Approximately 120 Undergraduate And Graduate Students to Receive Diplomas At The Summer Commencement

Services At 7:30 P.M., August 24 In Memorial Hall Amphitheater,

the registrar's office announced. Dr. Ellis Adams Fuller, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, will give the commencement address, and the invocation and benediction will be pronounced by Dr. William Clayton Bower, professor emeritus of religious education at the University of Chicago, now of Lexington. Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of the University, will present the diplomas.

This year marks the first time a summer commencement has been held since the beginning of the war made the holding of this ceremony impractical.

Grades and results of senior comprehensive examinations must be in the registrar's office by 9 a.m. Monday, August 20, the registrar's office announced. Correspondence courses must be completed by graduate students by August 18.

University Students Attending Meetings

under the Lanforth fellowships this summer include two juniors, Rebecca Lowe, Paducah, and Asa Owsall, Lewisburg, who are attending two-week meetings at the reunion during the summer, and then going on to two-week leadership camps at Camp Miniwanka, Shelby, Michigan.

Nell Bogie, Houstonville, and George Campbell, Franklin, each spent two weeks at Camp Miniwanka in the Freshman leadership groups.

These fellowships are granted through the College of Agriculture on a basis of excellence in scholarship and on a definite promise of future leadership.

The various groups meetings extend through July and August.

Donald Irvine

instructor in the English department, who resigned his post on the University staff recently, will go to New York to work on his Ph. D. degree at New York University.

'Out Of The Blue' Will Be Presented During The Week

Dr. C. C. Carpenter, Who Has Been On

leave from the University since April, 1943, resigned his post as district price executive of the Lexington district Office of Price Administration, announced E. Reed Wilson, district director.

Dr. Carpenter plans to resume his work as professor of economics at the beginning of the fall quarter. Before joining the OPA staff, he taught courses in business administration and economics.

Previously a professor of economics at Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., Carpenter went to Washington, D. C., in the summer of 1941 to serve as business economist in the OPA and Civilian Supply.

of August 13 at Guignol theater. The play, a musical comedy about life in Kentucky, was written by a Lexington resident and the songs were composed by Mr. Maury Madison, Lexington.

The play was built around the compositions of Mr. Madison, which were introduced in France before the war by the famous Dolly sisters.

The set of the play was built entirely by Henry Foushee and the antique furniture was loaned to Guignol by Lexington residents.

The time for the performance is 8:30 p.m. and admission is $1.50. Proceeds of the show will go for the rehabilitation of returning veterans.

Members of the cast are Lucille Little, former student of Frank La Forge, Jewell Doyle, Margaret McCorkle, Ed Mills, Johnny Renfro, Robert Wright, Evelyn Bennett, Larry Snedegar, and Jesse Sun.

L. J. Horlacher

assistant dean in resident teaching in the College of Agriculture, will attend the state encampment of the Kentucky chapters of the Future Farmers of America in Hardinsburg.

'Your Place In The Post War World'

the new University publication, is off the press, and copies are available upon request to the office of the director of public relations.

This book "may be considered a sampling of the courses the University is offering and which bear a close relation to the needs and discoveries evolving from the war. . . . These courses represent but a small portion of the total curricula available at the University," states the foreword.

A Two-Hour Film

in technicolor of the North Country will be presented tonight at Memorial hall by Jack Lamb, internationally famous sportsman. Lamb is the narrator for the film which shows wild Alaskan scenery, rivers full of fish, bears, caribou, bighorn sheep and wild birds.

The show will be free to the public.

Proposed Post-War Compulsory Training

will be discussed by four University students with Dr. Hobart Ryland, head of the romance languages department, on the University Round Table program as 12 p.m. Sunday over WHAS.

James Hisle, senior in engineering, Maureen Taylor, senior majoring in German, and Casey Goman, junior in journalism, will take the positive side of the question, and Ed Bary, junior with a topical major in religion, will defend the negative.

Three Squad Members Have Been Selected

to play in the West Virginia All-Star football game August 17 at Charleston, W. Va., according to word received by Coach Bernie A. Shively.

