Dr. Frank Welch Replaces Cooper As Ag College Dean

Mississippi Man Assumes Position At UK July 1

Dr. Frank J. Welch, dean of the Mississippi State College School of Agriculture and Director of the Experiment Station, has been appointed Dean of the UK College of Agriculture and Horticulture and Director of the Experiment Station and Agricultural Extension.

Dr. Welch will replace the present dean, Dr. Thomas F. Cooper, on July 1. Dean Cooper will be relinquishing a post he has held for 33 years. He will be given a change of work in accordance with University policy.

University President Dr. H. L. Donovan said that he had studied the qualifications of the best men in the nation in view of filling the position, finally deciding upon Dr. Welch.

IN HIS STATEMENT of recommendation to the Board of Trustees, Dr. Donovan said in part: "Counting of the fact that Dr. Cooper was approaching his seventh birthday, I began to observe agriculture leaders in action more than two years ago when I had a mind to grant a leave of absence to recommend to the Board of Trustees for this position."

"In my search I have consulted the presidents and deans and some staff members from many of the leading land-grant colleges and universities of the United States. I have talked with farmers in all parts of the state and secured their advice."

"Extensive investigation has led me to the conclusion that the ablest man available for this position is Dr. Frank J. Welch."

BORN IN WINFIELD, TEX., Aug. 2, 1902. Dr. Welch was reared on a Mississippi farm. He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Mississippi in 1927, his master's of the University of Colorado in 1932, and the doctor of philosophy from the University of Wisconsin in 1943.

Dr. Welch has been a high school principal and for a year was associated with the Mississippi State Department of Education. He was head of the Department of Economic and Sociological Studies at Mississippi State College from 1937 to 1944. In 1944 he was named Dean of the School of Agriculture and in 1947 Dean and Director.

Dean Welch has conducted considerable research, has been economic advisor to the National Cotton Council, and has served as chairman of the central steering committee making studies of agricultural and economic problems of the Cotton Belt. He is currently serving as chairman of a committee of representatives from land-grant colleges and the Farm Credit Administration, which is preparing a procedure on pilot farm studies relating to farm credit requirements for needed adjustments.

A MEMBER OF THE Presbyterian Church, a Rotarian, and a member of the American Farm Economics Association, Dean Welch is married and has one child.

Dr. Donovan, elaborating on his belief that Dr. Welch is the best qualified man available, said: "He possesses the best well-rounded education of any man we had under consideration. He is youthful and ambitious to succeed. He has already become a national figure in agriculture and will not have to fight his way up. He has had a rich experience in administering a great agricultural college and experiment station and it will not be necessary for him to take two, three or four years to attain this experience. He already possesses this competency."

"OTHER THINGS BEING equal, I would have chosen Dr. Welch because of the fact that he has a number of contacts in this state. I am quite convinced that we do not have situated on our campus a man as well qualified for this job as Dean Welch can be. He has asked for Divine guidance in my effort to discover the ablest man available for this position. I am completely satisfied in my own mind that I have found the man. I advise the state need to guide our agricultural program at this time."

Audrey Brennan—Miss Venus of 1951

Sophomore Coed New 'Miss Venus'

Audrey Brennan, sophomore Kappa Delta pledge, was chosen 'Miss Venus' last Saturday night at the Inter-Fraternal Council spring formal in the Bluegrass Ballroom.

An estimated crowd of over 1100 attended the dance. Music was provided by the orchestra of Johnny Long.

Awards for outstanding service were presented to Bill McCann, president of the IFC, and Bob Lentz, vice president of the IFC. The honorees were given as recognitions of the members who did the most for the Council.

The awards were presented by Prof. Paul Oberst, College of Law; Mrs. L. M. Hancock, housemother of Phi Mu Alpha; and Mrs. Harvane Carpenter, housemother of Kappa Sigma.

Miss Brennan transferred from Miami University at Oxford, Ohio this semester. There she served as first attendant to the freshman Strut Queen.

Jobs Available In Aeronautics

Aeronautical research interns in science and engineering may take the new civil service examinations to fill positions in field laboratories and stations of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

The position pay $3100 a year. Qualifications for the position require completion of a 4-year college course with major study in a field of work appropriate to the position for which they apply.

