THE COUNCIL AND THE CAP

Blue pots have been ordered for the Class of '36 and soon will be a belated appearance upon the Kentucky campus. Now that the members of the Men's Student council have decided definitely that the wearing of the freshman cap by time to be observed at the university, we wonder whether the council will exhibit backbone enough to enforce its decision.

The wearing of the freshman cap in late years has become of diminishing consequence. Although former council rules provided that the first year men students would wear the cap until May day, customarily and in direct violation of the council's edicts freshmen discarded the blue ensignia as soon as its novelty had departed.

Upperclassmen, fraternities, the Men's Pan-Hellenic council, and the Men's Student council all are equally responsible for requiring strict observance of the council's mandate. Proof enough that they have shirked this responsibility is evinced by the increasing number of freshmen students discarding their caps before the proper time and by the campus-wide condoning of such violations.

Sympathy for the freshman cap tradition is undoubtedly on the wane. Nevertheless, now that the Student council has signified that the cap shall be worn for one more year, at least, it should enforce its decree. It has the authority. Other councils have not justified the faith which the student body has placed in them. Will the incumbent one?

FRESHMEN AND FRATERNITIES

This is not going to be a harangue on fraternities; it is merely a statement of the ill prevalent on the University of Kentucky campus. However, the University of Kentucky is not the only institution where such conditions exist. A survey would reveal that at practically every college or university, the entering freshmen have a tendency to think that if they do not get initiated immediately into some fraternity that dire results will follow. Some of them even go to the extreme of neglecting studies, work and everything else just for the opportunities of fraternity life.

There are those who have sufficient time for fraternities and should go into them, which is all very well as they will doubtless profit by them. Nevertheless, they should not enter such organizations with the thought that it is absolutely necessary before they can proceed with their college career. The purposes for which one is in school should be considered first. Activities and social life should be a secondary matter.

Yet this is not the most important thing for a freshman to consider before going into a fraternity. He should never enter an organization until he is certain that he can meet the obligations which he assumes when he becomes a member. There are many freshmen on the campus who as a result of being financially unable to meet the requirements of their fraternities. And this does not apply solely to freshmen as there are upper classmen in the same predicament. They are becoming members of organizations and then have been unable to keep up their obligations, working an injustice on their fraternities as well as a hardship on themselves.

We conclude by giving this word of advice to prospective fraternity men—that you give the financial side of the question some consideration before going into an organization.

I hope you continue to bear down on the indignities of the parks. Unless the car owning people on the campus meet the situation satisfactorily the University will eventually deprive them of the privilege. They wouldn't like that.

It is not difficult for me to understand why The Kernel rates so highly. More power to you. If I can be of service at any time please do not hesitate to sound off.

CONCERNING THE TRAVELS OF DOCTOR FUNKHOUSER

(To the Editor of The Kernel)
 Dear Sir:
 You are probably interested in the travels of Doctor Funkhouser. Inclosed is a clipping from the front page of THE PANAMA AMERICAN, one of the two largest newspapers published on the Isthmus of Panama.

Dr. and Mrs. Funkhouser were here for only a day while the ship was removing a cargo, but we were able to show them to the place. Especially interesting was a large collection of local snakes which one of the institutions had held over for him to see before they were shipped to Harvard in Boston. Mrs. DeCoursey (nee Esther Ferry) and I were delighted to appease Dr. and Mrs. Funkhouser's desires for unusual things by serving a variety of tropical foods at a dinner which we had for them.

Yours truly,
 (Signed) ELBERT DECOURSEY, M.D., The Pathologist, Board of Health Laboratory, Gorard Hospital, Ancon, Canal Zone.

LITTLE GIRL ACROSS THE STREET

Little girl across the street,
 Let us hope sometime we'll meet;
 I should like to talk to you,
 Smile into those eyes of blue;
 Tell you how I like your style,
 And how much I like your smile—
 But that is all that can be said,
 For you most carefully draw your shade.

—J. ALLISON.

NIGHT COMES

A velvet blanket overspreads the sky,
 And one by one the pinpoint holes appear,
 Whereby the stars shine through;
 And soon a silver globe appears,
 And then a brooding silence covers all.
 For night has come.

—B. PEARLMAN.

SUNSET

The sun sinks slowly in the west,
 And twilight gathers 'round;
 It seems the world has gone to rest,
 And's silenced every sound.
 Bright gold and crimson streak the sky—
 The vanguard of the night;
 And through the dusk is thronged on high
 The sunset's glory bright.

