30 Church Choirs Meet Here Sunday

Singers Will Come From Communities Near Lexington

Central Kentucky church choirs will meet for the second annual Bluegrass Choir Festival at 2:30 p. m. Sunday. The festival, which is open to the public, will be held in the University of Kentucky's Memorial Coliseum.

The choirs will be directed by Dr. Francis C. Biddle, director of music for the Cincinnati public schools and member of the University of Cincinnati music faculty. Home: Frank J. Beck, director of the Second Presbyterian Church of Lexington, will be at the organ to accompany the choirs.

Miss Jean Marie McConnell, in charge of the arrangements, reports that approximately 30 choirs from eight to nine towns within a 50-mile radius of Lexington will support the festival. The massed choir will number nearly 400 voices.

"The festival," said Miss McConnell, "is not designed as an elaborate display of church choir talent. It is to be a unified and an expression of praise to God through the medium of hymns and anthems of the church."

The program will include "Now Let the Heavens Adore Thee," "Bach," "Sanctus," "Gounod," "Open Our Eyes," "McFarlane," "Hallelujah," "Bach," "The Lord is My Shepherd," and "Keep You," Lutkin; and "Consecration."

The following choirs will participate—First Methodist, South Frankfort Presbyterian, First Christian, Frankfort, First Presbyterian and First Methodist, Huntington, First Christian, and Lexington Avenue Baptist, Danville; Hunter Presbyterian, Berkeley Springs, Christian, Everybody's Church, First Presbyterian, First Methodist, Immanuel Baptist, and Faith Lutheran, Lexington; First Christian, Harrodsburg; Central Presbyterian, Winchester; and First Presbyterian, Paris.

Students May File Today For Degrees

Seniors who entered the University for the second semester and who expect to complete their requirements for graduation at the close of the second semester or summer term, and who have not at a previous time made application for degrees, may do so today or tomorrow. This applies also to graduate students who expect to complete their requirements for graduate degrees. All applications should be filed in Room 16 of the Administration Building.

As the Commencement lists are made from these cards, it is very important to file applications at the earliest possible date.

Candidates for the bachelor's degree will be charged a graduation fee of $9. This will cover the rental of cap and gown, diploma for the Kentucky and other necessary expenses. Candidates for advanced degrees, other than the doctorate, will be charged a fee of $20, which will cover the above with the exception of the diploma. An additional fee of the doctorate is $25. Graduation fees are payable not later than the first day preceding the commencement.

Too Much Worrying!

Hannah Says Faith Reborn If Greatness Is Realized

"We have become 180 million worriers here in the midst of the greatest accumulation of material strength the world has ever known," stated Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State College, at the 80th Founders Day Convocation last week.

"The land-grant colleges and universities must take the lead in restoring faith in America, faith in her principles, faith in her mission and faith in her destiny. We can strengthen the people of America in this great world crisis by persuading them anew of their essential greatness."

"Fundamental issues of the present world conflict must be made so clear, and the inevitable consequences of failure so plain, that Americans will see themselves as conquerors rather than victims, and accept whatever sacrifices that may be required for preservation of their freedom."

DR. HANNAH PRAISED the role of this nation's land-grant colleges and universities in lifting America to a position of world leadership largely by striking off the burden of aristocratic education and bringing within reach of common citizens the results of those who wrote the Declaration of Independence.

"Of Dean Thomas P. Cooper who is slated to retire in June as head of the UK College of Agriculture, the speaker declared: 'You are the Dean Tom Cooper has . . . continued them to help us. For we are lost. We need for food is the great common denominator of the world's people. If we can eliminate hunger and starvation as a factor in many straggle for existence, perhaps we will then be willing and able to demand a higher price for its freedom and its soul."

"Sometime soon, we Americans must come to realize that our higher standard of living is not the difference between our country and Soviet Russia, but that the higher standard of living exists in our country and that it is a difference."

"If America is nothing more than a speck of earth, it is only a speck of earth. God help us, for we are lost."

