A Fortress Of Independent Thought

Franklin D. Roosevelt recently told a youth group to use the American campus as a fortress of democracy.

Does this add up to anything? Don't we feel any stirring of desire to know "what" and "why"?

Do you believe in lifting the embargo on loyalist Spain? What about the sale of munitions and raw materials to Japan?

Do you think it necessary to "arm to the teeth" to insure peace? Do you believe that America can get along without becoming involved in foreign affairs?

Do you believe all of the propaganda, foreign and local, which is printed in the papers of today?

Do you believe everything your professors tell you? If you know "what is democracy," do you think it is being abused in America today?

Most of us have a hazy idea that democracy is good. And we are interested in seeing democracy flourish where education is most active.

That is why we, also, like to call the campus a "fortress of democracy." But before the campus can be any kind of fortress, students must show that they can think for themselves.

So on tomorrow, Washington's 207 birthday, let us dedicate the campus as a fortress of Independent Thought.

thinks should be commented upon. In other words, it is a sort of glorified editorial column.

We would like to feel that the column is not merely for "cranks" and the self-styled "martyrs."

One Way To Back The Team

Although there are only two home basketball games remaining on the Wildcat schedule, it is not too late to put in a plea that students refrain from smoking in the gym.

At every game held in the gym this season, there has been a special request from the coaches of both teams and from the players themselves that the spectators do not smoke—but each time the request has been partially disregarded.

There is more to supporting a good basketball team than just yelling and cheering when a basket is made.

Let's support the team in actions as well as in words. Observance of the no-smoking rule would be an excellent way of giving a silent vote of thanks for the fine games which we have enjoyed this year.—N. O.

Scrap Irony

By HARRY WILLIAMS

It seems almost too much that on top of everything else this year we have to do honor to George Washington. It's the wrong year, if the right general, and the administration of the first President obviously holds little that would lead to the present situation.

The U. S. Department of Entomological Statistics has conjured up another survey. Insects, they say, are fast multiplying and will, by a sort of "coup d'etat" take over the planet in 1239 A. D.

Nothing disturbs us so much as to see a large lady fall down in the street. Somehow when a man falls down it doesn't seem so disastrous, just sort of comic.

Another interesting story concerns an engineering student in the same name school who, after the conference, asked to be taken by the same man to serve in an engineering capacity in frontier territories.

Not Asked Of Everyone These incidents, though very noble for those concerned, are not, stated the speaker, to be construed as examples of the meaning of the Religion-in-Life meetings.

Financing The Conferences When questioned as to the financing of the meetings, Dr. Bader replied that he was glad to say that students were under absolutely no obligations.

And so, judging from statements made by the head of these conferences, youth is definitely on the upgrade. All it lacks is a tangible goal in life, and this the Conferences will endeavor to furnish.

There is something wistful about Robin Sweeney. Impeccably dressed, he goes about his daily business with an air of sublime detachment.

THE LEXINGTON HERALD—"Excellent directed."

THE LEXINGTON LEADER—"Directed excellently."

Don Irvine—"It is regrettable that more of the action did not occur off stage."

So accustomed have I become to hearing that the youth of America has purchased a one-way ticket to dolefulness, it was with pleasantly burning ears that I recently heard someone say that this is the finest generation of young people that this country has ever produced.

Nothing To Live For? The rub comes, however, when Dr. Bader states that we lack one thing which is capable of having us foundering in a sea of uncertainty—namely, the lack of a cause.

Goologists To Go To Canada This Summer Beginning geologists—and graduates too—will have a chance to test their hard-earned knowledge this summer when the annual department pilgrimage to some geologic shrine sets forth on June 1, this time the ultimate destination being Montreal and Quebec.

Under the direction of Dr. A. C. McFarlan, head of the department of geology and David M. Young, curator of the museum, the students will bump along in the department truck through the Appalachian mountains into Canada.

Mines and mineral deposits of these regions will be studied. Among the more important are the anthracite coal field and state quarries of Vermont and elsewhere, and the asbestos operations of Thetford, Quebec.

Special attention will be devoted to such features as the Palisades of the Hudson river valley, the red triassic shales and sandstones of the Connecticut valley with their fossil dinosaur tracks, and the Martie orichryst, formed by the general Appalachian deformation in which slices of the earth's crust have been thrust westward of their original positions.

