TO THE PRESS AND RADIO:

Here is your copy of the Kentucky Wildcats football facts booklet for 1953 which we sincerely hope will aid you in covering U. of K. this season. If you desire additional information or art, please feel free to contact the Sports Publicity Office.

Applications for working press and radio tickets should be directed to the Sports Publicity Office as far in advance as possible. Tickets will be mailed or you will be notified to pick up at the Information Window in Memorial Coliseum, directly across the street from the stadium. Admission to the press box is limited to male personnel.

If you intend to file from the press box, please so advise when requesting passes in order that you may be assigned a seat adjacent to your Western Union operator. It is advisable also to make advance reservations with the Lexington office of Western Union.

Radio stations desiring to broadcast from Stoll Field must first secure a permit from the University Radio Director outlining sponsors, fees paid, and any network arrangement. Booth assignment and tickets will be issued by the Sports Publicity Office upon approval of application by the Radio Director. Spotters are available if requested in advance. Stations should order lines installed by contacting the Lexington Telephone Company.

Televising of games is restricted as follows: Simultaneous telecasting is prohibited except in the event the contest has been selected for showing to the NCAA-approved network and express permission has been granted by the University Radio Director and Athletic Director. Filmed highlights of the game not exceeding 10 minutes in length may be televised immediately following the game and, upon official approval, a complete game film may be shown after 12 noon on the Sunday immediately following the contest.

Your press-radio-photo pass admits your car to the reserved parking space along the circular campus drive west of the stadium enclosure. The pass also entitles you to enter any stadium gate on your way to the press box. When leaving the box late after the game, you will find gate number one open. This gate, under Section A at the left end of the stands on the opposite side of the field from the press box, is an exit to Avenue of Champions in front of Memorial Coliseum.

U. OF K. RECRUITING POLICY

Within an hour after the Kentucky football squad returned to the campus from its New Year's Day 1952 triumph over Texas Christian in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Coach Paul Bryant startled the grid world with a challenging new recruiting policy.

The Wildcat mentor decreed a unique plan to "cease all recruiting of football players outside the state of Kentucky."

Bryant, who in seven seasons at the Bluegrass school has produced four bowl teams and enjoyed triumphs in three of the post-season classics, invited other colleges and universities to adopt the plan as a step towards elimination of "all the evils attendant on recruiting." It is believed that the Bryant plan was the first such major corrective step, short of outright de-emphasis or abandonment, to be adopted by any major football power in the country.

While Kentucky will not conduct or condone recruiting outside the state's borders and immediate emphasis will be placed on encouraging the best Kentuckians to attend their state university, out-of-state students will be accepted under highly-selective limitations. Bryant directed a limit of "no more than five football scholarships in any one year to non-Kentuckians." In all instances, he pointed out, "out-of-state students must seek us out and apply for scholarships. We will make absolutely no effort to recruit them." The coach explained that the allowance of five non-Kentucky scholarships was designed in most part to accommodate sons and brothers of alumni and to keep the out-of-state ratio on the football team in line with the ratio of non-Kentuckians in the total student population.

Despite the fact that only 108 Kentucky high schools fielded grid squads last year, Bryant declared "We have confidence in the ability of Kentucky boys to stand toe-to-toe with those of neighboring states and hold their own in football."

The Outlook For 1953

Aside from the difficulties of general inexperience and a belief that the new limited substitution rule may seriously retard the contribution of younger squad members, the 63rd edition of the Kentucky gridiron Wildcats promises to be one of the most challenging elevens of the school's post-bowl era.

Coach Paul Bryant, who has guided Kentucky to their first Southeastern Conference championship and four bowl appearances since taking the helm in 1946, looks to the coming campaign with mixed feelings of optimism over the team's potential and very serious worry over its inexperience.

Led by native Kentuckian Co-Captains, Tommy Adkins, senior center from Corbin, and Ray Correll, senior guard from Somerset, the Big Blue will tackle a difficult schedule with a team ranked as one of the most inexperienced ever fielded by Bryant. Fifteen letterman will be missing from the two-platoon lineup that compiled a 5-4-2 record in 1952 on the basis of a late-season comeback, including all four starting tackles, the number one offensive guard, starting center on offense and regular offensive fullback who was the team's leading ground gainer. Also, absent will be some valuable reserves like place-kicking specialist Bob Bassitt, the freshman whose educated toe won the Texas A & M game and made possible the upset tie of Tennessee last season.

While 30 varsity "K" winners will be returning for another year of action, Coach Bryant hastens to point out that only five or six saw the equivalent of as much as five games total experience. Only two—end Jim Proffitt, Louisville senior, and Steve (Mr. Anywhere) Meilinger, All-America halfback-quarterback-end candidate from Bethlehem, Pa.—have any appreciable experience as two-way players. The top prospect at every other position will be handicapped by lack of familiarity with one phase of play at his post under the new limited substitution rules.

In an effort to retain the best feature of the two-platoon system and offset the fatiguing effect of the new limited substitution plan, Coach Bryant expects to follow a system of alternating two teams in the game. The "shock troops" operation stems from the Wildcat mentor's contention that more than ever before physical condition will be the key to gridiron success.

In the overall picture, the Wildcats could be slightly improved offensively if line replacements show indications of learning their new lessons well and if the backfield consolidates along lines indicated by the many experiments of last season.

The biggest of these backfield experiments, in both the sense of the gamble involved and physical size, returns for a final campaign of haunting Kentucky rivals. All-America handyman Steve Meilinger, end-turned-backfield-star who has proven himself capable of handling any position on the ball club with ease, is expected to give the Wildcats their greatest offensive punch since the departure of the great Babe Parilli. The lumbering, six-foot-three, 220-pound end-quarterback-half-back seems ready to settle down, at least temporarily, at left half. Not to be discounted in opponent defense planning is the probability that he will continue his roving trouble-shooter role with part-time duty at both quarterback and end. About the only thing Big Steve will not be doing is catching his own passes.

Aside from the backfield, which will be one of the heaviest in Kentucky history when Meilinger is operating out of it, the equad in general will be a relatively light one. General team speed should be slightly improved.

The Wildcats' passing game, one of the biggest problems of last season, should be more consistent next season, if not actually somewhat improved. Since the Split-T style of attack, adopted for the first time by UK last year, will be the vogue again in 1953, the aerial artistry probably will play second fiddle to the ground maneuvers except under appropriate circumstances.

Defensively, the situation is something of an unknown quality, but possibly will be a little better in some departments, such as pass defense where the secondary men are back with a year's experience to aid them. If the spring intra-squad game is any indication, defense could be one of the team's strong points. The boys on both sides hit harder than in any spring game in recent years as they battled to a one-touchdown-to-none decision.

The kicking game also should show some improvement.

Facing a rugged schedule of 10 games, six of them after-dark encounters, the 1953 Wildcats will need sharp eyes and some help from unexpected sources to see their way clear of the numerous obstacles in their path to a successful season.

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS BERNIE A. SHIVELY

Supervising the steady growth and balanced development of one of the nation's top athletic programs is the Herculean task being carried out successfully by Bernie A. Shively.

Few who have observed the untiring efforts of the tall, silver-haired former All-America footballer in the service of the University of Kentucky as Director of Athletics since 1938 will argue his fitness as an athletic Hercules. Not only has Shively guided the development of Kentucky as a nationally-respected power in major sports, but he has also gained personal prestige through a fair-minded approach to many problems.

During his tenure as Athletic Director, Shively has directly supervised major expansions in Kentucky's athletic plant resulting from the progression of the school's football and basketball teams to greater national prominence and increased patronage by the sports-minded public.

The seating capacity of Kentucky's football stadium, McLean Stadium on Stoll Field, has been doubled to bring the current number of seats to approximately 36,000 and on a par with most other schools located in heavier-populated areas. Powerful lighting equipment also was installed during the 1948-49 construction to bring night football into new popularity. Party to satisfy the overwhelming number of basketball devotees, who could not squeeze into the 2,800-seat Alumni Gymnasium, a long-planned Memorial Coliseum was completed in 1950. Seating 12,000 persons for cage contests, the four-million dollar Coliseum also houses the Athletic Department and provides the first permanent home for the school's many minor sports teams.

