Freshman, Transfer, Dupre To Have First Guignol Roles

Fowler Version Will Not Imitate Recent Movie

Guignol will open its fourteenth season October 27 with James Purser, artist and sciences freshman, playing the male lead in "Philadelphia Story."

In addition to Purser, first appearances are being made by J. Huntley Dupre, head of the history department, and Wanda Austin, transfer student.

Purser will enact the role of C. K. Dexter-Haven, the past, but ever-present husband of Tracy Lord, wife of the goddess complex, Edwin Clelland, second-year law student who appeared last year in "Male Animal," plays the part of Mike Connor, the newspaper man, while Wanda Austin, Guignol newcomer, as his partner with the guilty cynic, "Liz" Imbrie.

Prof. L. Dantzier, English department head, will take the part of Uncle Willie, the pincher. Prof. Dantzier, who appears regularly in Guignol productions, made his last appearance in "Arms and the Man." Leslie Betz, instructor in the training school, will play Stanley, Tracy's brother, and Doctor Dupre will make his initial Guignol appearance at South Road, the long-absent father.

DR. J. D. HUNTLEY DUPRE AND PROF. L. D. DANTZIER
Will appear in Guignol's fourteenth season opener.

Gale Neal arts and sciences junior, who played last year in "Then Came June," will take the part of George Kilgore, Tracy's fiancee. Guignol production of "Philadelphia Story" will not imitate the screen version, according to Frank Fowler, director. Costumes, sets and interpretation of parts will be original with the University theater.

An outdoor setting, depicting a porch and terrace, will be used throughout the play, which is scheduled to run the entire week of October 27.

LITKENHOUS RATES XAVIER OVER WILDCATS

Defeat By Vandy Lowers Kentucky; Leaders Listed

As a result of Kentucky's crushing defeat at the hands of Vanderbilt last week, Dr. E. E. Litkenhouse rates the Xavier Musketeers 8.9 better than the Wildcats in his Differential Score system. Xavier, undefeated in four starts this year, is given a rating of 81.3, compared to a 72.4 figure for the Cats.

However, Coach Glenn Crowe of Xavier indicated that he believes the game may be closer than Dr. Litkenhouse figures, since Crowe stressed place kicking in practice this week leading observers to believe that in his opinion the game may be decided by a single point.

Xavier passers, headed by sophomore Jimmy Goodreau, have showed up well in the drills and Coach Crowe stated that he was very pleased with the way his backfield, Kentucky has been weak on serial defense in every game this year and the Musketeers are expected to stress this method of attack in tomorrow's meeting.

The leading ten teams in the nation according to the Litkenhouse averages are:

|              |       |
|--------------|-------|
| Minnesota    | 101.3 |
| Duke         | 99.9  |

Faculty Members Appointed To SGA's Welfare Committee; Constitutional Revision Planned

STUDENTS TO FILL POSTS

Housing Conditions To Be Investigated By Completed Body

The Student Legislature completed its selection of faculty members for SGA committees last night when they appointed six members to the Student Welfare committee. Faculty members elected were Dr. J. Huntley Dupre, Prof. R. S. Allen, Dr. M. M. White, Major Lyle W. Croft, Prof. Robert D. Haun, and Prof. John S. Horne.

To fill vacancies on the welfare committee occurring when two members failed to return to the University, Dr. J. Huntley Dupre and Prof. Fred Irvine were appointed. Members returning to the committee are Jean Jones, Rita Sue Leslie, George Terrell, and Jerry Mercer, Xavier's chairman.

An early project of the committee will be an investigation of student housing conditions, according to Jerry Mercer, chairman.

Nominations were received from the deans of the graduate school and of the commerce college for election by the SGA to fill vacancies in the Legislature. These nominations were accepted and the new members will be elected at the next meeting as specified in the constitution.

Appointment of students to the loan board was postponed because of a misunderstanding which caused a misunderstanding which caused the Student Herman L. Donovan's appointments of faculty members to be delayed.

Any students interested in nominations to the Student Loan board are requested to leave their names at The Kernel office.

There are still several openings on the staff, Miss Krayer announced.

BILL WILL BE DISCUSSED

Measure Will Add Power, Efficiency, Collier Says

A proposed amendment to the Student Government association constitution will be discussed at a mass meeting of students and faculty at 4:30 Tuesday afternoon in room 127 Union building.

Students and faculty members are urged to attend this meeting to discuss the bill since action on the amendment has been delayed until it has been placed before the students and faculty for open criticism.

Jim Collier, chairman of the constitutional party, originated the amendment, said last night that the amendment was intended to increase the administrative efficiency of the SGA.

"By clearing away the confusion and overlapping committee system now in effect, this amendment should add greatly to the efficiency and power of the Student Government association," Collier said.

FUNDAMENTAL CHANGE
The fundamental change to be brought about by the amendment is the abolition of the committee system and establishment of heads of these departments to be selected by the president of the SGA with the approval of the legislature. The only function of committees in this new system would be to advise the heads of the administrative departments.

