Preface

There is presented in the following pages a list of Ohio imprints for the period from the beginning of printing in the area now comprised in that state through the year 1820. It is based on the field work in thousands of libraries by the staff of the American Imprints Inventory of the WPA's Historical Records Survey, and is issued as the seventeenth in the series of check lists of the American Imprints Inventory. Editorial work on a list of Ohio imprints for the years 1821 - 1830, inclusive, is well advanced, and it is hoped later to issue lists of Ohio imprints for the remaining years through 1876, the terminal date of the period for which titles have been recorded by the American Imprints Inventory.

This is the first list of Ohio imprints to be published in any form. Two lists of such imprints have been compiled as masters' theses, but neither was published. The present list is, however, far more comprehensive than either of the theses because of the far more extensive facilities which could be employed in its compilation.

In accordance with the best modern bibliographical practice, locations are indicated, so far as these are known, for copies of the imprints recorded, so that those interested in consulting any titles in the list may have no difficulty in finding them.

The press made its first appearance in what is now the state of Ohio in the year 1793, while the area of the present state was still a part of the Territory North-West of the River Ohio, created by the famous Ordinance of 1787. On November 9, 1793, at the infant settlement of Cincinnati, William Maxwell, the first printer in Ohio, issued the first number of his newspaper, the Centinel of the North-Western Territory.

Earlier in 1793, Maxwell had done some printing at Lexington, Kentucky, where printing had begun in 1787. He did not attempt a newspaper there, however, as he found that field already well occupied, and soon sought virgin territory for his press on the north side of the Ohio River. As a printer, his career in Ohio was brief. He discontinued his Cincinnati newspaper in June, 1795, and did no more printing after that year. Early in 1796 he printed the laws of the Northwest Territory adopted at the session of 1795, the first laws of the Territory to be printed within its borders and the first book to be printed in Ohio.* In 1799 he removed from Cincinnati to the vicinity of Dayton, where he died in 1809.

Maxwell was succeeded at Cincinnati by Samuel Freeman and his son Edmund, who bought the Maxwell printing plant. After some delay the Freemans, on June 18, 1796, began the second Cincinnati newspaper, which was also the second in Ohio, under the title of Freeman's Journal. This paper continued until the early part of 1800, when Edmund Freeman, who had succeeded his father, removed the press to Chillicothe, the new capital of the territory, which thus became the second point at which the press was established in Ohio.

* At least 21 copies of this edition are reported extant. Robert Clarke & Co., of Cincinnati, almost a century later, reproduced the four volumes of Northwest Territory laws (1792, 1794, 1796, 1798). These facsimiles so closely resemble the original editions in appearance that distinction between them has not always been easily made. In the reproduction of the 1796 laws, however, the word "seven" in the seventh line of the title reads "eleven". An attempt has been made to identify original copies of this, the first Ohio imprint. There is a possibility that some copies of the later laws reported as originals may actually be reproductions.

In December, 1801, printing began at Marietta; in 1806 the press appeared at Steubenville in June and in Lancaster in October; February of 1807 saw the press begin at Lebanon; in 1808 printing began at Dayton in September and at Lisbon (then New Lisbon) in December; at St. Clairsville the press was first established in March, 1809, and in November of the same year it appeared at Zanesville.

In the northern part of the state the press was established at Warren in December, 1808; at Canton in March, 1815; at Wooster in June, 1817; and at Mansfield in April, 1818. The first appearance of the press on the shores of Lake Erie was at Cleveland in July, 1818. By the end of 1820, printing had made a start in 23 of the counties of the present state of Ohio.

As printing in these pioneer communities almost invariably began with the publication of a newspaper, the dates of the actual beginnings of the press in many cases were earlier -- sometimes several years earlier -- than the dates of the earliest pamphlet or book imprints recorded in the following check list.

The check list comprises a total of 590 items, other than newspapers and periodicals, which were printed, or which are presumed to have been printed, in Ohio before 1821. Of the total, 38 are broadsides or broadsheets, leaving 552 which are books or pamphlets.