A native of Paris, Ill., Shively attended the University of Illinois where he was an All-America guard in 1926 on the same grid team made famous by Red Grange. Demonstrating a claim to being one of the finest all-around athletes in Illinois history, "Shive" also laid claim to the Big 10 heavyweight wrestling championship and annexed letters in track before graduating in 1927.

Shively came to Kentucky in 1927 as line coach of football under Harry Gammage. A shift in the coaching ranks in 1933 resulted in Shively's promotion to head of the UK Physical Education Department, a position he retained until he succeeded Chet Wynne as Athletic Director in 1938. During this period and the years following, he also served as track and baseball coach for several seasons and continued to assist the football staff as line coach until 1944. The next year, 1945, he assumed full charge of the grid squad for one season before turning the job over to current mentor Paul (Bear) Bryant in 1946.

The Kentucky Athletic Director has served as chairman of the Southeastern Conference basketball committee for a number of years and is the current president of the SEC Coaches and Athletic Directors Association. In 1951, he took over the added task of establishing a booking office for football and basketball officials for the Ohio Valley Conference and heads the office as Supervisor of Officials. Familiarly known to his many friends as "Shive," he also has been active in numerous other civic and state organizations and projects.

Athletics At Kentucky

Kentucky's athletics program is organized under the Department of Athletics and a corporation known as the University of Kentucky Athletic Association.

A firm believer in sports and sportsmanship, Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, Vice-President of the University, has general supervision over the Department and also serves as vice chairman of the Board of Directors of the Association.

Former UK football player and one-time Wildcat coach, Dr. A. D. Kirwan, Dean of Students of the University, acts as secretary to the Association. He also is the school's faculty representative to the Southeastern Conference.

Bernie A. Shively heads the Department as Director of Athletics.

Maintaining over-all control of U.K. athletics affairs is the Board of Directors of the Athletics Association, composed of the President of the University and 10 other directors appointed by him, including five members of the faculty of the University, the president of the Student Government Association, an alumnus of the school, a member of the U.K. Board of Trustees, and two others. Frank D. Peterson, University Comptroller, serves the board as treasurer.

The current Board of Directors consists of the following members:

PAUL (Bear) BRYANT

Head Football Coach
University of Kentucky

One of the nation's most outstanding football mentors by tests of both success and leadership in the collegiate field, Coach Paul (Bear)

Bryant has lifted Kentucky out of the football doldrums and firmly established them in national prominence.

The youthful former Alabama star end, who risked a promising future when he moved to Kentucky in 1946, is recognized and respected in the grid world for his successful record with the Wildcats — winners of 53 games while losing only 21 and tying four in the seven seasons of the Bryant Era, including four major bowl appearances and a conference title.

Bryant also is known as a pioneer, unafraid to take a chance on something that seems right, and this attitude is reflected in a unique recruiting policy adopted after the 1951 season. Firmly believing widespread recruiting of high school standouts to be one of the game's biggest evils, the Kentucky chieftan voluntarily took the lead in restricting recruiting of players to home-state boundaries. He decreed a "Kentucky first" plan that limited out-of-state scholarship grants to five per year and ordered that in all cases the non-resident "must seek us out voluntarily."

That the amazing Mr. Bryant has been right before pleases his followers and worries his opponents. In 1946, when he gave up the reins at Maryland after a successful first season as head coach, Bear asked for a five-year contract. He explained that it would take that time to get the Wildcats established in winning ways. The final chapter of Bryant's "Five-Year Plan" was written in 1950 with a sensational flourish. As predicted, Kentucky hit its winning stride by capturing the school's first Southeastern Conference championship on a 10-1 record and pulled the upset-of-the-century in knocking off national-champion Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl.

The road to national prominence was not an easy one, but Coach Bryant can look back to a record of never experiencing a losing campaign. In his very first year at the UK helm, he guided the Bluegrass eleven, which had finished dead last in the previous season, to a surprising record of seven wins against only three defeats. The Wildcats made their first post-season appearance in winning the Great Lakes Bowl following an 8-2 mark for the 1947 campaign. After re-building in 1948 and recording a 5-3-2 season tally, the Bryantmen experienced another great year in 1949—capping off a showing of nine wins against two defeats by accepting a bid to the Orange Bowl. Failure in this venture only spurred the Wildcats to greater effort and they completed the round of major bowls by annexing Sugar and Cotton Bowl titles in the following two seasons.

Minus the services of the stars who enabled Kentucky to taste the previously-denied fruits of bowl victories, the Wildcats had to content themselves in the 1952 campaign with the no mean accomplishment of tying two bowl-bound elevens (Mississippi and Tennessee) in upsets highlighting an inconsistent season of five wins and four defeats in addition to the ties.

The upswing in Kentucky's grid fortunes also has resulted in personal fame and security for Bryant. He is currently working under an unprecedented, 12-year pact awarded in 1951 by grateful school authorities.

A native of Fordyce, Ark., Bryant played right end on the Alabama elevens of Frank Thomas from 1933-35 and was an All-Southeastern Conference selection two seasons. His coaching career began as a Crimson Tide assistant in 1936. Following four years with Bama, he moved to Vanderbilt in 1940 as an assistant coach. After two seasons with the Commodores, he entered the Navy. While in service, he was appointed coach of the North Carolina Pre-Flight team but never had the chance to play a regulation game. He was discharged in 1945 and soon signed with Maryland, marking his debut as a head collegiate mentor with a highly-successful season that led to the quick switch to Kentucky for the 1946 campaign.

The Coaching Staff

ERMAL ALLEN
(Kentucky '42)

Assistant Coach

One of Kentucky's most famous athlete graduates, Allen at 32 has had a full career as a collegiate star, pro-football player and successful college grid coach. He starred at quarterback for the Wildcat forces from 1939 to 1941 and entered military service following graduation. Returning as a graduate student after his discharge, Allen became the center of one of the Southeastern Conference's most controversial cases when he attempted to play a fourth year of football in 1946 and was declared ineligible after two games. Allen joined the U.K. coaching staff for the remainder of the '46 season, spent the '47 campaign as a T-quarterback with the professional Cleveland Browns, then re-joined the Wildcat staff in 1948. He became head freshmen mentor in 1950 and was promoted at season's end to fill the backfield coach vacancy.

CLARENCE UNDERWOOD
(Marshall '38)

Assistant Coach

Friends call Underwood by the somewhat unrespectful nickname of "Buckshot," but he has earned high respect from players and fellow coaches, alike, since he joined the Kentucky staff in 1948. Besides the usual duties on the football field, he has the sometimes difficult task of keeping gridders eligible by prodding them to tackle the daily classroom grind with the same forcefulness demanded of them on the greensward. He had a successful career as a high school coach at Beckley, W. Va., from 1938-43 and served three years in the Navy as a lieutenant during World War II.

JIM OWENS
(Oklahoma '50)

Assistant Coach

All-America end and co-captain of the Oklahoma Sugar Bowl team of 1949, Owens joined the Kentucky coaching staff shortly after the Wildcats humbled the Sooners in the '51 New Orleans classic. During his playing days under Coach Bud Wilkinson at O.U. from 1947-49, Owens performed in four bowl games (Gator, 1947; Sugar, 1949-50; Senior, 1950) and the All-Star Game at Chicago. In 1950, he played pro ball with the Baltimore Colts and served as end coach on the Johns Hopkins staff. During World War II, he was in the Naval Air Corps as an enlisted air crewman.

PHIL CUTCHIN

Assistant Coach

One of four current full-time assistant coaches on the staff who have player experience under Bear Bryant's tutelage, Cutchin was appointed August 1, 1952. He graduated from U. of K. in 1943 and spent nearly four years in the service before returning to pick up his final year of eligibility as a halfback on the Bryant-coached 1946 team. In 1947, he became assistant football coach at Ohio Wesleyan and remained until recalled to service in December, 1950. As an Army lieutenant, Cutchin served with the First Cavalry Division in Korea for a year during this duty tour.

