly, it takes the deepest pleasure in welcoming to Leslie County the new full time county health officer, Dr. Sublett, whose effective grasp of things at the very outset is most heartening.

(Successor to The Kentucky Committee For Mothers and Babies, Inc.)

Its motto:

“He shall gather the lambs with his arm and carry them in his bosom, and shall gently lead those that are with young.”

Its purpose:

To safeguard the lives and health of mothers and young children by providing trained nurse-midwives for rural areas where resident physicians are few and far between—these nurse-midwives to work under supervision; in compliance with the Regulations for Midwives of the State Board of Health, and the law governing the Registration of Nurses in Kentucky; and in co-operation with the nearest medical service.