Two courses are offered for the trip: geology 118 for advanced majors and geology 23 for those who have had elementary geology. Students taking the trip will receive two credits for either course.

UK Gets Specimen Of Aged Meteorite

A specimen of the century-old Smithsonian meteorite discovered in Livingston county has been acquired by the meteorite museum, David M. Young, instructor in the department of geology, said yesterday.

The meteorite is of the nickel-iron variety and its discovery created much excitement 100 years ago as its finders thought they had found

Pick-Up

Two palpitating hearts were merged into the proverbial one last Saturday, when the fortunes of Miss Emory Huggins of Lexington, and Mr. Douglas Parrish were put into a joint account.

Characteristic of the attitude that she intended to ask no-one. Now, Miss Brown is actively courted by at least two boys, and dated by many more.

It would seem that gals of this type could welcome a chance to express a little appreciation for what the boys do for them.

Mr. Robert Houlihan, local Lohrario, and self-styled prexy of the Catholic Club, and Mr. Billy Spicer, Lexington, top, were seen being exultantly cited in the Gazette Saturday night.

A number of sororities on the campus are gratified over the fact that Mary Stucky has just been relieved of student-ship at Margaret Hill, a prep place for little girls.

Oral Ruth, new Tri-Edi Kneophyte, looks decidedly distinct today. Miriam Guardhouse nearly caused a riot out at the Delta house dance the other night, with her intonation of a seal.

At the same dance, a certain little brunette, who is secretary to the downtown club, caused quite a number of pulse-jumps among the Delta.

Calling 'Em Wild

By JOE CREASON

IF I MAY be allowed to coin a phrase—most extraordinary, this Kentucky swimming team.

So far as having a swimming pool is concerned, according to prevalent rumors, Kentucky is as waterless as a hermit's sun-bath. Therefore, one would naturally suspect that a Kentucky swimming team would look about as formidable as Eliza crossing the ice. But not so and proven by the Wildcat record for the year.

To date (Monday morning) the amphibious Cats have started three meets and have, without being as yet extended, dunked Eastern Teachers college, Maryville and Tennessee in succession. Not being content merely with these meets, the Blues have been as thorough in doing their baptizing as a Negro minister. The three meets represent a total of 26 events, of which Kentucky has scored over 50 points, taking the first two steps of a three-meet Southern tour. As this column is on its way off the press, the Cats are making their last start against Georgia Tech in Atlanta.

Gather And Hear
The tale of how the swimming team came into existence is a campus legend and should be familiar to even the most insignificant freshman. For those who possibly have never heard of the team's genesis—gather my children and you shall hear a thumb nail version.

Four years, it is now, that the team has sprouted from a dormitory ball session. Since a pool is of as much importance to a swimming team as his tongue is to an ant eater, the first obstacle to be hurdled by team members was the procuring of a water hole for practice. Authorities at Eastern State Teachers college, 25 miles away, were contacted and graciously offered to lend their state-built pool as rehearsal water for the Wildcats. So on a bleak day four years ago, the first car loads of these swimming pioneers started a crusade to Richmond that is even today carried on.

Pay Their Way
At first expense money for the trips came from the pockets of team members, then a chair for the sport was added to the Kentucky athletic table and the team was recognized as a full fledged minor sport. This year the new athletic department striving in every way to make for Kentucky a well rounded sports program, will use a sum of money to be used in helping the team pay its way.

Thursday night a yearly benefit basketball dispute, involving a hand-picked team of faculty members and the coaching staff will be held in Alumni gym with the proceeds going to the swimming team and the "K" club, organization of varsity major lettermen. The admission will be 10 cents per head and take my word for it, the game will afford more spills than an eye sideways.

Year Chance To Help
Sponsored by ODK, this game offers you and me a chance to show our loyalty to a couple of organizations that are worthy of all we can do for them. And it isn't as though they were asking us to contribute our dime and get nothing in return. As an added appetizer to the game, a bevy of football players—long favorites of stage fright!

BILL WALL WINS IN BILLIARD TOURNEY

The first pocket billiard tournament ever held at the University, sponsored by the athletic department and the Student Union, was concluded with Bill Wall, Arts and Sciences senior from Harlan, being crowned champion.

