UK Library Receives State Grant

The Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives has awarded King Library a $30,000 grant to fund 60% of the cost of converting a portion of King's catalog to computer readable form. Such conversions are an important part of the Department's network development activity, a program promoting statewide interlibrary lending. The program's goal is to provide all Kentuckians quick, economical access to books and periodicals held by any participating library in the state.

The award to the University of Kentucky and similar grants to Eastern Kentucky University and the University of Louisville were decided upon by a panel of five librarians from Kentucky, Indiana, and Ohio. Decisions were based solely on the merits of proposals submitted by these and other competing institutions. In making the award, Mr. Nelson stated that such grants will be made once each year while the program continues and as long as funds are available.

Fellowships to Newberry Library

The University of Kentucky has become a member of Chicago's Newberry Library Center for Renaissance Studies, a consortium also associated with The Folger Institute of Renaissance and Eighteenth-Century Studies.

As a result, the Center will reserve up to $2,000 in fellowship money for UK faculty, graduate students, or library staff who wish to travel to the Newberry Library to pursue research in the Renaissance and/or Eighteenth Century. The Newberry is one of the great research libraries in America, and has extensive holdings in a number of fields. The research can be conducted during the school year or during the summer.

The Center also will conduct a number of seminars in 1984-85 for which UK people will be eligible. The fellowship money can be used to support attendance at these seminars or it may be used for any research project at the Newberry. Some upcoming seminars will be:

1. "Renaissance Rhetoric in Theory and Practice"
Instructor: Samuel Jaffe, Department of Germanic
Languages and Literatures, University of Chicago
Winter 1985: January 7 - March 23
Wednesdays, 1:00 - 4:00 pm.
2. "Cervantes and the Development of the Novel"
Instructor: Ruth El Saffar, Department of English
University of Illinois at Chicago
October 2 - December 11
3. "The Cartography of the Renaissance: Changing
Perceptions of Space in Early Modern Europe"
Instructor: David Buisseret, Director, Hermon
Dunlap Smith Center for the History of Cartography, the Newberry Library
Spring, 1985: April 3 - May 22
Wednesday, 1:00 - 4:00 pm

A Newberry Consortium Committee has been appointed at UK to review research proposals from faculty and graduate students. Proposals will be accepted any time between now and April 1st.

If you are interested in applying, please submit a proposal which:

- (a) describes your research
- (b) indicates your funding needs
- (c) indicates why the Newberry Library is essential for your project
- (d) includes a curriculum vita.

Send the proposal to:

Robert Hemenway, Chair
Newberry Library Committee
English Department
University of Kentucky.

ALA Directory Has New Automation Data

The library automation explosion is being charted for the first time with the publication on August 31 of the 37th edition of The American Library Directory [Ready Ref./Z/731/.A53]. It contains the record of greatly expanded automation in American and Canadian libraries, with data and vendor names for hardware and software; lists of functions automated, catalog type; and information on the use of online reference systems. Included are installations in public, research, academic, and special libraries. (Library Journal (Oct. 15, 1984), p.1881)
