AN ASHLAND BUILT LOCOMOTIVE.—Last Thursday the new engine No. 8, "Winslow," made its first appearance on the track, outside of the ASHLAND COAL AND IRON RAILWAY COMPANY'S machine shop.

This engine has been built in Ashland, by Ashland mechanics; is the heaviest, as well as one of, if not the best engine, belonging to the Company. Is a creditable piece of workmanship to the men who did the work, and to the company which employs them. This also means that between six and seven thousand dollars have been paid to our own mechanics, in place of sending it abroad to other men. Success to the mechanics of the Ashland Coal and Iron Railway Company.