The boys, Jimmy Barnett, full-back, Huntington, W. Va., Ike Weaver, quarterback, and Dick Hensley, end, both of Williamson, W. Va., attended the first term of summer school, and will return to Lexington for fall football practice around September 1.

Weaver and Hensley, as members of the 1944 West Virginia state championship football team at Williamson, formed a famous passing combination in high school, with Weaver flinging and six-foot, four-inch Hensley catching.

The Importance And Meaning Of The Church

will be included in the Baptist student discussion to be held at the home of Libby Landrum, president of the BSU, Saturday night. The group will leave from the steps of the Union at 7:15. Rev. Othar O. Smith, Baptist student secretary, will lead the discussion.

Three New Staff Members Will Join Department Of

by Dr. M. M. White, personnel director.

Dr. P. L. Mellenbruch, formerly of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, has been appointed an associate professor. He has published a mechanical aptitude test. Mellenbruch, whose specialty is the testing field, has had experience working with juvenile courts and with the paper industry in the personnel departments.

Dr. H. H. Humphries, formerly of Michigan State College, has been appointed assistant professor. Humphries, who will teach child psychology, received his Ph.D. from the University of Kansas.

Dr. A. D. Warren, who has been doing research for the School of Business, Harvard University, for the last two years, has been named an assistant professor in experimental psychology.

The 1945-46 UK Catalogue Is Available

in the registrar's office upon request. This catalogue, just off the press, contains general information to the student concerning curricula, faculty, and degree requirements. A general information bulletin is also available, designed to answer specific questions concerning the University. Also available is the Graduate School bulletin.

Prof. E. T. Wightman

assistant professor of poultry at the University, has been invited to teach in the Army schools in France.

makeup, and strictly on the experimental side as far as The Kernel staff is concerned. It looked interesting, and we thought we'd try it, but we thought we better tell you what this innovation is all about.

A Collection Of Godey's Ladies Books In The Library Prove That 19th Century Women Weren't Without Advice

on feminine charm.

What the Ladies Home Journal and the Good Housekeeping are to the women of the 20th century, the ingenious Mr. Godey's book was to the fairer sex of the 19th century.

The Godey book was full of advice on food, fashion, family, faith, and fiction. Hand painted drawings of the latest fashions of the day filled many pages of every issue of the book.

"Every lady should be a careful and lovely seamstress," according to Godey, so the latest embroidery designs were always included. Patterns for novelties like knitted bird cage covers and net covers for horses' heads and ears, complete with tassels and fringe behind the ears were given in each issue.

Feeling that woman was a lovely flower which had to be well cared for, Godey recommended these beauty treatments. Cold cream: Take one pound of lard, 3 ozs. of spermaceti and melt to gentle heat. While cooling stir in 1 oz. of orange flower water. Night cream: Scrape root of one horseradish into a pint of milk and let it stand for 2 or 3 hours in a cool oven. Use after washing the face and before retiring. Hair wash: One oz. of powdered camphor, 1 qt. of boiling water. Apply with a piece of flannel or sponge once a week.

Fiction filled many of the pages of the Lady's Book. The more popular stories of the day included Bachelor's Darling, Irish Heiress, Memoirs of a Gentleman and the Adventures of a Bachelor.

Godey's favorite subjects on which to editorialize were hope, death, faith and tears. Of the latter he said that there was "Nothing more beautiful. They are always the meek and silent effusions of sincere feeling."

The crusading spirit was felt by Godey when it came to unfaithful husbands. He wrote many articles on this subject. In one of these he said, "Many an unhappy wife sits friendless and alone, during all the hours of the evening when her faithless husband is seeking pleasures in other society and returns at mid-night, breathing the fumes of wine and steaming with the smoke of segars. Call him a BRUTE."

By Sue Fenimore

Lt. J. R. McCord,

agriculture '41, is serving with the Military Government of Bavaria, he writes Dean Horlacher. Assigned to the Department of Food and Agriculture, his duties consist of distributing the food in the governed sections to the places where it is needed most.

Lt. McCord was county agent in Shepherdsville before he entered the army.

Elizabeth Faulkner,

graduate of the University in June, '45 and Betty Tevis, University student, are editing The Camp Courier, weekly publication of Camp St. John's and Camp Nagawicka in Delafield, Wis.

