Ruling To Limit Salaries Called 'Severest Blow' By Donovan

Decision Affects Twelve Officials Of University

"One of the severest blows the University has ever received," said President Herman L. Donovan regarding the Court of Appeals decision Tuesday that salaries for professors and other officials at the University must remain within the $5,000 a year constitutional limit.

The highest state court's decision was a reversal of an earlier opinion by Circuit Judge W. B. Arbery. The salary limitation, according to the last decision, applies not only to University educators, but to officials of other state schools and all persons in the category of "employees."

A TRAINING SCHOOL. The salary limit will make the University a training school for other universities, Dr. Donovan commented, adding that the salary limit might cause teachers to decline to join the University staff.

The president said that although the ruling might not mean immediate loss to the University of some of its best-known educators, the higher salaries of other schools and all probability draw prominent men away from the University.

Chief exemption from the $5000 ceiling is the class of independent contractors who are not employed as educators are exempt.

The court said that the state may contract with firms and individuals and that "persons engaged in such capacities are neither officers nor employees of the state, but are known to law as independent contractors."

Teachers and college officials are supervised in their work by administrative boards such as the University Board of Trustees, the trial held, and are thus employees of the state.

In the earlier opinion by Judge Arbery on a suit filed under the declaratory judgment act, professors were exempt from the limitation because they performed "professional services," he said.

President Donovan's statement on the Court of Appeals decision follows:

"Naturally I am surprised and disappointed with the decision. After reading the judge's opinion, I was certain the Court of Appeals would uphold the decision of the lower court. But I am not a lawyer. Chief Justice Hughes said when he was governor of New York, 'The constitution is what the judges say it is.'"

"This decision is one of the severest blows the University has ever received. Not only does it affect the men whose salaries are above $5,000—that is negligible, but rather because of its psychological effect upon the morale of all staff members, and its logical limitations upon the University to enlist the services of outstanding teachers when recruiting new faculty members."

"It permanently handicaps the University of Kentucky when compared with institutions such as North Carolina, Minnesota, Texas or Illinois, where such restrictions are not in effect."

SAYS STIMULUS LOST

"While we at this University of Kentucky have very few staff members receiving over $5,000 per year, nevertheless, the possibility that a faculty member could receive a higher salary stimulated the entire faculty.

"The loss of this stimulus is devastating."

"It was a goal each professor hoped some day to achieve. Now that goal is gone and men will realize that regardless of how hard they may work or what eminence they may attain, there is no salary reward above $5,000. This is a major preparation and the long apprenticeship."

"NO FUTURE OFFERED"

"This decision will cause young men of genius to decline invitations to join our faculty because it will be common knowledge that there is no future advancement to be found in Kentucky comparable to that in other states."

"Even if some brilliant young teachers accept our offer, as soon as they prove themselves and demonstrate their worth they will be lost to Kentucky, and take their harvest of prestige to the better colleges of greater universities, and our state will be the victim of a penny-wise, pound foolish economy."

"This will make the University of Kentucky a training school for other universities."

"This enrollment of our best men and women elsewhere will leave us with a faculty less able to compete with other universities."

"We shall accept the decision of the court of appeals as good citizens. But we realize fully the effects of greater universities, and a special effort is now being made to prevent the recurrence of this situation."

On Tuesday Prof. Carl Lampert, head of the University music department, will conduct an open class lecture on "Beethoven: The Man and the Musician."

SYPHILIS TALK WILL BE GIVEN IN OPEN CLASS

Dr. Hamilton To Speak At Fourth Hour Today

Syphilis, which according to Dr. J. S. Chambers, constitutes one of the major problems of the present emergency, will be the subject of an open lecture the fourth hour this morning in room 102, Health building.

Since Dr. Chambers has been called out of town, the lecture will be given by Dr. Brooks Hamilton, associate professor of hygiene. Dr. Hamilton will follow exactly the plans formulated by Dr. Chambers.

Open to all interested students, the discussion is a part of his advanced public health class but can be easily understood by those not regularly enrolled in the course.

Outlining plans for the talk, Dr. Chambers pointed out that it would be difficult to cover such a large subject in an hour but that it was hoped to touch upon the more fundamental aspects. The principal facts concerning the disease, its prevalence, transmission, course, and treatment will be explained. "Since treatment is the only way for combating syphilis this will be stressed in the lecture," he emphasized.

The complicating factor is that it is a social disease and depends for its transmission upon social conditions, he continued.

During the last war the disease was spread much above its normal occurrence in the civilian population, the doctor added, and a special effort is now being made to prevent the recurrence of this situation.

On Tuesday Prof. Carl Lampert, head of the University music department, will conduct an open class lecture on "Beethoven: The Man and the Musician."

SuKy Plans Rally To Welcome Home Wildcat Basketballers

SuKy is planning a pep rally welcome for the Wildcat basketball team when it arrives at 4:30 p. m. Sunday at the Union Station from the Southeastern conference tournament.

Cherleaders and part of the band will be at the station and students are urged to come. George Terrell, who is in charge of arrangements, said yesterday.

GROUP TO AID WAR PRISONERS MEETS MONDAY

How To Explain Drive Fund At 4 p. m. In Union

The first organization meeting of the World Student Service Fund will be held at 4 p. m. Monday, in the Music room of the Union building, with Lida Belle Howe, executive chairman, presiding. It has been announced.

