They Have Earned Their "L" For Loyalty

Less than a month remains in which loyal alumni may participate in the 1949-'50 annual "giving" program sponsored by the Alumni Association to raise funds for the Alumni Loyalty Fund.

June 1st marks a new fiscal year for the Alumni Association, so gifts sent in now and before May 31st will be attributed to the current campaign, and will swell the grand total to quite good proportions.

To date alumni have contributed $4,428.50 to the Loyalty Fund for 1949-'50, and while this is not an impressive sum when divided by the total number of alumni who are eligible to contribute, still it shows a steady flow of interest between our alumni and Alma Mater.

GET YOUR CONTRIBUTION FOR 1949-'50 IN NOW, AND MAKE YOUR GIVING AN ANNUAL TRIBUTE TO ALMA MATER.

The Cover

Designated by the Metropolitan Sports Writers Association of New York City as "Coach of the Year," Adolph F. Rupp, the man in the brown suit who is known to the world of sports as "The Baron of Basketball," poses for our cover picture with some of his 1949-'50 trophies. In his hand is the mahogany and silver plaque presented to him by Sam Coreswett, basketball chairman of the Sugar Bowl, for his contributions in the past to the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Carnival. To his right, in order, are: Sugar Bowl championship trophy; Southeastern Conference championship trophy and the "Coach of the Year" award.

"I WILL SING ONE SONG . . ."

The Old Kentucky Home is beckoning to Kentucky Alumni, scattered all over the world, to come home in June.

There is special significance to every Kentucky alumnus in homecoming this year, as the year 1950 has been designated by the Governor of the Commonwealth as "My Old Kentucky Homecoming," and to that hearty invitation from the chief executive we are adding the urgent plea to every Kentucky graduate and former student to come back to the campus for June reunions, May 31 and June 1 and 2.

Travel where you may, wander far as you sometimes must, you will never find anything or anyplace comparable to Kentucky in June. This is the time of year when the campus of your Alma Mater blooms in splendor, and when memories spring from behind each gnarled old tree and slip from the corners of the ivy-covered buildings to haunt you with the care-free recollections of days that are gone.

Come back to Kentucky for June reunions—meet old classmates, see your former teachers, renew acquaintances at the fountain of memory which springs forever fresh from the heart of your Alma Mater. You men and women who do not come back will be the losers, for in missing this reunion you will miss your rendezvous with youth!

A GOOD SUGGESTION

Dr. H. L. Donovan said at the banquet for the University of Kentucky basketball team that he hoped students, alumni and friends of the University would set an example of "real sportsmanship" when the Wildcat basketball team begins playing in the new Memorial Coliseum next winter. This suggestion of the University president, if carried out, certainly would add noticeably to Kentucky's already-great basketball prestige.

Those who have seen basketball games at the University in the last few years realized that a good deal of the student booing at games stemmed more from youthful exuberance than from poor sportsmanship. Much of it originally was pure horseplay, particularly when officials were booed for rulings against opposing teams that were trailing the Wildcats by wide margins. Similarly, the students cheered opposing teams when they scored against the Wildcats. Thus the booing seems to have been an outgrowth of the days when the Wildcats were vastly stronger than most of the visiting teams.

However, students during the past season were criticized for genuine booing of officials and visiting players in closely contested games. Under such circumstances, the practice hardly can be viewed objectively as good-natured horseplay, and should it continue, the University's reputation for sportsmanship would suffer.

Dr. Donovan's hope that fans in the future will "set a good example of sportsmanship at the University" is commendable. Kentucky has been acclaimed for bringing big-league basketball to the South. A reputation for good sportsmanship also is worth striving for.

Sugar Bowl Official Is Banquet Speaker

Sam Corens wet, of New Orleans, La., basketball chairman of the Sugar Bowl, was the principal speaker at the Alumni Association's annual banquet held March 20 for the basketball coaches and varsity and freshman squads.

Approximately 400 persons attended the celebration at which Jim Line, senior from Akron, Ohio, was voted the Lederer trophy by his teammates for the most valuable player award, and Walt Hirsch, only junior on the squad, was the unanimous choice of his teammates to captain the 1950-'51 varsity team.

Other speakers included President H. L. Donovan, who brought congratulations from the University administration; J. Stephens Watkins, president of the Alumni Association and basketball "Coach of the Year" Adolph F. Rupp.

Mr. Corens wet, in his talk, told a bit of the history of the Sugar Bowl carnival of sports and stressed the part played in it by the University of Kentucky basketball teams.

Kentucky played in the Sugar Bowl when we needed friends," Corens wet said, "and by so doing helped us build up the Sugar Bowl basketball program in addition to stimulating interest in basketball in the South.

"When we first played basketball in the Sugar Bowl back in 1935 it was a financial bust," Corens wet continued. "The paid attendance was only 700. Last year we had capacity crowds at all sessions and many fans were offering to trade Sugar Bowl football tickets for basketball tickets.

