Commencement Time Brings Many "Ole Grads" Back to Visit University Campus

Classes Whose Numbers End in "1" and "6" and Class of 1929 Will "Reune"—Many Others Plan to Be in Attendance

By DR. G. D. BUCKNER
Ex-President Alumni Association

About this time last year I wrote to several of my friends who were alumni of the University of Kentucky and suggested that it might not only be pleasant but interesting in many ways to them if they would return to the University of Kentucky campus about the first of June and attend the Alumni class reunions and commencement which were to be held at that time. The answers I received in reply to these letters were indeed very interesting to me. Each contained a statement to the effect that they had been away from the University campus so long and their interest had been directed into so many other channels, that they felt a return to the campus would be but to find a changed place and no one would remember them.

One friend regretted that he would be unable to meet "Bill" Bradley with his white apron at his old corner. He seemed to feel that the connecting link between himself and the University was our old friend "Billy" Bradley and that at least, as far as memories were concerned, this connection was of a somewhat liquid nature.

Another regretted that he could no longer find Joe Dicker in the "Shops." Another felt that the faculty had changed and that there remained but few of his old professors. Another even went so far as to say that he had with him at his home the dearest and most sacred connecting link between him and the University, since he had married a girl he had won while attending the University and that she was all that he needed to remind him of the old Maxwell Spring and the moonlight skating on the lake in the corner of the University, which exists no longer.

I replied to each of these letters and stated that what they said was true, that there had been changes and that there were few things to remind them of the campus of bygone years. I further stated that our opinions had changed or they must change to be in keeping with the growth of the University and the conditions which surround the life of the student of today, which really means the life of our children. In considering the University of Kentucky as it is today we must view it from a broader, more comprehensive, and impersonal standpoint. In a measure the University has lost the intimate nature of our college days, the campus has changed and has been beautified by a guiding hand which is worthy of our deepest respect and admiration. The systems of study to be found there today are those of another generation than that given to us in bygone years. We view this change with wonder and admiration and also we find that these programs are being directed by a President and faculty which are worthy of any institution.

To return to the University at commencement time is to find changed conditions. Many return, lured back by the desire to see the changes which have taken place and to investigate with interest the things as they are today and to measure their value with a view of determining whether they are the things that we want to enter into the collegiate life of our children. We renew old acquaintances and discuss college life as we knew it and we find that the changed conditions are great improvements and that we would be unable to secure better advantages for our children at other universities. Athletics which play such an interesting and important part in the life of the student of today are developing rapidly and are intelligently guided. The social life on the campus has also developed rapidly and is properly supervised.

Last year there were nearly 500 alumni of the University of Kentucky who returned to the campus at commencement and all felt well repaid for the effort and expense incurred. This year the Alumni Association of the University of Kentucky has made many plans for the class reunions which will be held about the first of June. Those classes whose numerals end in "1" and "6" and the class of 1929 will hold special class reunions. This does not mean that members of other classes are not expected to return. In fact every alumnus is expected and wanted. Special plans are being made which will appear in the next issue of this magazine and we anticipate a much larger number of alumni returning this year.

Mr. L. K. Frankel, president of the Alumni Association of the University of Kentucky, Mr. James Shropshire, our secretary, and the executive committee will affect local committees and organizations to cooperate with the class officers of the classes which will hold reunions. Letters of information will be sent out from time to time detailing the program of commencement and the class reunions. Mr. Frankel and his associates have given a great deal of time and consideration to the Alumni Association this year and we feel that they have made real progress in developing the spirit and purpose of our association and that it is due them, the university and yourselves, that you as alumni should return to the university this year as a mark of appreciation and encouragement to those who have given so freely of their time and talent in making these class reunions successful and in the development of a real Alumni Association.

We are sure that you will never regret coming back to the University for your class reunion and we are just as sure that you will regret it if you don't come. Not only will you be sorry if you are not among those present, but it will be a keen disappointment to your friends who will miss you. So write to us and tell us that you will be here "with bells on" for we are looking for you and expecting you.