To be attended by the students who have been chosen to act as captains of fraternity, sorority, residence hall or other groups, the meeting is to explain how the drive has been set up. The drive will be conducted during the week of March 9, when a University goal of $1200 will be aimed at. In conjunction with a nation-wide effort to raise $100,000 for relief to war prisoners and Chinese students.

Last year, the University raised approximately $350 for the Fund by presenting a benefit melodrama and by pledges made following an address by T. Z. Koo, noted Chinese lecturer. This year, however, the direct method of solicitation will be used entirely.

GERMAN STUDY CONTINUES SAYS DOCTOR UBBEN

Language Study To Be Continued Instructor Affirms

Despite the United States' being at war with Germany, enrollment in the University's German department has fallen off only ten percent in comparison with a general University drop of approximately 16 percent, according to Dr. John Ubben, instructor in the department.

Doctor Ubben indicated that although there had been a slight decrease in the number of students taking German in the eastern colleges, the study has not been affected in the south and middle-west.

Pre-medical German students are stabilizing the enrollment somewhat at the University. "Many people in this war have the idea that German as a cultural subject has nothing to do with the political set-up," Doctor Ubben said in explaining the continuance of students to study the language as an elective.

This definitely contrasts with the situation which existed here during the last World War. Dean C. R. Melcher, who was head of the German department at that time, said yesterday that the enrollment fell off from several hundred to 32 students.

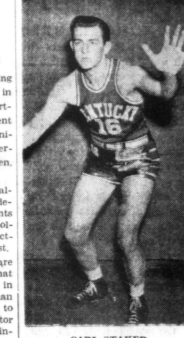

Melcher was the only remaining teacher on a staff which had formerly numbered three or four. He reported that many universities did away with the teaching of German altogether.

Doctor Ubben doubts that any school will eliminate German from its curriculum at present. "Irrespective of what language, the future of languages in this country will be less affected by the political upheaval than many of us think," he stated.

"America, in the future, will have a more dominating part in world affairs," and must be acquainted with the language spoken by 80 million German people, Ubben added.

He concluded that students will be able to make valuable use of their German knowledge in the future when the United States will come in contact with the German people and need cooperation from them.

Cats Take Early Lead But 'Gators Finish Fast

hit ten points in the Wildcat win over Florida.

Staker And Akers Lead The Cats In Scoring

By BOB ADAIR
Kernel Sports Editor

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 26—Kentucky safely hurdled the first obstacle to the Southeastern Conference championship by eliminating the University of Florida from tournament play, but the Wildcats had to fight all the way to emerge with a 42-36 win in the Jefferson County Armory at Louisville.

Carl Staker sang the swan song of the Alligators the loudest, hitting ten points in the Florida rout. The "Big Train," Marvin Akers, followed Staker with nine points. Steve Ellis, Gator Center, led scores for both teams with 14 markers.

Kentucky broke fast and took a 5-0 lead on trips by Marvin Akers and Steve Ellis and a free throw by Mel Brewer. Florida countered with Phil Craig's crisp and Doye Carlton's looper. Akers and Brewer combined to lead the lead to 9-4, but Carlton cut it to a long shot.

The Wildcats' offense began to sputter and the rally ran to 14-6 in Kentucky's favor on buckets by White and Allen and a charity toss by Staker. The Gators added one on Hausenbauer's free fling, but Staker upped the ante with one from far out.

Hausenbauer added a tip-in to make the tally 16-6. Both teams settled down to defensive play, until Akers tabbed his first long-distance call and Allen answered with a crisp. Hausenbauer finished the first period scoring with a looper and the half time count stood 20-11 advantage Kentucky.

TOURNAMENT SCORES

Kentucky	42
Florida	36
Vanderbilt	34
Auburn	36
Tennessee	62
Georgia	50
Alabama	37
Georgia Tech	32

The second half saw a Florida comeback. Kentucky took the offensive with a free throw by Brewer, a long one by Staker, and a push shot by White. Ellis realized that with a charity shot, a bound, and a crisp, to make the score read 29-16.

Then while Kentucky was counting last one point, a gratis shot by Staker, Florida shaved the Wildcats' edge to four points. Ellis converted three goals and a foul shot. Manchester, a long one, and Hausenbauer a free throw, to pace the Florida rally.

Kentucky woke up and pulled away when King dunked a far one. Staker converted two free throws and a charity. McCovey added one for Florida. But Akers matched it with a long, to make the tally read 30-20.

Craig made it 30-22 on a 30-foot shot. King came back with a crisp. Carlton and Ellis completed the Gator scoring with crimps while Akers wound up Kentucky points with a foul shot.

Kentucky made 11 personal fouls while Florida committed 10 violations. The Wildcats converted 8 out of 11 chances to the Floridians' 4 for 11.

Low-Flying Bomber Zooms Between Walls of Stadium

A record for flying low around Lexington and the University was probably set Wednesday afternoon when an Army airplane flew between the stadium sides of Stoll field.

According to witnesses, an olive Army medium bomber circled the campus once, zoomed into the football field from the west—and actually could not be seen above the stadium stands.

The plane climbed above the east goal post, barely cleared the wire fence around the practice field, and banking to the left—dipped its wing tip between Fraze hall and Bull arena, observers said.

The plane, which was a unidentified person, in the Stoll field press box at the time, said he could see the opposite side of the stadium over the top of the plane.

Lt. Col Stanley Umsted, pilot of the famed B-19 bomber which flew over the University campus earlier in the year, was at the controls of the plane which flew through the U. K. stadium yesterday, it was reported.