Scholarship Fund Increased $2500

The University's McDowell scholarship fund, sponsored by Robert C. McDowell, UK alum, and a Cleveland construction engineer, has been increased by $2500, Dean D. V. Terrell of the UK College of Engineering announced last week.

Intended primarily for freshmen engineering students, the McDowell scholarships make student assistance funds available in varying amounts depending upon the recipient's need. Preference is given, however, to sons and daughters of the McDowell Company employees in granting the scholarship.

Three students are currently receiving aid from the fund, Dean Terrell said. He added that three members of the College of Engineering's 1950 graduating class are now employed by the Ohio engineer.

UK Roundtable To Hear Rupp

UK Roundtable discussions will be given over radio station WHAS, Louisville, at 10 a. m. Sunday, March 4 and March 11.

Charles Adolph Rupp will discuss the basketball scandal this Sunday. Some of the questions he will answer are: What should be done to prevent a recurrence of the scandal? What can and should be done to protect intercollegiate athletics from the organized gambling fever?

Doctor Peter P. Drucker, management consultant and author of many books on politics and economics, will head a discussion program on March 11.

Three UK faculty members, Dr. Jasper B. Shannon, professor of political science, Dr. Vernon A. Mushman, head of the Department of Business Education, and Dr. John T. Masten, professor of economics will complete the discussion panel. The topic for discussion will be: "How can we provide both opportunity and security in our modern industrial society?"

'People Act As People' Management Guides Politics Through Resources-Drucker

Two new institutions exercising governmental power—management and unions—are now seriously affecting society and politics.

Peter P. Drucker, New Jersey corporation consultant who queried the American section of UK's Blaier Lecture Series Monday night, described these two major political institutions that have grown up with strong power. The title of his lecture was "The Political Problems of Big Business Society."

Management has control of major economic resources of a community, human and otherwise, thus making management hard to curb, Drucker said. "You can get rid of the old group but the new one put in will become like the old."

Organizations which are actually semi-professional groups and have large powers, which enable them to act as vetoes against management, he said. The right of unions to strike, he added, will be very hard to curb.

SUB Will Be Scene Of Bridge Sessions

Duplicate bridge sessions will be held in the Social Room of the Student Union Building at 6:45 p. m. beginning Thursday and continuing for three weeks. The Student Union Activity Committee has announced.

Prof To Visit Pacific Isles

Prof. L. J. Horlicher, assistant dean of the College of Agriculture, left last week for Hawaii, New Zealand and Australia on an inspection tour of livestock production methods. He plans to return to Lexington April 1.

Sponsored by the Pan American World Fair, the tour will take Dean Horlicher with a group of 40 Texas livestock breeders, to the world's second largest Herford ranch on Hawaii, to Australian sheep and cattle ranches and agricultural experiment stations.

Dean Horlicher, a specialist in animal husbandry, said he is hopeful the trip will produce valuable information on livestock production, particularly on the state's wool growers. He will give careful study to the state's wool, "the finest in the world as regards uniformity of quality."

The materials will confer with livestock authorities at the University of Melbourne, Victoria, the Royal Agricultural Society Show at Sydney, and Massey Agricultural College, Palmerston North, New Zealand, famous for its grass improvement program.

SGA's Open Letter Asks Rescheduling Of Concert

Student disapproval of the cancellation of Phi Mu Alpha's modern jazz concert was expressed loudly and indignantly in campus hall sessions. For a day or two, it almost seemed as if the old student spirit had returned to UK. But after the first sputter or two, apathy again took the place of action, and silence reigned.

However, the Student Government Association at its regular meeting Monday night took notice of the affair in an open letter to the students. The letter, written by SGA President Jack Ballantine, is a clear, well-expressed statement of what we believe to be general student opinion on the subject.

Although the Kernel has been able to get no information on the possibilities of rescheduling the concert, we agree with SGA that the concert should be held on the University campus if at all possible. We consider the issue an important one and hope it will not end without further action on the part of the University and Phi Mu Alpha.

The complete text of the Student Government Association's letter follows:

By now many of you may consider the Drake affair a closed incident, but we of the Student Government Association feel that a word or two of explanation is necessary in order to state the student's view point and eliminate any student-faculty friction.