An amendment may become a law by being submitted to the student body in the form of a petition signed by 20 percent of the resident students. It is then referred to the legislature with a two-thirds majority required for passage. If it fails to pass the legislature it may be referred to the student body in a general election which shall require a majority vote, with at least 10 percent of the students participating.

The proposed amendment follows:

Articles 1, 2, 6, and 9 are hereby abolished and the following articles shall take the place of 1 and 2:

ARTICLE I
1. The SGA shall have the power to regulate the financial matters of the student body.

ARTICLE II
2. A budget shall be adopted by the Student Legislature for the expenditure of all SGA funds, and all other funds under its jurisdiction, which shall go into effect as soon as approved by the President of the University. No money shall be expended unless approved by the Student Legislature, either in the budget or in a special appropriation.

3. All student organizations having money in the Organizations shall deliver audits and accounts of funds into the hands of the President of the Student Body or his representative which, along with the expenditures and financial condition of the SGA, shall be published at the end of each semester.

ARTICLE III
1. The SGA shall have the power to regulate the social activities of the student body.

2. Nothing contained herein shall hinder the department, upon the request of the members of the Student Legislature or its committees to answer questions pertaining to his office.

3. All departments which may be allowed to debate, but not to vote, on any question pertaining to a respective department which may arise in the Student Legislature.

4. Any officer or any administrative department, upon the request of the members of the Student Legislature or its committees to answer questions pertaining to his office.

5. No person shall be appointed a faculty member with the rank of Associate Professor or above.

ARTICLE XIII
Any person holding any SGA office shall be removed from office upon a 2/3 vote of all the members of the Student Legislature.

Johnson Will Tell Y Members Of Organization In 1892 - 1894

Dinner Tuesday Will Celebrate National Founding

Prof. J. Richard Johnson, president of the campus YMCA from 1892 to 1894, will speak on the history of that time at a dinner meeting of the group at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday at the University Union school cafeteria, coincident with the 77th anniversary of the founding of the national organization.

Bar Peck, secretary of the YMCA, will give a short talk on the history of the founding of the national and John Long, president, will welcome the 75 new members.

Prof. J. D. Turner of the class of 1898, who was one of the first members of the group on campus, and Prof. T. E. Bryant of the class of 1898, who acted as student secretary of the YMCA, will attend the dinner.

BRUCE PRICE

Valden Cox, chairman of the YM association committee, has charge of arrangements for the dinner. Bruce Price, chairman of the program committee, will preside. Bill Bruckart is in charge of publicity.

The University YMCA is now in its fifty-first year, having been founded in 1890 when 12 or 15 boys met in a dormitory room once a week for prayer.

The first year was organized by a group from Centre college, who did this type of work throughout the state.

About 1895, the University furnished one room in the first division of the old dormitory (now White Hall) for the YMCA headquarters. Upon completion of Alcott Hall in 1901, the group moved there and remained until the spring of 1936, when new quarters were established in the Union building.

Eight Will Attend Home Ec Conference

A meeting of home economics directors and of teacher trainers and supervising teachers, in home economics education will be attended by eight members of the University staff.

Those who will attend are Dr. Stevie Erickson, head of the home economics department; Miss Ethel L. Parker, head of the home economics education department; Miss Ronella Spickard and Miss Leona Rider, professors of home economics education; Mrs. Helen Randle, supervising teacher of home economics at the University training school; Mrs. Margaret Byrn Ward and Miss Thelma Monahan, supervising teachers of home economics at Lafayette school; and Miss Frances Brown, supervising teacher of home economics at Bryan Station school.

The conference, which will be held in Mammoth Cave hotel today and Saturday, will be led by Miss Helen Horn, regional agent in States Office of Education in Washington. The group will evaluate the teacher education of home economics.

Farmers To Raise Output Of Food--And Peanuts

Cooper Shows Need Of Providing Food For Nation, Allies

Just as important as production of airplanes, guns, tanks and ammunition, the nationwide campaign to increase American food stocks was given a strong boost at a conference held at the University Wednesday.

Under plans made at the meeting quotas of production will be assigned each county in the state and every farmer in Kentucky will be contacted personally before December 1 in an effort to boom the state's output of essential foodstuffs.

In pointing out the necessity of such a program, Dr. Thomas P. Cooper, dean of the College of Agriculture, declared the United States was in the world struggle to the finish.

"To win a war it takes a food and lots of it," he said. "Our country must provide food not only for its own people but also for Great Britain, Russia and perhaps in the end for some of the countries now under the shadow of Hitlerism."

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN
The Kentucky program is part of a nationwide campaign directed by the Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard in an attempt to set a new record for food production. Each state has been given a quota of production, and the program is being carried out by the Department of Agriculture, including the Extension Service, and Farm Security Administration, the

Donovan To Inspect Engineering College

President Herman L. Donovan will inspect the College of Engineering at 10 a.m. today to see the college in its "working clothes."

The inspection will include all departments of the engineering faculty, the entire student body of the college, all laboratory and other equipment within the college and all college buildings.

The president will be invited to inspect in detail any item or subject which may attract his attention and interest and to question at length concerning these.