Observers conjectured that the pilot was Umsted since the bomber zoomed close over the home of his parents on the Versailles Pike several times.

The famous test pilot had been told to end his vacation in Florida several days ago, the observers said, and to report to Washington for assignment to duties as commander of an airplane.

Wednesday's low-flying plane, a B-25 bomber is the only bomber with the split tail, witnesses said. It is second in speed to the B-27.

SGA Amendment Passes Although Dean Hill Objects

By BOB TANNER

The student legislature approved the proposed amendment to the Student Government Association constitution last night in a stormy session.

The amendment was passed after the report of the amending committee had been approved and the bill submitted with the signatures of over 20 percent of the student body.

The legislature passed the bill against the wishes of Dean Henry H. Hill, who suggested that they not vote on it until next week when he would appear before the legislature and state the administration's views.

Approval of the administration is not necessary for the enactment of an amendment to the SGA's constitution. The only necessary steps are a majority vote in the student legislature and the signatures of the

Speakeasy Club Elects New Officers

Sam Neely, Murray, and Henry Bramblet, Carlisle, were elected chairman and secretary, respectively, of the University Speakeasy Club at a meeting Monday night. Neely, law senior, succeeds Charles Landrum, Lexington, who is no longer in school.

The Speakeasy Club was organized by the Student Bar Association, student organization of the College of Law, and is composed of twenty members who meet weekly for informal practice in public speaking.

John Niles' Painting Will Be Exhibited

First in a series of pictures to be presented by the University Student Art club will be John Jacob Niles' "Ethiopian Village." A display of this painting may be seen in the Great Hall of the Union building.

"Ethiopian Village" was painted by Mr. Niles as a result of his experience on research work carried on during a past visit to Ethiopia. It has been hailed as one of Mr. Niles' best paintings.

Law Society Elects

Marcus Redwine, Jr., Winchester, has succeeded Charles Landrum as president of the Student Bar Association. It was announced yesterday.

Helen Stephenson, Danville, and The Burckman Endowed fund continue during the second semester as secretary and treasurer respectively.

THE CAT TAKES TIME OUT

Catfish Do Their Best Though Having No Pool

To the Editor of The Kernel:

A good friend of mine stopped me on the campus the other day to ask me about the University swimming team, of which I happen to be a member. He wanted to know why we kept trying to swim against other schools and going off on nice trips, and yet not producing any wins.

He couldn't seem to understand why the University athletic department financed a team which is consistently a losing proposition, and one which does the school little or no good. At the time of questioning, I could not answer this person, but at least an attempt to clear this thing up in the minds of all the University students.

The swimming team was started a number of years ago, by a group of University students who were interested in the sport. At that time they turned out winning teams, but not one student ever stops to realize that the University of Kentucky was one of the first schools in the Southeastern conference to have even the remnants of a swimming team.

Since then the rest of the schools in the conference have put more time and effort in swimming, while Kentucky stands still, trying to produce some results from about three hours practice per week and sometimes none at all.

Perhaps you want me to explain why I am making excuses for a losing team after the season is over, but in reality, I am not making an excuse. This seems to be rather obvious. Ask Coach Rupp how far he would go in producing a winning basketball team without a gym to practice in.

And also ask him how many boys would report for practice under those conditions. Then come down to swimming practice some day and see how many boys you find. I dare say that even then you would find more interest than you would in a courtless basketball team.

Our Captain-Coach this year is the appreciation of its captain, Henry Hillenmeyer. He was captain, high-point swimmer, coach, and manager, which involved enough work for three people, and all he got out of it was the satisfaction in knowing that he kept the team together. Without his efforts the team would not have been able to have had a season at all.

A "CATFISH"

To the Editor of The Kernel:

Last Monday night the University swimming team ended a season of five defeats and no wins. Not anything to brag about, but something to talk about. This poor showing was due in part to lack of swimmers, but mainly to lack of practice.

A person can hardly build up the endurance necessary for swimming by paddling around in an over-size bathtub; meaning the Y.W.C.A. swimming pool. But enough of that crusades are for bolder persons than myself.

The main purpose of this letter is to express the swimming team's appreciation of its captain, Henry Hillenmeyer. He was captain, high-point swimmer, coach, and manager, which involved enough work for three people, and all he got out of it was the satisfaction in knowing that he kept the team together. Without his efforts the team would not have been able to have had a season at all.

A "CATFISH"

Remembers UK's Veteran Janitor

To the Editor of The Kernel:

I was interested in reading the article in the Kernel by Miss Mildred Murray about Pierre Whitting. I might say in September 1897, at about 45 years ago, when I occupied a room in the old dormitory (now White Hall) Pierre and a darkie named Smith were janitors. If my memory serves me correctly Pierre was then a middle-aged man.

During my 22 years at the University I knew Pierre as an honest, reliable and loyal servant.

Mimi Pace

She Trains Her Own Horses

This is the story of Mimi Pace—a comely brunette from the red clay land of "Gal-puh"—who came to Kentucky not to meet men, but rather, to be introduced to horses.

The University's newest student from the deep south—Albany, Georgia—is probably the most versatile, being an aviator for four years, an expert equestrienne, a swimming instructor and a dozen other things.

Mimi and two friends, whom she met at a girl's camp in Georgia last summer, conceived the idea to come to Kentucky and to the Bluegrass to learn something of the horse industry from first hand experience.