"The Sugar Bowl organization appreciates the help the University of Kentucky has given in furthering its basketball program and I'm sure all Sugar Bowlers are looking forward to the time when we will have two Kentucky teams—the basketballers and the football team—in the Sugar Bowl the same year."

Dr. Herman L. Donovan, president of the University, lauded the team for its 25-5 record in a year when it was not expected to do much. In commenting on Rupp's selection by the Metropolitan Basketball Writers Association as the "Coach of the Year," Dr. Donovan said, "He has been 'Coach of the Year' in my book for the last nine years."

Coach Rupp paid high tribute to his players, saying that the task they faced at the start of the season was tougher than usual because they followed "the greatest college basketball team in history."

Rupp said he had no excuses for his team's 89-50 loss to CCNY in the National Invitation tournament. "They kicked our teeth out," he said. "We've dished it out and we showed we can take it. But I'll promise you this—some day we're going back to New York and reverse that score!"

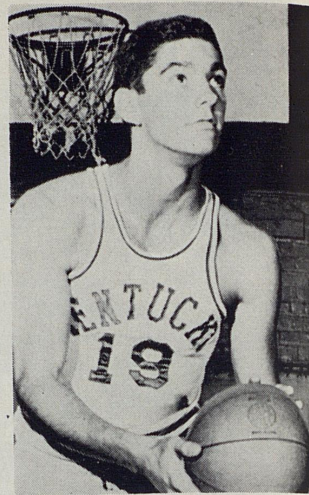

J. Stephen Watkins, president of the Alumni Association, praised Rupp and the team for having a great season, despite the loss of the Fabulous Four from last year's squad.

Retiring Capt. Dale Barnstable, on behalf of the other seniors on the squad — Jim Line and Garland Townes — presented a gift to Coach Rupp and the seniors in turn were given gifts by the Alumni Association, the presentation being made by Miss Helen King, secretary of the association.

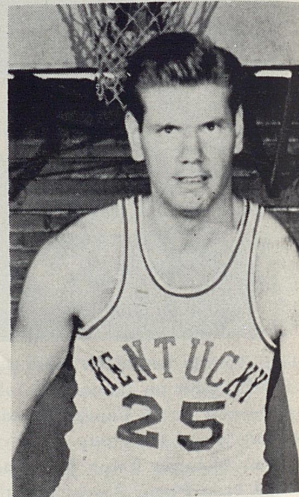

Varsity letters, awarded by Coach Adolph Rupp, were presented to Barnstable; Line; Big Bill Spivey, seven-foot center who led the cats with 578 points the past season; Walt Hirsch; Bobby Watson; Lucian Whitaker; Shelby Linville; Len Pearson; Guy Strong and Garland Townes.

Freshman numerals were given to Cliff Hagan, Frank Ramsey, Dick Pikrone, Dwight Price, Lindle Castle, Louis Tsioropoulos and Chesley Riddle.

Athletic Director Bernie Shively served as toastmaster. The invocation was pronounced by Capt. Barnstable and vocal selections were offered by Dick Pikrone, member of the freshman squad, and the Meltones, UK singing group.

Carroll H. Robie, Jr., '46, of Lexington, received the Doctor of Medicine degree from the Ohio State University at commencement exercises held last June.

Delta Chi's Hold First Big Reunion

Delta Chi social fraternity held its first major alumni reunion on the campus, March 24 and 25, since the founding of the group at U.K. in 1913, for the purpose of reorganizing and electing officers of the association.

William Lee Smith, '16, of Hollywood, Calif., was elected president of the fraternity alumni, J. Owens Reynolds, '15, of Lexington, was elected vice president and James Carroll, '37, of Owensboro, was named secretary-treasurer.

On March 24 the fraternity held a banquet at which E. T. Proctor, Nashville, Tenn., served as toastmaster. Mayor Tom Mooney, of Lexington, a Delta Chi alumnus, welcomed the members to Lexington, and Mr. Reynolds introduced the speakers and other prominent guests.

William H. Townsend, of Lexington, Delta Chi and noted Lincoln authority and historian, gave the principal address, his subject being, "Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgotten?"

After a song by the Delta Chi Glee Club, Mr. Smith addressed the alumni on the subject, "Where Do We Go From Here?"

A luncheon-business meeting was held Saturday, March 25, at which time the new officers were chosen and by-laws of the association adopted. Plans were made for another meeting of the association next fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenney H. Rollins of Chicago, Ill., will be able to supply the Wildcats with a cheer leader about 1968. The former Wildcat basketball captain and Olympic star and his wife are the proud parents of a daughter, Corinne Murray, born January 14 in Chicago.

J. Mack Wynn, of Louisville, sales director for radio station WHAS, has been appointed advertising director of the Atlanta Journal.

Sugar Bowl Honors Coach Rupp

A mahogany and silver plaque, prepared for Coach Rupp by the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association (Sugar Bowlers) recognizing his contributions to the success of past Sugar Bowl basketball events was delayed in arrival, and was presented to Coach Rupp by Mr. Corenswet just before his departure for New Orleans by air the following morning.