No person, faculty included, is more interested in the reputation of the University of Kentucky than is the student. He is the one who suffers or benefits from the University's bad or good name. We, therefore, feel that the administration was obliged to clear itself of any affiliation with downtown bars, and we feel that the statement issued clarifies their stand. The article in the "Leader" made no accusations, but the implications were so strong that the University had to eliminate any misunderstanding by the readers of the paper. We concur heartily with the statement of the University's position.

The decision to cancel the jazz concert is open to criticism, however. It was made the same night that the article was released and we believe it was hasty and ill-considered; we believe all concerned in the matter took measures far more drastic than the situation justified.

If one analyzes the situation, we believe he will see how disproportionate was the remedy for the wrong. Phi Mu Alpha was to sponsor a study of contemporary music, with emphasis on the development of jazz. Such a study is just as much a part of education as is a course in modern art or present day political theories or current labor problems. It pertains to our environment and to us. So we feel there definitely were grounds for such a concert.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS: "Go on, take it! If you want a snap course, that's it."

The Mailbox

Jazz And Progress

I am not usually a "Letter to the Editor" writer. However, since reading today's Kernel, I just can't seem to stay away from this old newspaper. First: where was "Jazz Knapping" today? A campus newspaper without jobs is like ham without eggs. I was just beginning to think how much better is Knapp than was Pain when, not even any Knapp! What happened? Now I wish to blast our music faculty. So they do not feel jazz music is worth serious study? Isn't that nice? As students and teachers of music, are they concerned with studying music, or merely with praise for and cramming down the throats of their students the music they think is right? I'm not a jazz lover myself; I take many cracks from my neighbors about the fine music I listen to so often on my radio. There are times, however, when I enjoy jazz very much and the thought strikes me that perhaps some day that same jazz and its composers will be revered as the old masters and their music are today. Seems to me Chopin himself was not appreciated until after his death.

I am a graduate student of engineering and I shudder at the thought of the consequences to my chosen profession of a general attitude such as that expressed by the music faculty. If we were to discard new ideas and trends as not worth serious study before studying them I fear we would not remain engineers and students very long. Among those in my profession whom their colleagues called "crazy" were Edison, Marconi, Ford, Whitney, Pulton; and so "ad infinitum". Need I say more? Yours very truly, H. O. Knight

Dance Music Taught At Other Colleges

Last week University officials canceled Phi Mu Alpha's modern jazz concert. Under the unusual circumstances, this action may have been a political necessity. However, I wish to take issue with the statement issued by the University in regards to the place of jazz in our culture and in the University program. Allow me to quote part of this statement: "Jazz music has no part in the University program. Although it is played copiously at University dances, the University faculty does not believe it is a fit subject for serious study." It is interesting to note that the Eastman School of Music, one of the most highly regarded in its field,

The cancellation seems to stem from the fact that three of the members in the concert group were playing in a band at the Drake. Students went to the Drake to hear the band play—not the concert selections but everyday jazz. So the three were indirectly blamed for the student patronization of the bars and all of Phi Mu Alpha has to pay the penalty. Once the University has cleared its name, there is no room for anyone to associate the Drake with the concert. The two are separate and distinct.

Perhaps it is now too late to have the concert on the originally scheduled date, but the Student Government Association feels Phi Mu Alpha should reschedule the program and hold it under University sanction if not under University sponsorship. The above decision was made by the assembly in regular meeting Monday evening, Feb. 26. This letter is published to clarify the situation, to approve the University's policy of no affiliation with bars, and to call for a rescheduling of the Study of Jazz concert.

Sincerely, JOHN T. BALLANTINE, President, Student Government Association

What's Wrong With UK's 'Alma Mater'?