This summer the trio visited Lexington and rented a 70-acre farm on the Briar Hill road, nine miles north of town. Early in the fall Mimi's two companions—Kitty Barnett and Anne Hartridge—both of Jacksonville, Fla., brought their five horses—jumpers and hunters—to the Briar Hill farm.

Mimi, who is a graduate and post graduate of Gullpark, came to Kentucky at the start of the second semester to go to school, and learn something about the training of horses.

"And we're learning from the ground up," she says.

Besides coaching the horses in jumping, the three girls curries them, feed them, and tend the barns.

"The weather has been so bad and the ground so wet that we haven't been able to do much work with the horses," Mimi explains.

"But I believe that I will like it—especially when spring time comes."

"We have lots of other animals, mostly pets—a Great Dane, a Dachshund, a German pointer,

By ROY STEINOUR
As soon as school is out, we had a black lamb, but it died last week.

Although the mule is a little stubborn and a little old the girls ride the animal over the farm to perform small chores.

Concerning the more domestic problems of keeping house and cooking, Mimi frankly admits that they had never cooked or kept house before.

"We cook all our meals on a coal stove and we never eat at the table. We prefer to sit on the floor around the fireplace.

"On the days that I come to school, I have to get up and fix breakfast at 6:30 in order to make my 8 o'clock."

Mimi's only misfortune in her four years flying occurred this fall when she and a friend decided to fly to Valdosta, Ga.—a distance of 90 miles—for breakfast.

Mimi agreed to navigate the plane if her companion would pilot.

Mimi and the navigator were coming along fine until she became intensely interested in her knitting, which she brought along to "help pass the time away" and forgot about her duties as navigator.

"We finally found Valdosta by flying low over towns and looking at the names on the railroad stations.

"Ever since then my friends have called me the "knitting navigator," she says.

As soon as school is out this June, Mimi, Kitty, Anne, and Jeaneette, whose home is on an island off Vera Beach, Fla., plan to move to some "hossier place in Virginia."

They plan to live in Virginia for a while and show their horses this summer in that locality.

Un-American: A Handy Word

THE FREE LANCE By BOB WARTH

One curious feature of a war recommended in the spirit of true patriotism, for we can't have all of our young men so drunk that they can't slaughter those yellow devils can we now?

Patriotism may not be "the last refuge of a scoundrel," but it certainly is the last refuge of the professional reformer. When will they learn that one cannot legislate human wants out of existence?

The peculiar motivations of this ever-present species of Homo sapiens, the professional reformer, has never ceased to puzzle our curiosity. For one reason or another, they are as thick as flies in this fair land. We may be sure of one thing however, and that is that any act, no matter how innocent, has had an association for its suppression in these United States if it gave some sort of pleasure to the normal person.

THE SOURCE:
Wherein does the reformer obtain that fanatical sense of "righteousness" that intolerant zeal, which moves him to apply the eternal uplift to his fellow men regardless of their wishes in the matter? This is but one of the problems which we wish we knew the answer.

Those who read our previous issue are told, the throughput to the golden age of the blue law is only struck at once by the similarity of motivation to the professional reformer—namely, fanaticism, intolerance, the martyr complex, the egotistic sense of righteousness, the will to power, and the closed mind.

The above characteristics are not by any means limited to those two notorious cases, put it is here that we find them in their most blatant question whatsoever.

THE CLOSED MIND
Perhaps one or more of these qualities are present in all of us to varying degrees of intensity. Take the last named, the closed mind, as an example. Does anyone seriously maintain that he can keep an absolutely open mind on every question whatsoever?

Obviously an affirmative reply would be absurd, for if the thing were carried to its logical conclusion, we could scarcely make a stand on anything because there is hardly an idea but what there cannot be a valid difference of opinion.

The whole point of this article, in fact, demonstrates our hypothesis, because we ourselves haven't an open mind on the question of professional reformers, although we might be induced to change it if one of our readers can offer us superior arguments.

Iowa Organizes Fund To Aid Students Returning After War

BY MARY LYLE

After looking vainly each Tuesday and Friday for a luminous scandal column on the county's court and why I have given up the search in desperation and write one myself.

When even Win Ward, Sigma Nu prexy, admits in public speaking class he won't read The Kernel without a gossip column, then something should be done. Engineers have a hard time keeping up with their girls without a bulletin.

Barbara Reim and Caroline Coplan are perhaps the only two girls on the campus, everyone knows about cowards and with good reason. However, there are other students. Just look short.

Now that Buford Short is laid up with his broken ribs and ribs, I wonder if Edith Weisenberger will find that she hasn't forgotten completely after all.

Do you think it's permissible to accept a boy's pin as soon as he is initiated? Or do I have a right to jump the gun on Jimmy Floyd and Sara F. Edmondson? This is only a prophecy, but I'll bet you a coke it's correct.

Catherine Ganes, Kappa pledge, has been trying to solve the age-old problem of how to have your cake and eat it too. Can you prove it's possible to like a Phi Delta from Lancaster and an SAE from Georgetown at the same time? I'd like the formula, not for myself, but to give to my friends.

Tax The Government And Get More Money Than We Need

By JOHN CARRICO

The other day I saw a cartoon by Walt Disney, the principal theme of which was "Taxes to beat the Axis". This tax proposition seems to be pretty important (at least the government is interested), and every citizen knows that it is going to hit him where it hurts: in the pocket-book.

They say that when Hitler first needed money for his campaign (that is, before he adopted the policy of robbing his little brothers), he called in Dr. Schacht and flattered him that he (Dr. Schacht) would have to devise a system of economics which would suit the German purpose. This was in direct contradiction to the established policy of adjusting your country's needs to the prevailing system of economics.