Wording on the plaque states:

NEW ORLEANS MID-WINTER SPORTS ASSOCIATION
 sponsors of the
SUGAR BOWL CLASSIC
 in sincere appreciation of his splendid contributions

'Heart Failure Kids' Win SEC Championship

By Ken Kuhn

Sports Publicity Editor

Late last November, while most everyone was thoroughly engrossed with football bowl talk, Kentucky's master strategist of the hardwood Adolph Rupp made a seemingly insignificant statement to the press on the prospects of his cagers for the 1949-50 season.

Essentially, he pointed out that his defending national champions would be at the lowest ebb in recent years and that the sophomore-studded crew succeeding the "Fabulous Four" could not be expected to offer more than token resistance to the abundance of good teams on the schedule.

In other words, Uncle Adolph was giving fair warning to friend and foe alike that this was the year to beat Kentucky.

Few, if any, of the Wildcat faithful were inclined to believe The Baron was kidding, despite the presence of some promising sophomores from the undefeated freshman squad of 1948-49. Not many considered seven-foot pivotman Bill Spivey polished enough to make opponents forget the exploits of All-American Al Groza. Nor did partisan fans think much of the chances of boys like Bobby Watson, the 5'10" successor to Ralph Beard; Len Pearson; Skippy Whitaker; and fellow sophs. The presence of veterans like Capt. Dale Barnstable, a steadying influence at guard; Jim Line, the sharp-shooting southpaw forward; and Walt Hirsch, a steadily-improving ball hawker of the Cliff Barker school, was heartening but hardly strong enough to make up for the expected weaknesses in other positions, it was reasoned.

The basketekers strengthened the reasoning of Mr. Average Fan when they came up with a bad case of jitters at Madison Square Garden and lost a close decision to high-flying St. John's, 58-69. A few night later, obviously still jittery, they barely squeezed by DePaul in a game at Louisville, 49-47.

The die seemed cast for a mediocre season. But those who gave up hope about this point reckoned without the strategy of Baron Rupp and the determination of the "Heart Failure Kids," as sportswriters dubbed the combination veteran-sophomore team.

Determined to prove critics foolishly wrong, Coach Rupp experimented with various lineups until he hit on a team that turned the tide starting with the Purdue game. The Boilermakers were rated one of the strongest teams in the Midwest at this stage of the season, but fell before the onslaught of the Wildcats, 60-54.

The ears of the basketball world picked up suspiciously with that, but Kentucky still was rated an underdog as they entered the jinxed Sugar Bowl tournament at year's end. Better teams than the current Wildcats had lost prestige and had long winning streaks snapped in this New Orleans classic, including the "Fabulous Four" who never managed to win the tourney. But Kentucky's sophomores amazed the cage fraternity by knocking off Villanova, 57-56, and then taking the measure of Bradley, 71-66, to annex the Sugar Bowl championship.

Fresh from setting the dopesters on their ears with this unheralded victory, the unpredictable Cats four games later further confused the Southeastern and national cage picture by dropping a heart-breaking decision to arch-rival Tennessee, 53-66, at Knoxville. Although they were destined to conquer the Vols decisively in two later meetings, this game was disastrous to the record books since it marked an end to Kentucky's record of 64 consecutive victories over SEC competition, which dated back to another loss to Tennessee in 1945.

The remainder of the season before tournament time was somewhat anticlimatic and, although the Wildcats dropped decisions to Georgia and Notre Dame, surprising success was the keynote.

Perhaps the most thrilling part of the record was the regular season finale against Vanderbilt to decide first place position in the conference. Roaring from behind a 12-point half-time deficit, the Ruppmen played near-perfect ball to win 70-66 and keep intact their home floor national record of 84 straight victories. Still another highlight was the Georgia Tech game late in the season that saw Spivey score 40 points to break Groza's conference single game scoring mark.

With a surprising 22-4 record, Kentucky went into the annual SEC tournament at Louisville top-seeded but a short-odds favorite to take the title for the seventh straight year. But the odds-makers again had sold the Wildcats short as they climaxed their bid for the conference halo with a record-breaking 95-58 humiliation of Tennessee in the finals.

The smashing defeat of the Vols was intended, in the eyes of observers, to serve a two-fold purpose: (1) To gain revenge for Tennessee's upstart upset of the early season and (2) To clinch a bid for the NCAA Tournament selection committee to defend the championship.

However, the selection committee (or, more specifically, Gus Tebell, of Virginia, the chairman) had already decided that North Carolina State would represent the South despite a record that did not compare equally with Kentucky's.

Snubbed by the NCAA committee, the Wildcats immediately accepted an opportunity to participate in the National Invitation Tournament meet in which even the "Fabulous Four" consistently suffered ill fate. Fate seemed against the Kentuckians again as they ran up against a red-hot City College of New York team that could do nothing wrong. The score, an incidental aftermath, was 89 to 50—the worst defeat for a Rupp-coached Kentucky team in history.