Miss Tevis will return to the University in the fall where she will serve as news editor of The Kernel.

Correction, Please

The Kernel reporter writing of the new Guignol play last week was misinformed when she spoke of the composer of the melodies, Maury Madison, as blind.

Mr. Madison is not blind, and we are sorry that this error occurred.

By Shirley Meister

Question: What is your reaction to the atomic bomb?

Glenn S. Mills, ASTE: It ought to be great stuff in getting rid of a lot of Japs.

Larry Lodewich, Eng., freshman: I hope I'm not around for the next war.

Dorothy Paar, Commerce, senior: The monkeys will have to start all over again, there isn't going to be any more civilization.

Charles Hatcher, Eng., freshman: It's unbelievable.

John Stephens, ASTE: I'm afraid of it but I hope it will eventually be used for the good of mankind.

Beverly Brown, A&S, freshman: I think it's too horrible, even for the Japs.

The Salt Shaker

By Billie Fischer

Well, it's getting to be That Time again. Just two weeks to go and then—WHOOPEE! We don't want to appear ungrateful, or unhappy with our residence in Kentucky, and we don't want to get the Chamber of Commerce into a dither, but we can't help anticipating our return to nasty, smoky, dirty, jumbled, smelly old New York. We've been in Kentucky long enough now to realize that there's more to the U.S.A. than what's inside the New York city limits. The point was really brought home to us the other night when we placed a phone call to New York. We gave the operator the number, the city, told her to reverse the charges, and hung up to wait for the call to go through. No sooner had we unclutched the receiver, after kicking the coin box to see if any stray nickels would drop out, than the phone rang. It was the operator who wanted to know "What state is New York in?" We were ready to say, "Chicago," but we foresaw the great possibility of ending up with a call to Kansas City, so we told her and let it go at that . . . but with a sigh.

THE TEMPUS IS FUGITING DEPARTMENT: It's a little hard to swallow, but a friend of ours who has just returned from Okinawa wrote us of the following incident. He stepped into a crowded New York bus, looking quite beautiful in his Marine uniform, and quite healthy, despite an orange sling slung around his right arm, only to find an elderly woman, in her sixties, offering and finally begging him to take her seat! All we have to say is: buy bonds and write V-mail letters, but let's not overdo it!

 Dorm rules are much pleasanter in the summer than they are in the winter. If, during the regular school session, you should happen to return to the dorm a quarter of a minute after closing hours, you are immediately thrown into solitary confinement for three days and nights and, what's worse, you are forced to eat, not bread and water, but dorm food! But it's a different story in the summer. You just walk in, grin your toothy grin in the head resident's direction, show her your bare wrist, and murmur sweetly, "See? No watch!" She nods her wise old head to indicate that she understands, gives you thirty-eight lashes, and turns you upside-down and shakes you until you let fall—a plea for mercy? NO! A GAS STAMP!

"What The Christian Faith Means To Me"

is the topic to be given by David Sageser, Methodist Youth Movement director, at the joint YMCA-YWCA meeting at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday on the balcony of the Union. It is the third in a series of discussions sponsored by the Y on this topic.

* They may compete again in 1946 or any year thereafter.

Sur-Meis-ing

By Shirley Meister

We've been scouting around asking the AST's for some exciting reports about their furloughs, but we're afraid that their experiences were either too personal or too unprintable, so all we can say was that a "good" time was had by all.

We were especially thrilled, though, when one of them sent a postcard of Prospect Park proving to us that more than one tree grows in Brooklyn.

We really hate to pass this on, but we overheard it in the bookstore as one of the campus coeds came in with a fellow she's been trying to catch for ages. Quote, "Here comes the future Miss Jones." Unquote.

Our attitude toward the fraternization policy in Germany is the same as most of the University girls, so for those who are ag'in it we think you might appreciate the feelings of the Dutch girls. They printed signs for the American soldiers saying "If the German girls are good enough for you, then we (the Dutch girls) are too good for you."

One of the favorite pastimes of GI's in Florida is to walk up to a cute little girl about 12, hand her a nickel, and say, "Call me up when you're 18."