Anyhow, the plan seems to have worked. And now what we need is a system whereby we can raise a whole lot of money with the least friction. Being a loyal citizen, I mulled the problem over. Then I began a systematic reading of Adam Smith's Wealth of Nations, Karl Marx's Das Kapital, Stuart Chase's The Cost of Government, and You Can't Do Business With Hitler.

And now I can forward with my plan. I predict that in a year after it is put into effect, this nation will have more money than it will know what to do with. The possibilities are unlimited and it costs the average citizen practically nothing after the ball has been given the initial push.

Here it is: the government collects all kinds of taxes (income, alcohol, amusement, revenue, etc., ad infinitum). Hence the government has quite a large income. Now, since the citizens pay taxes on their income, why not a tax on the income of the government?

Since the government collects $50,000,000,000 in taxes; if a ten percent tax were levied on that income, the government would receive an additional $5,000,000,000—quite a tidy sum.

But that isn't all. Since that $5,000,000,000 is income for the government also, we will have to tax that. Ten percent of five billion is 500 million—quite a sum not quite so tidy, but still nice.

Ten percent of 500 million—well, you can see the limitless possibilities of such a plan if you carried the 10 percent all the way down the line. Include the state, county, and city taxes, and the figures are staggering.

Why, with such a tremendous income, we'd be looking around for more oceans for which to build a navy.

The plan may seem a bit revolutionary at first, but remember that the Indians three rocks at Columbus. I predict that two months after my plan has been put into effect, Douglas Miller will be writing a book entitled You Can't Do Business With the United States; or Bezzins Is Gone To Hell.

Thank you, Mr. Roosevelt, but I assure you that a ten percent tax will be sufficient. After all, I do owe my country something.

OCD May Bring 'John Doe' Spirit

By BOB BAKER

About a year ago just after seeing Meet John Doe we were all more or less Doc's supposed philosophy that was more or Doc's dictum that everybody is fundamentally the same under the skin and that discord develops because we don't understand one another and because we never get to know our neighbors. Doc's philosophy and his campaign slogan was "Know Your Neighbor."

This film, coupled with the war, has had a greater and farther reaching effect than the producers or Doc himself possibly imagined. For, out on the west coast, inspired by the civilian defense campaign, a Know-Your-Neighbor movement is growing rapidly and, rumors have it, that other similar movements are springing up in Chicago, Detroit and New York.

Which brings us to consider that Civilian Defense, despite its shortcomings, is already making an impressive record of democracy in action. Even in metropolitan New York where nobody knows or cares who lives in the apartment next door the OCD units have been responsible for a number of apartment-house and neighborhood meetings that are bringing together all sorts of average people for the common job.

In Chicago, block air-raid Captains (15,000 in all) are elected at a meeting of all the residents of a block where they nominate and vote for their choice in the most friendly and democratic spirit imaginable.

It is in miniature "town hall" get-togethers such as these that the "Know Your Neighbor" campaign makes its greatest strides and that the spirit of democracy—which is after all only a healthy regard for your fellow man—is sinking new roots.

We hope this helps somewhat to dispel the narrow interpretation of the function of the OCD as merely an organization to protect the populace from falling bombs.

Authorities agree that even where air raids are continual and exceedingly destructive, as in England, physical injury is the smallest factor to be considered. Civil defense, if it is to be anything, should be a powerful agency of morale with a capital M. It may be just as important in the end for it to promote neighborliness and entertainment as to school us in its attack.

Oh yes—neighbors, which reminds us that we haven't met the young lady who lives in the apartment across the alley. With the Know-Your-Neighbor campaign in full swing why all we'll have to do is walk right up to her and say, "Pardon me, but you look just like Margie, and everything will be hunky-dory, that is, if she's been keeping up with Melvyn. Marion and the rest of the OCD doing."

Invention Does Everything But Give The Boys A Shower

ON THE COLLEGE FRONT By JIMMY HURK

The ingenious invention of two prepared the previous night, the makers of Kings college promises to make the lame excuse "I overslept" even lazier.

No longer may a nightwatch hope to recuperate by sleeping until 11 or 12 o'clock in the morning after a long hard night of dancing and roller skating in convivial company. No longer will those last few moments of peaceful repose remain undisturbed.

It all started last year with the invention of a remarkable contraption that, with the first notes of the alarm clock in the morning, set the alarm clock in the morning, set the coffee to percolating, turned on the radio, closed the window, and turned on the light.

This apparently complicated mechanism was in action very simple. An alarm clock was nailed to the window sill and a piece of string looped around the alarm ring, set the coffee to percolating, turned on the radio, closed the window, and turned on the light.

When the alarm went off, the loop Anyone who takes advantage of the stringed off and closed the window system is requested to contribute to by means of a block of wood and a couple of the transportation in pulley. When the window was low—any manner suitable to the parties ed it set a hot plate in operation, causing this heating coffee which had been

Hey Freshmen! Wanna Get Hep? Take This Course

By BETTY JANE PUGH

Under the general heading of "Grillology" comes a new course in the UK curriculum known as "Slanguage." Believe me I'm cookin' with gas when I say it's a real snap. My twit told me to look into it. She's a hog about it, and says it requires no apple polishing and very little erasing.

Wouldn't it be just out of this world if my little queen wasn't just racing her motor, and I could take a hidge on this course, gee maybe I'd wind up a BMOOC. Of course maybe she was blowin' her top, she might have just picked it up in a goon session.