MINUTES OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE
MEETING, APRIL 6, 1931

The officers and members of the Executive Committee of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association met at the home of Mr. Walter Hillenmeyer, where they were entertained at dinner. After dinner, President L. K. Frankel called the meeting to order. The following members were present:

L. K. Frankel, Wayland Rhoads, Dr. G. D. Buckner, Dr. G. H. Wilson, Miss Marguerite McLaughlin, Mrs. Rodes Estill, Col. W. C. Wilson, Walter Hillenmeyer, James Shropshire.

The nominating committees were asked for a report but it was decided to write to the chairman of each committee and ask him to send in a written report. The terms of office expire as follows:

1931—Wayland Rhoads, Lulie Logan.

1932—Dr. Geo. Wilson, Col. W. C. Wilson.

1933—Walter Hillenmeyer, Dr. C. E. Elliott.

There was a long discussion of commencement plans but nothing definite was decided upon as plans but nothing definite was decided upon as the date for class day has not been set. President Frankel and Doctor Buckner were to select a speaker for the alumni banquet and make all necessary arrangements.

The Secretary of the Association was authorized to send a wire to the Secretary of the Philadelphia club, in reference to their meeting on Tuesday, April 7.

The secretary is to find out when the Frankfort Alumni club will hold its next meeting and he is to notify all members of the Executive Committee and urge them to be present at this meeting.

Mr. Walter Hillenmeyer suggested that we furnish stationery for the various alumni clubs throughout the country. Nothing definite was decided.

It was agreed to appoint a committee to talk to the President of the University about a field secretary for the Alumni Association. President Frankel is to talk with President McVey before the meeting of the Legislative committee on April 20th and is to report to the Legislative Committee or to the Executive Committee in a call meeting as to the President's reaction to this suggestion. A long discussion as to the feasibility of this plan followed.

President Frankel asked the secretary to get out a letter to William Young, president of the senior class, asking him to meet with him on Saturday, April 11.

The motion was made by Doctor Buckner, seconded by Doctor Wilson, that all money collected from the Business Agent from classes giving money to the Association be put in a trust fund and spent only on the authority of two-thirds vote of the Executive Committee. Motion passed. It was also decided to put all money received from future life memberships in the trust fund.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

(Signed)

JAMES SHROPSHIRE,
Secretary.

CLEVELAND ALUMNI CLUB

The March meeting of the Cleveland Alumni club was held on March 21st at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gower, Shaker Heights. The meeting was well attended. Bridge and conversation were the main topics of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Bewlay, Akron, were at the meeting and reported on their recent motor trip to Florida and Havana.

The secretary reports the marriage of John J. Leman, '19, and Miss Ruth Winkler, which took place on January 28th, 1931. He says also that Mr. Edward W. Fitch, '24, is now living in Cleveland. He was formerly manager of the Bailey Meter Company's office in St. Louis, and is now a valued member of the automatic control department of the Bailey Meter Company.

The next meeting of the Cleveland Alumni club will be a dinner dance on April 18th, at the Allerton House. Many Cleveland and out-of-town Alumni are expected for plans indicate that the party will be a complete success.

STUDY GROUPING PROPOSED AT U. K.

A revision of group requirements for junior and senior students in the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Kentucky which will classify all subjects into four groups of studies was proposed at a meeting of the faculty of that college with Dean Paul P. Boyd.

Following a discussion of the proposed changes it was referred to a committee headed by Dean Boyd for further consideration and will be presented at the next faculty meeting for approval. If passed by this group, the plan will be submitted to the university senate for final action.

According to the plan, students must obtain for graduation 40 credits in any one of these fields. Of this number, 15 must be in the major subject selected. No minor subject will be required but students will be allowed to enroll outside their major field only in courses which are specifically designated as "related courses."

The four fields of study proposed are:
Languages, literatures and arts—Including ancient languages and literatures, art, English language and literature, German language and literature, journalism, music, romance languages and literatures.