There is no test by Selective Service for a student's application for college work.

The examinations will be held first on May 28, June 18, and June 30 for those who enter college next fall.

Music Groups Combine For UK's 'Elijah'

The University Chorus and the University Symphony Orchestra will present 'Elijah' at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Memorial Coliseum. Dr. Edward E. Stein, head of the Music Department, will direct the combined group.

The University Chorus was organized in September, 1940, for the first time, and has been practicing weekly since then. Approximately 225 singers are in the chorus. About one-fourth of the chorus is made up of businessmen, doctors, and other non-University personnel.

The Symphony Orchestra has 70 members. About 20 of these are laypersons.

'Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' was first performed on Aug. 26, 1946. The text of the oratorio is a biblical story relating how the prophet Elijah declares a drought in Israel because its people have forsaken the Lord and gone instead, under the rule of King Ahab, the false Baal.

The music department will emphasize the use of students to sing the solo parts.

Those students singing solo arias will be Patricia Eads, soprano, a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences; Phyllis Dean, soprano, a Junior in College of Arts and Sciences; and John E. Collins, Jr., sophomore in College of Arts and Sciences.

Don Ivey, bass, senior in College of Arts and Sciences, Earl Holloway, baritone and new staff member at UK will sing two arias.

Application Blanks Available April 12 At Local Boards

Some 800,000 students are expected to take the test authorized by President Truman's executive order of March 31 instructing Draft Boards to pass over students whose grades are good or who can pass a special aptitude test.

Those now in college may take the test beginning May 26, but boys who haven't started college will be given the examination until after they have entered college.

ONE MISTAKE BEING made by draft registrants, however, according to officials at the Selective Service headquarters in Washington, is that they are waiting until they get induction orders before applying for deferment. It's too late then. Any deferment is a deferment which rates one should request it immediately.

Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, said there were some 1,000,000 nonveterans in college now, but he could not estimate how many will be deferred under the new ruling. About 270,000 who came before the Draft Boards were deferred for the present school year.

Hershey said the scholastic standing necessary to permit exemption, and the necessary grade in the forthcoming aptitude test, will be determined later. However, some congressmen expect the outcome to something like this:

Dean Kirwan Hits 'Journalistic License' After 'Downbeat' Criticizes Jazz Ruling

Policy Statement Of University Is Published In Part

campus. A concert of modern music planned by members of Phi Mu Alpha music honorary was cancelled by the university because of a newspaper article which pointed out that some of the students' names were also playing jazz in various bars and lounges around town.

"The concert, scheduled for the evenings of March 6 and 7, had been in rehearsal for weeks. A first performance of Roy Harris' 'Three Band Stars' was on the program, also some original pieces by university students and a Dixieland-through-top musical survey. Several members of the music faculty were assisting."

"The university's policy statement was also published in part in the article.

When consulted by telephone, Dean Kirwan called the 'Downbeat' story, "an example of journalistic license."

Richmond Editor Will Speak On Modern Moral Movements

Virginius Dabney, editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, will deliver the third lecture in the Blazer series at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Gougeon Theatre. His subject is "Fossilizing and Obsolete Moral Movements in the 20th Century."

The lecturer has written several books dealing with the problems of the South. These include "Liberalism in the South," "Beware the Potomac," and "Dry Messiah: The Life of Bishop Cannon." Time magazine has said that this author presents both sides of the question in his writing.

Dabney was born in Charlottesville, Va. where his father was a professor of history at the University of Virginia. The young Dabney received degrees from the University of Virginia and the University of Richmond. After doing graduate work he started his newspaper career as a reporter on the Richmond News Leader. He changed to the Times-Dispatch six years later. In 1936 he was named editor of that newspaper.

Dabney has received several awards for his editorial leadership. He won the Washington and Lee University Award for "distinguished editorial writing" in 1937. He also won the Pulitzer Prize for editorial writing in 1948.

The editor has some definite theories about conditions in the South. He believes that the present social and health facilities would be the answer to many of the South's ills. He has supported collaboration between the two races, and urges the abolition of the poll tax and the one party system in the South.