Or she might be pulling my leg, on account of the other night she let some GDI in Phi Delta pants drag her to a hop, and when I found out we became a gruesome twosome, since she's been on her ear. Oh well, I'll pick up some other sub. I'll not be a has-been, there'll be 100 years in my beer.

Still about this course, maybe I'd better not take it after all, I might not have enough background and I'd hate to get kicked. What's that you say, Aww! Aww! Aww!

'Rejoice In The World Test' Dr. Crane Tells Convocation

BETTE BUDDER was elected president of the Delta Delta Delta sorority recently.

Tri-Delts Name New Officers

Bette Budder, Covington, has been elected president of Delta Delta Delta. Other officers elected are: vice-president, Julia Johnson, Lexington; recording secretary, Anne Ellis, Eminence; corresponding secretary, Jane Lancaster, Owensboro; treasurer, Sarah Anne Hall, Frankfort; marshal, Betty Bow Miller, San Antonio, Texas; Chaplain, Ann Austin, Williamsburg; historian, Virginia Baskett, Casper, Wyoming; librarian, Margaret Frasing, Danville; rush chairman, Margery Schwartz, Lexington; assistant rush chairman, Peggy Forman, Lexington; publicity chairman, Helen Drake, Lexington; co-social chairman, Virginia Cantrill, Georgetown, and Wynette White, St. Petersburg, Florida.

Kappas Elect New Officers

Beta Chi chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma announce the election of the following officers: President, Ethel Koeger, standing chairman, Louise Wilson, corresponding secretary, Louise Peak; recording secretary, Mary K. Scott; treasurer, Elizabeth Grimes Chapman; rush chairman, Sara Ewing; pledge mistress, Carolyn Marsteller; assistant pledge mistress, Martha Key Cross; scholarship chairman, Dawson Hawkins; key correspondent, Roberta Parker; social chairman, Jessica Gray; registrar, Martha McAuley; historian, Algon Dickson; marshal, Pat Doyle; publicity chairman, Betty Greer; art chairman, Janet Rodes; music chairman, Marjorie Fremant.

Delta Zeta Parties Honor Rushes

The activities and pledges of Delta Zeta entertained with two parties last week honoring a group of the rushes of the sorority. Decorations of red, white, and blue were used for a Monday afternoon party. The refreshments also carried out the George Washington's birthday motif. On Thursday the chapter entertained with a cabaret party. The individual tables were covered with checked cloths and held candles in bottles. Colored streamers were strung throughout the house. Ida Shoen, rush chairman, had charge of the plans for both of the parties.

Chi Omega Fetes

The members of Chi Omega will entertain the rushes of the sorority with a breakfast Sunday morning at 10 o'clock in the Lafayette hotel. The head table will hold an arrangement of white carnations and cardinal and straw. Red sorority colors were used for the other decorations. Edith Wessenberg and Sarah Anderson, social chairmen, have charge of the arrangements for the affair.

The epaulettes and shoulder marks now worn by the U. S. Naval Officers survive from olden days when fighting seamen wore metal plates on their shoulders to protect them from saber cuts.

In two speeches, first at the University convocation in Memorial Hall Tuesday and later before the Lexington Kiwanians, Dr. Henry Hill Crane, pastor of the Detroit, Mich. Methodist Church, found, in the world chaos of today, elements in which to rejoice.

"Rejoice in the fact that in this generation you will see the acid test of Christianity, and also that you yourself will be tested, and that under these circumstances, you will find yourself out, and discover, within yourselves, if you are made of the right stuff," he told students and faculty in his Memorial Hall talk.

"Rejoice in the opportunity for the vital experiences which lie ahead of you, wherein you will live deeply and greatly, and lastly, rejoice in the fact that you will discover the necessity and availability of God, he continued.

"Valiant behavior, he emphasized, must be the Christian technique for desperate times. Answering the critics of Christianity and "those who say that this is an age without a God," Dr. Crane declared, "God must think a lot of us to put us in a generation like this."

"There are those of us who will deplore the paganism and savagery and tragedy of the world today, and at the same time will turn back the mummy pages of history to stories of knights and wars of old and long to have lived 'back then,'" Dr. Crane said.

"Yet," he continued, "never in history has there been a period of such social chaos as the one in which we now live."

The four main causes of sorrow and tragedy Dr. Crane stated are:

FRAT COUNCIL TO REORGANIZE

Officials representatives of each of the 18 campus fraternities will meet at 5 p. m. Tuesday in the Union building for a reorganization of the Interfraternity council, governing body of the University men's social groups.

Election of new officers will be held at that time. Grant Lewis, president pro tempore, said yesterday, Dean T. T. Jones' accommodations in regard to the conduct of hell week will also be acted upon. Joe Nitzsche, Triangle fraternity, resigned recently as president of the council, stating that he did not have the time to give to the duties of the position. "There was no argument or political friction," he said.

Of the four regular officers named at last spring's annual council election, only Lewis, treasurer, remains in office.

Temporary officers are Howard Beetle, Lambda Chi Alpha, vice-president; and Al Bauer, Delta Chi, secretary.

The new officers will come from Triangle, Kappa Alpha, Delta Chi, and Lambda Chi, since it was decided at a recent meeting of the group to select the new officers, who will serve until the spring election, from the same fraternities which placed members in office last year.

By a rotation system, the interfraternity council chooses its four officers from four different fraternities each year, one officer from each fraternity.