Social sciences—Including anthropology, archaeology, commerce, economics, education, history, law, philosophy, political science, psychology and sociology.

Physical sciences—Including chemistry, engineering, geology, mathematics, astronomy, military science, and physics.

Biological sciences—Including anatomy, physiology, agriculture, bacteriology, botany, hygiene, public health, physical education, and zoology.

BEECHER ADAMS JOINS FARMER

Beecher Adams, well known local man and former student at the University of Kentucky, has joined the staff of the Farmer Motor Company, Studebaker dealer, 333 East Main street, as salesman.

While at the university, Mr. Adams was a popular student and a member of a number of leading organizations on the campus. He took an active part in student activities, particularly journalism.

A salesman of proven ability, Mr. Adams should work well with the Farmer Motor Company, the sales organization of which is comprised of some of the best automobile salesmen in the Bluegrass region.

WHAT DO YOU OWE?

THE question has presented itself a good many times lately, and we feel that it must be answered once and for all. The question is, "What do I owe the university?"

When we are called upon to contribute to some athletic fund, some building fund for a greater university, for an endowment to a student loan fund, invariably does the answer come back: the university is a state supported institution and we paid our fees while attending, hence we are not obligated in any way; all of this is true.

Have you been successful in life since leaving the university? Can any of your success be attributed to the education or training you received while a student? Your sixty dollar tuition a year was probably less than one-fifth the actual cost of your year's education, but, even greater than the dollar and cent idea is the one of service given you by those you were associated with, service rendered by the professors who have the student interest foremost in their minds. Should we not want to help extend this same opportunity to those that follow us along this path of education?

When we are asked to contribute not only a little money but a little time toward the school that mothered us, should we not do it as gladly as it was done for us?

AND NOW BASKETBALL

THE announcement has been made that spring basketball practice will be held this year at the university, the practice to be held for a period of only two weeks.

This request is not as an outrageous a one as when a man is asked to report for some six weeks or two months to train out of season for some sport, but would it not be better to let the boys themselves be the judges as to what they want to do in the case of the sports they love? If it were left to the boys themselves they would in all probability choose to practice and to practice often, but they could be the judge as to whether by so doing they were hurting their scholastic careers, and after all that is why they are here.

Let us have athletics for the love of the sporting instinct, for the love of play and not as a grind to be dreaded by the boys that make up the hard-wood and gridiron teams.

ANNUAL ELECTION

THE annual election of officers of the alumni association and the election of two members of the executive committee of the association will take place in the month of May. The time of election is a vital time in the yearly life of our alumni organization; it is the time during which the life of our organization is strengthened and alumni show the interest necessary to elect those to carry on a large program already well under way.

The officers who are retiring this year have carried on in great style the work begun by Dr. G. Davis Buckner, former president of the association and the founder at the University of Kentucky of the class reunion idea. Dr. Buckner pointed out the way, the officers who retire this year have made every effort to push that path farther along through the ranks of our alumni, and much credit is due them.

Our officers were given responsibility and accepted the challenge. This May, you fellow alumni will honor some one as president of the alumni association and the honored person's interest will be as great as that manifested by you.

Accept your responsibility and mail in your ballot. Help select those that will give to our association and our university the same time, interest and effort the officers of this year have done.

A FIELD SECRETARY

WOULD it be advantageous to the university and the alumni association if a field secretary were put to the task of contacting alumni and alumni clubs especially in the state? Such a plan has been suggested and while there has been no great development as a reaction to the suggestion, it has occurred to us that the alumni might welcome some such action on the part of our organization.

We are constantly driving at alumni some little message about what the university is doing or would like to do if it could obtain the necessary means, and to some the message gets across, but we feel that personal contact of a man thoroughly familiar with the university, its problems and ambitions, would bring the message in a much more presentable manner.

What do you think of the plan? Would you or your club be interested in hearing from the school in this way?

CAREY SPICER

CAREY SPICER NAMED COACH AT GEORGETOWN

Carey Spicer, Lexington, senior at the University of Kentucky, will succeed Chester C. Dillon as coach of Georgetown College, it was officially announced by William G. Nash, athletic director at Georgetown.