Sigma Chi Issues Call For "Best Dressed" Entrants

Campus organizations wishing to enter a participating entrant in the annual Sigma Chi "Best Dressed Contest and Style Show" are asked to contact either Don Fowles or Old Whittenberg at the Sigma Chi House.

The contest and show will be held on May 1.

Article Claimed To Be Distortion Of True Facts

"The University policy statement said Dean Kirwan 'That is the most distorted and untrue of the administration did not ban the concert. It was never banned by anybody. It was called off by mutual consent of Phi Mu Alpha and the Department of Music.'

Tickets Should Be Obtained For Mother-Daughter Lunch

Women students who live in town or who cannot should get their tickets for the mother-daughter luncheon before 4 p.m. Thursday in the Dean of Women's Office. Tickets are $1.25 each.

Girls in residence halls or sorority houses may obtain tickets from their house president.

The luncheon will be held from 12 to 1:45 p.m. April 16 in the Student Union Building.

Orators Meet Here Tuesday

UK will be host to the State Oratorical Contest to be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Gougeon Theatre.

Representatives from Georgetown, Berea, Kentucky Wesleyan, Asbury and UK will compete in the two division contest—one for men and one for women.

Representing UK in the contest, open to the public, will be Hal Griffin and Ann Perrine in the men and women's divisions respectively.

Griffin, a journalism senior who won the Patterson Literary Society oratorical contest last week, will speak on "The T-Bomb Concept."

"Freedom Through Faith" will be the topic of Miss Perrine, an Art and Sciences senior.

The speeches given will not exceed 2000 words and will be on a subject of their own choosing.

The winners of the state contest will represent Kentucky in the interstate contest to be held in Evanson, Ill. April 26 and 27. Some twelve North-Central states will be represented in this contest.

Last year a UK student, Miss Jeanne Harrell of Louisville, went on to capture first place in the women's division of the contest at Evanson.

'Stars In Night' Is Climax Of Mother's Day Program

UK will play host to 200 mothers attending the second annual Mother's Day Program to be held on campus April 12. The day will be climaxed by 'Stars in the Night,' annual convocation honoring outstanding women students.

The mothers will be acquainted with the University through discussion on the educational aspects of college, vocational opportunities, and extra-curricular activities. They will also be taken on a tour of the campus.

This program is sponsored by Alpha Lambda Delta, freshmen women's honorary; Omicron, sophomore women's leadership fraternity; and the House President's Council.

Coeds will be recognized for outstanding scholarship, leadership, and public service.

The program will be held in Memorial Hall in the evening.

Women's honorary societies will announce their new officers and members, leadership organizations will tap new pledges, and special awards will be made to individuals.

The theme of the program will be "Star Shimmers." Carolyn Critchlow is chairman of the program committee. Other chairmen are Frances Goldstein, invitations; Dorothy South, printed program; and Janet Anderson and Kathryn Whitmer, publicity.

Sing Trophies Are Presented To KD's, Deltas

Alpha Xi Delta And Sigma Nu Finish In Runner-Up Spots

Kappa Delta sorority and Delta Xi Delta won the women's and men's division trophies at the fifteenth annual All-Campus Sing Competition held Saturday night before a capacity audience in Memorial Hall.

The Delta was last year's winner. The Delta has won the trophy for the past 15 years. Kappa Delta also won the contest last year.

Runnerup in the women's division was Alpha Xi Delta sorority and in the men's division Sigma Nu fraternity placed second.

Twelve groups were entered in the women's division while only five were entered in the men's division. Other groups reaching the finals in the women's division were Omicron Omega and Beta Hall. The finals in the men's division narrowed down to three, including Phi Kappa Alpha.

In the finals Delta Tau Delta sang "Old Mother Hubbard," Delta Sheller and "Invictus." Kappa Delta gave renditions of "Black Magic" and "White Rose of Kappa Delta."

Dr. Edwin E. Stein, head of the Music Department, awarded the trophies to the winner and runner-up in the women's division. Trophies to the winner and runner-up in the men's division were given by Mrs. Helen Hamilton, instructor of voice and director of the Girls' Glee Club. Judges for the finals were Mrs. Rolf Hovey, instructor at Berea College; Mrs. Eugene Bradley, instructor at Georgetown College; and Mr. William Henson, instructor at Centre College.