JERRY CLAIBORNE
(Kentucky '50)

Assistant Coach

An outstanding safetyman and end during four years' varsity experience under Coach Bryant, Claiborne was added to the coaching staff in mid-August, 1952. As a collegian, he was regarded as one of the nation's top pass interception artists and his play helped pace U.K. to its first major bowl game, the Orange Bowl of 1950. He was selected as the team's most valuable player and, following graduation, became head football coach at Augusta (Va.) Military Academy.

PAT JAMES

Assistant Coach

Latest addition to the coaching corps, Pat James is the fourth assistant on the current staff who learned his football under Coach Bryant. A backfield man during high school play at New Boston, Ohio, he was shifted to the line at U.K. and became one of the nation's finest defensive guards before ending his career in the 1951 Sugar Bowl. He spent last season as grid coach at Danville (Ky.) High and was appointed as a U.K. assistant in February this year.

PROFILE OF AN ALL-AMERICA CANDIDATE

STEVE MEILINGER — Kentucky

Halfback (QB-End)

A Pennsylvania-born thoroughbred who is the big horse in University of Kentucky's football stable, Steve Meilinger ranks as one of the nation's top candidates in the run for All-America roses in 1953.

The Wildcats' hulking six-foot-two inch, 220-pound lineman-turned-backfield-star attracted wide attention in the closing stages of the 1952 grid campaign for his roving trouble-shooter role on the inconsistent Blue Grass eleven of Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant.

Acclaimed as one of Dixie's most promising flankmen and named to the All-Southeastern Conference team at end as a sophomore two years ago, the versatile Meilinger was suddenly shifted to the backfield in Kentucky's final five games of 1952. Although he had never before operated as a back in his career, he performed with devastating efficiency as he alternated with fluid-drive ease between end, quarter-back and halfback in bolstering the Split T attack of the Wildcats. Not content to be merely an all-around offensive star, he stood out prominently at defensive safety, linebacker and end to prove his unique versatility in an era of two-platoon specialists.

So effective was the surprisingly agile Meilinger in bowling over opponents that he was selected on the All-Conference team for the second straight year and named to many All-America honor units. One national magazine cited the Kentucky star as "Offensive Player of the Year." He missed some of the major selections apparently due to the lack of a clear majority of nominating ballots at any one position.

Just where the versatile Mr. Meilinger will play on the 1953 Kentucky team is the big question and one that has opposition mentors already shaking their heads. He is a threat as a passer, punter, runner, receiver and defender. He could conceivably perform well anywhere on the team. But the indications are that, barring the necessity to shift into his trouble-shooter role again, he may settle at the left halfback post, where concentrated practice and added game experience should allow considerable improvement over his sensational play of last year, and again alternate part-time at end and possibly quarterback.

Proven ability as a six-way performer, probably the only collegiate gridder of such versatility, is expected to make Meilinger one of the top threats in the national football picture during the forthcoming limited-substitution campaign.

ORIGIN OF "WILDCATS" NICKNAME

Kentucky's athletic teams are known to sports fans as the Wildcats. This first and only nickname borne by University varsities had its origin in 1909 in a speech made by Commandant Carbusier, then head of the military department of old State University. Speaking to a chapel audience of students on the showing of the Kentucky football team in defeating Illinois six to two, the Commandant declared "they fought like Wildcats." The tag was popularized by word of mouth and by the press with the result that it has since become synonymous with all major Kentucky athletic teams.

While the name is old in origin, no claim is made regarding precedence over similar nicknames boasted by Northwestern, Villanova and about 10 other major athletic teams.

An alumnus in 1947 presented a live Kentucky Wildcat to SUKY, student pep organization. Named "The Colonel," the cat is cared for by the group and is displayed in a cage on the sidelines at all home football games.

KENTUCKY'S COLORS

The blue and white of the University of Kentucky are known to sports fans everywhere. Officially the colors are Yale blue and white, but in the beginning, when the Lexington institution was still known as the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Kentucky, the colors were "Stoll Blue" and white. One day back in the 1890's a group of Kentucky football stalwarts met to choose their school colors. Someone suggested blue and white—"blue like Dick Stoll's necktie"—and those colors were immediately adopted. "Dick" Stoll was to become Judge Richard C. Stoll, distinguished public servant and, for more than fifty years before his death, a member of the U.K. board of trustees.

HOW THEY COMPARE WITH '52

ENDS—Improved. Added experience on part of best men, particularly senior Jim Proffitt and junior Al Zampino, should give better play. Proffitt experienced as two-way player. Versatile Halfback-Quarter-Back-End Steve Meilinger, two-time All-Conference choice at end, may see part-time action on the flank under special situations.

TACKLES—Definitely weaker. All four two-platoon starters of '52 are missing, including number one defensive lineman and best offensive player. Not a man is available who played as much as a full game at tackle last season.

GUARDS—Slightly improved. Virtually same men return who played in '52, headed by Co-Captain Ray Correll, an outstanding defensive player with offensive familiarity. Much help will have to be forthcoming to make up for loss of offensive starter John Bailey.

CENTERS—Weaker. Co-Captain Tommy Adkins, a defensive man with no offensive experience, returns but may have trouble with two-way play. Offensive starter Bill Simpkins lost. Depth very shallow.

QUARTERBACKS—A problem but should improve. Sophs Dick Shatto, a '52 regular who alternated with Meilinger in late season, and hold-out Bob Hardy are leading candidates. Meilinger may see spot action under certain play conditions. Veteran Herb Hunt has proved himself valuable man to have around and is sure to see important action. Late word at press time was that former Wildcat quarterback Bob Bezuk would return from an Army hitch to provide an experienced hand at the position.

HALFBACKS—Improved. Use of several backfield combinations last year gave many some experience. Heading the list of returnees is All-America candidate Meilinger, tabbed for probable left half duty when not trouble shooting at quarterback or end. Other top prospects include soph Dick Moloney, junior Dick Mitchell, and senior Joe Platt.

FULLBACKS—Better offensively. Much weaker on defense. Loss of top '52 ground gainer, sophomore Allen Felch, by scholastic trouble, hurt, but others taking up offensive slack. Senior Tom Fillion shifted back from halfback. Others provide good depth, but none have defensive experience or proven adaptability to linebacking duty.

LETTERMEN LOST

(Total of 19)

ENDS—BOB BASSITT, promising place-kicking specialist as a freshman last year. Scholastic trouble.

TACKLES—BOB FRY, starting offensive right table and alternate captain of the '52 Wildcats.

JOHN BALDWIN, regular left tackle on offense in '52.

TOM HARPER, senior reserve who quit squad in spring practice.

JERRY MINGIS, standout defensive starter in his first year last season. Troubles with books.

GUARDS—DON DYER, senior offensive substitute who gave up a year's remaining eligibility to graduate in June.

JOHN BAILEY, offensive regular lost by scholastic deficiency after spring practice. Soph in '52.

CLARK RATCLIFFE, regular on offensive platoon last year, lost to Army.

CENTERS—JOHN GRIGGS, captain of last year's team who served as end on defense.

BILL SIMPKINS, soph starter on offense in '52. Couldn't make grade academically.

QUARTERBACKS—LARRY JONES, the 1B half of the famous Jones twins who saw action also at halfback.

HALFBACKS—HARRY JONES, Mr. 1A in the Jones combination and a leading ground gainer until an injury in early season sidelined him for the year.

LOU KARIBO, a reserve with two seasons' eligibility remaining who took over as the team's student manager.

DON JIRSCHELE, junior reserve, cancelled out by sub-standard school work.

MAX MASON, soph tabbed as probable starter for '53 who quit again to work in Georgia. Stayed out in '52 due ineligibility.

JIM MAYO, a punting specialist who decided to concentrate on studies this year.

FULLBACKS—ALLEN FELCH, leading ball carrier on the club last season with a 4.8 average gain who was lost before spring practice due to scholastic trouble. He would have been a junior in '53.