Florida Game, Nov. 4 Homecoming Date

At the March meeting of the executive committee of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association, the Kentucky-Florida football game on Nov. 4 was unanimously chosen for the 1950 homecoming date.

The game will be played at 2 p.m. on Stoll Field, and an elaborate program of events will be planned for homecomers. Put the date on your calendar now, and plan to come back to Kentucky on Nov. 4.

How to mould a smattering of potentially good sophomores and an all-too-few group of veterans into a smooth-working, dangerous gridiron unit is the acute problem facing Kentucky's grid chieftan, Coach Paul Bryant, for the coming 1950 campaign.

Plagued by the absence of 16 lettermen lost from last season's surprise team of the south by graduation and other causes, the Wildcats' spring drills were concentrated on finding that elusive combination that can be depended upon to drive through the extensive and tough 11-game schedule planned for them.

"A lot of the boys are looking good," Coach Bryant explained at the end of the third week of the spring training after he had put the team through its first full-scale scrimmage. "But they are looking good individually, not as a team unit. We will have to get a lot of work done and improve our team play before we'll be ready for any one of the many tough teams on our schedule."

Summing up his main weaknesses on the 1950 edition of the Wildcats, Coach Bryant pointed to an over-all weakness in depth of good personnel at most positions and a definite lack of the team speed that characterized last year's team.

Holway, 1949 alternate captain and regular left guard, recently was selected as an assistant coach to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Asst. Coach Joe Atkinson. Ermal Allen, former U.K. star and a Bryant assistant for four years, will take over the freshmen coaching duties.

Heading a list of 31 returning lettermen will be big Bob Gain, All-American tackle candidate, and Wilbur (Shorty) Jamerson, the Henderson flash who scored Kentucky's first touchdown in a major bowl game (the Orange Bowl encounter last New Years with Santa Clara). The two-three-letter seniors were named by their teammates as co-captains for the 1950 season.

Other regulars of last season returning to action include Ben Zaranka, Bob Pope, Jim Mackenzie, Doug Mos-

The inexperienced Wildcats had advanced beyond all expectations, their mentor had been voted "Coach of the Year" by New York sportswriters in recognition of their accomplishments, and there was next year to think about . . . with Hagan, Ramsey, Pikrone, Tsioropoulos, Price, Castle and Riddle graduating from one of Kentucky's best freshman teams to fill spots vacated by Capt. Barnstable, Jim Line and Spec Townes.

Co-Captains Gain, Jamerson

Big Bob Gain, from Wierton, W. Va., All-Southeastern tackle who made the 1949 Players All-America, and Wilbur "Shorty" Jamerson, 168-pound halfback from Henderson, Ky., have been elected co-captains of the 1950 Wildcat football team.

Bob And Lorraine McDowell Give $2,000 Scholarship

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. McDowell, of Cleveland, Ohio, Bob and Lorraine (Leper) to their former classmates and University friends, have established a $2,000 scholarship for freshmen engineering students at the University, to be known as the McDowell scholarship.

Mr. and Mrs. McDowell are president and secretary-treasurer respectively of their own engineering company in Cleveland, established in 1944, and proof of their success is the engineering staff which includes registered graduate engineers and approximately 500 field, office, and yard people, doing an average annual business in excess of $4,000,000.

Bob McDowell was graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1935 with a B.S.C.E. degree, and received his C.E. from the state institution in 1943. His wife left the University in 1937 before completing work toward her degree.

A native of Shelby county, Mr. McDowell received his early education there and was graduated from Simpson High School in 1930. During his college career he was drum major of the band for three years and captain of the same famous outfit.

The McDowell Company specializes in a complete engineering service for heavy industry including construction of steel buildings and bridges, movable and fixed; coal and ore handling equipment and dock machinery and heavy mill-wrighting.

Howard Bowles With Chamber Of Commerce

Howard C. Bowles, former University of Kentucky student, has been named director of member relations for the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Bowles assumed his new duties last August. He has been district sales manager for Birch Distributors, Inc., of Ashland, and formerly was in charge of sales and advertising for the Sandy Valley Grocery Co., also of Ashland.

A Navy flier during the war and a former University student, Bowles has been active in state, civic, Junior Chamber and veterans affairs.

Florida Game, Nov. 4 Is Homecoming

Bryantmen face a challenge to continue their progress up the big-time football ladder.

The 1950 schedule finds the Wildcats opening with five straight night games at home: Sept. 16—North Texas State College; Sept. 23—Louisiana State; Sept. 30—Mississippi; Oct. 7—University of Dayton (Ohio); Oct. 14—Cincinnati. Villanova, Kentucky's victim in the Great Lakes Bowl of 1947, and Georgia Tech, a returnee of the U.K. grid program, will be faced on their respective home grounds Oct. 21 and Oct. 28. Florida's Gators will visit Lexington Nov. 4 to help Kentuckians celebrate homecoming. On Nov. 11, the Cats will meet Mississippi State away and on Nov. 18 North Dakota University will be the opponent in Lexington. The final game of the season will be against arch-rival Tennessee at Knoxville, Nov. 25.