Copies have been located of 523 items, including 36 of the broadsides. But also included in the list are 67 items (2 of them broadsides) which have been admitted because of evidence, considered satisfactory, that they actually were printed in Ohio, although copies of them cannot now be located. Of these 67 unlocated items 33 are taken from advertisements or notices in contemporaneous newspapers which attest that they actually were printed; 6 are derived from other bibliographies (Evans, Sabin, Rusk, Hasse, and Wilkie) in which the titles are recorded with no indication of the locations of the copies mentioned; 6 are from more or less recent book sales or auction catalogues; and 23 come from a variety of other sources. In each case of an unlocated title, the source from which the title was derived is indicated in the record of the title in the check list.

The 523 titles for which locations are given have a wide distribution in 370 collections, of which 20 are in private ownership. It is also noteworthy that 200 of these titles can be recorded in single copies only. To be sure, 32 of the 200 are broadsides, a kind of printed matter which survives, if at all, only in a limited number of copies (only 4 of the Ohio broadsides in this list have been found in more than one collection). But there remain 168 of these unique titles which are pamphlets or books, and many of these are of considerable historical or bibliographical interest. The figures following the symbols in the "Key to Symbols for Libraries" show the total number of these Ohio titles located in each collection, including (in parentheses) the number thus far recorded from that collection only.

Libraries and private collections in Ohio have been found to contain 384 of the 523 titles of which copies have been located. Of 154 titles (19 of them broadsides) the only known copies are in Ohio -- 130 distributed among 20 Ohio libraries and 24 in private collections within the state. Of the total of 370 locations in which titles in this check list are to be found, 66 are in Ohio, including 13 private collections.

A cursory examination of the titles in the list will reveal that official publications of the territorial or state government form a large proportion of the total. There are 15 such governmental documents of the Territory North-West of the River Ohio and 108 of the state of Ohio, a total of 123 titles, or about 20 per cent of the list.

The next largest group classified as to subject matter falls under the general head of the religious interests of early Ohio. Here will be found 176 titles, including 87 titles concerned with theology and religious doctrine, controversy, and propaganda, of which 32 are sermons; and 89 publications of religious organizations, including 49 minutes of Baptist associations. Religious interests thus compose a little over 29 per cent of the list.

The political, civic and public life of the community accounts for 112 titles in all, or 19 per cent of the total. Here are included 60 speeches and discourses at political or public meetings or the meetings of fraternal orders. There are 52 titles concerned with politics and government, of which 4 pertain to legal matters; 7 reports of trials, and 4 pamphlets on slavery. Freemasonry is represented by 41 titles.

The cultural life of early Ohio is reflected in 66 titles which may be classed as concerned with literature and the arts. The field of music claims 15 publications in this group, including 8 hymnals, which might perhaps have been credited to religious interests. Orations (23 titles) and verse (16 titles) were the predominating forms of local literary expression.

Another 3½ per cent includes 21 titles concerned with education. Here are included issues of certain laws concerned exclusively with education, the reports and catalogues of educational institutions, and a number of interesting early textbooks.

Almanacs were everywhere an indispensable product of the early American press. This check list contains the titles of 45 early Ohio almanacs.

Geography, description and travel comprise a noteworthy group of 18 titles. Here are included directories, gazetteers, and guidebooks. There are 6 works concerned with medicine. Biography is represented by 7 titles. There are 10 popular manuals, or handbooks, on local government and on matters commercial, industrial, legal, and military. History (general, American, and local) is the predominant subject matter of 9 titles.

Specific industries and occupations have slight representation. Only 12 titles relating to farming have been noted, and 7 concerned with crafts and industries. Pure science is the subject of 5 titles.

It must be borne in mind that the pioneer people of Ohio, especially during the later years of the period covered by this check list, were able to draw on the printers and publishers of the east for a great volume and variety of the printed matter that they required. The scarcity of material of strictly Ohio origin in certain classes of printed matter, therefore, by no means indicates a corresponding intellectual or cultural poverty among the people. On the contrary, a number of the titles in this list will show that early Ohio was already making some significant original contributions of its own to the literature of the nation as a whole.