I was very much embarrassed at the Founder's Day Convocation when we were asked to sing our Alma Mater. It sounded as if we were all heading for the grave and we were singing our "Swan Song". It is no wonder that it did sound that way because no one seems to know the words and some don't even know the tune. Yes, I know that we all learn it when we are freshmen, and my friends in the dorms tell me that they have to learn it every year. But we never sing it anywhere else. I can count on my two hands the number of times we have ever sung the Alma Mater since I have been attending this institution. I might add that four of these times have been on Founders Day. Other schools seem to sing their Alma Mater as often as they sing their pep songs and I have never seen a school where the Alma Mater is not sung at every two years at least. And for heaven's sake, let's put some pep into it and sing it like we really mean it. Sentimental Senior

Let's sing the Alma Mater at our football and basketball games more than once every two years at least. And for heaven's sake, let's put some pep into it and sing it like we really mean it.

(Good suggestion, Sentimental Senior. It might provide an occasional welcome change from "On, On, U. of K.—Ed.)

The Concert Again

I was hoping that after the storm of protest last week the University administration would relent and let us have our jazz concert. Every student you talked to about it felt we should have it, whether they personally liked jazz or not. They felt it was unfair to the students and faculty members who had practiced so hard and long, and to the composer who had written a selection especially for the concert, to cancel the concert because a Lexington Leader writer wrote a factious story about a few of the musicians were playing in downtown bars. Should the many suffer for the few? Should the concert be canceled because some students earn their way through school by playing music in places of which the official and almighty University of Kentucky does not approve? Frankly, I'm disgusted with the officious attitude of the University powers-that-be. How can they be so stupid, so blind, as to cancel a concert almost unanimously desired for almost no reason at all? I suppose all we can hope for is that they will realize in time what they are doing and give permission for the concert to go on. Dr. Frank L. McVey, president emeritus of the University, wrote a book about Kentucky education entitled, "The Gates Open Slowly." So, it would seem, do the minds of the faculty. Disgusted

Sports And Education

As a loyal Kentuckian, I am deeply pained by the reputation gained by UK as a result of the prowess of her athletic teams. From numerous statements and remarks gathered from various sources through the nation, I have come to the conclusion that UK is largely regarded as little more than a production athletic center, her function as an educational institution being little more than a side-light. Now, such a situation might be beneficial to the athletes when it comes to negotiating professional contracts; to the coaches, whose reputations and salaries depend upon their victory production, to the old grads who can point proudly to their old Alma Mater, and to the administration, who can use to good ends the cash which might spring forth from the loyal alumni as a result of UK's charity-inspiring football and basketball victories.

But what about the other hundreds of students who are graduated from our beautiful campus each year? After all, they too must negotiate for positions — and usually not for those who pay five figured salaries. How are they going to fare in competition with graduates from those schools which are known to be producers of competent intellects? Are we going to allow their position to be jeopardized for a few day-gathering trophies? It is likewise a sad situation when the Commonwealth of Kentucky can afford four million dollars for a collection and continue to house regular classes in such fire traps as the Psychology Annex, the Chemistry Annex, Neville Hall, etc. Student

Coliseum Awes Elena Nikolaidi
By Ed Coffman
"This hall has made the biggest impression on me of anything I have seen since I have been in America," is what Elena Nikolaidi, Metropolitan opera star had to say about the Coliseum.
"It gives me a peculiar feeling to sing in such a large place," she also commented on the excellent acoustics and sang a little to illustrate her point.
The Greek contralto thought that Americans were well developed musically. "I found tremendous music here on a high plane. The orchestras here are unusually good," she added that the universities and colleges also had a lot to do with the interest in music. "You know, we do not have anything like this in Europe."
The men on campus have done their share of pushing too, but pleasing women for the fraternities is not one of their new pledges this week are the following:

FTA Social Meeting Planned For Tuesday

The University chapter of the Future Teachers of America will sponsor a social meeting in the Recreation Room of the Taylor Education Building at 7 p.m. Tuesday. The party will be "country style."
The meeting is open to all students interested in joining the FTA. Miss Mary E. Lewis is in charge of arrangements.
A meeting of the executive committee on the FTA Workshop will be held at 5 p.m. Wednesday, in the Education Building. All members on the project should attend.
"Concerts are much more fully developed here than in Europe," she added, "However, America has opera in all the larger cities."
The Greek contralto is a very dynamic and sincere person. This was emphasized by her answer to the question of what advice could she give young singers. "Work, work, work! Work seriously. You must dedicate your life to music, and set a high goal. She then reiterated "The young person must be able to work hard, most of all."
Miss Nikolaidi was quick to answer that Carmen was her favorite operatic role. "I made my debut in that role, and it is still my favorite."