Prof. Nash announced at the same time that young Spicer will have one or more assistants at Georgetown. They will be named later, but it is understood that other seniors at the university are being considered for this post.

STATE HIGH SCHOOL TOURNAMENT

By ED CONBOY, Sports Editor, The Kernel

Amid the cheers of 4,000 persons assembled from all parts of the Commonwealth, DuPont Manual Training High school of Louisville won the thirteenth annual high school basketball tournament held March 19, 20, 21 in the university gymnasium. Manual defeated Tolu, class B champs 34-23 to win the title.

The tournament which climaxed high school basketball activities in Kentucky is held every year in Lexington under the sponsorship of the University of Kentucky Athletic Association. S. A. "Daddy" Boles, graduate manager of intercollegiate athletics, is the man who is instrumental in bringing the teams to the university to contest annually for the state crown.

Thirty-two teams, consisting of 16 boys' teams and 16 girls' teams entered the tourney. About 800 teams entered the first eliminations, the sectional tournaments. From the second elimination, the regionals, the teams which survived entered the state meet.

The teams came to Lexington Wednesday, March 18, and were guests of the alumni at the annual "pow-wow" banquet held in the Phoenix hotel. Speeches were made by the coaches of the university teams, and all "K" men were presented to the guests. Carey Spicer, captain and all-Southern forward, was toastmaster for the evening.

A basketball game between the U. K. Coaches and the Paris Independents featured the evening's entertainment after the banquet. Led by the great Pat Devereux, baseball coach; Harry Gamage, tackling football mentor, and Trainer Mann who hugged his way through the clinches beautifully, and other unique artists of the net game, the local mentors ran, forward passed and booted their way to a great victory in one of the funniest and most spectacular of all basketball games seen in these parts.

On Thursday morning the first rounds were run off. From the hills of the Cumberland mountains, there was little Carr Creek, known far and wide for its uncanny ability as hardwood experts. From western Kentucky, hailed little Blackford, known as the "Car Creek" of the tournament.

Car Creek had little to offer this year, and fell before Blackford, 25-19. The playing and good sportsmanship of Wallace, auburn-haired Blackford boy, featured this game. Stamper starred for the losers.

In the class A division, there was a great cast of teams. All were good teams. Covington, a new comer, Central City, Kavanaugh, Ashland, Manual, Benham, and Heath, were great fives, but only one could go to the finals against Tolu.

The two outstanding men in tournament play were the two guards, Hardin of Tolu, and Anderson of Covington. They were both fast and shifty and clever dribblers.

Manual defeated four teams to win the crown. She easily eliminated a crippled Heath five 36-22. Lady Luck favored the Louisville boys over a great Central City entry. The score was 18-17. In an overtime game, the Falls City lads defeated Covington 14-10.

Central City was not expected to furnish much opposition in the state race but placed a great team on the floor to defeat Benham, conquerors of Hazard. Central City won 30-19. Tolu, the sensation of last year's teams, defeated Blackford 32-13. They had little trouble in downing the western Kentucky team.

In the play-off of girls' teams. Woodburn, class B winners, outscored Ashland, 24-19, class A winners, to capture the state feminine title. Woodburn won over Mayslick, Slick Rock and Oddville. The game between the fair sex were for the most part more interesting and were better exhibitions of basketball skill. The little misses playing boys rules, displayed much accuracy in their shooting and exceptional grace.

ALUMNI NEWS

MANY ARE RETURNING FOR JUNE COMMENCEMENT

Early in the month of March the Alumni office at the university began formulating programs of entertainment, listing academic affairs, social events and what not for the coming graduating time, for the reunion time that is playing a most important role in our alumni activities at the university now, for the annual business meeting of the alumni association and the big alumni banquet that is held every June.