SGA Social Rules Must Be Observed, Gayle Warns

Sororities, fraternities, and organized houses have not been following the rules for social events set up by the Student Government association and University authorities, Joe Gayle, chairman of the social committee of the SGA, announced yesterday.

The following rules must be obeyed, Gayle said: 1. Organizations must turn in petitions for the event to Dean T. T. Jones' office and the list of chaperons to Dean Sarah B. Holmes. 2. The petitions are acceptable all semester and are due one week before the function. 3. House dances must close promptly at 11 p.m. according to the new University rule.

The SGA social committee is placing this request in behalf of the University and the students, Gayle said.

Zeta Tau Party

The actives and pledges of Zeta Tau Alpha entertained with a "Plantation" party last night from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock at the chapter house in honor of a group of rushes.

The house was decorated with small settings representing plantation life. Refreshments were served during the evening. The arrangements for the party were made by Florence Brown. Majority of the Netherlands Indian population are Mohammedans.

Prof. John Kuiper's penchant for throwing rocks and being chased by cops will be dramatized on the Wildcat Review on March 7. The innovation is entitled "An Apple for the Teacher."

A single professor will be selected for each program. After a few weeks the action will fade into a dramatization recalling a human and unforgettable occurrence in his life. After the dramatization, the professor will be asked five questions of the day, including swing terminology and similar information. If he answers them all correctly—he is presented with a big red apple.

Col. Donnelly Will Leave For Camp Croft Saturday

Colonel Howard Donnelly, until recently head of the University military department, will leave with his wife at noon Saturday for Camp Croft, Spartanburg, South Carolina.

Head of the University ROTC unit for several years, Colonel Donnelly was called to active field service in January. Colonel Donnelly was instrumental in obtaining the first CPT program for the University last year and acted as campus coordinator of the flight training course while in the department.

Before coming to the University, he was operations officer of the Hawaiian department for three years. Graduating from West Point in 1915, Col. Donnelly was on duty in Mexico in 1916. In France, he was with the Second division and the army of occupation in Germany.

Returning to America, he served as an instructor for the New York national guard for five years. Col. Donnelly said last night that

Maj. Irvine Scudder, instructor at the Army military department for five years, was in command of a regiment in MacArthur's army in the Philippines.

Unbeaten Sigma Nu, ATO, AGR Lead In Intramural Basketball

By JOE HODGES

Three teams remained undefeated yesterday as intramural basketball gained momentum before the final plunge into tournament play. The ATOs, Sigma Nus, and AGRs have defeated all competition, but the Sigma Nus and ATOs were slated to meet last night.

ATO made it four in a row Wednesday evening as they whipped the improved Pi Kapp outfit, 20-17, in a thrilling ball game. Foster Spence led his comrades by netting eight points to take high scoring honors. Spence had to carry the attack when his running mate, George Nollan, fouled out early in the second half. Greene led PKA with six points. Alpha Gamma Rho, fresh from their shelling of the Kappa Sigis, lounded the SAEs to their second defeat, 25-16. Yowell paced the winners with seven points, closely followed by Jones who made six. Hughes, SAE forward, sank eight to lead the losers. The absence of Perry, stellar SAE center, seemed to hurt the latter's style.

The Sigma Nus almost met defeat Wednesday night, but managed to score a 28-24 victory over the young Triangles, after a furious battle. Owen and Vaughn led the Sigma Nus, by netting seven and six points respectively. McDaniels, high scoring Triangle forward, took honors for the evening by dropping in 11 points.

Delta Tau Delta continued winning, after getting off to a slow start the first of the season by defeating the Sigma Chi's, 22-16, in another league game. For the Delts, Troy Adams was high scorer with eight points, followed by Gudgett with five. Tommy Zinn made nine of the Sigma Chi's 16.

Richard Daniel and Long netted six points each to aid the KAs in defeating the Kappa Sigis, 22-21, in a game which was close to the wire. Long's foul shot in the last 20 seconds determined the margin of victory. Jack Hill, KS forward, took high score honors for the evening by tossing in four field goals. In an A league game Tuesday, Sigma Nu nosed out the Delts, 22-21. Don Walker and Gene Meeks gathered six points each to lead the victors, while Cannon and Scott netted six apiece, also, to pace the Delts.

Paced by Noah Mullins, Carl Athaus, and Charley Walker, the K-Club took supreme in Division Two of the independent league, and should enter the tournament without a loss.

In Division one, the Unknowns and Dairy Club have been dusting off all opposition, but have received much competition from the Delta Kappa. However, the Unknowns have the best balanced club competing and should go high toward the university championship.

According to C. W. Hackensmith, the elimination tournament should get under way early in March.

"COLONEL OF THE WEEK"

Caroline Conant

This week's "Colonel of the Week" goes to Miss Caroline Conant, junior engineering student from Lexington.

Miss Conant, who was May Queen last year, was recently presented as queen of the annual Seaboard and Blade military ball. She was also named honorary colonel and regimental sponsor of the R.O.T.C. unit at the University.

She is a member of the Y.W.C.A. and the Chi Omega sorority. To show our appreciation for these achievements we invite you to come in and enjoy any two of our delicious meals.

KERNEL SPORTS

The Sporting Way

BY BOB ADAIR

By the time this chatter reaches your optics we hope to be some where in Louisville celebrating a Kentucky victory over Florida and looking forward to a 'Cat triumph over Ole Miss tonight.