Six SEC foes are on the schedule and recent announcements have given an indication that the Cats will play more conference teams in future seasons. Vanderbilt will return to the U.K. schedule in 1953 and Tulane is scheduled to resume a home and home series in 1951. The Lexington game will be on Nov. 8, 1952.

F. G. Dickey, '42, Dean Of College Of Education

Frank G. Dickey, '42, of Lexington, was named dean of the University of Kentucky College of Education by the Board of Trustees at its December quarterly meeting, and assumed the position on January 1, succeeding the late Dean W. S. Taylor.

The 32-year-old educator became one of the youngest deans in the United States when he assumed office, after having served as acting dean of the college since Dr. Taylor's death last August.

Though born in Oklahoma, Dr. Dickey has lived in Kentucky most of his life. He attended the Lexington public schools and was graduated from the Henry Clay High School. He received his B.A. degree from Transylvania in 1939 and his M.A. from the University of Kentucky in 1942. He was awarded the doctor of education degree at the University's 1947 summer commencement.

Doctor Dickey served two and one-half years in the Army, and has taught in both the Fayette county and Lexington city school systems. He has served as instructor, assistant professor and associate professor of education at the University. Last July he was appointed chairman of the UK Division of School Services, succeeding Dr. Charles R. Spain who resigned.

A member of numerous professional organizations he is state chairman of the secondary division of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. He and Mrs. Dickey, the former Betty Drymon, of Lexington, have three children.

John C. Meihous, '49, of Louisville, has been appointed backfield coach, head track coach and physical education instructor at St. Xavier High School in Louisville. He replaces Junior Jones, who recently resigned to go to Manual as coach. Both Meihous and Jones are former UK grid stars.

O. K. Lawson, B.C.E. '28, has been appointed superintendent of the Hocking Division of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, succeeding R. N. Begien, Jr.

A graduate of the University of Kentucky, he joined the C&O in 1928 and was superintendent of terminals at Walbridge, Ohio until his new appointment.

Dave Scott, '40, Honored By General Electric Co.

David C. Scott, '40, of Owensboro, an employee of the General Electric Company's tube plant there, has received his company's highest honor, a Charles A. Coffin award for work of outstanding merit during 1949.

A native of Akron, Ohio, Dave was honored for "his outstanding originality, ingenuity and perseverance in furthering the development of methods and equipment for conveyORIZED assembly of radio tube mounts."

A graduate of the University with a degree in industrial chemistry in 1940,

Robert D. Chenoweth, a member of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra since 1945 and a former University of Kentucky student has been appointed to the music faculty of Western State College.

Dr. Gordon R. Leader, assistant professor of chemistry at UK has been named recipient of a $3,000 grant-in-aid by the Research Corporation of New York. Dr. Leader will use the grant for a two-year study of the chemistry of solutions.

Mr. Scott served three years with the Navy, and was discharged in 1945 with the rank of Lieutenant Commander. He then joined General Electric as a production engineer at both Owensboro and Tell City, Ind., plants of the company. In 1947 he became engaged in cost reduction work at Owensboro and now serves on the plant manager's staff as chairman of the cost reduction committee.

G. M. Pedley, '16, editor and owner of the weekly Princeton, Ky., Leader, sold the paper last July to Mr. and Mrs. John S. Hutcheson, Jr., of Pineville. He will continue to edit and publish the Lyon County Herald at Eddyville.

Memorial Coliseum To Be Dedicated May 30

As part of Commencement Week activities, the University's great new Memorial Coliseum will be dedicated on May 30 with baccalaureate exercises for the approximately 1,700 members of the graduating class.

"Here in stone and steel is raised a memorial to more than nine thousand sons and daughters of the State of Kentucky who gave their lives in battle that we might live in peace erect and strong and free"—that is the inscription to be found in the portico of the building. Honor guests at the dedication exercises will be the families of Kentucky's war dead.

The Memorial Coliseum probably is the finest building of its kind in the world. It is a multiple-purpose building: an auditorium where concerts, lectures, public meetings and the like can be held; a basketball arena where 12,000 Wildcat fans can watch their team in action; and a complete plant for the teaching of physical education. Including equipment and furnishings, it will cost about $4,000,000. One feature of the building is a large swimming pool, with seats for 200 spectators.

A religious theme will be followed for the baccalaureate exercises on Memorial Day. The complete program follows:

Mr. Hodges has been credit manager of Wolf-Wile and Company of Lexington for four years, and prior to that was one year with the Union Bank and Trust Co., and eight years with the Citizens Bank and Trust Co.

