THE TOURNAMENT

Shall the annual Southeastern conference tournament at Atlanta be allowed to continue? Will it, if some attempt to revive interest in the affair is not made, expire gradually by degrees?

These and other questions have been asked often of late by basketball fans and sports writers throughout the South, but to no one knows what fate awaits future attempts to prolong the yearly exhibition. From present indications it appears that, even though the tournament is not discontinued entirely, a change of location is quite probable.

Cochi Adolph Rupp voices the sentiments of several southern coaches and of a great many basketball enthusiasts by declaring a tournament, as conducted under the system now used, to be an unfair means of determining rightly a championship.

It is not just since the recent early elimination of the Wildcats at Atlanta that Coach Rupp has advocated the doing away with the tournament; he was in favor of such a move before Kentucky entered and won the title last year, and prior to the contest this year, which the Big Blue was expected to win again.

The largest crowd of the tournament this year was reported to have been approximately 3,000. In games with such teams as Alabama, Ohio State, and Tennessee over 4,000 fans have squeezed their way into our gymnasium. If the tournament were held here, a larger field house would probably be needed to accommodate the spectators.

The Kernel considers Coach Rupp's plan to be logical, and we believe that if the tournament continues to be held in Atlanta it will finally have to be abandoned because of finances. However, should it be decided that its location be changed to another city, we see no reason why Lexington can not make a bid for the contest.

BASEBALL

With the event of spring but a matter of a few weeks away, there is being formed on the University campus a decided interest in the age-old sport of the nation, baseball. Still the national pastime, this game fills the need of a certain group which no other sport has seemed to successfully fulfill. Yet, on our campus there has been no team since 1931.

This is due probably more to lack of sufficient funds than to any other reason. It has come to be a sport which has not paid its way on the campus, it is said. This, we grant, may be true, but so have other so-called sports. Would it be plausible to cancel all sports which do not show a profitable season every year? With the interest being taken at the University this year it would seem highly desirable to form a team here. More than 40 boys have reported as being interested in playing if suitable arrangements could be made. Of these 40 boys, several entered the University because at that time there was a baseball team.

J. E. Griffing, manager of the local team has most graciously offered the use of his field free of charge to a University team for practice and games, and this seems to us a most opportune time for revival of this great sport.

GENERAL OPEN HOUSE

The Woman's Self Government Association is to be complimented for the success of the open houses sponsored this semester by them in Women's building. Many men and women students attend these open houses which are held from 4 to 6 o'clock every Friday afternoon. The students are in this way given an opportunity to meet new people, and to become better acquainted.

These open houses are for all students who wish to come, no matter whether they belong to a sorority or fraternity. It might be a good idea to come to one of these open houses, and see if you do not have a good time.

Why not leave your studying, and various other activities for a short while on Friday afternoons, and come to the open house at the Women's building? Much enthusiasm has been shown toward them thus far. They will continue throughout the spring months.

Mrs. Holmes, Miss Blandin, and the members of the Woman's Self Government Association are working together to make these general open houses a success. We hope that you will cooperate with them.

GERMANY GOES PAGAN

Coming as a shock to the world, and yet not so wholly unexpected, was the conclusion reached last Thursday by members of the German Research Society sitting in Berlin that Christianity was not meant for and does not fit itself into the scene of German mentality and temperament, that it is a compound of inferiority and Jewish philosophy, and therefore should be completely repudiated and in its stead be placed the ancient Pagan Gods of Germany.

For us it is more than difficult to understand how such a substitution can be made, but this is due largely to the fact that it is almost impossible for us to comprehend the German type of mind and its workman.

Dr. Robert Briffault sums up this peculiar composition of the German in one paragraph in his article, "Madness in Middle Europe and World Peace" appearing in the March issue of Scribner's. "Despite the flights of German metaphysics, the meticulousness of German science, the emotionalism of German music, the drill-severe efficiency of Prussian organization, criticism discerns in the ponderous crudeness of German culture, its recurrent cult of force, the dictatorial dogmatism and pedantry of its thought, its humorless megalomania, its unbalanced emotionalism and lack of fineness, the rough-hewn mentality of Gothic barbarism. That underlying crudeness is today made correctly manifest in the spectacle of a whole people infected with the dementia of Hitlerism."

A careful analysis of this paragraph gives a clear insight into the basic reasons for the tremendous changes that are taking place in central Europe today, and it does not take long to discern that the barbarian once again threatens world peace. Added to this savage spirit the megalomania mentioned by Doctor Briffault, which might be defined as a form of mental alienation in which the persons effected have grandiose ideas of what they are able to do, describes exceedingly well the makeup of the Hun.

Strangely enough the Germans do not object to the words Huns, Goths, or Barbarians as applied to them. They accept them stolidly saying, "We reject Latin culture and refinement because they serve only to deteriorate the human character." This belief is closely allied with the Nietzsche philosophy of the superman that the same group which desires to overthrow Christianity is now preaching. They propose the development of a race of giants from the German stock possessed of will and power, but devoid of tolerance, benevolence, or mercy.