The All-Campus Sing is sponsored by Phi Mu Alpha, Phi Beta, music honoraries, Omicron Delta Kappa, and the Beta men's and women's senior honoraries.

College Picture Brightens With New Deferment Plan

President Truman provided college boys with a far greater incentive to crack the books than threatening words from Mom and Pop ever could when he issued his order Saturday making grades the basis of many draft deferments.

The order authorizes draft boards to exempt students whose grades are good or who pass a special aptitude test to be given at college locations throughout the nation. The tests will be given here May 26, June 16, and June 30.

Boys who are now in college may take the test on any of these dates, but those who have not enrolled yet must wait until they are freshmen. Rank in class is also a determining factor in exemption. Those who rank within a certain percentage, as yet not decided upon, may not be required to take the test.

Details about the test, which is supposed to measure capability for learning rather than present knowledge, will be announced later. However, it is expected to result in deferment of most freshmen who enter college next fall, sophomores who were in the upper half of their freshman class, juniors who were in the upper two-thirds as sophomores, and seniors who were in the upper three-fourths of their junior class.

Another foresighted provision of the bill is the deferment, without examination, of medical, dental, graduate, and other advanced students doing satisfactory work toward their degrees.

It seems as though the crisis in college enrollment is averted, for a while at least. It's sound reasoning, we think, to allow serious students, the kind who can be of most value to their country in future years, to complete their college work.

It looks like a busy spring, fellows. Renewed interest in such heretofore plebian things as assignments, term papers, tests, and such stuff is predicted for the next couple of months. After all, that "upper two-thirds" will hold only so many!

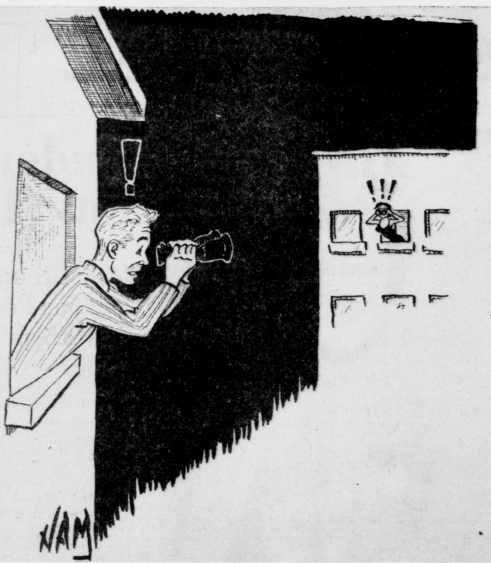

Ag Deans—Old And New

The appointment of Dr. Frank J. Welch as Dean of the College of Agriculture and director of the Experiment Station and Agricultural Extension brings to a close Dr. Donovan's thorough search for "the very ablest man" for this important position.

Dr. Welch's qualifications and his years of experience as dean of the School of Agriculture and director of the Experiment Station at the University of Mississippi are indications that President Donovan chose wisely.

In his recommendation to the Board of Trustees, the President told of his two-year observation and search among agricultural leaders throughout the nation with an eye to filling the UK post with "a man of great leadership." Dr. Donovan is to be commended for the thoroughness and foresight with which he went about choosing the new dean.

When Dr. Welch's appointment takes effect July 1, Dean Thomas P. Cooper will relinquish a position he has held for 33 years. These have been years of great growth and accomplishment in the College of Agriculture and particularly in the Extension Service. Dean Cooper's contributions to the University and to the whole state of Kentucky have been exceptional and far-reaching. The Kernel congratulates him upon his years of service. Dr. Welch will have some big shoes to fill.

The Mailbox

Student Asks Explanation Of Baseball Tryout Policy

Editor: Early in March when the athletic department issued the official call for candidates to try out for UK baseball team, from 45 to 60 students reported to Mr. Roy Stevens, then acting coach. Many of the would-be ballplayers were not with the team last year and were not players on other UK teams. Most of them were given the "ax" regardless of their playing ability. Only a very few were allowed the privilege of proving that they could or could not play baseball well enough to make the school's team.