HAYDON HOOPER, top prospect for regular action who broke his leg in fall practice this year.

FOOTBALL — WILDCAT STYLE

SYSTEM — Kentucky will utilize the Split-T style of attack as a basic pattern. However, to the extent that best use is made of available personnel, elements of other formations may be included. UK adopted the Split-T for the first time last season after using mainly the straight T-formation for three previous years.

GROUND ATTACK — With a born bulldozer in the person of Steve (Mr. Anywhere) Meilinger to grind out vital yards of terra firma, the prospects are for increased efficiency in Wildcat ground operations. The backfield should be one of the heaviest in Kentucky's recent grid history when Meilinger is operating out of it and the emphasis is likely to rest with power instead of speed.

PASSING GAME — Since the departure of fabulous passer Babe Parilli, the search has been on for a capable successor. The quest continues and the aerial artistry may end up as a three-platoon job this season—handled by soph Dick Shatto, the regular quarterback much of last fall; quick-thinking senior Herb Hunt; and sophomore Bob Hardy, a holdout in '52, or converted defensive halfback Dick Rusing. Not to be discounted is the possibility that Meilinger also will get into the act. As this went to press, former UK quarterback Bob Bezuk was due back on the campus after a hitch in the Army and indications were that the ex-understudy to Babe Parilli might be given a good, long look as the possible solution to the quarterbacking problem. Coach Bryant summarizes the outlook as potentially more consistent, if not actually somewhat improved. Passing is likely to play second fiddle to the running game.

DEFENSE — Due to the abolishment of rules allowing defensive specialists, the situation is something of an unknown quantity until game-tested. Line will be relatively weak from tackle to tackle despite the presence of some good men. Both defensive starters are missing at tackle.

KICKING GAME — Quadruple-threater Steve Meilinger probably will be called on to handle the punting chores along with his numerous other duties. He had a 35.8 average on boots in '52 and kicks with good height to allow coverage. Departure of place-kicking specialist Bob Bassitt has created problem in this department and it is uncertain who will do kickoffs and extra point tries. Summation: Kicking should be passable if not exactly as good as would be desired.

COACH BRYANT ON ONE-PLATOON FOOTBALL

Despite the obvious hardship that the new limited substitution rule will work on Kentucky's two-platoon-experienced players, Coach Paul Bryant feels he can go along with the rules makers in their aim of bringing the grid game back to "the good old days" of the 60-minute performer. "On the whole, I'm in favor of doing away with two-platoon football," says the Wildcat chief who was among the proponents of the setup of separate offensive and defensive teams. He entered the stipulation, however, that the current 20-day limitation on spring practice seriously handicaps former one-way players in their attempt to learn the new phase of their position.

"I know that the end of two-platoon ball will be a hardship for some boys who are incapable of playing defense and made the team simply on their offensive talent and it is apparent that many boys who could have helped the team under the two-platoon setup will be either unable to play at all this season or will have to improve at least 300 percent more than would have been necessary under free substitution conditions," Bryant explains. "But, I am just old-fashioned enough to believe that anything worth achieving is worth working for the hard way. I am certain that an athlete, who through continuous hard practice develops skill enough to compete both offensively and defensively against an opponent who is his equal, will undoubtedly learn many lessons that will benefit him in later life."

Coach Bryant specified that selection of men for UK's "new look" team in 1953 will be based on a yardstick on which genuine desire comes first. After this, he said he would seek speed, aggressiveness, intelligence and ability. Speed in the line and ability to play pass defense in the backfield will be prime requisites. And, it is imperative that the squad attain and keep in top physical condition to insure staying power under limited substitution conditions and help avoid injuries.

STOLL FIELD — McLEAN STADIUM

Much confusion among the general public and the sports-writing fraternity apparently exists over a seeming duplication of titles in referring to the University of Kentucky's football setup along "Avenue of Champions."

Officially, by action of the University Board of Trustees, the general area encompassing the playing field is known as "Stoll Field." Likewise, by authority of the same body, the stadium proper is known as "McLean Stadium."

Kentucky's first football field, occupying the general site of what is now the practice field west of the stadium, was first given a name when it was dedicated on October 14, 1916, as Stoll Field in honor of the late Judge Richard C. Stoll, prominent alumnus, trustee and benefactor of the University of Kentucky. Soon after the first sections of the present concrete stadium were completed on September 4, 1924, the new field site and stadium were likewise officially known as Stoll Field.

The first attraction to be held on the new Stoll Field was a football game with the University of Louisville on October 4, 1924. A gridiron clash between Kentucky and the then-powerful Centre College team was the first game played in the fully-completed stadium on November 1, 1924.

The later reference to the concrete stands as "McLean Stadium" has existed since November 1, 1924, when the stadium was officially dedicated in memory of Price Innes McLean and a bronze plaque placed in the south stands by the Class of 1925. McLean, regular center on the 1923 Kentucky football squad, died November 7, 1923, as the result of injuries sustained in the U.K.-Cincinnati game played in the Queen City the afternoon before.

Major expansions of McLean Stadium in 1948 and 1949 have resulted in a current over-all seating capacity of better than 36,000—more than double the number of seats available when Coach Bryant assumed the head coaching duties in 1946.

"Avenue of Champions" came into being in the spring of 1950 as an honorary title for that stretch of Euclid Avenue running between the University's $4,000,000 Memorial Coliseum and McLean Stadium. The street was officially re-named by the City of Lexington in recognition of the UK athletic teams' unprecedented success of 1950 in annexing the Southeastern Conference titles in both football and basketball and their national championships in the Sugar Bowl grid game and the NCAA cage tournament.

Background Briefs

(Alphabetically by Positions)

ADKINS, TOMMY—Senior—Corbin, Ky.

Co-Captain of the 1953 Wildcats, Adkins rates as one of the nation's best examples of the effect of the new limited substitution rule on former one-platoon stars. The talented senior hadn't had a single minute's experience on offense before adapting to the double-duty rule in spring practice by operating at offensive center as well as his regular linebacker post. Adkins earned his spurs as a star by coming through as one of the team's top sophomores two seasons ago and gained wide recognition for his great defensive ability as a fullback linebacker in 1952. His seemingly amazing quickness in correctly diagnosing the enemy attack allows him to be at the right place at the right time in a sort of sixth sense reaction. Among the recognition won by Adkins last year was selection on the Chicago Tribune's All-Players All-South Team and second team mention on the Associated Press All-SEC squad.

PHILPOT, O. E.—Sophomore—Lebanon, Tenn.

A 20-year-old competitor who saw only limited action on the defensive platoon last season due to an injury . . . With inadequate depth at center this year, he may be used in relief more often . . . An All-Mid-South selection in '51 at Lebanon High under former UK assistant Joe Atkinson, he has the size (6-2 and 190) to become a mature performer with experience . . . Studying civil engineering.

STRANGE, Leo—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

Earned his "K" letter as a yearling last season on the strength of good defensive work at a linebacker post . . . The six-foot, 195-pound ex-Louisville Manual star is tabbed as the probable chief replacement for starter Tommy Adkins at center this season . . . He is 20 years old and is taking a business course . . . A good competitor who should see extensive action.

WILLIAMS, Ken—Sophomore—Lebanon, Tenn.

Switched from fullback to center before fall practice, Williams is a determined hustler with the size (6-2 and 175) to help him come through . . . He layed out last year after transferring from Middle Tennessee State College . . . Hard worker who needs grooming at unfamiliar position.

GUARDS

CORRELL, RAY—Senior—Somerset, Ky.

Nationally recognized in the past two campaigns as one of the country's top defensive guards, senior Co-Captain Correll could rate high mythical team honors during 1953 if his adjustment to the offensive phase of duty comes easily. Ray first attracted wide notice as the result of sensational defensive work in the 1952 Cotton Bowl game against Texas Christian. His stellar play in stopping TCU backs for sizeable losses in clutch situations, when Kentucky was nursing only a one-touchdown lead, earned him a unique honor for a sophomore—selection on the All-Time Cotton Bowl Team. As a junior defensive specialist on the two-platoon squad of last season, he continued to improve steadily and gain widespread praise for his harrasing tactics against opponent backs. He is 22 years old, stands six-one and weighs 205.