It can readily be seen that with such a doctrine as this, Christianity, with its teachings of love, compassion, and justice, serves only as a stumbling block in their pathway which must be obliterated as soon as possible. The reinstatement of the old Pagan Gods will serve to develop a war-like attitude which is the very thing that is desired, and in fact is being accomplished.

The German youth of today is not the same as the German youth of 1914, armed to the teeth, but he has an even more insurmountable spirit and is ready to defy the world with his bare fists if necessary.

It is not difficult to comprehend then the dynamic force that is becoming more and more concentrated in Germany, nor do we have to use our imaginations to any extent to see that if those who wish to install a Pagan theology in Germany succeed in their purpose, the peace and security of the civilized world is more than seriously threatened.

Jest Among Us

We often wonder if bus drivers and street car motormen don't sometimes get tired of talking about the weather.

Despite the ankle-deep slush through which we have been forced to wade, nevertheless it is a welcome omen of a new season and good old spring fever.

Although we put on our brightest thinking caps, still we can't quite figure out why it wouldn't be more appropriate to say "in the black" or "in the blue" rather than "in the red."

Scandal Snickerings

By "DOC"

This little bit of scandal we are going to dedicate to Frecap Tom Cassidy who did tell us some choice scandal once upon a time on his roommate, Doty Jackson, but it was censured... which was just a lucky break for Doty.

The Sigmaky pledges who are going through Hell Week are really taking it. They are being fed castor oil and using Pluto water as a chaser. We also wonder what fraternity it is who is making their pledges wear baby bonnets, we suppose that they are supposed to crawl too?

Coffman's crack in Tuesday's issue about Jack Crain telling us about a "certain" romance is wrong, and we wish to tell Cameron that we don't even know Jack Crain and the one who told us was a girl in Patterson hall.

It is rumored that a bunch of SAE's went up to Cincinnati on Washington's birthday and met Mr. and Mrs. Meyers (nee Roberta Pearson) at the Netherlands Plaza. The latter did ask them why they were going out of school... they did reply that it was a holiday. She asked, "What day is this anyway?"... Of course, they had just been married two days before!

We hear that Kappa Psi alumnus Johnny Guest has fallen for a certain Kappa. She is Dorothy Williams. He went to the Lambdachi dance just for the one no-break with her.

Triangle Jack Faunce puts his pin out every Friday and takes it back on Monday mornings... when you run out of pines, Jack, come up sometime and maybe we will be able to help you!

All Triangles are calling up Bill Eversole's girl friends unbeknown to him and making dates for him. When Bill doesn't show up then the datees bawl him out for leaving them standing at the post.

The slippery, slimy, and sloppy Sunday night of February 11 saw the birth of the famous and exalted D.K.K. organization. This is a society so secretive that sometimes its four presidents begin to wonder. Must be something like the "Bo Bo" club!

We wonder how Dorothy Bishop got the name of "Shanghi Lil"... but we bet that Delachi Bill Jobe had something to do with it.

Looking Back

By JANE M. HAMILTON

March 2, 1916 Members of the legislature pay the University a visit. One hundred and thirty members inspect the Experiment Station and Mechanical Hall.

March 4, 1921 Wildcats win basketball championship by defeating Georgia in final game 20 to 19. The student body welcomed the squad at the Southern station.

March 3, 1922 Sherwood Eddy, noted student speaker, is here at the University and he will start a series of lectures today.

March 2, 1923 The annual State Interscholastic basketball tournament will start in the University gymnasium Friday morning. Girl basketballers defeat Chattanooga co-eds.

March 5, 1926 Phi Beta Kappa will be installed on this campus. Approximately 150 basketball fans go to Atlanta to back the Wildcats in the semi-final game.

March 4, 1927 Annual election of officers for The Kernel will be held Tuesday. Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalism fraternity, installs chapter here.

 Say little, if at all;
 Say naught, be loved the better;
 For silence is the stuff
 Turns lover into debtor.

Bring him not all you are,

Blame Not Fixed In Hanover Tragedy

According to a report from Hanover, N. H., President Hopkins of Dartmouth college declared that no blame could be placed in the asphyxiation of nine college students which occurred Saturday, February 24, when a blast disconnected the chimney pipe in the Theta Chi fraternity house.

The bodies of the nine students, who were overcome by carbon monoxide gas while in bed, were ordered sent to their respective homes by college authorities Monday. Janitor M. D. Little declared that he had warned owners of the house that the "furnace from which the monoxide gas fumes escaped" was in bad shape.

By DELMAR ADAMS

Despite the fact that the Wildcats were eliminated in the second round of the Southeastern Conference tournament, the sports writers named "Frenchy" DeMoisey and "Primer" Bill Davis on the all-conference team, selected at the close of the tournament Tuesday night.

The play of both in their appearance in the meet brought favorable comment from the fans and sports scribes alike, although both were decidedly off their usual form. This is the second straight year DeMoisey has been honored as he was also selected last year after the Cats had won the first Southeastern conference crown. Florida placed one man on the star five, while the other two places went to Whitley and Bauman of Alabama.