When the baseball team made its first road trip south last week, 23 players—including four basketball players who had not practiced baseball a single day—were taken along. Seven of these players were freshmen. The coach felt certain that they would be allowed to play this year.

The SEC decided to make freshmen eligible in September rather than this spring so UK was up the proverbial creek. Last Thursday at Georgia, the baseball team forfeited the second game of a double-header because two players were tossed from the game by the umpires. Coach Harry Lancaster said that he did not have the players to replace the two men he lost.

The only varsity pitchers who were with the team at Georgia were C. M. Newton and Guy Strong, both of who were with the basketball team and thus could not get their arms in shape. Other baseball pitchers (including myself) had been eliminated hurriedly from the team earlier in the year.

After the loss records of our football and basketball teams in national competition, it is a shame that students with natural ability and experience were not given an opportunity to make UK's baseball team another champion instead of an exercising team for other sports.

It is my humble opinion that UK deserves a baseball coach who knows baseball—including the finer points of the game—and the best baseball players that are enrolled in this school, without regard to what other sports they play. I can't imagine Coaches Rupp and Bryant putting a player in a game, widespread excavating. And I know I couldn't.

Smoking In Class

Editor: It is an undeniable fact that many doctors say smoking is one of the best ways to relax. It is also an undeniable fact that smoking in class at UK is outlawed.

I am not what is commonly called a smoking fiend, but I am an individual who enjoys an occasional cigarette and find it a good way to remove tension which often accompanies a classroom session. Thus, I am a strong advocate of smoking while in class.

The main time for which I propose smoking privileges is during tests and exams, but it would also aid the student's power of concentration during lecture periods.

It is my opinion that smoking should be permitted in classrooms of any fireproof building on the campus. One of the chief claims of many new UK structures is their fireproof construction, so there is little reason to prohibit smoking on that ground. It should be noted that I am not advocating smoking in many buildings on the campus because they are obviously very susceptible to fire.

However, in this modern age, smoking in class is taken as a matter of course at many American colleges. The least UK can do is keep in step with the times and allow classroom smoking—something that will benefit many and harm none.

More On Jazz

Dear Editor: Did you hear John Lair speak to the American folk lore class Wednesday night, showing how many popular songs came from old folk songs, and letting the Coon Creek Girls, Peas Mobley, and two other folk musicians show musically the proof of his statement? I was there, and not only did I learn a lot I'd never known, but I really enjoyed it, even the "hillbilly-est" of it. And I was the one who always made my roommate turn the radio off when a hillbilly show came on!

Now if we can have a lecture and demonstration on folk music, that about jazz, and the thing—wasn't that about the same thing—showing jazz as it progressed through the years, and such? I wish Phi Mu Alpha, the Music Department, and the Administration would get together, think over, and reconsider—on with the concert!

I'll be the one in the third row, seat two!

Students May Travel, Study

European Summer Programs offer students an opportunity to combine European travel with study projects. Students may select one country in which to study a chosen topic for six and one-half weeks. The final 10 days of the program will be spent on a tour throughout Western European countries.

Living accommodations will be arranged with selected families who will provide for the majority of the meals. Arrangements will be made for tea, meetings and interviews to assist the student with his study project. Social and cultural activities are also planned.

Participating countries that may be visited are Great Britain, France, Italy, Holland, Belgium, Denmark, Norway and Sweden. The basic cost of this tour is approximately $290. The round-trip price from New York on Trans-Atlantic Airlines is $390.

For further information and application forms, write to the International Research Fund, Incorporated, 405 Park Avenue, New York 17, New York.

Honorary Sets Initiation Date

Kappa Delta Pi, national education honorary, will hold its spring initiation dinner at 6 p.m. today in the Football Room of the Student Union Building. The Rev. James W. Kennedy, pastor of the Christ Episcopal Church, will be the guest speaker. His topic will be "Liberty for All."