If the Wildcats meet the Great Lakes Naval Station basketballers who have been going "great guns" this season, they may tangle with one of their former teammates, Lee Huber, who led the Big Blue last year. Word comes from Jimmy Taylor, U. K. graduate, that Huber is the best defensive man on the Naval Station squad, although he joined the outfit only a month ago. Taylor sent the following paragraph, clipped from the camp paper:

"A little bird must have told Lee Huber that the Great Lakes basketball team was short one man from having a complete quintet of All-Americans, for when the former University of Kentucky guard joined the squad a month ago, he became the fifth bluejacket basketballer who won All-American honors as a collegian. Andrew, Baumhohl, Caliban, and Menke are the other four. . . . A three-time letterwinner at Kentucky, Huber excels at defensive play.

"Although the blond southerner is not a member of the starting five, his five foot 11 inch frame can be seen doing heroic duty under backboards at either end of the court when he is in the game. . . . His senior year at Kentucky was highlighted when the Chicago Herald-American selected him for its 1941 All-Star team. . . . Huber is a Yearman, second class, here at the station."

Athletic Director Bernie Shively may arrange a contest with Great Lakes, providing the Wildcats win the Southeastern conference tournament, now in progress at Louisville.

DIAMOND GOSSIP
Coach Frank Moseley, who has directed the Wildcat baseball teams since the sport was reinstated as a major athletic activity on the campus three years ago, will report for army service soon. . . . His successor has not yet been named. Moseley said that diamond practice probably would not start until the first of April. . . . Marvin Arnes is expected to head the list of pitchers which will include Spence, Mathewson, Lander, Spiane, and Kendall. . . . All are right-handers except Spiane. . . . Tico will again hold down the initial sack. . . . Other veterans include Cutchin, second base; Mullin, third base; Herbert, for the catching job and Krue Boehler, may get the call at shortstop. . . . However, all positions will be side-open.

SPORT SHORTS
We learned with deep regret of the death of former Wildcat catcher Ted Meyer, who was killed in the naval disaster off the Newfoundland coast. . . . He was a great field backstop, having been under the net to Eddie Fritz in 1940. Footballer Harry Taylor left to join the armed forces Tuesday. . . . Several Wildcat gridlers who would be eligible next fall are seniors in military and will receive army commissions this summer. The track team is working out daily, practice being confined to the gymnasium during the bad weather. . . . Coach Joe Rupert has not yet announced the schedule for the hurriers. . . . Any boys who wish to join the track team should report at once.

The fact that the Catfish, who have been dubbed "The Pool-less Wonders" failed to hang up a victory just emphasizes the need for a swimming pool at the University. . . . Let's hope that a tank is included in the field-house plans which are now being drawn up.

Basketball Has Really Crowned Up In Fifty Years Of Competition

By BAXTER MELTON

Kentucky's quest for the Southeastern Conference crown in the hoop tourney in Louisville this weekend will bring to an end the University's participation in the Golden Jubilee year of basketball. From peach baskets for goals in a small brick structure to glass backboards in huge, modern field houses and palestra—that's the story of the sport that more than 1700 colleges, 18,000 high schools, and countless church teams, clubs and social organizations compete in annually.

The 1941-42 season marks the fiftieth anniversary for the game invented by Dr. James Naismith in 1891. All over the country schools are holding Golden Jubilee basketball games from which all the funds will be given to a fund to erect a Temple of Basketball at Springfield, Mass. in honor of the founder.

This temple will be to the hard-work sport what baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., is to the national pastime. Deposited and safeguarded in the Temple of Basketball will be documents, curios, and records of the sport, and enshrined each year will be the names of the recognized annual All-American basketball teams. Perpetuated here will be the names of the game's foremost players, both past, present and future.

The sport that has brought renown to Kentucky in the athletic world was originated when Dr. Naismith was asked by Springfield College's Physical Education director to design a game that could be played indoors as well as out. The new sport was to possess all the elements of skill, amusement, and science, but was to be devoid of the physical contact of sports such as football.

Little did the doc realize that his pet was to become the major athletic activity in its today, in which every little hamlet and school, in addition to the larger towns and institutions have teams. The United States, Canada, and the South American countries took

WHAT! A girl training men to fly for Uncle Sam?

• The name is Lennox—Peggy Lennox. She's blonde. She's pretty. She may not look the part of a trainer of fighting men, but—
• She is one of the few women pilots qualified to give instruction in the CAA flight training program. And the records of the men who learned to fly from Peggy show she's doing a man-sized job of it. She's turned out pilots for the Army. . . for the Navy. Peggy is loyal to both arms of the service. Her only favorite is the favorite in every branch of the service—Camel cigarettes. She says: "They're milder in every way."

DON'T LET THOSE EYES and that smile fool you. When this young lady starts talking airplanes, brother, you'd listen, too. . . . just like these students above.

AND WHEN she calls you up for that final "check flight," you'd better know your loops inside and out. It's strictly regulation with her.

Flying Instructor PEGGY LENNOX says:

The smoke of slower-burning Camels contains 28% LESS NICOTINE than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested—less than any of them—according to independent scientific tests of the smoke itself!

• "EXTRA MILD," says Instructor Peggy Lennox. "Less nicotine in the smoke," adds the student, as they talk it over—over Camels in the pilot room at the right. Yes, there is less nicotine in the smoke—extra mildness—but that alone doesn't tell you why, in the service, in private life. . . Camels are preferred. No, there's something more. Call it flavor, call it what you will, you'll find it only in Camels. You'll like it!