Head of each department, with his staff and senior students, will plan the details of inspection within his department and station and arrange staff members and qualified students accordingly.

Pershing Rifles Company 'C' Is 'Best Close Order Drill Team'

Crack Drill Unit Has Won Ten Out Of 11 Meets

Pershing Rifles' What is it? Who are they? What do they do? When were they organized? What are the requirements of membership in this organization? These are a few of the questions freshman ROTC cadets are asking now that Co. C First Regiment of Pershing Rifles has announced that troops for new members will begin at 5 p.m. Monday.

Pershing Rifles is a national honorary military fraternity for basic members of ROTC courses in colleges and universities throughout the nation. The first unit, known as the "Varsity Rifles," was formed on the campus of the University of Nebraska in 1891 by General John J. Pershing, then a second lieutenant on active duty as an ROTC instructor at that school.

This unit was formed to promote a greater interest among the students toward military science and training through excellence in all ROTC work. The top of men picked for their general interest in the study of military science and excellence at drill. This unit was made into a separate company. A drill team was selected from it which won the national drill competition at Omaha in that year.

ORGANIZED IN 1890
The University's unit of this organization Company C won its first regimental drill competition, four consecutive years following this C-11 carried off first place, losing its first and only competitive drill in 1938 when it placed second on Ohio State.

This claim is based on the drill record of the company which reads 10 wins in 11 starts, and on a statement made by General John J. Pershing, lauding the 1935 team which he saw in competition drill here. When he presented the winners' trophy to the captain of the victorious Kentucky team he said to the audience, "This is the best close order drill team that I have ever seen in competition drills in this country." It is true that this statement was made about a team that has since come into all walks of life, but every year new members drill toward this same degree of perfection.

This year's officers are: Captain Albert J. Spare, Covington; First Lieutenant Robert Pavia, Newport; Second Lieut. Cecil P. Taylor, Beaver Dam; and second lieutenant, William D. Maxcedo, Lexington. Major John E. Brannan is the unit's faculty adviser.

The company does not confine its activities only to the drill field, although one might think so from the fact that members and candidates drill three hours each week, 5 to 6 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of each week from October to May. Social functions of the outfit include one of the big dances of the year, the Pershing Rifles ball, the captains' dinner and dance each spring, pledge parties and smokers, and an overnight initiation camp on the Kentucky river.

QUALIFICATIONS
Qualifications for membership are simple. First the candidate must be a student in the first year basic course of the ROTC; second, he must show an interest in the study of military science; third, he must exhibit a natural ability for close order drill; fourth, he must be willing to devote three hours to drill each week in addition to his regular military classes. The scholastic standing requirements for this or other organizations stands at an 'C'.

fact that such matters are entirely dependent on their own discretion. The Union board can hardly entice name bands to the campus with the promise of a tour of the Bluegrass area, a bit of old Kentucky hospitality. Money is still an important commodity; a large crowd at the Lunceford dance may bring some outstanding bands such as Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey, or Artie Shaw to the spring formal.

Ticket sales for the dance are now in progress. Sales are in charge of one representative of each fraternity; three salesmen for the men's dorms and seven persons for sales to townpeople and commuters. Tickets may also be purchased at the Union information desk. Price of the advance tickets are $1.25 plus a federal tax of 10 cents, totaling $1.35. The dance will be a semi-formal affair.

The Long Voyage Home

Censorship: Last Resort Of American Warbugs

To the Editor of the Kernel:
It took me as though a reply to the recent article of Mr. Baker's on Curbing the "Peace-at-any-Price" advocates was in order. Here is another shining example of the intolerance which I deplored in an earlier letter.

Or, if the proponents of the abolition of free speech are not any clearer in their thinking than Mr. Baker, we don't have much to worry about. Mr. Baker's in the second paragraph. It is not the ideas themselves and their mere expression that is so dangerous but it is the fact that the men who . . . express them endeavor to force their theories on the masses as . . . facts. Then in paragraph five we read, "It has been proved time and time again that the American people are sensible, discerning, and individualistic."

If the second statement is true, then where does the danger lie? Even if the "isolationists" were deluded by "clever and subtle tonalities propaganda," can not the American people be trusted to discern if Mr. Baker says he thinks they can, but let's suppress it anyway.

Could it be possible that this is the "isolationist" policy of disliking of all who think of their own country first and others second, is the last resort of the warbugs?

Before the entry of the U.S.S.R. into the current struggle, they could put forth the plea for a "Holy Crusade" against these two evils, Fascism and Communism.

Sign 'Em Please
The Kernel is always glad to receive letters from readers on any subject, whether of campus interest alone or concerning affairs of the "outside world." All letters received will be printed, provided, of course, that they contain no libelous or injurious matter.

Only restriction placed on letters is this: they must be signed. This is necessary for the protection of The Kernel, and no unsigned letters will be printed. However, if the writer wishes, his name will not be published.

Out Of The Type
From our utterly inconsequential department: It seems that a Poly Tech student is being super-saturated after last Friday's party, were driving like mad across the "Shoopy," said Arnie Holland '43, "fumbling his words," (do forget to turn out to pass this trolley that's coming down the road at . . .")