This check list of early Ohio imprints is wholly a product of the American Imprints Inventory of the Historical Records Survey, a division of the Work Projects Administration of the federal government -- with some guidance from the office of the national consultant of the Inventory. It is impossible to mention even by name all those who have contributed to the work, from the various state supervisors to the many assiduous workers in the field who gathered the titles in hundreds of libraries. But acknowledgment must be made of the help received from some persons, not connected with the inventory, who have been most generous in providing innumerable details of information about many of the titles in the list. We therefore express grateful appreciation to Mr. William H. Vodrey, attorney, of East Liverpool, Ohio; to Mr. Ernest J. Wessen, of Mansfield, Ohio; to Dr. Harlow Lindley, of the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society, Columbus; to Dr. Wallace H. Cathcart, of the Western Reserve Historical Society, Cleveland; and to Miss Eleanor S. Wilby, of the Historical and Philosophical Society of Ohio, Cincinnati.

A number of bibliographical sources have been used in the preparation of the list, which thus does not rely solely upon the Ohio titles reported by field workers of the American Imprints Inventory. The relatively few Ohio titles in Charles Evan's American Bibliography have been noted, and we believe that practically all the pertinent titles in the Sabin Dictionary of Books Relating to America are also accounted for. More particularly, certain bibliographies relating exclusively to Ohio have been used, chiefly the following:

Thomson, Peter Gibson. A bibliography of the state of Ohio. Being a catalogue of the books and pamphlets relating to the history of the state, with collations and bibliographical and critical notes ... Cincinnati, 1880.

Kyle, Eleanor Rachel. Early Ohio imprints. (Manuscript Master of Arts Thesis, University of Illinois, 1932).
Miss Kyle lists 331 titles, 1796-1830, but does not include public documents of religious and fraternal bodies, almanacs, and periodicals.

Wilkie, Florence. Early printing in Ohio, 1793-1820, with a check list of Ohio imprints for that period. (Manuscript Master of Science thesis, Columbia University, June, 1933).
Miss Wilkie lists 755 titles, including public documents and newspapers.

Many Ohio titles have been found in Ralph Leslie Rusk's Literature of the Middle Western Frontier, vol. II, New York, 1926. Some titles have been cited by Miss Kyle from W. H. Venable's Beginnings of Literary Culture in the Ohio Valley, Cincinnati, 1891.

In a great majority of the cases, any information from the above sources has been supplemented by information provided by workers of the Imprints Inventory, particularly in the more complete and correct form of the titles and in the location of copies. In every case, it is believed, reference has been made to other bibliographies in which titles have been found.

Practically all the titles in the list have been cleared through the Union Catalog of the Library of Congress. Cordial thanks are due to Mr. George A. Schwegmann, Jr., director of the Union Catalog, and to the members of his staff, for their help in providing information about libraries in which copies of many of our titles might be found. It should also be mentioned, with appreciation, that Mr. Albert H. Allen, as research associate of the undersigned, did considerable editorial work on a number of these Ohio titles before the task of preparing the check list was undertaken by the American Imprints Inventory.

The editorial work of preparing the titles in the check list for publication has been done by a succession of editorial assistants, chiefly Mrs. Clara Fishman, Mrs. Florence McGrath, and Mrs. Sidney Kramer, with the help of others of the staff in the editorial offices of the Inventory in Chicago, and for the most part, especially in its final phases, under the general supervision of Miss Geraldine Beard, chief editor.

It is realized, of course, that a check list such as this is imperfect in many particulars. Time and use, and contributions from many correspondents, will be essential to its amplification and improvement. But it has been found that the very publication of a list like this calls attention to the value of a record of the imprints of a state or city and brings out of hiding, as it were, much material of the kind which would not otherwise be recorded.

Notes of additional titles and locations of Ohio imprints before 1821 are therefore most earnestly solicited, in order that they may be included in a possible revision of, or supplement to, the present list, for publication at a later date. Such notes may be addressed to the office of the American Imprints Inventory, Historical Records Survey, 433 East Erie Street, Chicago, Illinois.