CURNUTTE, Duke—Sophomore—Ashland, Ky.

A top candidate for the position as running mate to Co-Captain Correll, Curnutte lettered as a freshman last year for his contributions on defense . . . The 20-year-old former Ashland High grid and wrestling standout has the physical makeup at 5-10, 185 to develop into a top flight guard with added experience . . . His real first name is Delmas, but he's called "Duke" by teammates and coaches . . . All-State in football at Ashland.

HANLEY, Jack—Junior—Hartford, Conn.

Small in stature (5-10 and 175), but large in determination to play . . . Moved to guard in pre-season practice after seeing defensive specialist duty last season as the team's regular linebacker . . . Should provide help at this inadequate position . . . All-State fullback at Hartford Public High in 1948 and 1949 seasons and served as captain of the school's grid teams in the same year . . . He is a business administration student.

KOCH, Joe—Junior—Louisville, Ky.

One of football's tough little guys who has grown up "under fire," "Cookie" stands only 5-10 and tips the scales around the 180 mark but he makes up for lack of size in fight and determination to succeed . . . Could win a starting berth this season at right guard . . . His hustle captured the attention of Coach Bryant while he was still a freshman and led to a prediction from the Wildcat chief that Koch would develop into a fine player despite his slight stature . . . Now 19 years old, he played under Ray Baer at St. Xavier High in Louisville.

LOWRY, Neil—Junior—Youngstown, Ohio

A defensive regular during 1952, Lowry rates high in the guard picture for the coming campaign . . . He has paid the price to achieve the nod as a starter, but the new limited substitution rule may set him back behind other candidates with greater natural ability . . . Held out in '51 to gain additional size and grid savvy, he is 6 feet tall and weighs about 190 now as a 21-year-old . . . All-City tackle at Youngstown Ursuline, he's majoring in English at UK.

ROUSE, Gayle—Sophomore—Burlington, Ky.

Saw reserve action at defensive right end last season, but failed to play enough to letter . . . Shifted to guard in fall practice to bolster a weak spot and may find the duty more fitted to his capabilities . . . A hard and conscientious worker on the field, he should play this year . . . He is six feet tall and weighs 180 pounds.

STUART, Joe—Sophomore—Horse Cave, Ky.

Inexperience is holding back the former Caverna High luminary, who made the All-Conference team two straight years as a schoolboy halfback . . . First tried at center after enrolling at UK, he was later shifted to guard . . . Could see limited duty this season in reserve capacity while learning . . . He's 19, 6-1, 185.

TACKLES

BIVIN, Arvon—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

He's known to teammates by the "sissy" nickname of "Tootie," but his performance on the greensward is far from impotent . . . Seems sure to enter a strong bid for first string duty after a year's apprenticeship on the defensive platoon . . . The former All-State gridder at Louisville Manual High, who set a state high school record for the discus throw in '51, is strong, sizeable and determined . . . Twenty years old, Bivin is 6-2 and tips the scales at 197.

BUTLER, Jack—Sophomore—Tompkinsville, Ky.

Although he did not play as a freshman last year, Butler is regarded as a good varsity prospect and should see limited relief duty in 1953 while gaining experience . . . Has the physical makeup to become a good college tackle with 207 pounds distributed over a 6-4 frame . . . Named as an All-Conference tackle while playing for Tompkinsville High . . . He is 19 and majoring in physical education.

LUTZ, Ken—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

Varsity duty was not in the cards for Lutz a year ago, but this season promises better prospects for him to see regular relief action . . . Lack of sufficient experience is likely to keep him from a starting role despite the weakness at tackle . . . Coaches feel he has determination to improve and should be able to help some this year . . . Graduate of DuPont Manual High in Louisville where he was an honorable mention All-State selection at tackle . . . Biggest man on the squad, the 19-year-old Lutz stacks up at 6-4 and 215.

PETETT, Frank—Sophomore—Tompkinsville, Ky.

Failed to see action as a freshman halfback last season . . . Tried at tackle in pre-season practice in an experiment that gives every indication of paying "darkhorse" dividends . . . Petett has the size (6-2 and 180), will power and agility to play the tackle post well . . . He was a fullback at Tompkinsville High.

SCHENK, Jim—Senior—Newark, N. J.

A husky competitor who earned a varsity letter in his first season at Kentucky last year . . . Transfer from Georgetown University (Washington, D.C.) in 1951 after that school abandoned football . . . The six-foot-one-inch, 213-pound Schenk was a reserve guard on the offensive platoon in '52, but virtually all of his duty was at left tackle on defense . . . He was an All-State tackle choice at Seton Hall Prep school in South Orange, N.J. . . . Jim is 22 years old and is majoring in a College of Commerce business curriculum.

WHEELER, Bill—Sophomore—Pikeville, Ky.

Hard-luck standout as a freshman, Wheeler appears to have thrown off all effects of the broken wrist that sidelined him in his first varsity starting assignment last season . . . If his play meets expectations in '53, the 6-4, 200-pounder should provide a pleasant surprise by winning a starting role and fortifying the weak tackle post . . . The 19-year-old son of a coal mine operator is a pre-medical student . . . As an all-around athlete at Pikeville high he won All-State honors at end on the grid squad, was a second All-Kentucky choice at a center in basketball, and captained the school's teams in both sports his senior year.

KIRK, Harry—Junior—Mt. Sterling, Ky.

Shifted from end to tackle at the start of pre-season practice this year, Kirk shows promise of developing just as fast at the new position as he did as a two-letter veteran offensive end . . . Big and aggressive with necessary qualities to play creditably wherever he is stationed . . . He was an All-SEC Freshman team end selection in '51 and number two right end on offense last season . . . Known as Pete to teammates, he stands 6-4, weighs 195 and is 20 years old.

ENDS

PROFFITT, JIM—Senior—Louisville, Ky.

One of the handful of experienced double-duty performers available for 1953, senior flankman Proffitt is regarded as among Kentucky's top four football competitors. The sizeable former Louisville Manual High School star has proved himself, in three seasons at UK, to be an unspectacular-but-dependable type of player who rarely receives the rave notices deserved for his contributions to victory. Proffitt broke into the starting lineup at end as a sophomore and in two years at the position showed up well on defense as well as a pass snagger. In one of the best performances of his career, the six-foot-two inch wingman starred in last season's Tennessee game with a sensational, leaping end-zone catch of a desperate four-down pass that enabled the Wildcats to tie the bowl-bound Vols in the closing minutes of a hard-fought ball game.

BEATTY, Jerry—Sophomore—Paintsville, Ky.

Failed to see varsity action as a yearling prospect in '52 . . . Only lack of experience will hold him back from regular duty . . . He is regarded as having the desire and ability to be a fundamentally sound flankman and should see reserve play in '53 . . . Beatty is 21, tips the scales at 170 and stands an even six feet.

HENNESSEY, Larry—Junior—Paris, Ky.

A very "big" little man, "Dude" is the holler boy on the ball club who exhibits a spirit and desire that inspires his much bigger teammates . . . He is only 5-8 and 170, but never shirks the pileups, whether it's just practice or a close game . . . Two varsity letter awards for valuable reserve service have rewarded this diminutive-but-dangerous bundle of determined athlete . . . He was an all-around athlete at Paris High, winning honorable mention All-State honor at quarterback and captaining the grid squad, playing guard on the cage team and the outfield in baseball . . . It will be hard not to find a place for this pint-size "H-bomb."

MILLS, Bradley—Sophomore—Lynch, Ky.

Changed from a three-deep man to end in Fall practice, Mills may be the number one relief operator at the right flank . . . Served as the team's regular safetyman and won a letter in 1952 as a freshman . . . Looked good as a running back in the spring, lending the impression that he has plenty of speed and fight . . . The six-foot-two, 178-pound Mills won All-State honors at end in high school . . . Nineteen years old, he is the son of a mine foreman in Kentucky's coal region and is studying to be a dentist.