Fanatic Phonetics On BMOC's

There is a race of student here we call BMOC. As yet they have not become segregated from the masses, for the school year is not yet far enough gone.

BMOC means "Big Man on the Campus," and before November blows out there will be plenty of them blowing out and you will be able to recognize them by their pouter pigeon chests and brusque voices and we'll not go into that.

It's, I'm told, a hard life trying to become and stay a BMOC. You work all day and stay up half the night smoking endless cigarettes and drinking hot coffee and you always have to look bright and fresh and well-groomed and always must be gracious and good-tempered despite all this.

We won't squabble over the worth of being or not being a BMOC. It may or may not be a good thing, although I think statistics prove that about as many and not any more BMOC's get ahead in after life as the ordinary students.

Neither can we give you a set and definite formula which will enable you to become one of these vaulted creatures. We've never found it out ourselves.

The best we can do here is to give you aspirins to the honors the case histories of four already-arrived, covering we would guess, the four major fields through which one might reach the grand and giddy heights.

They are athletics, journalism, club-work, and social stardom. We give them to you now because it is early in the year and because therefore you can't get us shot by pinning them onto names.

Because we are in a whimsical mood we give you the cases in poetical form.

He's On A Troopship Now
To the minor ironies of the national defense effort add this:
Former Kernel columnist Allen E. Winer, writer of many articles of pacifist slant, non-interventionist, and anti-militarist is now serving as a radio operator on board the United States troopship Edmund Alexander—a nice, juicy target for a torpedo," according to a letter received here recently.

Winer, who was drafted early this summer, received special training at the Signal Corps Replacement Center, Fort Monmouth, N. J., and was assigned to troopship duty on completion of his training course.

"I only work when sailing, and when in dock I'm given an automatic thorough," the former columnist says in the letter. "Aboard ship I have pacifist quarters and am addressed as 'Sir'—I don't know why—but still I draw a base pay."

The only catch to radio operator's duty, says Winer, is this: Next to the captain, the radio man is the last to leave a sinking ship.

According to a letter received earlier this year, Winer will write an article or two for The Kernel about his experiences in training and on active duty.

If sent overseas, Winer will be the third UK man known to be in foreign service. Champ Logan, a Lieutenant in the Marine Corps, is on duty in Iceland, and James Smeed, former ROTC instructor, is on duty in Hawaii.

Writer Blames Tradition Flop On Editorials In The Kernel

To the Editor of The Kernel:
I think the answer to the "Disillusioned Freshmen" lies in the policy of the last issue, because of the stigma of "sadism and brutality" placed upon it by The Kernel.

It is true, then, that we can feel one way about the sophomore class, but we will not indulge in the more vicious and brutal practices generally associated with Hell Week. If this should come about, there, we see Thank God, and the failure of a minor tradition is a cheap price to pay.

Of course, the freshmen cap trip was not due to the cause assigned by the letter writer but to a general apathy on the part of all upperclassmen, freshmen and seniors, as well as sophomores, and independents (who form two-thirds of the student body, as well as fraternities men).

Question: If you didn't attend the University of Kentucky, what school would you go to and why?

Elton Palmore, A & S senior—"Waller, because it's one of the best known girls' schools in the country."

Charles Dewitt, Commerce sophomore—"Furdman university. I'm majoring in advertising and they have one of the best departments in the country."

Joe Bohann, A & S junior—"I'd have gone to Massachusetts State because it's the seat of Smith and Mount Holyoke."

Newt Bardwell, Agriculture junior—"I wouldn't go anywhere. Kentucky 'der allies!'"

Charles Schenker, Graduate—"Minnesota, because of its high scholastic standing, especially in chemistry."

Irene Cole, Education junior—"I'd go to the University of Alabama because it's warmer down there."

Betty Rose, A & S senior—"Stu-arts. I think it offers an unusual variety of courses."

To the Editor of The Kernel:
The article by Bob Baker in The Kernel recently suggested a lot like it could have been written in Oberlin or in the States. The idea of stunting up good Americans who only want to exercise their right of free speech is disgusting.

Now, I certainly do not agree with the isolationists but I certainly do agree with anyone who wants them to have their say and get it over with.

It seems to me that the moral of the United States must be in awful shape if the huddings of such a small minority can upset it to any degree bad enough to hurt the defense program.

I think it was Voltaire who said, "I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it."

Juke-Box Concerto

From Swardmore to Swish this week the nickels were popping into the juke-boxes in college five-joints and the slightly souped up strains of Tschaiikovski's Piano Concerto in B Flat Minor were coming out.

College record-players were perking up their ears, for here was a piece that had something.

And at this point habitues of the University's Carnegie Music room had a chuckle coming, for they had been listening to the concerto, now approaching "hit tune" status, for years in an even better arrangement and better recording than the current discs.

Just the same way, they had a chuckle coming when popular music lovers were raving over the hit "Our Love," which came straight from Tschaiikovski's "Romeo and Juliet Overture," and "Moon Love," from the second movement of his Fifth Symphony.

