Radio Experts Discuss Interest Of Listeners

By Casey Goman

Problems and pleasures of the radio listener were discussed Monday and Tuesday at the Listeners' Radio Institute, by members of the staff of the American Broadcasting Company, the University station WBKY, and Lexington's station WLAP.

The Monday morning session was highlighted by a discussion by Lolo Robinson, program supervisor, WBKY, of the Listener Looks at Radio. Mrs. Robinson deplored the choppy versions of current plays, played by Hollywood or Broadway actors, not at their best in radio, and suggested that the sponsor announce a week's run of a popular actress in an adaptation.

Another of the questions brought out was the constant use of the singing jingle. A poll of the listening audience showed that one-half the women didn't listen, or were not bothered by this form of advertising, and the other half disliked them intensely. The middle commercial announcement, too, was considered an evil of the radio.

Monday afternoon, at station WLAP, a roundtable on the subject, The Listener Looks at Radio, was broadcast. The members of the panel continued the discussions started in the morning meetings.

The Tuesday session took up the Radio and Education, and policies of the radio program.

Station WBKY broadcast Lexington's Town Meeting of the Air, discussing whether or not government should continue the control of employment. Mr. H. E. Wetzel, head of the University Department of Social Work; Truman Morris, news editor, WLAP; Dean Leo M. Chamberlain of the University; Dr. H. L. Summers, manager, public service division, American Broadcasting company, and Mrs. Rena Shelby Diehl, of Danville, participated in the discussion.

The two-day meeting was concluded with Paul B. Mowrey, director of Television, ABC, discussing Broadcasting Tomorrow, and showing a film on television.

Participating in this institute were Robert E. White, director of public service, central division; Grace M. Johnson, director of women's and children's programs; Dr. Summers, and Mr. Mowrey from the American Broadcasting company; Mrs. Lolo Robinson, Miss Chloe Gifford, assistant in University Extension, and Dean Chamberlain, from the University; and J. E. Willis, manager, and Mr. Morris from WLAP.

Elmer G. Sulzer, director of public relations for the University, presided.

Recently sent to the University as instructors in the Military Science department are Lieuts. Richard C. Walter, Akron, Ohio; Joseph P. Rose, Paris, Ky.; C. R. Hartshorn, Newark, Ohio; and Joe Gafford, Louisville.

Lieutenant Walter will be stationed at the University for six months, and Lieutenants Rose, Hartshorn, and Gafford for three months.

He jumped at Venafro and took part in the famous Anzio beachhead. He went up through Rome and into southern France, where his men liberated towns throughout the southern France Riviera, among them Cannes, Nice, and Monte Carlo.

Ultra-Modern Dormitory Building Plans Completed

By Betty Tevis

Built on two different levels, the first floor will have high ceilinged dining hall and reception rooms, complete with fireplaces. Floors two and three will be alike, each consisting of suites housing 84 girls. Two girls will live in each room, with a bath between each suite of two rooms. On each end of the second and third floors will be a study hall, and both floors will have a pressing room and a kitchenette. Sixteen girls will live on the fourth floor. The building will include also incinerators and linen chutes; in the basement, suites for dietetic employees, laundry rooms, and trunk and blanket storage space.

In conjunction with the dormitory, a central dining unit serving all women's residences will be constructed. The unit will consist of five dining rooms, connected to each of the halls. This modern dining unit will seat 100 girls in each hall, in an attempt to promote a desirable small-group atmosphere. Salad rooms, food preparation, and refrigeration rooms will be contained in the central unit.

The women's residence hall and central dining unit, together with the new men's dormitory and field-house-auditorium, will be fireproof. Construction of all three will begin as soon as government restrictions on building materials are lifted.

Constructed along pure Georgian lines and complete with all the comfort and convenience features of a modern hotel, the University's post-war women's dormitory will be another step in the building expansion program now on paper for next year.