Initiates will be Annette Hayes, Dorothy Hilliard, Della O'Brien, Jane Black, Peggy Compton, Iris Grider, Ann Grubbs, Mary Harried, Margaret McCauley, Corrinia Stoffer, Kathryn Whitmer, Dorothy Seath, Mary Joan Dumbacher, Lou Ann Drymon, Margaret J. Thurman, Lucille Clay, Betsy Hoggood, Martha

Ann Havelly, Mary E. Carigan, Mary Lewis, Ellen Rowland, Mary Pardoe, Josephine Jones, Jean E. Bell, Marie O. Caslick, Jessie C. Colwell, Jacky Shawdown, Margaret Roost, Carl Phillips, Perry Adams, Paul Colwell, Bernard Gravitt, Robert Thurman, and Ollie Hart.

Estelle Adams, retiring president, will preside. The invocation will be given by the Rev. Robert E. Hink, pastor of Christ Church, and special music will be given by Miss Ann English, contralto. She will be accompanied by Mr. James Brooker, pianist. Dean Frank C. Dickey of the College of Education will introduce the guest speaker.

Flood Of 'Termite Terror' Dispossesses John, Marsha

By Hugh Manitarian

John and Marsha, with their happy little family of several hundred children, had lived peacefully and undisturbed for quite some time on Euclid Avenue. John was in the lumbering business, and never befriended anyone in all the time he had been in business.

Then, one day, tribulation and trials and sore woes afflicted the family. For a giant came to the home of John and Marsha and ripped and sawed away great parts of their house. Then this terrible giant, against whom they were powerless to act, poured kerosene—kerosene, mind you—over the entire home. It filled every nook and cranny.

John and Marsha had no refuge, no place of abode. Courageously they tried to outwit the giant, to more to a part of their home which had not been invaded by the terrible giant. But alas—there was no place. The madhouse kerosene soon took its toll. John and Marsha and the happy little family were no more.

And in the world of the giants, the terrible giant who had destroyed these happy folk was lauded for his efforts. He was called great and mighty and the Courageous One.

But poor John and Marsha and the little family lay dead, while the giant ate, drank, and were merry in their cruel, heartless fashion.

Now, dear reader, don't you think that is a hell of a way to treat a poor, defenseless family of termite living in a journalism building? Especially when the bunch that inhabit that sanctum turn out such lousy stuff as this.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

Number 17... THE OWL
"SO I'm a wise guy — so what?"

Speotyto cunicularia — Speo, for short, majors in the classics. But in this case, he's dropped his Latin leanings and slings American slang with the best of them. He comes right out "cum loudly" whenever he voices his opinion on these quick-trick, one-puff cigarette tests. They're a snub to his high I.Q.

It's the sensible test... the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as a steady smoke — on a pack-after-pack, day-after-day basis. No snap judgments needed. After you've enjoyed Camels — and only Camels — for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), we believe you'll know why...

More People Smoke Camels than any other cigarette!

Jest Knappin'

I should begin by telling the one about the traveling salesman, or the one about three salesmen who were sitting in a tavern having a few brews is safe.

"I hate to see a woman drink alone," said the liquor salesman. "I hate to see a woman eat alone," said the grocery salesman.

"We call our professors 'prof.' and what in the world can we call their assistants?"

"This University turns out some great men."

"What do you mean by that?"

"I didn't graduate. I was turned out."

"She: 'Fam's the best shot in the country.'"

"Gert: 'What shall I do? Bob has been under water for twenty minutes.'"

"Mert: 'Let's go home. I wouldn't wait any longer for any man.'"

"The moon was high, the road was dark."

"A perfect place to stop and park. He gave a curse, he gave a groan. He gave a grunt, he was alone."

"Young man," said the father of the wayward boy, "the time has come to say 'Goodbye.' Now out of my house, you drunken sot, and never come to remember that with your gin and whiskey beer and wine, you surely are no son of mine!"

"Shamed, the lad turned to go, bowed his head—"I will keep your secret, sir," he said.

"Voice on phone: 'John Smith is sick today and can't come to class. He requested me to notify you.'"

"Friend: 'All right, who is speaking?'"

"Voice: 'This is my roommate.'"

"Now that we're engaged, darling, you're going to give me a nice, sweet number."

"Sue, honey, what's your phone number?"

"Coed: 'I just threw this on in a hurry.'"

"Girl: 'Darn near missed, didn't you!'"

"Girl: 'I don't think you even know what good morals are.'"