And the thing of it is that the originals of the popular tunes are a hundred times more listenable, pack a hundred times more wallop than the second rate imitations. That's why regular listeners in the Carnegie Music room can play the concerto or any of the other pieces time and time again, and never grow tired of them, as most listeners will soon grow toward the jazzed up versions.

Now, no one would contend that all the classical music on records in the Carnegie room is enjoyable to the novice listener, because some of it is technical and with scant melody. But it would be hard to find a student at the University who wouldn't really enjoy any of the Tschaiikovski symphonies and concertos, the popular Scherzando Suite by Rimsky-Korsikov, the tin-pan banging work of Stravinsky, the well-known Strauss waltzes.

First time listeners would soon recognize strains which have been rehearsed into popular songs and passages which would make them wonder why they hadn't been taken up already.

Right there in the Union building, filled with soft chairs and comfortable couches, is the room where they can hear in the original pieces which before long will be demoted to top-shelf hits.

And besides, you don't have to keep putting a nickel in the machine.

Of The People . . .
By The People . . .
Someone might make an interesting observation on the American government as seen through the eyes of the citizens, in view of the results of a Gallup Poll this summer.

On the question: "If the United States does enter the war against Germany and Italy, do you think we should send our army to Europe to fight before the war is over?" 17 per cent of the people said yes.

Then, asked if they thought we would send an army, 65 per cent said they thought we would, anyway.

Question Of The Week: Are Husbands People?

CONFUSCHIA SAYS BY JOSEPHINE BELL
Of all the arguments raging in the world today over whether certain people are really people or something entirely different, one of the most important is that raging on the University of Kentucky campus today. Or, at least, that is to say, one or two campus brides, anyhow, would like to know.

Are husbands people?
An Alpha Gamma, recently married, was wondering the other day about the remarkable change which has come over her husband just since they have been married. She is unable to account for the fact that, whereas before they were married he was perfectly capable of getting himself ready to go some place, now he is, strangely enough, unable to find any of his clothing, fountain pen, car keys, etc.

And with special emphasis on the car keys, this same situation exists

There are two ways of meeting this situation.

ART LENDING LIBRARY TO OPEN

Students May Rent Originals, Copies

The picture-lending library sponsored by Students' Art club will re-open November 1, it was announced by Prof. Edmond W. Rannels, head of the art department.

The lending library operates on the same basis as a rental book collection; University students are permitted to borrow pictures in the collection and keep them in their own rooms for a month at a time, with privilege of renewal. A rental fee of ten cents per month will be charged, with an additional deposit of one dollar for students not living in the dormitories. The deposit will be refunded when the picture is returned.

The pictures available for loan may be seen in the gallery of the art department, Room 217, Biological Sciences building, and will be on display until the end of next week. After which time they may be taken out, although charges will not start until November 1.

The collection consists mainly of reproductions of the works of contemporary American artists, with a few original lithographs and drawings, and several works by Professor Rannels. All are framed under glass and are ready for hanging. The collection belongs to Professor Rannels, who has placed it under the administration of the Students' Art club.

Students desiring to rent the pictures should file their applications in person with the assistant on duty in the art library, it was announced. Applications should be made as soon as possible to insure securing the desired picture.

The lending project has been in operation on the campus for several years on a small scale, and the plan has proved successful in other schools, Professor Rannels said.

Musical To Be Seen

"Blossom Time" an operetta into which are woven twenty of Franz Schubert's melodies, will come to Woodland auditorium Saturday, November 1.

Termed by some critics "one of America's favorite operettas," "Blossom Time" is based on the musical biography of Schubert. Making his first appearance in 1921 in New York, the operetta is one of the few popular musical productions that has never been seen on the screen since its production, the Messers Shubert, have consistently refused to sell rights for motion picture purposes.

Ticket orders for "Blossom Time" may be mailed now to Miss Anna Chandler Goff, 441 West Second street or phone 638. Down town sales will begin at the Lafayette hotel on Monday, October 27. Prices of tickets are $1.20, $1.78, $2.35 and $2.95, plus tax.

Winter White, Pastel Wools To Be Smart Under Coats

By TONI

These brisk fall days have started us thinking seriously of new dresses to wear under our winter coats—fur or otherwise. With this thought in mind, we scoured the store bins and scanned fashion pages for clothes suitable and spirited.

Winter pastels in soft wools bloom everywhere, and you're sure to want a few muted yet glowing softies to wear alone now and under furs later. Aqua, blue, pink, gold, and beige are predominate this fall. Top honors go to aqua which ranges from almost gray to clear aquamarine.

Tucks, used in novel ways, are getting the spotlight as one of this year's most important style features. In one pastel woolen dress, tucks cover the shoulders like a yoke and large single tucks point out unpressed pleats at each side of the skirt. Another dress in grayed aqua wool is unrivaled except for a series of diagonal tucks over the ribs. In a gold wool and rayon frock, tucked bands repeat the yoke-line. Still another boasts a big neckline of circular tucks, the lines of which are echoed at the hips.