Already, senior women in Jewell hall facing graduation this June are talking wistfully about, "You can even talk on the phone from one room to another" and "They'll have two closets in every room."

For this new dormitory, built behind Harrison avenue to house 216 women, will be a vast improvement even upon modern Jewell hall, the present junior-senior women's residence. Patt and Boyd residents who like their roomy corridors and tradition-filled hallways where their mothers walked as freshmen, admit that they look forward to senior days in this newest of residence units.

The building will have a frontage on Harrison avenue of 223 feet and will be 3 stories in height. The first floor will have a dining room with kitchenette, and head resident's and supervisor's suites, 2 guest rooms, two reception rooms 52 by 24 feet, 2 parlors 38 by 24 feet, clerical space, a laundry and parcel room, a postoffice, staff offices, an elevator, men's and women's rest rooms, a linen room, janitor's closets, a trunk holst, 2 stairways and dormitory space for 32 women.

Sur-Meis-ing

By Shirley Meister

Rumors have been floating all over the campus this week, and they all came from the military side. First of all there was the rumor that Air Corps cadets were going to be sent to the University and that the ASTs would be sent to Texas. We marked that one down as idle chatter, until Tuesday when we were informed that General "Hap" Arnold of the Air Corps was in the Union for a conference. We sat down in Great Hall and waited to see our first five star general. We waited and waited and finally people started coming down the stairs. Straining our eyes and stretching our neck we glared at each lieutenant and captain that came down the steps, anxiously awaiting the general's appearance. He didn't come, which finally taught us the lesson that you mustn't believe in rumors.

One of the most noticeable sights this week was that lovely black eye Marian Yates is wearing. It really is a beaut and needs some explaining. It wasn't a door, or an elbow this time—it was a baseball bat! Marian was outside playing catcher in a neighborhood softball game when her little brother hit the ball and swung the bat against Marian's head. It was a strike all right and the total score was one black eye for Marian!

One of the many "war brides" on the campus handed in an English assignment which was a cartoon explaining the superiority theory of laughter. The cartoon was of a girl dressed as a cowboy with a lasso. The other girl in the cartoon asked the cowgirl if she wasn't going to extreme measures to catch a man.

Our bride wrote in her analysis, "I laughed at the cartoon because I felt superior to the girl—I've already roped my man."

Combat Infantry Badge, and an invasion ribbon.

Lieutenant Rose, a graduate of the University in 1941, went overseas and participated in the battles in France, Belgium, Luxembourg, and Germany. With the 99th Division he fought in the Battle of the Bulge in the Ardennes forest, and in action on the enemy flank his company was completely surrounded and captured by the Germans.

The lieutenant spent almost five months in various German prison of war camps, at last being sent to Hammelburg. In the latter part of March he and nine other men escaped and marched about 175 miles in six weeks.

Lieutenant Rose holds the ribbons for service prior to Pearl Harbor, the American Defense ribbon, the European Theatre of Operations ribbon, the Purple Heart and the Combat Infantry Badge.

Lieutenant Rose was flown to the United States from Europe, entered Nicholas General hospital, and from there was sent to the University.

Lieut. C. R. Hartshorn went from Fort Benning and Camp Hood, to England. From there he went to France with the 26th Division, where he was wounded on November 19. He was returned to the States on April 4, and sent to Fletcher General hospital, Cambridge, Ohio. He returned to this country on the Queen Mary.

The lieutenant holds the Purple Heart, the Combat Infantry Badge, and the ribbon for the European Theatre of Operations.

Lieutenant Joe Gafford, Louisville, was with an armored artillery division. He served in the front lines, directing targets. He, too, fought in the battle of the Bulge. He served in three major campaigns.

The Salt Shaker

By Billie Fischer

The big event of the week was supposed to have been UK Day at Joyland, but as we went to Joyland and saw fewer UK students there on that day than ever before, we will discuss the geology field trip to Natural Bridge instead.