"Boy: 'I'll bite, what good are they?'"

"A local preacher recently announced that there are 726 sins. He is being besieged with requests for a list."

"What's a night club?"

"Smart Aleck Tutor: 'What's your opinion of the man who sits next to you?'"

"Local Native: 'Ain't got none. You fellows can't go through here, too fast to suit us.'"

College Deferments Students Give Opinions On An Important Question

What about the new system of deferments for college men? Is it fair? What do UK men think of it?

A poll taken by a Kernel reporter this week showed that students consider the plan not to be completely fair.

Ten students were quizzed about the system, and their opinions of it. Most of them thought it was a good thing generally, but they also stated that it discriminated against the sincere student with a lower IQ, and the student who cannot economically afford to go to college.

Here are the answers of those polled:

JOE SOPCHER — "I think the government should give aptitude tests to both high school and college students. Then they should take the cream of the high-school crop and put them through college."

Walter made wise leaders. When asked if colleges produced wiser men, Joe replied, "I don't know about that."

GERALD SNOGRASS—"If college students are sincere in attending school, they should be allowed to continue. But I don't think the aptitude tests are a good measure of sincerity."

BOB DADAM—"It's all right academically. But I think the under-privileged boys won't get an even chance. I think the Government should set up some sort of subsidy to send these boys through. Another shortcoming is it deprives the Army of men with high IQ's. But the principle itself is good. It'll be for the best, mostly from students who think they're missing something."

On a train the other day, a friend of ours found herself sitting beside a little girl with a doll in her lap. Our friend leaned over and asked cheerily, "Does your doll talk?"

"Yes," said the little girl, curiously, but not to strangers.

The young lady walked boldly up to a woman whom she took to be the matron of the hospital.

"May I see Lieutenant Barber, please?"

"May I ask you who are?"

"Certainly, I'm his sister."

"Well, well, I'm glad to meet you. I'm his mother."

Smart Aleck Tutor: 'What's your opinion of the man who sits next to you?'"

Local Native: 'Ain't got none. You fellows can't go through here, too fast to suit us.'"

"What's a night club?"

"Smart Aleck Tutor: 'What's your opinion of the man who sits next to you?'"

Local Native: 'Ain't got none. You fellows can't go through here, too fast to suit us.'"

"What's a night club?"

safeguard institution economically, anyhow."

HENRY ALTEBERG — "It's a good deal, as long as I pass the test."

DON BUTLER — "There's as great a need for intelligent men in the world as for fighting men. Working for a better world, these intelligent men will be fighting for research and so on. In other words, I'm in favor of it."

MILES P. MATTINGLY — "War or no war, we should keep the people who are able to become well-trained out of the army. Even if we fight a war we will have to fight a technological war. Therefore, trained men will be at a premium."

CHARLES FERGUSON — "The intelligence tests would be a fair standard, but the grades the teachers give aren't fair, so that wouldn't be a fair standard."

JOHN HINES — "It isn't fair to college students. Not everybody is fortunate enough to be able to go to college. The guy who can't go to college should have the same chance as the in-college student. All men are supposed to be free and equal in this country."

CLIFF HAGAN — "By this system, it would seem to me that only those with a lower IQ would be drafted, so if we want an army with the dumbest men available, this method would surely do that."

ORMON SHERWALKER—"I think it's good. But it will knock a lot of people out of going to college who really wanted to go."

"It's a place where they have what it takes to take what you leave."

That's enough for this week. If anyone would like to read the ones that were censured, drop by and see me. If I am studying when you come in, wake me up.

A Revived State Industry

Kentucky's Hemp History Told In Dr. Hopkins' Book

Dr. James F. Hopkins' book, "A History of the Hemp Industry in Kentucky," tells the story of a product which was once Kentucky's chief cash crop. Dr. Hopkins is assistant professor of history at UK. Kentucky led all other states in hemp production for more than 50 years of the 19th century, and, in addition, supplied most of the world's demand for manufactured rope. Beginning with the Civil War, however, the hemp industry declined until it was non-existent. Only during World War II was it begun again in Kentucky.