—WYCUR.

URANUS

It was a dark and somber planet,
 A region of eternal twilight,
 With a misty, sable landscape,
 Haunted by the birds of night,
 Faintly seen through shadowy air.
 Was a distant purple mountain;
 And, distorted in the dark light,
 Leaped a melancholy fountain.
 In such a weird and ghostly place,
 Glad we were to have a space-car.

AUTUMN WIND

The autumn wind
 Rushes through the campus.
 Into classrooms—
 It scatters papers,
 Rustles skirts,
 And ruffles hair,
 Swishes through the corridors,
 And rustles out again.

Heard about the rumpus at the Alfagam house? It happened in the tubbing room during the rush week blackballing exercises. While rushettes paraded in the rooms below, enough soapwater was sluiced about behind the locked door upstairs to convince one lady, at least, of a certain freshman's qualifications for membership.

If the such and such who walked away with the Kernel dictionary doesn't bring it back, I won't have anything to say to you.

Sorority pledge congratulations were at their height. Time after time the door of Memoria Hall was opened as beaming pledging crossed the threshold. Each, in turn, was surrounded by her foster sisters. Everyone kissed everyone else. Again the door opened. With confident nonchalance an "ed" walked out. He too was kissed... by male bystanders.

Asked why he didn't visit the house often, one Pyekap pled snickered, "I started there Sunday, but I couldn't find the place."

And in case you didn't notice, I predicted the R.O.T.C. appointments correctly.

It looks like old times at the Deltaw house.

Writer Finds Life, Hope, and Magazine in Home-Ec Area

By MARJORIE F. HOAGLAND
 Actual New Yorkers, most of the pseudo ones who really come from Indianapolis (or somewhere) are often accused of being the most provincial group in the world. They are so sure that all that is worthwhile is within walking distance that they don't even look at the tremendous accomplishments taking place on the outside.
 And if you want to go through the university without knowing that there are any buildings except that rambling one housing the deans' offices (which you are called to at times) and McVey hall (where you have classes), of course that is your privilege. But if you want to be started into having a good time, and incidentally learn about this and that, go over to the home economics department in the Experiment Station building. There is a roomy "students' room," business offices, class rooms (an amazingly varied library, a lot of people with a hopeful outlook on life, without a hat and a coat at any time).
 The title of the publication is, you see, stressed. It ought to be. One often hears of "arresting productions" abroad, but it isn't often that one is privileged to see what dispassionate judgment would rate this. This list of sixteen page paper, printed on the best quality wood-pulp seen around here since the days of the Post. Only the optimistic would venture the other.)
 Legislature met, it is edited by the two vice-presidents of the Kentucky Home Economics association, Miss Edith Grundmeier and Miss Hazel Alexander, both of the university. The first outstanding thing noted (by a journalism student, at least) is that the thing is gotten up on good, publicly principles. There aren't too many ads, and those used are apropos. Pictures are scattered around at convenient places.
 The articles themselves are naturally of great importance. Even had they been the usual type of stuff one has learned to expect, they would have been. But it has a series of the most surprisingly interesting articles one could imagine! Following the first page filled with greetings from the president, several of new officers, and some carefully written material regarding a national meeting, one finds an article that goes into detail on the subject of college education in home economics. Were you, by any means, a graduate of that department are you able to enter any of these fields? The first of these articles, management, marketing, textile research, commercial clothing, design, child care, as well as that

CRADDOCK

By JOHNIE CRADDOCK

This man is a great psychologist and advertising genius. He gained national renown when he began writing ads for Ballyhoo. With the aid of Elmer Zilch, this psychological genius has written ads so filled with emotion and humanism that they tear at the hearstrings of the great American public, warring the few scores of incurable plagues, pink hairbrush and run down heels.
 His dynamic advertising appeals to the emotions of the masses. He can over a skull. Piously nudging his left thyroid, he exclaimed, "What a whale of a difference! It's a whole new man! He is now making a layout advertising dust goggles for goldfish. He says that he will clean up during the coming drought. He will teach you advertising too, if you can stay awake in class."

of teaching or actual homemaking? These fields have, in the main, been opened up within the past fifteen years, and women are really achieving things in them. After all, people do who do things that help keep our morale up to par, or even a little above, who help us to formulate a working philosophy regarding those basic things we all tend to forget, or accomplishing far more in life than many of us can hope for.