All of us idiots (who else would register in a geology course?) piled into two field trucks early Saturday morning and started on our merry way. Everything continued merrily until we lost our lunch money in a poker game. We'll skip the gruesome details about the actual climbing, sliding, falling and clinging to the rocks in eastern Kentucky. Even the memory is revolting. But the rides to and fro were certainly gay. The entire group participated in a community sing in which the songs most often repeated were "Who Threw the Whiskey in the Well," "Leave the Dishes in the Sink, Ma" and a new one which we composed for the occasion. It is sung to the tune of "I Don't Want No More of Army Life," and is dedicated to Dr. Young, but the words are changed to "I Don't Want No More of Natural Bridge."

Another big event was the eclipse—we think. We don't know anyone who saw it. We set our alarm clock for 6:30 so that we'd be sure to see the whole thing, but we woke up in excited anticipation at 5:30 instead. So we went back to sleep and woke up at 6:00. By the time the alarm went off at 6:30, we were so sleepy that we could barely manage to turn off the alarm and crawl back into bed.

We were standing in the County Clerk's office in the Court house when a timid little woman approached the desk and asked, "Can

I get a marriage license, or do I have to have a man with me?" The clerk answered, "Just sit down and wait. There'll be plenty of men coming along soon."

The surprise of the week came Wednesday when Macky Stator married Cpl. Wilbur Bell, USMC. We're still too stunned to be able to say anything other than: the best of luck to two swell people. . . .

When 46-year-old Humphrey (The Leer) Bogart married 20-year-old Lauren (The Look) Bacall recently, he gulped down a Martini before the ceremony and murmured, "Oh, baby!" After the kiss, Bacall sighed and said, "Oh, goody!" . . . Pat Mendenhall is recuperating from an appendectomy in Paris. All visitors will be welcome. . . . We'd like to know who it was who phoned Paff hall the other night and offered to buy it. . . . A TWA hostess in Kansas has devised a method for keeping curls in place in wet weather. She dips them in beer. It's called a "beer-do." . . . It is interesting to note that a friend returned from Europe thinks that German women are more beautiful than American women because "they don't wear paint," and they work, "which makes them more beautiful." . . . There has been a change in the Sweet Swing schedule. Dancing in the men's gym will continue from 6 to 8 p.m. on Mondays and Fridays, but on Wednesdays it will be from 8 to 10 p.m. Everyone is invited, natch.

Three gay blades walked into a drug store and sat down at the fountain. "Coke," ordered the first one. "Root beer," said the second. "Milk," said the third, "I'm doing the driving."

Kernel Receives Prints Of Former UK Students

Throughout the past year The Kernel has received many glossy press prints of former University students now serving with the Armed Forces.

Because of publication restrictions and lack of adequate space, we have been unable to publish these pictures. It is felt that perhaps the families or friends of these men and women would welcome the opportunity of obtaining these prints and for this reason we are publishing the names of those we have identified. Anyone interested in having the pictures of any of the following persons are asked to come to room 9 in the basement of McVey hall to receive them.

7 Spots

By Adele Denman

1. ASTP: At a dance Wednesday night of last week, the TP's elected a queen, Gloria —, blond, of Patt hall. But like a modern Cinderella, this mystery woman was whisked away from the dance at the peak of her glory to return to a waiting fairy godmother, head resident of the dorm. She got home at the correct time.

Ella Doggett and Leslie Stalker may return to school the second term of summer school. Could education be the reason or two AST's?

2. Girls' dorm melodrama: Do you want to be a preacher's wife? Obviously someone does, or Jewell hall girls wouldn't be going wild over this handsome Reverend Logan Thomas who has invaded the campus.

Here comes the bride with a Marine! Who was the bride, but our own Macky Stator who was married Tuesday morning.

3. Survey: From an equally expert group of male grill sitters, the following information was obtained: Best all-round with the AST, Mary Dunlap; the girl who dates the most, Folly Thompson; a big drawing card at Jewell hall, Eleanor Keeti; best grill sitter, Joyce Cason.