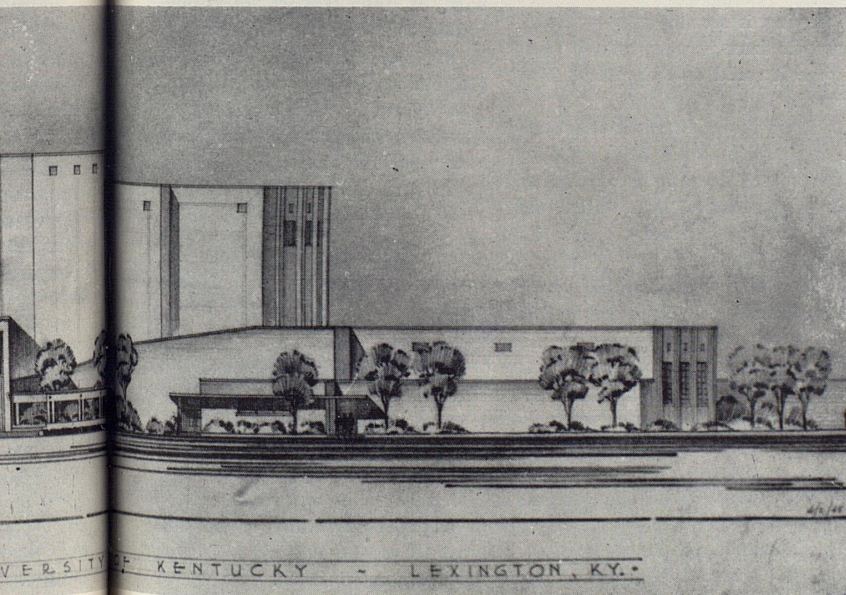

Mr. Hodges is a native of Lewisport, Ky., has served as secretary of the Lexington Exchange Club and has held several offices in the local credit managers' organization.

History Head In Vienna For Army

Dr. Thomas D. Clark, '29, head of the department of history, has been sent to Vienna, Austria, for the Department of the Army.

He was asked to go to Vienna as a visiting expert on the American history program. His duties consist of lecturing and conferring with Austrian students and teachers of American history. He also was scheduled to survey the content and adequacy of courses in American history taught at Austrian institutions.

Dr. Clark left Lexington February 26 to report at the Pentagon in Washington for processing, and then was to fly to Vienna. He was scheduled to be in Austria from 60 to 90 days. The University granted him a leave of absence for the mission.

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY - LEXINGTON, KY.

$160,000 Dairy Building At UK Dedicated Feb. 1

The University of Kentucky's new dairy center—a $160,000 contribution to the state's dairying education and research—was dedicated Feb. 1.

Kentucky Commissioner of Agriculture Harry F. Walters termed the center's dedication "a great day for agriculture in Kentucky . . . and a red letter day for the dairying industry in this state."

In accepting the building for the University from Commissioner Walters, Dr. Herman L. Donovan, UK president, declared:

"I accept this building for the people of Kentucky. It is the property of the people . . . and may it serve them, Kentucky never made a better investment than it has made in this center."

Dr. Reed Heard

The principal address was delivered by Dr. O. E. Reed, chief of the Bureau of Dairy Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Reed, speaking on "Dairying in the U. S. Compared to Dairying in Europe," pointed out various advantages and shortcomings of the dairying industry between America and Europe.

He outlined briefly the dairying industry in England, Scotland, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, Northern France and Germany.

Herd Book Criticized

The speaker was critical of the American Breeders Associations' closed herd book plan which requires tracing an ancestry back to the original foreign strain for registry.

"We find that all the breed societies or associations in England and Europe from which our present breeds have been developed follow the open herd book plan," Dr. Reed emphasized.

The open herd book plan would enable the use of good germ plasm found in many unregistered or grade cows, would provide an incentive for herdsmen with good grade herds to build a pedigreed herd, and would furnish a market for good bulls to be used in the grading-up process, the dairying expert stated.

Dr. Reed praised the British Ministry of Agriculture's method of selecting bulls for artificial insemination. A central group or committee considers each "prospect" and passes on his qualifications for the work.

Since artificial insemination is approaching the "interstate commerce level" in this country, the speaker hinted that such a board might be valuable to the nation's artificial breeding industry. He also described briefly co-operative dairying in Denmark and the milk marketing system in Britain.

Walters Tells Dairy Value

In his talk, Commissioner Walters said the center "will do much to place Kentucky where she should be in dairying." Favorable factors he outlined were ideal climatic location, excellent position for transportation, and land contour and soil condition.

"Dairying is second only to burley tobacco in farm income, and in years to come it could outstrip burley," he declared.

Dr. Donovan predicted that the state dairying income would be doubled by 1975 because "dairying is on the up grade in Kentucky." He called the dairy center a "laboratory . . . for education and research."

The University president told a large audience that the state legislature "never made an appropriation for this building." He explained that during the war the government paid for 6,000 soldiers trained at the University.

The federal reimbursement was used to cover normal operational expenditures, and money from state sources was "saved" for the dairy center.

Dr. Thomas P. Cooper, dean of the College of Agriculture, presided. He traced the UK dairy section from two Jersey cows in 1890 to modern times. "I hope the building will become more and more valuable to us . . . in building a great industry for Kentucky."