Legislation Endorsed by the American Home Economics Association is the next subject. And it goes into a discussion that would enmesh a political science student, all about national issues of import to those concerned about home economics, which is a pretty important subject. And in this large percentage of our population, you know. The next think Kentucky students ought to appreciate is a notice of the Phi Upsilon Omicron convalesce held in Lexington during the summer. All the good points were mentioned, and there wasn't even the well-known joke about the roads (who was it awarded a medal to the editor who wrote a story of an erroneous report of a man's supposed death without mentioning Mark Twain?). Later reports of student clubs, of Kentucky colleges and universities, etc.

Phi Delta Phi and Phi Mu Alpha are requested to have pictures taken for the Kentucky for next Wednesday.

Pointing the way to the advertised brand

Many a "sale" made by advertising has gone to a competitor because the purchaser did not know where to buy the advertised brand. Telephone men evolved a plan to make it easy to find. They created a "Where to Buy It" service in the classified telephone directory. There—beneath the advertised trade marks—Buick, Goodrich, RCA Victor, General Electric and many others now list authorized local dealers. Thus telephone men complete the chain between advertiser and consumer—increase the effectiveness of advertising—help manufacturers and dealers to increase sales—help consumers to get what they want!

Because they apply vision to subscribers' problems, Bell System men continually increase the value of telephone service.

Kappa Gamma Open House
 Beta Chi chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma entertained Friday evening in honor of their pledges. An enthusiastic welcome was extended to the new girls, who were received by the president of the chapter and the active members. Many of the young men of the university were called to open congratulations, at which time coffee and sandwiches were served. Sunday afternoon open house was held for all fraternity men on the campus.

Chi Omega Welcomes Pledges
 Chi Omega sorority received their pledges Friday evening at their chapter house on Limestone. The members of the active chapter met to welcome the new girls, and many friends called during the evening. Sunday afternoon an added welcome was given the pledges when open house was held for the fraternity men of the university.

Entertain Pledges
 Pledging services for those who accepted bids to the Delta Zeta sorority were held at 7 o'clock Saturday evening at the chapter house. A buffet supper followed, after which the members and pledges were at home to callers. The new girls were also guests for the night at the house.

Visitors were received Sunday afternoon with the following pledges as guests of honor: Misses Eleanor Hillemeier, Louise Payne, Eva Mae Nunnally, Mary Evelyn Craycraft, Virginia Murrell, and Mary Katherine Williams.

Kappa Delta Activities
 The Kappa Delta sorority was sponsor for a group of interesting and novel entertainments given the past week in honor of its rushes. Tuesday afternoon the sorority was hostess for a novel party given at the chapter house. The rooms on the lower floor were arranged to represent an Apache cabaret. Tables and chairs, in red and green, were arranged near the walls, leaving a floor space for dancing. Mural placards, lighting, and table decorations carried out in detail the unusual scheme. Refreshments were served the guests from an assimilated bar, kept by one of the chapter members, garbed as bar tender. During the afternoon the guests were entertained by a floor show including tap dances and solo numbers.

ROAMIN' THE RIALTO

After going native over the week-end at the Ben Ali with "Kongo," Mrs. Louis W. Herrington laughs it off with that riot known as Jimmy Cagney in his latest release "Winner Take All." One of the fastest laugh-provoking pictures on the screen, "Winner Take All" gives Cagney wide opportunity to show himself at his whitest best, and we never heard of Cagney mugging an opportunity yet.

Laughs rang out the length and breadth of Theatre Row recently at the new comedy team of Buster Keaton and Jimmy (Schnozzle) Durante, in "Speak Easily," and the howl did the local fans so much good that the Strand is giving them another chance to get rid of their blues by bringing the film for a return showing Wednesday and Thursday. A good laugh never hurts anybody, you know.

Wasn't it Oscar Wilde who asserted that Life realized in fact what had been dreamed in fiction? Maybe he would be gratified to learn that Corliss Frazzetta wrote a story about a football fatality and then a week or so ago Life went and let it happen, when a player on an Alabama high school team was killed during the game; we are told that it was the first casualty of the kind that has oc-urred. Paramount offers a screen version of Fitzsimmons' story with Johnny Mack Brown as the unfortunate victim who fell as he raced for the goal line. The picture, "70,000 Witnesses," takes its name from the fact that not one of the seventy thousand fans who saw him drop could tell how it happened. This football murder mystery, packed with suspense, action, and thrills, is billed for Thursday at the Kentucky.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD" -and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes. They are not present in Luckies... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked. WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes. "It's toasted" That package of mild Luckies. "If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, let him build his house in the woods; the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON. Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?