4. Marriages, new couples, and engagements: Francis Emerson is taking the step Sunday, while Janelle Oakley will be out of the running as soon as she gets that wedding ring on. Those engaged are Lillian Henderson to George Dunn, Betty Woolum to Bob Ogden, and Janice Bowers to Gene Marlowe. Jane Bandy and Harry Bohannon haunt the swimming pools most every afternoon.

Why is the flag missing from the 18th hole at the Lexington Country club golf course? Ed Logan and Becky Brian could be responsible, but don't tell it at the club please. More than one flag now adorns the walls of Ed Logan's room.

Howard Stephenson and Liz Thomas swim in the same pond these days. There is a big interest, belonging to Ray Pryor which concerns Sue Flynn.

Mike Carmichael and Lee Wickliffe really enjoyed UK day at Joyland. Speaking of Joyland, the traditional playing of the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi, at every dance the Sigs attend, was not overlooked.

5. Odds and the End: Irv Spar and Rita Faye Kravetz are seen together constantly. Walter Leet is home again! Why does Irv Weinberg go to Winchester so much?

Baptist Students To Have Discussion

Baptist students will meet at 7:15 Saturday at the Union to go to the home of Mary Elizabeth Mason, acting president of the BSU, where they will discuss spiritual and practical problems facing modern young people.

It is said the weaker sex is often the stronger sex, because of the weakness of the stronger sex for the weaker sex.

The Lowe-Down

By Dick Lowe

How would the student body like to see a regular night football game as a curtain closer for the summer practice session?

If it is really wanted, if you will tell some of the players on the squad or Coach Shively or even "The Lowe Down," one might be arranged for the night of July 20—that's next Friday—a week from today.

Remember, though, it's up to you. Ask for the game and you stand a 100 per cent chance of getting it!

Spring football practice is fast drawing to a close and I imagine that most of the boys who have been out on the field every afternoon are not too sorry. The routine has been a gruelling affair especially since they have been running and tackling with all of the full season fury. Sometimes the sideline-drugstore coaches are quite surprised at the lack of mercy the boys show each other. They have laughed and repeated that practice is as good as any Kentucky-Tennessee game. There has been no favoritism shown by the coaches and not even a hint as to who will make up the first, second or any other team. So all an observer can say is that the boys are in good shape and most of them show winning ability.

Coach Bernie Shively is in good spirits over the way practice is turning out. He claims that one of the best signs he has about the condition of the boys is that they are staying on good playing weight throughout the hot weather. When some sixty-odd boys play 55 minutes of scrimmage in full regalia some of the vitality is usually gone but these fellows are back again the next afternoon ready for more of the same.

The only disappointing factor about the practice has been the lack of enthusiasm shown by the student body when it comes to watching these afternoon sessions and showing the team that they are interested in their future. Most of the fellows on the team are new and do not know of the spirit that will be shown when the regular season gets under way in the fall. The team is as much a part of the University now as it will be in the fall.

If this could be arranged perhaps the two assistant coaches would choose up teams and call it the Blue-White game. The two teams would be equally divided and that would give the public an idea of what to expect in the fall. They could play the game at night and give the fellows a forehand knowledge of play under the lights as there are four night games scheduled for this fall.

The game could be played as a benefit for the Stop-Over Station downtown, having no charge but perhaps a donation from the crowd as a tribute to the men in the service and give the fans a preview of what is to come thus serving two purposes. A band and a public address system would bring it up to regular season style.

All of the men on the team are anxious to show their ability and this would be an excellent opportunity. It has been so long since the last sport contest at the University that I am ready at any time to witness a good game of any description.

Maybe the idea will work and if it does the downtown papers will notify the public. This will be the last issue of The Kernel this term of summer school so if anything does develop they will break the news.

Remember, if you want to see this game be sure to express your desire and then be on hand for the event.