By Paul Knapp
Here's to the land we love and vice versa. Which reminds me, I told her I had six cuts in one class she asked if it were a barber college or not. She soon found out that tuition wasn't that gift women have received of insatiable knowledge.
Then I turned around when a loud dean came by a colleague attracted and I looked up and saw a pigeon carrying a drop card. Among other things it said I should drop dead or fall more jobs.
"Sir, may I have your daughter for my wife?"
"Bringing your wife around and well see."

2nd Old Maid: "That's the way it goes. Some of us can't get one, others have husbands to burn."

"I was doing a rhumba with my girl when her deaf father walked in."
He: I suppose you dance?
She: Oh, I love to.
He: Great. That's better than dancing.
Prof. (entering room): Son, you do you think you are? The teacher?
Class clown: No, sir.
Prof.: Then sit down and stop acting like an idiot!
Angie: "Say, Ida, what do you suppose became of my bathing suit. I left it lying there on the chair."
Ida: "Well, it ought to be there. Look under that package of cigarettes."
Pat Hall and her boy friend were having an argument as to whether it was possible for a man to kiss a girl against her will. She said it couldn't be done and the boy friend disagreed. Finally they decided to settle the argument by trying it out. After the struggle was over, Pat said:
"Well, you won, but it wasn't fair. My foot slipped. Let's try it again."

Did You Lose Something? Perhaps The SUB Has It

By Dolly Sullivan

Have you lost a small, nondescript lampshade or a pair of blue swim trunks? In the SUB, maybe? Well, if you have, Miss Mackle Randall, SUB director, would appreciate it if you'd come over and pick it up.

People lose many things that are never claimed and they include these odd items.

Of course, you'd expect umbrellas to be left. A pink plaid one, a black plaid one, and white and brown plaid umbrellas are just waiting to be claimed. So are two pairs of girls' boots, one red, one brown. People must not be of things during wet weather, because there are four khaki plastic raincoats, two gray raincoats, red and blue, and two cloth raincoats unclaimed.

There are some dry-weather items around, too. Sweaters in tan, yellow, black, white, and a black one with red arm stripes; and heavier clothes too—a boy's blue check (worn sports jacket, a girl's gray corduroy jacket, and a dark check wool suit topper.

People lose books and notebooks, too. There is a copy in Miss Randall's office of a book with unclaimed books. Notebooks belonging to Charles Mathias, Howard Kaub, and Joe Richardson are unclaimed too.

YOU'D EXPECT SCARVES, gloves, keys, purses, and compasses, and there are plenty, but there are pens, too, a pair of nylon mitts, a green billfold initialed "Y. R.", lipsticks, and a pair of white wool ear-muffs.

Two pairs of eyeglasses, a blue pair in a red plastic case and one pair with blue-gray rims, are unclaimed. Miss Randall's office doesn't have things lost in the cafeteria or grill, incidentally, only items from the second and third floors of the SUB are there. They can be claimed in Room 121, SUB, from 8:30-11:30 a.m. and 1-5 p.m. Miss Randall says they'll be given to charity soon unless they're claimed.

With The Movies

Fighting GI's In Korea Featured In 'Steel Helmet'

By Melvin Mitchell

The early nineteen hundreds; the mid-nineteen hundreds—Hollywood brings both to the screen. The mid-century picture, "Steel Helmet," is an outstanding production, with the picture, with the earlier setting, "I'll Climb the Highest Mountain," is just mediocre.

"STEEL HELMET" is a story with a background of the Korean War. It describes the adventures, hardships, dreams, and fears of a squad of GI's who are dispatched to establish an artillery observation post behind the enemy lines.