SCHNELLENBERGER, Howard—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

The sportswriter's dilemma who earned his first varsity "K" as the team's regular defensive end in his freshman campaign . . . A difficult to spell name is not going to hold "Howie" back from extensive play this season . . . One of the top sophs on the squad, he is a key man in plans for ends in '53 . . . Schnellenberger was an All-State selection in both football and basketball at Louisville Flaget High . . . He also served as captain of both the brid and cage squads in his senior campaign and was named to the All-National-Catholic schoolboy football team . . . A Commerce student, he is 6-2 and 190.

ZAMPINO, Al—Junior—Philadelphia, Pa.

Hard-playing competitor whom Coach Bryant called the most improved man on the Wildcat squad during Spring practice . . . Considered a top candidate for designation as a starter at end this season after seeing duty in '52 as the team's regular defensive right half and limited action as an offensive flankman . . . Played defensive end as a freshman in '51 and has earned two letters . . . Zampino is 22, stands six feet even and weighs 185 . . . He is enrolled in the College of Education.

QUARTERBACKS

Probably the nation's smallest T-quarterback at 5-9 and 174, Bezuk is due for discharge from the Army just before the season opens and could provide the big answer to Kentucky's man-under problem unless lack of sufficient pre-season practice handicaps him at first . . . "Bazooka Bob," a two-time All-State selection at Ambridge High in Pennsylvania's Beaver Valley goldmine of football talent, left Kentucky for military service after lettering as a Wildcat sophomore in the 1949 season . . . Bezuk, who will have two seasons of varsity eligibility remaining, served as an understudy to the fabulous UK All-American Babe Parilli when here before . . . If he takes up where he left off in his collegiate grid career, the pint-sized scrapper could lend poise and considerable help at the vital QB post.

HARDY, Bob—Sophomore—Paducah, Ky.

A 1952 holdout boy who could be the "darkhorse" at the wide-open quarterback position . . . Hardy can be expected to show considerable improvement this season, although he is bound to be handicapped by a lack of confidence brought on through an absence from game competition . . . Considered a good competitor who has yet to reach his real potential . . . He was a two-time All-State selection at Paducah Tilgman High and is a pre-law student at UK . . . Hardy is 20 years old, six-feet-one in height and weighs 180.

HUNT, Herb—Senior—Mayfield, Ky.

Spot player extraordinary, Hunt is the type who'll knock the home run with the bases loaded as a pinch hitter in the clutch game to use baseball lingo to describe his special traits as a gridder . . . He lacks the physical makeup and great natural ability of many a star athlete, but plays his heart out whenever he's in there and gets some remarkable results . . . Best remembered for his outstanding efforts in last season's Tennessee tie . . . He not only scored the first TD made by UK against the Vols since 1947, but he tossed the long, looping aerial to end Jim Proffitt in the dying minutes of the contest that gave the Wildcats the marker that set up the deadlock. The six-foot-one-inch, 165-pound Hunt also is a pitcher on the Kentucky baseball squad and is majoring in business administration.

SHATTO, Dick—Sophomore—Springfield, Ohio

Alternated between quarterback and halfback as a regular in his freshman campaign last year . . . One of the top prospects for starting quarterback duty in '53 . . . Led the team in passing last season with a 35.4 per cent completion average on 54 tosses . . . Handles himself well in the Split T offense, but may find the going more rugged ahead as he converts to defensive play . . . Came to Kentucky as a highly-touted prospect on the basis of outstanding play at Springfield (Ohio) Senior High that gained him All-America and All-State laurels . . . Dick is 6-1, 190 and earned his letter in '52.

BROWN, Locky—Sophomore—Beverly Hills, Calif.

One of the first out-of-state scholarship recipients under the Kentucky recruiting policy announced early in 1952, Brown did not see action last season . . . Transferred to UK after a year at Menlo (Calif.) Junior College . . . Showed up well in spring practice this season and is regarded as a top candidate for duty at right half . . . He's the son of Johnny Mack Brown, former Alabama All-American and now a movie favorite in westerns . . . Locky is 6-1 and 165.

HARRINGTON, Roger—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

A holdout last season, Harrington has come to the forefront among halfback candidates this season and seems certain to make a strong bid for regular duty . . . Should develop into smooth operator with seasoning in competition this year . . . Fast and elusive runner . . . Attended DuPont Manual High in Louisville where he played both halfback and fullback . . . He is 5-9, 165 and 20 years old . . . Majoring in Geology.

MEILINGER, Steve—Senior—Bethlehem, Pa.

All-America candidate who covers Dixie better than the dew when he's operating at up to six positions on the team . . . The senior flankman-turned-backfield ace rates as one of the most versatile performers ever seen in the South . . . Earned All-Conference honors as a soph in 1951 at end and repeated for the nomination last season after serving as a roving trouble shooter, playing both quarterback and halfback on offense in addition to end . . . Expected to settle at left halfback to start with this season, the six-foot-three, 220-pound Meilinger already has gained wide national attention as a virtually unanimous pre-season All-American pick . . . If he attains All-SEC selection this year and is again put down as an end (where the experts are most prone to think of him), he will have become the first lineman in Conference history to make that coveted crowd for three straight years . . . (Also see story on Meilinger elsewhere in this book.)

MITCHELL, Dick—Junior—Somerset, Ky.

Small, but hard-running competitor who should enter a strong bid for regular varsity duty on the basis of his extensive reserve work in bolstering both halfback posts last season . . . He was held out two years ago and his play reflects the benefit of the additional seasoning . . . Small in stature at 5-8, 160, but classed as one of the best and most dangerous runners on the squad . . . All-State two years at Somerset High.

MOLONEY, Dick—Sophomore—Covington, Ky.

Leading prospect for the right halfback starting nod, Moloney has made the conversion from defensive specialist to double-duty performer with surprising ease . . . His hustle and determination to play have brought him along quickly since the close of last season . . . Fast and shifty runner who hits much harder than his 5-11, 170 size would indicate . . . Pre-season drills saw him team with Meilinger as a running mate in the first-string backfield . . . Best classed as one of the "blood and guts" guys who makes up for lack of size and great natural ability by old-fashioned, driving desire . . . Captained both the football and basketball squads at Dixie Heights High in his senior year and won an honorable mention spot on the All-State grid squad.

PHILLIPS, Bob—Sophomore—Pikeville, Ky.

Held out of competition last year to gain added size and seasoning, Phillips has shown possibilities in pre-season practice this year of developing into a reliable back . . . He has been high on the list of prospects for right half duty . . . Even if he fails to win a starting berth, he'll be hard to keep on the bench . . . "Hooker," as he is known to teammates, stands 5-11 and weighs 170.

PLATT, Joe—Senior—Kokomo, Ind.

Veteran defensive man who lettered last year as one of the Wildcats' "Four Little Burgulars"—a quartet of pass defenders . . . New rules of two-way play may handicap him this season, but Platt is expected to be used in a primary relief role to make use of his experience and dependability . . . Captained both football and basketball teams in high school . . . The personal statistics: 5 feet 11 inches, 175 pounds, and 22 years old.

WILLARD, Miles—Senior—Vandergrift, Pa.

Another member of the "Four Little Burgulars" crew of pass defense specialists last season, Willard lettered as a safetyman . . . Moved to halfback in pre-season practice this fall . . . Considered a good punter, he had a 34.7 yards per try average as the team's number two kicker two years ago . . . Did not handle kicking duties last season . . . Plays third base on the Wildcat baseball team and hit .305 this year . . . He is six feet tall and weighs 165.

BOWMAN, Don—Sophomore—Louisville, Ky.

Swift and powerful runner who was held out last season due to ineligibility following transfer from Miami (Fla.) U. . . Only the question of how well he can adapt himself to defensive play will keep him sidelined to any extent this year . . . Also needs to brush up on blocking assignments . . . Expected to see considerable action if he learns lessons well . . . All-State as a gridder at Louisville Male and second in the 440-yard run at state meet . . . He is six feet, 190.