Club-life Differences Marked By Change From Tape Worm Quartette To Phalanx

By Betty Lee Fleishman

Would you like to join the Tape Worm Quartet or the Ever-empty Wake 'Em Ups society? Forty years ago those were among the organizations recognized on the University campus.

In the days when women wore ankle skirts, freak organizations were the fad as revealed by Kentucky annuals of the 1905-1907 era. These societies had short lives and only the fact of their existence and date of their organization is recorded. Expiration dates have been absorbed by time.

An example of these clubs was the Tau Beta Kakes whose motto was "Tis Better to Have Come and Loafed Than Never to Have Come at All." Their flower was the Touch-me-not. The Omega chapter of Tau Beta Kakes was established on the campus in 1906.

The Ever-empty Wake 'Em Ups was organized the following year. To become a member, a student must have an abnormal capacity to maintain life on a twelve-hour a week sleep basis with the working knowledge of at least 20 culinary departments. Their motto was "No Feedee, No Payee." The high officers of the club carried the impressive titles of Lord Grand Grub Graber, High Chief Putter Downer and Lord Grand Purveyor of Superfluous Eatings.

Several WCTU clubs were organized on the campus at various times and with various meanings. In one instance the WCTU stood for "Women Come Take Us" and the Kentucky chapter was WWW or "We Want Wives." In opposition to this society was the "Women Can't Take Us" club with the chapter of FFF of "Free From Females" established on the campus.

On the pages of today's Kentuckian which are graced by Phalanx, Cwens, Alpha Lambda Delta, the annual 40 years ago contained members of the Order of the Bald Heads and the Tape Worms Quartette. One great difference between the organizations of today and the freak groups of yesterday are the length of their existence. The latter clubs averaged a year-and-a-half to two years existence.

The Chain Swaggers club is another group which got its start about 40 years ago. The group was composed mainly, if not wholly, of lazily inclined individuals who attended college primarily for the purpose of loafing. Their motto was "We Find No Excellence In Great Labor." This group is still in existence although it is no longer fully organized. Meetings are held regularly in the Student Union grill during each convocation.

Visitor: Isn't it lovely to have bees, Willie? Do you know "How doth the little busy bee"?

Willie: No, I don't but I know when you monkey with him he doth it.

DRAWS ON THE NEWS

GROVER PAGE, a COURIER-JOURNAL cartoonist for almost thirty years, is a visual editorialist who interprets the news with his brush and pen. The war, international politics with their vast implications, national, regional and local affairs . . . all are reflected in his work.

He calls himself a "short order" artist because he executes most of his sketches in about half an hour. However, they are preceded by endless thought, and quite often, conferences with Courier-Journal editors. His cartoons, built upon a solid foundation of accumulated fact, are usually taken directly from stories in the morning paper . . . which he digests with his breakfast. Besides his daily cartoon, he produces an astringent Sunday strip of the week's outstanding events.

Grover insists that a cartoonist never stops working except when he sleeps, as even his small, every-day experiences give him material to translate the world's most complicated situations. His own interests are varied . . . they have to be in his job! You can tell, for example, that he is an ardent fisherman from the angler influence in many of his drawings.

Grover came to The Courier-Journal from The Nashville Tennessean. Previously he studied art in Chicago, for since he was ten, he determined to cartoon. Even so, he started out as a mechanical engineer and his first cartoon was published at sixteen, when he was working on a water supply project in his home town of Gastonia, North Carolina.

Famous for his prize winning wood-cuts as well as cartoons, Grover has taken many of them from drawings he's made in rural Kentucky and Southern Indiana. His son, Staff Sgt. Grover Page, Jr., inherits his father's talent and is now a front-line sketcher with the 38th Division in the South Pacific.

The Pages live in Louisville, though their first seventeen years in this part of the country were spent in New Albany, Indiana. Grover plans to stay here the rest of his life, working at the same drawing board he has used for almost thirty years.