In an endeavor to prolong the Basketball season, should the tournament be discontinued, Coach Adolph Rupp has laid plans which if successful would bring the Cat basketballers into contact with teams from all over the nation. Pittsburg, Notre Dame, Northwestern and other nationally known teams are being sought as Cat opponents for 1934-35, the Kentucky cage mentor intimated recently.

This is a step up the ladder toward giving the University national recognition in the sports world. This year's basketball team, while perhaps not the equal of last year's club, would put up a battle with any team in the nation and would not come off second best with the greater majority of them. With the ample material available next year, with this year's fine freshman squad to draw from, and every regular except Captain DeMoisey returning, the Big Blue should have the greatest team in history next year, barring unforeseen occurrences.

With their participation in the tournament, three Wildcat players closed their collegiate basketball careers. Captain John DeMoisey, Evan Settle, and C. D. Blair, after three years of service, hang up their shoes and trunks and pass on into the ranks of the departed athletes of Kentucky.

Captain DeMoisey will rest in a niche close beside "Aggie" Sale in the Wildcat Hall of Fame. His playing throughout his career was of the highest order, clean and polished at all times and seldom falling below the brilliant standard that he set for himself. Many games he has won for the Cats and many spectators have thrilled to his "free-wheeling" shots. He is a great player and a great leader and will make some scholastic institution a splendid coach after he graduates in June.

To Settle and Blair also goes well merited praise. For four years both have been out for the team, constantly working, playing some, but never making the first team. Just good hard-working reserves, but dependable when in the pinch game.

beaten the Red Elephants this season.

Besides their win over the conference favorites the Gators reached the finals by another great game with the Vanderbilt Commodores. However, these two contests must have taken all the high-caliber basketball from the boys from the Tornado state, their pass work and plays looking extremely bad.

The Crimson Tide reached the finals after two close games, one with Mississippi State and the other with the inspired Volunteers of Tennessee.

Alabama closed their season with only two losses in Conference play, both of which were lost to Kentucky which was undefeated with a new collegiate record of 24 straight wins until they were dropped by Florida.

board of education. The council will determine tuition at the University and other colleges, curricular offerings, budgetary requirements, and perform other necessary legislation in the interest of the schools.

The bill provides for the repeal of all former school laws and codes and sets up an entirely new system. It further provides for a state board of education consisting of seven prominent laymen and educational men throughout the state.

Doctor Chamberlain served as member of the code committee of which James W. Cumback Jr. of the state board of education was chairman. Mr. Cumback is a graduate of the University. Other members of the committee were Gordie Young, assistant superintendent of public instruction, who received his M.A. degree from the University, and William R. Atkinson of the Attorney General's office. Mr. L. E. Meece of the University Bureau of School Service also assisted in drawing up the bill for the Kentucky Educational committee.

Austria Reviewed By H. L. Franklin

and Italy warned Germany on February 17 to respect Austrian independence. Hitler is reluctant to interfere directly in the Austrian situation as this might lead to counter-intervention by the Powers mentioned which in turn would make Hitler's position at home almost impossible. The Hitlerites feel, however, that time is working in their favor and that Austria will unquestionably "go Nazi" in a few weeks' time so that their aims may be realized without risk and without an open struggle.

For the first time since Hitler assumed power in Germany, he has been drawn into a conflict with Mussolini who is greatly opposed to Austria's union with Germany since the Italian territorial gains in the Tyrol (the Brenner Pass, etc.) at Austria's expense, would most likely be jeopardized thereby. Furthermore, Austria's increasing use of the Italian port Trieste would cease and her shipping be largely transferred to Hamburg and Bremen in the event of Nazi absorption. Moreover the important trade position Italy has laboriously acquired in South-Eastern Europe would be considerably weakened by the "Anschluss."

The French, Czechs, Jugoslavs, Poles, and Rumanians are greatly concerned about the formation of a greater Germany through incorporation of Austria with Germany, since this would mean the establishment of a Teutonic block of almost 75,000,000 people in the center of Europe, highly industrialized and imbued with the Nazi doctrine of race superiority and with the martial spirit. This they argue, in view of the Nazi mentality and avowed aims, would inevitably result in another war, more terrible and devastating than the last.

Austria is in a desperate plight economically and some scheme must be worked out for better trading arrangements with neighboring countries, possibly a customs union with Hungary which Mussolini favors, or with the Little Entente—Czechoslovakia, Rumania, and Jugoslavia.

It is barely possible that Doctor

Dollfus may be able to maintain Austria's political independence. Austria is over 80 per cent Catholic, and the way Catholics, particularly the priesthood, are faring in present Nazi Germany is not calculated to win devout Austrians to the Nazi cause. Restoration of the Hapsburg monarchy is now being seriously discussed, and its eventuation would be the most definite block to Hitlerite aspirations in Austria. The Austrian situation is fraught with grave possibilities and events there will continue to be closely followed by students of international affairs throughout the world.