WINTER WHITE
Fashion again urges white dresses for autumn and winter. This is a movement started last year that may meet with more success when the public becomes reconciled to winter white. Looking at these cuties, we must admit that they are attention-getters for afternoon and informal evening wear. If you are one to cultivate the exciting and different, you might try one for variety in your wardrobe.

Many of the new whites are framed with tiny red felt posies, as on one white flannel dirndl seen with a high round neck, short sleeves, and red felt flowers on circle the hem of the full skirt. A pleated princess dress, also in white flannel, emphasizes its waist with two sprays of red felt blossoms joining each other at the waistline. Throughout our search for the intriguing, we encountered countless so-called "patriotic" or "symphonic" dresses decorated with "V for Victory." We have always been wary of clothes that incorporate current public sentiment or fact—it usually carries a date-line with it, and while the sentiment may be the finest, who wants clothes that can be traced to the date of purchase.

If you must wear your sympathies where they show, we suggest that you make small investments in lapel ornaments or other such cast-asideables, rather than larger investments in costumes that you will want to wear more than a few times. If you still need convincing, witness the Willie buttons and gadgetry.

PEPLUMS
Softness and simple lines are evidenced in the new dressier rayon and acetate dresses. Peplums that are almost tunics seem to have the ruling hand among the smarter frocks. Tiny pleats entirely cover the top of one model, ending in a peplum which falls below the hips. With the exception of the pleats, it is severely simple with a high neck, soft shoulders, and straight skirt.

Drapery is used in a similar model that is banded with grosgrain punctuated with three rhinestone buttons at each shoulder. Feather pleating on another rayon crepe is effectively used to emphasize the shoulder and hipline while still another uses soft shirring for the same purpose.

Because of their simplicity, this season's clothes are perfect foils for jewelry, save your pennies and invest in a few really good pieces of costume jewelry. When you're shopping for pieces to be worn with your woolen dresses, consider leather, wood and hammered silver.

The Sporting Way

BY JOHNNY CARRICO

A week ago we pointed out that, with the Vanderbilt game, Kentucky stood at the crossroads of their season. When the gun sounded, ending the third quarter of the Vandy affair, it was clear to all and sundry that Kentucky had taken the wrong turn. If the Wildcats had beaten Vandy, they might have gone on to their most successful season of the Kirwan regime. Since they lost, the scholarly one must anticipate a good season about as much as Joe Stalin expects the paperhanger to give up and go back to his old trade. From now on out, it's going to be tough, what with Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia Tech, and Xavier all on the hunt for the Wildcat.

Tomorrow Wildcat and Musketeer meet at Cincinnati, with the Wildcat entering as the underdog for the second consecutive Saturday. Xavier is reputed to have its best eleven in years, having knocked off 4 teams to date by comparatively top-heavy scores. Most of the Musketeer success is credited to the 7-formation employed by the Xavier eleven, but, offhand, we'd say it was due more to the team's schedule.

The Musketeers created a mild furor in their opening game by spotting Georgetown (and Kentucky) a touchdown and then whipping them 24-6. Butler was taken 40-0 and St. Vincent and John Carroll followed in short order.

Kecky is Xavier's big game. The Muskies point for Kentucky as hard as the Wildcats prep for Tennessee. They make it their homecoming game; they celebrate more over a Kentucky defeat than any other. A Xavier triumph is so rare that they have beaten the Wildcats only one time in the six meetings—in 1938, Ab Kirwan's first year.

On paper the Xavier men have the edge but actually the teams are about evenly matched. Heretofore, when teams are about equal, sentimentality would lead to a choice of Kentucky. They're rulling the sentimentality out and still choosing Kentucky. The Wildcats are due to rebound from the Vanderbilt debacle and Xavier appears to be a good team at whose expense they can improve their stock.

So even with the 7-formation and Chet Mutryn, who passes either right- or left-handed, we think that the Musketeers are in for their first defeat next Saturday.

Hangover from the Vandy game—Vanderbilt has a rough, tough ball club that will cause a lot of trouble—and probably leave a red trail of broken noses, skulls, and various other parts of the human anatomy, all over the South. For truly, knocking Vanderbilt was a combination of pugilism and voluntary manslaughter.

Kentucky claims no crown for lily-white laying but alongside Vanderbilt the Wildcats are still lugging along in the amateur class. Incidentally, there are five reasons why Kentucky lost to Vanderbilt, according to our deductions. First, there is the talk (or rather, trade) that Kirwan delivered to his players in the dressing-room between the halves, in which we think Kirwan used poor psychology. Secondly, a faulty method of substitution was used (Kirwan, of course, has his own reasons for his method, and he may be right). Thirdly, the Kentucky tackles aren't as strong as previously supposed. They were moved out and trodden over unmercifully.

In the fourth place, the game was rough, and Vanderbilt out-roughed Kentucky. Included in this category was the poor officiating, particularly that of the umpire, "Pook's" Clement.

And lastly, Vanderbilt had a good ball club which was not upset by bad breaks and never knew when they were beaten.

Baptist Paper Gives Church, Union News

The Kentucky Baptist, published four or five times during the semester by the Baptist Student Union, gives church and union news to the Baptist students in the University, neighboring schools, and to Lexington student nurses.