Duncan, Tway Speak

Brief talks were given by R. L. Duncan, Louisville dairyman and member of the UK advisory committee; William T. Tway, president of the Dairy Products Association of Kentucky, who spoke for his father, Robert C. Tway, Louisville dairyman and former UK trustee, and Dr. D. M. Seath, head of the UK College of Agriculture dairy section.

John Anggelis, '49, of Versailles, an August law graduate at the University, has announced he will be associated with Jesse K. Lewis of Lexington in the practice of law.

A native of Greece, Mr. Anggelis has lived in the United States since he was 13. He and his wife, the former Frances G. Stone, plan to move to Lexington.

Mr. Keen is vice president of the Kentucky Society of Washington and past president of the Washington, D. C., Alumni Club of the University.

Dr. Morris Scherago, head of the University's department of bacteriology and Mrs. Margo Hasson, a graduate student in the department, reported in January that they had produced an antiserum which gives promise of being effective in the treatment of hayfever and other allergic conditions.

UK Alloys Experiments May Bring Ky. Industries

By Joe Reister, '34

Courier Journal Lexington Bureau

Long-range experiments being conducted quietly by University of Kentucky scientists possibly could result in establishment in Kentucky of a vast, new industry for the manufacture of alloys of titanium a lightweight metal of great strength.

So much progress has been made that Prof. F. L. Orrell, a research specialist in the university's department of metallurgical engineering, is enthusiastic about what may be learned about the metal.

The Army and Navy have shown a great deal of interest in the titanium experiments here and elsewhere in the nation. Professor Orrell explains that titanium's tensile strength is equal to that of stainless steel, yet it is lighter in weight.

Resists Corrosion.

Titanium, according to Orrell, is much more resistant to corrosion than aluminum. Such a metal would be ideal for use in airplanes, especially the supersonic types of planes being developed for use at high altitudes.

Planes of this type, Orrell added, need a "skin" far thicker and stronger than the more conventional models.

That is where titanium may come into the picture. The lightweight metal conceivably might play a major role in the future development of supersonic planes.

As long ago as 1791 titanium was experimented with by scientists. But what small amounts were prepared in laboratories at that time were so brittle and unworkable that the scientists gave up trying to do anything with it.

Experiments Renewed.

It lay dormant, so to speak, until 1925.

Then scientists again began to experiment with it and this time their efforts were rewarded with far greater success.

It was discovered that when small percentages of air were expelled from the metal, titanium became flexible and otherwise workable.

But the metal is hard to make behave. It takes only two tenths of a per cent of air in titanium to make it so brittle that it becomes unworkable, Orrell explained.

The main job now facing the university scientists is to develop alloys of titanium, as the metal must be in combination with some other metallic element to make it usable in industry.

So Prof. D. V. Terrell, head of the university's College of Engineering, and Prof. C. S. Crouse, head of the college's department of metallurgical and mining engineering, decided to get the money to finance such a project.

Get $6,000 for Job.

They decided that $6,000 would do the job, so $3,000 came from the Engineering Experiment Station fund and a like amount from the university's over-all research fund.

And Orrell set to work to find out what metals would combine correctly with titanium to make it the good, useful citizen it could be.

Orrell set up $6,000 worth of equipment for an outlay of only $2,000.

He searched the university grounds for parts for the apparatus he needed to make the titanium-combination study. He even salvaged a large section of metal which he found discarded behind one of the university maintenance-and-grounds buildings.

Orrell's work is bound to be slow and painstaking. There are so many possible combinations of titanium and other metals that it will take a lot of time to complete the project.

Orrell said one important thing about titanium is that it is found in abundance all over North America and Canada. As abundant as copper, lead, and zinc are in this country, titanium is far more abundant.

Alloying Is The Key

The entire future of titanium depends on whether it can be alloyed correctly.

And Orrell believes it can.

When that day comes, there's no reason why plants to manufacture titanium alloys could not be set up in Kentucky.

In fact, Orrell said, Kentucky would be an ideal place for these plants because each of the manufacturing establishments would need a great deal of cheap electric power.

And Kentucky—which doesn't have any large deposits of titanium—does have an abundance of cheap electric power which could be used to manufacture alloys of that metal.

Dr. William F. Wagner, former Hanover College chemist, and Dr. Howard K. Zimmerman, recent American Chemical Society fellow at the University of Utah have joined the staff of the University of Kentucky Department of Chemistry.

Dr. Gordon Curry, Retired Pharmacy Dean, Dies Jan. 21

Dr. Gordon Laten Curry, '92, dean emeritus of the University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy, died January 21 at St. Anthony's Hospital, Louisville, following an illness of several months.

Widely known throughout the nation in pharmaceutical and educational fields, Dean Curry was beloved by hundreds of University of Kentucky Pharmacy College students.