CALLAHAN, Ray—Sophomore—Lebanon, Ky.

Sure to prove tough competition for both the opposition and teammates trying to beat him out for regular reserve duty at fullback . . . Considered a prospect for varsity action but needs seasoning in the position weakened by losses and injuries . . . Fast and hard runner . . . He is 20 years old, 5-11, 182 . . . At Lebanon High, he was an honorable mention All-State selection two years straight at halfback.

FILLION, Tom—Senior—Owensboro, Ky.

Tabbed for possible starting duty at fullback after a disappointing year as a halfback . . . Picked up only 188 yards last season in comparison to 671 and a 5.7 average registered for the '51 campaign when he operated as a relief fullback-halfback . . . That year, Fillion led the Kentucky team in individual rushing and was the fifth leading ball carrier in the conference . . . Moved to halfback in '52, to make a spot for Allen Felch (now departed), the former All-Southern schoolboy back failed to catch fire and Felch took over the ground gaining title . . . Back at FB again, the hard-running Fillion should pick up where he left off in '51 if position means anything and if he adapts himself adequately on defense . . . He stands 5-10, weighs 180 and is a good student majoring in industrial engineering.

PAOLONE, Ralph—Senior—New Castle, Pa.

A hard and reckless runner who could provide a lot of help at either fullback or halfback if he hits his full stride this year . . . Had a 4.4 yards per try rushing average in '52 while seeing reserve duty at HB-FB . . . Defense may set him back, but he seems certain to see considerable action this season . . . At 6-1, 205 pounds, Paolone is second only to Meilinger when it comes to backfield size . . . Transfer from Notre Dame, he was held out in '51 . . . All-State in Pennsylvania in '48.

RUSHING, Dick—Junior—Camden, Ark.

One of Kentucky's "Four Little Burgulars"—a quartet of soph defensive backs—in 1952, Rushing lettered on the basis of his contributions as the regular defensive left half . . . Moved to quarterback in spring practice this year to bolster the man-under corps and looked good in the annual Blue-White game carrying the ball as well as passing . . . Exhibits a fine desire on the field and works hard . . . All-State in Arkansas and an honorable mention All-America choice as a schoolboy standout HB-QB at Camden High . . . Rushing stands six feet even and weighs 178 . . . He's studying to be an insurance executive.

Series History and Information

The Aggies showed surprising offensive power and a stingy defense in allowing UK a 10-7 win on a third-quarter field goal last year in an auspicious opening of football relations with the Bluegrass eleven. The experts are tabbing Coach George's crew for another lean season in '53, mainly on the absence of 16 lettermen, but A & M will be experimenting with a new offensive system (combination T and single wing) and could catch fire to surprise any team taking them lightly. Replacing sensational quarterback Ray Graves, one of the best faced by the Wildcats last season, will be halfback Don Ellis, moved from left half. The backfield should be strong with help from veterans fullback Don Kachtik and halfbacks Connie Magouirk and Bob Easley. Most promising in the "small and inexperienced" line are guard Sid Theriot, tackle Larry Winkler and end Eric Miller. Reportedly, Coach George will unbalance the line in his new system to play both tackles on one side of the center. Overall, the Aggies are a young team that could catch fire and surprise some people.

Series History and Information

A disconcerting sequence of upsets and near upsets mark the unpredictable Kentucky-Ole Miss series which stands deadlocked at four wins apiece and a 13-13 standoff produced at last season's meeting. The Wildcats' feat of being the first to blemish the shining Rebel record of 1952 will not be forgotten by the Vaughtmen who could easily prove to be the class of the conference this season. The Kentucky game has always been a "make or break" game for Mississippi. In past years, when the Rebs won, they went on to have good seasons while a loss to UK generally has been an omen of a poor or just average campaign. Kentucky's fourth-quarter come-from-behind tie of Ole Miss last year was one of two such marks against an otherwise perfect record they took into their tussel with Georgia Tech in the Sugar Bowl. While Tech was victorious in the bowl battle, the Rebels should show the benefit of the extra practice in early season this year. Mississippi is reputed to have a strong, deep line built around Crawford Mims, an outstanding guard, and Ed Beatty, speedy, 230-pound center, and appear sure to have one of the strongest backfields in the SEC. Look for them to be a dangerous contender for the league title.

Series History and Information

Thirty-six years have elapsed since the initial Kentucky-Florida grid contest and, for the most part, the Wildcats have enjoyed things pretty much their own way since the series stands at nine wins to three in their favor. But a new era in Gator football appears at hand. The Sunshine State crew, who humiliated UK, 27-0, in a meaningless, uninspired (for the Cats) season finale last year, is pegged as a power and threat for the '53 conference title. Big dogs in the Gators' picture, and the gentleman on whom much of their potential depends, is Rick Casares, 6'2" senior fullback. (NOTE: As this booklet went to press, Casares was reportedly extensively injured in an auto collision and comment from attending physicians and Coach Woodruff indicated he might not be ready for Florida's opening games. His injuries reportedly included a cut tendon in the right hand. Police were planning to investigate the accident in which a woman companion riding with Casares was killed.) Also on hand will be All-SEC guard Joe D'Agostino, one of the best linemen in the league. Reportedly, the Floridians are loaded with capable performers despite the loss of their fine halfbacks, Papa Hall and Buford Long. Extra practice gained in preparation for their Gator Bowl victory over Tulsa should help provide the confidence needed for a tough ball club.

Series History and Information

Although both clubs have been playing the grid sport since before the turn of the century, the Kentucky-Louisiana State football series is probably the most recently inaugurated rivalry in the Southeastern Conference. The Tigers and Wildcats first got together on the gridiron in 1949 and only three games have been played in the series. UK registered the first two triumphs, both shutouts, but dropped a 34-7 decision last fall to keyed up LSU. The Bayou Bengals had a good young team in '52 and lost very few by graduation. Thus, they are regarded as a club with strong potentialities this season. However, a difficult schedule may prevent an analysis of their true strength. Coach Tinsley appears to have the services of a host of good backs, too numerous to mention, and a fine forward wall built around center Gary Dildy, guard Paul Miller, tackle Sid Fournet and sophomore flankman Joe Tuminello. Indications are that the Tigers, who never fully conformed to the two-platoon fad, will be hurt less than most conference teams in adapting to the new limited substitution rule. LSU should thrive on tough competition.

Series History and Information

Gridiron relations with Mississippi State began before World War I, on October 17, 1914, but a surprisingly small total of only eight contests have marked the series which was interrupted after 1917 for a long period. With their hard-fought, 27 to 14 victory over UK last season, the Maroons finally evened the count at four wins apiece. The outlook for this year's "rubber game" appears hinged on whether the visitor's ace quarterback, Jackie Parker, retains his proficiency under the new style of play. Parker set a new conference individual scoring mark of 120 points in nine games as he led all major college scorers last fall and was named the SEC's "most valuable player." He heads a group of 23 returning lettermen who will form the nucleus of the Split-T forces that Coach Murray expects to mould into a potentially dangerous machine rated as the darkhorse of the league. Opposing coaches feel State has more good football players than many people realize and a smartly arranged schedule that should aid in their development as the season progresses.

Series History and Information

Football rivalry between the two Wildcat teams dates from their clash in the Great Lakes Bowl game at Cleveland in 1947. Regular season games have been played annually since that time, except for an interruption in 1949, with the results always in Kentucky's favor until last season. The Philly Wildcats measured UK, 25-6, in the opening game of the '52 campaign to post their first win against three losses to the Kentuckians and a tie in 1948. Ominous rumblings of potent strength are seeping out of the Main Liners' camp again this year since many of the flashy backs and hulking linemen, who used the Kentucky victory as a springboard to a near-perfect season in '52, are still around to try their hand at the new style of football. Coach Art Raimo reportedly leans to the strategy of outscoring the opposition this year, rather than depending on his top flight defense, and seems to have the men for the job in All-America halfback Gene Filipski, former Army cadet ousted in the cribbing scandal; and his sidekick Ben Addiego. Villanova will command plenty of respect with this duo operating behind a rawboned line averaging 213 pounds.