The paper is edited by Randall Mitchell of Paducah. Other staff members are Glenn Sellers of Stearns, and Lucille Stanley of the Good Samaritan hospital. The advisers are Margaret Johnson of Lexington and Cell Lea, assistant pastor of a downtown church. The paper is a member of the Baptist Student Union Press association.

Now going into its second year of publication, the Kentucky Baptist is exchanged for the papers of other Baptist student unions in 12 Kentucky colleges and universities. In this manner Baptist news of importance is circulated throughout the state.

Discussions To Begin

The YMCA-sponsored weekly discussion groups held by fraternities, dormitories and rooming houses will begin Wednesday and continue for six weeks.

Religious topics will be discussed by applications for present day youth. Each group will be led by a faculty member or a downtown minister.

DUFFY IS THIRD IN JUDGING RING

Team Is Seventh Among 24 Entered

Thomas Duffy, agriculture senior, and a member of the University dairy cattle judging team, ranked third in the individual ratings at the annual national dairy show held in Memphis, Tenn., this week. Seventy-two contestants took part in the individual judging.

The University team, consisting of Duffy, Don Kells, Williamstown; Cyril Lockett, Marion county; and Elmer Hixson, Scott county, were rated seventh among the 24 state teams competing in the judging of all breeds of cattle.

Each individual contestant judged 15 rings of cattle before an audience of more than 2,000 persons.

Dr. Fordyce Ely, head of the dairy department of the agriculture college, who accompanied the team, emphasized the fact that the rating received by the team was the result of an unusual set-up, the product of classroom learning participating in inter-collegiate competition.

Other ratings won by Kentucky members included fourth place in judging of Holstein cattle; sixth place in judging of Brown Swiss cattle; eleventh place, Guernsey cattle and Jersey; and fifteenth place in judging Ayrshires.

The first seven teams in the national showing were Iowa, Texas A & M, Kansas State, University of Nebraska, Oklahoma A & M, University of Georgia, and Kentucky.

Other agricultural colleges represented in the fair included Penn State, Michigan State, Virginia, Ohio, University of Illinois, Univer-

Net Prospects Are Rosy As Nine Lettermen Return

Rigorous Schedule Is Faced By Cats; First Drills Stated

Although king football is just beginning to reach the height of its reign, Coach Adolph Rupp and his Wildcat basketballers are preparing to inaugurate practice Monday for a campaign that will see them strive to win their third Southeastern Conference crown in four years.

Coach Rupp, who at present doing grand jury service, said that the Big Blue will have a "good" team this year, and only a glance at his record during the last decade is needed to let Wildcat fans know what to expect.

Barring the reappearance of an influenza epidemic, which has been an unscheduled opponent for the past two years, every position should be well stocked with capable players. The Cats will have practically the same men who carried the burden throughout most of last season, in addition to performers from last year's freshman and "lost battalion" squads.

TWO LOST

Two men were lost from the team that battled its way to the finals of the Southeastern conference tournament at Louisville, only to drop a heartbreaking 36-33 decision to Tennessee Volunteers. They are Lee Huber and Keith Parsley.

Both Huber and Parsley gave sterling performances in the conference tournament, but neither saw a great deal of service during the regular campaign. Huber was out due to illness, while Parsley failed to hit the stride he had maintained during sophomore and junior years.

The forward positions will be manned by four returning lettermen. They are Walter White, Lloyd Ramsey, Ernal Allen, and Milt Tico, all of whom have seen heavy duty. Tico was out through the latter part of last season with an injury which laid him low after he had led the Cat scoring during the early season, including a sensational 36-point scoring spree against the Xavier or Musketeers. The forward ranks will be augmented by Splane and Eisborn, promising members of last year's "lost battalion."

Fighting it out for the center posts will be Jim King and Mel Brewer, who alternated at that spot last season. King's tournament performance raked him a spot on the all-conference team at Louisville while Brewer will provide the team with height, his six-foot, five inches giving him top rating in that department. Moving up from the freshmen ranks are Weber and Lander, both of whom turned in several high-scoring performances for the Kittens.

GUARDS WELL-MANNED

Holding down the guard spots will probably be Captain Carl Staker and Marvin Akers. Akers performed his sentinel duties so well last year that he merited a slot on the all-conference aggregation, with his uncanny longshots keeping the Cats in the midst of the firing in many a game. They can count on plenty of assistance from England, a veteran, and Boehler and Bach, promising sophomores.

The Cats, according to their mentor, will be facing probably the toughest schedule drawn up in recent years. However, unlike last year which called for a lot of traveling, no extended trips are in the offing. Newcomers on the card are Ohio State, Texas A & M, Georgia, and Washington and Lee. This year Ohio State will be met in Columbus, with a return engagement set for next year in Lexington. Nebraska's Cornhuskers will also appear here in an early season return engagement. # 'Tamed' Wildcats To Meet Yet-Unbeaten Musketeers

GAME WILL BE HOMECOMING
Score In Series Is Xavier One, Kentucky Six

By HAROLD WINN
 Kentucky's Wildcats, tamed last week by a Commodore destroyer, yesterday went silently but methodically about their business of preparing to meet a bunch of Musketeers from Xavier who haven't been beaten in four starts this year.

opening kickoff is scheduled for 2:30 p. m. at Corcoran field. Xavier will be gunning for its second win in the seven-game series.