In his book, Dr. Hopkins describes the production of hemp from seedling to marketing. He also examines the influence once wielded by the

Dr. J. H. Robinson, director of a film on dental hygiene at the annual banquet Tuesday evening at the College of Education, was elected president of the Y.M.C.A. at the annual banquet Tuesday evening honoring freshmen members of the Y.M.C.A. Henry Durham, sophomore in the College of Commerce, was elected vice president.

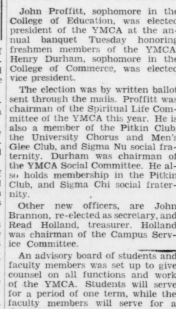

The election was by written ballot sent through the mails. Proffitt was chairman of the Structural Life Committee of the Y.M.C.A. this year. He is also a member of the Pitkin Club, the University Chorus and Men's Glee Club, and Sigma Xi social fraternity. Durham was chairman of the Y.M.C.A. Social Committee. Profs Described As Blend Of Intellect And Courage

Professors were praised to the heavens in a recent editorial of the PIT News. The columnist, Ed Jansen, calls them a "hardy lot."

He adds, "The man who follows the teaching trade in the States in this year of 1951 has to have a lot more than just a couple of degrees. He has to be more than just a learned scholar and a beneficent pedagogue."

"He has to have a lot of something... Certainly it must include some of the wonderful and all-too-rare substance... courage. Along with courage I should say he has to have a certain amount of integrity."

"Probably no other professional group in the land is so often in the national doghouse as are the profs. They are mentioned almost every time a congressional investigating committee gets its paws on some kind of an issue that involves matters mental."

"The profs have been charged with almost every kind of skating..."

Louisville Engineers To Visit UK ASCE

Twenty-five members of the University of Louisville ASCE will be the guests of the UK chapter on Friday, according to James Alvin Howard, president of the UK group. A tour of Memorial Coliseum and City of Ferry Bridge has been planned.

Prof. Sam Mory, UK civil engineering professor who was consulting and design engineer for both projects, will conduct the tour following the Highway Conference Luncheon.

The group also plans to attend the morning session on structures at the Highway Conference.

Previous field trips of the group have included a visit to the Wolf Creek Dam. The next joint meeting will be in Louisville on April 27.

Depict Ancient Dress

Historically Correct Dolls Inhabit Home Ec Building

Just what kind of clothes did King Henry VIII wear? How did Marie Antoinette dress to please Louis XVI? For the answers, see the doll collection which is now on display in the Home Economics building.

The dolls were given to the Home Economics Department by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hess of Coral Gables, Fla. Mrs. Hess is a graduate of the UK Home Economics Department, and has been collecting them ever since from all over the world.

THE DOLLS ARE AUTHENTICALLY costumed, and every detail has been carefully checked. After the dolls were sent to the Home Economics Department, Mrs. Hess wrote the Department, sending a letter for the Henry VIII doll. She had decided the present garment was not exactly authentic, so she wanted to change it. This is just one example of the effort to keep everything in accordance with reality.

Because all details were so carefully authenticated, Dr. State Ericson, head of the Home Economics Department, said the dolls would be especially helpful to students of costume design or of historical costumes.

THERE ARE BETWEEN 225 and 250 dolls in the collection. They are housed in six large cases, all made by the Division of Maintenance and Operations, and are valued at more than $5000 by the owners. The collection was given to the Home Economics Department because it was too big for Mr. and Mrs. Hess to care for alone.

Dolls range in height from two to 15 inches tall, and are made of

PHILIP MORRIS challenges any other leading brand to suggest this test

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF SMOKERS, who tried this test, report in signed statements that PHILIP MORRIS IS DEFINITELY LESS IRRITATING, DEFINITELY MILDER!

1... Light up a PHILIP MORRIS. Just take a puff—DON'T INHALE—and s-l-o-w-l-y let the smoke come through your nose. Easy, isn't it? AND NOW...

2... Light up your present brand. Do exactly the same thing—DON'T INHALE. Notice that bite, that sting? Quite a difference from PHILIP MORRIS!

Other brands merely make claims—but PHILIP MORRIS invites you to compare, to judge, to decide for yourself. Try this simple test. We believe that you, too, will agree... PHILIP MORRIS is, indeed, America's FINEST Cigarette!