Runner-up honors in the elimination that attracted a starting field of 50, went to Houston Curtis. Both finalists will receive trophies and Wall will be given a cue stick presented to the tourney winner by Charles Peterson, world's champion trick-shot artist who made a recent exhibition here. All the matches were held in the Union billiard room.

Due to the increased interest being shown in billiards and pocket billiard the tournament will become an annual event. The sport will also be included on next year's intramural program and points will be given for team and individual placings. A team of seven members has also been elected to represent Kentucky in the National inter-collegiate Pocket Billiard Championships to be held March 9.

WILDCATS

Since brotherly love is any Kentucky-Xavier contest is as scarce as hares at a fish fry, tonight's brawl will be expected to be rougher than a game of sand-paper.

Revenge On Vols
Coach Adolph Rupp will probably start the same Kentucky team that nipped Tennessee by 36-24 Saturday night in a game that for the region is playing time and two extra periods was closer than Spanish shadows. A hoping foul for the region's foul line by Keith Farnley midway of the second overtime stanza provided the margin of victory for the Cats.

Kentucky started the game fast and at half time held a 19-15 advantage. The Vols opened their second-half offense and forged into a 23-21 lead with 8 minutes remaining in the game. With 4 minutes to play Tennessee was on a roll by 29-26 when Kentucky opened a tally that pushed the Cats into a 32-29 lead. As the game ended the Vols tied the score tighter than a hangman's noose with a field goal and a foul shot.

In the first overtime Curtis and Opper hit fouls for Kentucky but Logan buried the cork with a field goal far from out. Then in the second extra period Farnley hit his climactic field goal.

Opper Leads Scorers
Captain Bernie Opper, continuing his fine play, led the Kentucky scoring parade with 11 points. Farnley and Thompson, with 10 and 9 points, respectively, were next high for the Cats. Thomas, with 12 points, led the Tennessee scorers, followed by Huffman with 8. The win for Kentucky averaged an earlier 30-29 defeat from the Vols in Lexington.

Tonight's probable starting lineup:
Kentucky: Opper, F, Center; Curtis, F, Forward; Thompson or Clugbill, C, Center; Opper or Huber, G, Guard; Boone or Hester, G, Guard.
Xavier: Neely, F, Forward; Carr, F, Forward; Hove, F, Forward; Donovan, F, Forward; Beller, G, Guard.

DAVENPORT WILL SPEAK
Miss Iris Davenport of the home economics department will speak on "Grooming for Business" before the YWCA at 7:15 p. m. Wednesday.

SOUTHERN SWIMMING BRINGS EASY WINS TO DRY-LAND TEAM

In the first two steps of a three-meet Southern tour Kentucky's "dry-land" team rolled over Maryville by a margin of 54-21. Friday night and Saturday afternoon ducked Tennessee, 51-23.

Both starts found Kentucky placing winners in seven of the nine events on the program. Against Maryville the Cats lost only the 200-yard free style and 400 yard free style, while Tennessee placed winners in the 150 yard backstroke and 400 yard free style. The wins ran Kentucky's record for the year to three triumphs in as many starts.

The Maryville meet found the Cat 150 yard medley relay team covering the distance in 1:35.5 to open the meet with a Kentucky first. After dropping the 200 yard free style, Roberts and Ramsey, in that order, swept the 50 yard free style, Curtis and Stephenson finished one and two in the diving contest. Ramsey took the 100 yard free style in 59.8 and Scott followed by capturing the Herb Hillenmeyer, swept the 100 yard back stroke points for Kentucky. The 100 yard medley relay team were taken by Hinkbein and Riddell. The meet concluded with Kentucky's 200-yard relay team stroking to first honors.

The 51-23 drubbing of Tennessee marked the first loss in four starts for the Volunteers. In three events, Kentucky placed men first and second. Curtis and Stephenson finished one and two in the diving exhibition in that order. In the 100 yard free style Frank Roberts broke first tape in the fast time of 57.6. Eddie David took the 200 yard free style in a clocking of 2:29.4 after the 300 yard medley relay team had opened the meet with a Kentucky first. Jones of Tennessee taking top honors in the diving exhibition in the fast time of 57.6. The 200 yard breaststroke was taken by Sherman Hinkbein and the 400 yard relay team finished the meet with a final first.