Series History and Information

Although marking Kentucky's fifth venture in the football wonderland of the Southwest, the late-season clash with the Rice Owls will signal the inaugural of grid relations between the two teams. On previous visits, the Wildcats met Southern Methodist (1949), Texas U. (1951) and Texas A & M (1952) in the regular season and triumphed over Texas Christian in the 1952 Cotton Bowl game. The Rice campus will bring back memories to six veterans of the present squad for UK conducted pre-Cotton Bowl training there. Coach Jess Neely's outfit should, in the frank words of their mentor, be a "good football team" this season. Nineteen lettermen return from the '52 squad that finished strong to gain a second place berth in the tough SWC and, reports say, there are several good newcomers up from a strong freshman squad. The Owls are basically a standard "T" team and had the foresight to be prepared for the new era of two-way play by giving both offensive and defensive units some experience with both phases last season.

Series History and Information

Gridiron relations between Kentucky and Vanderbilt began 57 years ago and the rivalry has been perpetuated intermittently ever since that initial contest in 1896. The series stands overwhelmingly in the Commodores' favor with 21 victories recorded for the 26 meetings ending temporarily after the Vandy win in 1948. Some indication of the former power generated by the Vanderbilt eleven is reflected by the fact that they registered no less than 12 shutouts in the first 41 years of the rivalry and UK did not manage to get into the black until 1939. The word is that Vandy may have too many problems to overcome this season, but caution is the watchword among their opponents who have words of respect for the coach who will not be frightened and for his prize package, aerial artist Bill Krietemeyer. Thirty-two returning lettermen give the Commodores depth and they could catch fire behind the sensational passing of Krietemeyer.

Series History and Information

Kentucky and Memphis State have never met on the gridiron before, but the Tigers from Tennessee promise to fulfill well their assignment of providing the Wildcats with their annual pre-Tennessee look at the power formations utilized by the Vols. A single-wing exponent and traditional small college power in the Mid South, Memphis State is tutored by Ralph Hatley, who received All-Southeastern mention at guard in 1934 while playing under General Neyland at Tennessee. The Tigers had their poorest season in six years in 1952, winning but two engagements while dropping seven. However, Memphis State's record prior to the 1952 slump discloses that they restricted opponents (including SEC foes) to less than 130 points per season while averaging better than 200 per campaign themselves. The showing against colleges of similar size was even more outstanding and the Tigers should hit the victory trail with greater effectiveness in 1953.

Series History and Information

One of the oldest and most hotly-contested grid rivalries in the South, the Kentucky-Tennessee series history dates from a memorable encounter in Knoxville on Oct. 21, 1893. Significantly, the visiting Kentuckians thoroughly thrashed the Tennessee team by the score of 60 to 0 to get the football warfare off to an auspicious start. The margin of victory has never been equalled in the 47 games played during the 60 years following that inaugural meeting. The Wildcats and Volunteers have clashed annually on the gridiron since 1906, except for three war years (1917-18 and 1943). Tennessee has the advantage in the series, having won 29 of the contests while UK has been victorious in 11 and eight tie games have resulted—the latest a 14-14 deadlock last season.

The vaunted Vols, who have played their share of “spoiler” roles in the past, saw their hopes for a share of the 1952 Southeastern Conference title thwarted in the “snow bowl” fight at Knoxville last fall as the Bryantmen pulled from behind in the final five minutes of the fray to score twice with chilling swiftness. The resulting tie let undefeated Georgia Tech in the back door to the SEC throne room and registered another unusual chapter in the series history that records many exceptional quirks.

Since 1925, the two educational institutions have stimulated their friendly rivalry on the football field to greater heights by awarding a traditional trophy to rotate with the victor as a means of denoting grid supremacy between them. The battered trophy, donated originally by a group of rabid UK alumni and known at first as the “Ice Water Barrel,” is now officially described as the “Beer Keg” and has been held continuously since 1936 by the Volunteers.

Prospects for the trophy changing hands this year are considered in the class best described as slightly better than usual but still slim. The view of the Tennessee picture, from which the old General, Bob Neyland, has faded for reasons of health, is a confusing one of guarded optimism for victory offset by suspicious pessimism based on the abundance of material still around. New mentor Harvey Robinson actually may not find himself six deep in Orange Ogres since there were some telling losses, but opposition coaches are not certain that the Vols were hurt as much as is claimed. The advantage of extra practice as they prepared for their Cotton Bowl engagement last New Year's plus a cleverly-arranged schedule are going to make them tough to beat. A word to the wise: Watch that new Vol passing game.

The University of Kentucky

Located in Lexington, an urban community of 100,000 population, UK is a state supported institution which operates under the direction of the Board of Trustees. Membership of this Board includes the Governor, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the Commissioner of Agriculture, ex officio, and twelve members appointed by the Governor, three of whom are alumni of the University and three members of the State Board of Agriculture. It is one of a number of institutions known as land-grant colleges, which were established by the Morrill Act of 1862, and which will continue to receive federal assistance under the provisions.

The University is on the approved list of the Association of American Universities, and is a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and the Kentucky Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. It is accredited in its respective colleges or departments by the Association of American Law Schools, the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism, the American Library Association, the National Association of Schools of Music, and the Engineers' Council for Professional Development.

The major function of the University is that of instruction. For the performance of this function it is organized into the College of Arts and Sciences, the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, the College of Engineering, the College of Law, the College of Education, the College of Commerce, the Graduate School, a College of Pharmacy, located at Louisville, and a Northern Kentucky Extension Center at Covington.

The University began as a part of Kentucky University under a cooperative plan authorized by the legislature in 1865. The purpose of this plan was to unite sectarian and public education under one organization. This experiment was tried for a number of years. In the meantime, the Federal funds authorized under the Morrill Act were used to develop agriculture and mechanical arts in Kentucky University. In 1878, when the people of Kentucky decided to establish a state institution of higher learning, the College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts was separated from Kentucky University and reestablished on land given by the City of Lexington and the County of Fayette. Thirty years later the legislature changed the name of the institution to the State University of Kentucky, and gave it additional financial support. In 1916 the name was again changed, this time to the present title.

(Kentucky University is not to be confused with the present day University of Kentucky. U. of K., known in these early days as A&M College, was separated from K.U. in 1878. Transylvania College of Lexington evolved from old K.U. while A&M became Univ. of Ky. During the process, U. of K. carried successive titles of A&M College, Kentucky State College, and State University of Kentucky. See Footnote A for explanation of scoring in these early games.)

Footnote A — Although numerical scoring had not yet been introduced in Rugby football, either here or in Great Britain, when Kentucky and Transylvania (then known as Kentucky University) played their series in 1881, persons in charge of the games obviously had arrived at some sort of agreement assigning numerical values to the various scoring plays. Records never existed and men who played in the games are scattered or dead. All we can do is accept the scores printed in the newspapers — and surmise that a touchdown perhaps counted $\frac{1}{4}$ point and that a goal or an end-kick (a punt into the modern end zone) counted 1. That seems logical, since in the ratio scoring of that day, a touchdown was worth one-quarter of a goal. The end-kick, a British heritage, undoubtedly was introduced because all realized that green players would score few goals, if any.

Footnote B — The football rules took no official position on the score of a forfeited game until 1908 when it was pegged at 1-0 to make it different from any other score possible in the game. By common consent, forfeited games prior to that were entered into the records as victories by 6-0 for the offended team — everywhere, that is, except in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, predecessor of the Southern Conference and the Southeastern Conference. In the S. I. A. A. the 6-0 practice was followed unless the offended team had a greater number of points. In that case, the offended team won by the greater score to nothing. Thus, Kentucky's forfeiture to Central University in 1900 is 6-0, since Kentucky led by 11-0 at the time. Kentucky led Cumberland by 12-11 in 1905 when the Tennesseans forfeited. The Blue and White, under S. I. A. A. rules, gets credit for a 12-0 victory.