A graduate of the College which he served as dean, Dr. Curry first served as instructor in pharmacy there under the late Prof. C. Lewis Diehl, one of the founders of the school and its first president. From 1904 to 1946 Dr. Curry was professor in chemistry and director of the chemistry laboratories. He became the first dean of the college in 1894 during the 24th session of the school. He served in this capacity until 1917, was reappointed in 1925, and served until he became Dean Emeritus and director of research in 1946. The College of Pharmacy conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Pharmacy on Dean Curry in 1922.

Besides the study of pharmacy, Dr. Curry had studied botany under Asa Gray of Harvard and was a disciple of the late organic chemist, Samuel P. Sadtler of Philadelphia. He was widely known as an entomologist and geologist.

A member of numerous professional organizations he had held offices in the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, and last June came to the University of Kentucky commencement exercises to be inducted into the Alumni Association's Half Century Club at which time he was presented a Golden Jubilee certificate and received the President's trophy for being the oldest class representative in attendance.

Dean Curry is survived by a son, two grandchildren and one great-grandchild. He was a member of the Episcopal church, in which he was a lay reader. Funeral services and burial were held in Louisville.

Taylor Memorial Established At UK

The William S. Taylor Memorial Fund for scholarships in education at the University of Kentucky will be administered on the undergraduate level in an effort to alleviate Kentucky's teacher shortage, Dr. Frank G. Dickey, the new dean of the UK College of Education, has announced.

The fund is being established by the college faculty as a memorial to the late Dean W. S. Taylor. An advisory committee headed by Dr. Dickey has set up the policies for administering the fund. Money will be used for grants to worthy and needy UK students in education, generally on the undergraduate level.

A $5,000 gift from Dean Taylor's wife and daughter has been presented to the fund. Additional gifts will be sought.

Alice Word, '49, of Hopkinsville, spent last summer in Denmark as a delegate of the International Rural Youth Exchange. A 4-H Club member for nine years, Alice was graduated from the University last June.

UK Art Center Dedicated

The University of Kentucky's new $1,500,000 fine arts building, one of the finest in the south, was dedicated on February 22, the date of the University's founding and the 85th anniversary of the establishment of the institution.

The dedication program, held in the Guignol theater which is housed in the new building, was the mid-week feature of a week long program of events featuring the fine arts.

Dr. Raymond F. McClain, president of Transylvania College in Lexington was the Founder's Day speaker, and told the capacity crowd attending the dedication ceremony that the nature of life itself is an inevitable struggle from which emerges art.

"The possibility of failure is what makes living a man's business and also is what makes good living an art," the speaker observed.

"It is out of the uncertain quality of life that great art and great living emerge. If everything were ordered, permanently subdued, forever tractable, where would be the content of tragedy and where the sudden reason for great rejoicing?"

"Art is to be found in the quality by which one makes his daily bread, in the city streets as he drives home, and of the chair in which he sits, in the preparation and service of his food."

Dr. H. L. Donovan, University president, in presenting Dr. McClain to the audience, said: "This building which has cost so much must not be dedicated to a school of modern art, or of modern music, or of modern drama. We want our students to know something about the art, music and drama of today, but we also must expect them to learn and appreciate art through the ages, music of the great masters, and drama from the classical period.

"We must acquaint our students with the different schools of art, the different theories of music and drama as they have developed through the centuries," Dr. Donovan said.

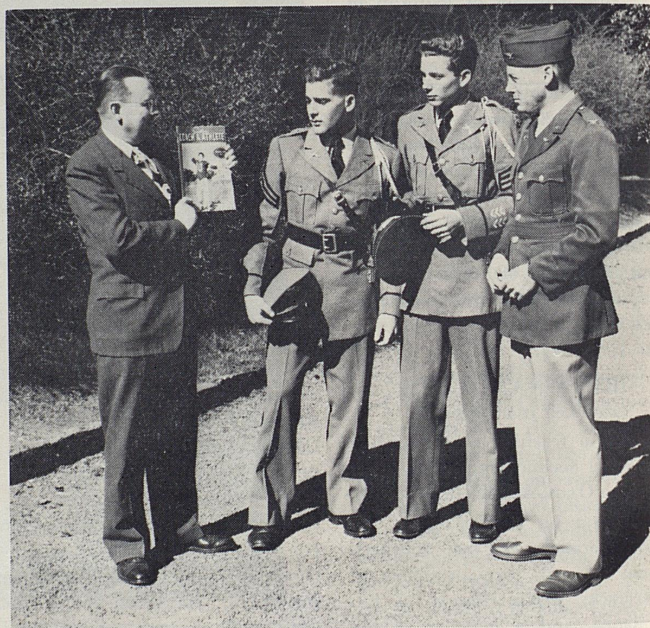

"A state university that is financed by the people's money is no place to develop a special cult, a narrow or limited field, or one school of thought when there are so many different approaches to a subject of instruction."

"The University of Kentucky must contribute toward the enrichment of the cultural life of all Kentuckians, rich or poor, old and young, tutored and untutored," he said.