OHIO IMPRINTS

1796 - 1820

Northwest Territory, U.S. Laws, statutes, etc.
Laws | of the | Territory of the United States | North-West of the Ohio: | Adopted and made by the Governour and Judges, in their Le-|gislative Capacity, at a Session begun on Friday, the XXIX day | of May, one thousand, seven hundred and ninety-five, and | ending on Tuesday the twenty-fifth day of August following: | With an | Appendix | of | Resolutions | and the | Ordinance | for the Government of the | Territory. | [short rule] | By Authority. | [short rule] | Cincinnati: | Printed by W. Maxwell. | [short rule] | M,DCC,XCVI. |
xiii, [15]-225 p. 15 x 21 cm. [1]

The following "Proposal" appeared in the Centinel of the North-West Territory, July 25, 1795: "W. Maxwell being appointed by the legislature to print for them 200 copies of their laws, he thinks it would be greatly conducive towards the instruction and common benefit of all the citizens to extend the impression to 1000 copies ... The price, in boards, to subscribers, will be at the rate of nineteen cents for every 50 pages, and to non-subscribers, thirty cents. ..."
The Laws ... to 31st December, 1791, and the Laws ... to December, 1792 were printed in Philadelphia in 1792 and 1794, respectively. These two early issues, the above 1796 Laws, and those of 1798 (No. 5 below) were reproduced in facsimile by Robert Clarke & Company of Cincinnati about 1890, his advertisement for them appearing in his catalog of 1894. In 1897 the W. H. Anderson Company, Cincinnati, bought the remainders of these editions, and in succeeding years the United States Catalog listed reprints of these laws for sale by the Anderson Company. Such an entry under 1923 may be the source of the date in the imprint supplied on the Library of Congress card 24-529. In these facsimile reproductions the word "seven" in the seventh line of the title, reads "eleven."

Contains a protest against the levy of a territorial tax on land, by the Territorial Legislature in December, 1800, so far as it applied to Trumbull County and the Connecticut Western Reserve. The memorialists point out that at the time of the act in question Trumbull County was not represented in the Territorial Legislature since it had been added to the territory only four or five months before. Furthermore, before the annexation of the Western Reserve, they had expended more than $80,000 of their own funds for the construction of the necessary roads in their settlement.

[The Christian hymn book. Dayton: Printed at the Centinel Office, by Isaac G. Burnet. 1810.] [102]

Proposals for the publication of this hymn book appeared in Burnet's Ohio Centinel, Dayton, May 10, 1810, and subsequent issues. Robert Steele, in his History of Dayton, Dayton, 1889, p. 100, records that "It was published at the Centinel office, as according to a letter written by John Thomson to William McClure on May 10th, they could not 'get the work done anywhere on better terms than at Mr. Burnet's.' "
The hymns were collected, arranged, and prepared for the press by Rev. John Thomson, with the help of David Purviance, Samuel Westerfield, William Snodgrass, and William McClure (Steele, loc. cit.). There is no mention in any contemporary issue of the Ohio Centinel of the publication of this book. NN has a photostat of a title-page of the third edition. See No. 247, below.

[A Tour through the Western Country. Worthington? Ohio? 1811]
[127]

Advertised in the Western Intelligencer, of Worthington, September 25, 1811, as "Just published at this office," the author not named. If actually an imprint, probably a reprint of Fortescue Cuming's Sketches of a Tour to the Western Country, Pittsburgh, 1810.

The Dagon of Calvinism, or the Moloch of decrees; a poem, in three cantos. To which is annexed, A Song of Reason. By the same. [quotation] Printed for the author. [Cincinnati: John W. Browne & Co. 1811]
47 p. 14.5 cm. [128]

"[This] satire ... brought a reply by Joshua Lacy Wilson, who was convinced after a correspondence with John W. Browne & Company, the publishers of [The Dagon], that it was written by the Methodists." For Wilson's rejoinder, see No. 143, below. In this, p. 13-14, Wilson says that The Dagon was issued in Cincinnati in October, 1811. (See Rusk I: 227-228). An enlarged edition was printed in 1827.

The Baptism of Christ, a Gospel Ordinance, being altogether inward and spiritual: Not, like John's into water, but according to the real nature of the gospel, into the very name, life, and power, of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Shewing that the apostles' use of water baptism was by no means as an ordinance of Christ, but as the baptism of John; and that all who are baptized into Christ, have put on Christ, not only professionally, but substantially--that is, have put Him on as the whole armour of light, and walk in Him in newness of life.