"They want to win this game more than any other during the season and I'm afraid they're ready for us," was Coach Kirwan's comment on tomorrow's game.

Only once have the blue and white gridirers of Coach Clem Crowe beaten Kentucky and that was back in 1938 when the Wildcats won only two games for Kirwan during his first season as coach.

RIDES HIGH
 But this year, Xavier is riding on top of the Ohio college football heap after four straight wins. With the Kentucky game slated as homecoming, the Musketeers will be ready to beat the Cat pelt with a rapier-like attack.

While Kentucky was absorbing a beating from Yandy last week, the Musketeers were running roughshod over John Carroll university, previously unbeaten and unscathed on, by 25-0. The regulars played only in the first half and scored all the touchdowns.

Confident that his team will score, Coach Crowe is taking no chances of losing by an extra point. Chet Mutyryn, star Xavier back, has spent a good deal of the practice sessions this week practicing placement kicks.

Passing has also been stressed in the Musketeer camp. Kentucky's line, before it went to pieces in the Vandy game, was airtight and the

 Will be seeking his second win in seven attempts against the Big Blue.

Xavier mentor spent the Tuesday practice session on an aerial attack.

KENTUCKY DEFENSE
 Kentucky's afternoons this week have been spent mainly on defense. The Z club, interpreting X's formations, worked against the varsity Wednesday. Coach Kirwan has added half an hour to the workouts this week.

Don Boehler and Bill Portwood, injured in last week's game, are not expected to see action. Boehler was but recently released from the hospital and Portwood hasn't fully recovered yet. Herbert and Kinser also are nursing injuries and are not expected to start the game.

Coach Kirwan said that Harry Taylor would probably start in Portwood's place and Claude Hammond would be the fullback spot in place of Herbert or Kinser.

Alan Parr, injured in the Washington and Lee game, will be back in the Wildcat lineup tomorrow and the rest of the squad will be in top shape.

FINAL WORKOUT
 Kentucky will have its final workout today on Stoll field and will leave Alumni gym around 7 o'clock tonight for Cincinnati. The team will make its headquarters at the Neerland Plaza hotel.

Xavier's offensive operates from the famous T-formation. Coach Crowe is planning to use Stan Esne, full sophomore end, to improve the passing attack. Dr. Litkenhous rates the Xavier team nine points better than Kentucky.

Advance ticket sales for the game indicate that a capacity crowd will be on hand. A homecoming celebration for Xavier alumni will be held between halves.

Reserve seat tickets for the game will be $2.20 and general admission $1.10.

The probable lineup for the game:

|         |    |            |        |
|---------|----|------------|--------|
| Kirwan  | LE | Novensberg | Xavier |
| Taylor  | LT | Margenthal | Xavier |
| Boehler | LO | Washer     | Xavier |
| Walker  | C  | Whelan     | Xavier |
| Colvin  | RG | Mastin     | Xavier |
| Wood    | RT | Arai       | Xavier |
| Parr    | RE | Esne       | Xavier |
| Zinn    | QB | Laville    | Xavier |
| Allen   | HB | Maury      | Xavier |
| Mollins | HB | Hammer     | Xavier |
| Hammond | PB | Gilmartin  | Xavier |

Picture-Taking For Kentuckian To End Today

Picture-taking for the Kentuckian will be concluded today in the basement of Memorial hall. Juniors, seniors and members of organizations who are to appear in the Kentuckian and have not had their picture taken as yet are to do so today.

Educators To Speak

Dr. W. S. Taylor, dean of the College of Education, and Dr. L. E. Meece, assistant director of the University Bureau of School Service, will speak before groups on the proposed constitutional amendment concerning the distribution of state school funds.

Dr. Taylor will speak before the Parent-Teachers association of Kenwick school tonight at 7:30.

Dr. Meece will speak before a meeting of the Middle Cumberland Education association in Somerset.

Sports Whirl

By WINDY
 As more and more of the Kentucky-Vanderbilt game comes to light, we've decided that the Commodores didn't have a power team, but were just a bunch of fakers.

Uncle Mike Jacobs could have done a whale of a job of promotion for some of the punching that came off during the game and those box seats would have gone for fifteen bucks a throw as ringsters.

One story says that Sam Huillet was smacked on the kisser by a round-house right and when he appealed to an official that barely ducked in time himself, the great "arbitrator" said, "Yeah, I saw it, but I don't call them on the Kick off."

If the V in Vanderbilt stood for victory last week, the M in Musketeers this week stands for Chet Mutyryn. He scored two Xavier touchdowns last week and is dangerous in any language.

To Attend Conference

Dr. Casrie Hammonds, head of the agricultural education department, and W. R. Tabb, instructor in agricultural education, will lead the conference for teachers of agriculture of the south central district today and Saturday, at Small hall, Western State Teachers college, Bowling Green.