We are still arranging these plans, adding to them in most cases or making them more complete, doing all that we can to have everything in ship shape for your return, everything we can do to make your class reunion more enjoyable. We want you to go home from this commencement with the spirit of ON ON U. of K. kindled again in your heart so that old love will grow to greater flames for the university and those connected with it.

It seems to us as we write this article, trying in our efforts to stimulate your interest in your school that we are writing the same thing that we have been sending out at this time for years, yet, it is a good song and we like to sing it. We want you back to lend your support to the growing spirit of our alumni.

Two years ago when class reunions were inaugurated at the university and a place was made for returning alumni in the commencement parade, two marched, Dr. G. Davis Buckner and R. L. Kirk, then president and secretary, respectively, of the alumni association, representing the some five thousand graduates of this institution, but last year the story was different; there were several hundred here and it was indeed an encouraging sight both to the faculty and administration.

It was likewise a last session for the graduating senior that looked on as the line passed through their open ranks. It taught them that after graduation all the love and romance of their college life is not lost; it told them of the loyalty that they too, owed their Alma Mater; it made them realize even more than ever that they had really attained a high place in life, for old graduates had come back to honor them and the university that had graduated and given them the intellectual and cultural outlook on life in its true sense.

This year different classes are returning, and we are again expecting to welcome a larger number to the campus.

We have sent out one letter to the reunion classes and we are taking the liberty of printing two or three answers that we have received. You write us and plan to visit us in June.

I was in Lexington one day last fall and 'phoned your office, but believe you were out of town at the time.

OLD GRAD CONDUCTS EASTER CHORUS

Elbert DeCoursey, member of that famous university quartet of '24, directed the great chorus which sang at the sunrise service broadcast over the National Broadcasting Co. network at 6:30 a. m. (C.S.T.) on Easter Sunday. This service and the one held at the Hollywood Bowl mark the representative sunrise services from the east to the west coast of the U. S.

Dr. DeCoursey, now in the Medical Corps of the U. S. army, was a member of the local chapter of Delta Tau Delta. He was active in the band, choral clubs, and was president of the Glee club. Mrs. DeCoursey (nee Esther Fertig, '24) is a contralto in the chorus.

The U. S. Army band rendered several selections. Dr. Julian E. Yates, chief of the army chaplains delivered the sermon. Chaplain R. Earl Boyd was in charge of the program, and worked up a beautiful service, a feature of which was a Living Cross and a tableau depicting "The Empty Tomb." Over 10,000 people were present at this annual service in 1930, and twice that number this year.

The winner of the honor, which is awarded on a basis of scholarship, leadership, and character, was a member of the freshman football and basketball teams.

All tournament teams were allowed to remain in the city as guests of the university for the entire run-off of the games. Previous to this year, they were not given expenses after their school was eliminated. As a result, more than 300 boys and girls with their coaches remained in the city until the last day of the tournament race.

An unfortunate part of the basketball race this year for Kentucky high school youth is the abandonment of the Stagg Scholastic tournament in Chicago. Kentucky has won the national title twice and always presents formidable teams.

An all-state boys and girls high school team of eight players compiled by 15 leading sports writers of the state include the following with the votes they received:

Boys—Crume, Betsy Lane (6); Judy, Manual (7); McGann, Ashland (5), forwards; Borries, Kavanaugh (12), and Marquellan, Manual (10), centers; Anderson, Covington (13); Hardin, Tolu (13), and Hickman, Central City (9), guards.

Girls—Young, Ashland (14), D. Chaney, Woodburn (14), and W. McFarland, Jamestown, forwards; Patterson, Horse Cave (13), and Chapman, Woodburn (9), centers; VanHook, Oddville (8); W. Chaney, Woodburn (8), and Bays, Hazard (7), guards.

BIRTH OF TWINS ANNOUNCED

Announcements have been received here for the birth of twins to Mr. and Mrs. Emil W. Johnson, of Lynn, Mass., on March 17.

Both parents were graduated from the university in 1930 where Mr. Johnson was a major in chemistry. Mrs. Johnson before her marriage was Miss Margaret Allen.