The casting of this picture adds to the performance, not because of the prominent names in the cast, but the lack of well-known actors. This makes the picture more, rather than less, effective because its cast contains no overwhelming stars to obstruct or distort the script... or tip off its ending.

Besides the lack of popular stars, there are no women in the cast. The lead in the cast is performed by Gene Evans, a newcomer to the screen, who portrays a rough Sergeant Zest.

The movie "I'll CLIMB THE HIGHEST MOUNTAIN" is essentially simple. For the most part it is slow. In some respects this treatment is in keeping with the theme which is homespun and down to earth.

The technical production, which is to be shown at the Kentucky Theater March 2-8, is rated "good." The story is improved, somewhat, with the acting of Susan Hayward and William Lundigan in the cast. Lundigan is the practical pastor of backwoods Georgia in the early nineteen hundreds. Susan Hayward, his city-bred wife who is challenged with the rigors of the production.

Although the production is along the usual line, it offers splendid scenery, deep spiritual conflict for the mind, and romance to touch the heart.

Rosalie Cakes, national student YMCA secretary of the southern region, will make her annual visit to the UK campus on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The YMCA will hold its meeting next Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. in the Y-Lounge of the Student Union Building.

Missionaries To Talk

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Banks of Indianapolis, recently returned missionaries, will speak on "The Land and People of Africa" at the meeting of the Disciples Student Fellowship Sunday night. Their talk, at 8:30 p.m. in the Kentucky Utilities Hostess Room, will be preceded by a supper served at 5:45 p.m.

ABOVE IS SHOWN the Faculty Club that does not exist. For an explanation of this cryptic statement, read the article below.

'University of Kentucky Club' Faculty's SUB, Once Patterson's Home, Is One Of UK's First Three Buildings

By Dorman Correll

The "Faculty Club" at the University is not the "Faculty Club," strange as it may seem. The building, known as "Faculty Club," the members call it the "Faculty Club," but the true name is the University of Kentucky Club. As Prof. Paul Oberst of the College of Law, who is president of the club, says, "We try to operate in competition with the Student Union."

Any staff member can join the "University of Kentucky," or "Faculty Club." Dues are $10 a year. Members can lounge in the club rooms, and use any of the club's facilities. These include a billiard room, a reading room, a ping-pong room, a lounge, dining room, and kitchen.

According to the constitution, "The object of this club is to promote social relations among its members and to maintain and operate, for the use of its members, the club rooms provided by the University of Kentucky."

The "FACULTY CLUB" is lodged in a historic building. Located next to the Law building, it was built in 1882 of bricks made on the campus and was one of the first three buildings on the campus—and it looks it from the outside. Inside, however, the change is amazing. High-ceilinged rooms, well-lighted, and with comfortable chairs all about, make the "Faculty Club" an ideal place to spend leisure time.

The building was originally the home of President James K. Patterson. When he died in 1922, his brother, Walter Kennedy Patterson, lived there until his death in 1923. The brothers Patterson were called "He-Pat" and "She-Pat" for easy identification.

Walter, "She-Pat" built a fence in back of the house and enclosed a nice little lot for a back yard. In other words, it is said that when the new library was dedicated in 1931, the spectators could look across the way and see "She-Pat" fenced in back yard, pigs and all. In other words, a typical picture of rural Kentucky was right in the middle of the campus.

THAT'S ALL CHANGED NOW. Though the back yard isn't there anymore, it hasn't been for a long time. The club moved in in 1939. Before that the club occupied the North end of McVey Hall's third floor.

The dining-room is perhaps the most used room in the club. Here Charity, the well-known cook of the "Faculty Club," prepares lunch each day and dinners on special occasions.

Newmanites To Hear Bishop Wm. Mulloy

The Most Reverend William T. Mulloy, bishop of the Diocese of Covington, will address the UK and Morehead Newman Clubs and other Catholic organizations of Lexington at St. Peter's Church at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. His subject will be on vocations to inaugurate March as vocation month for the Diocese of Covington.

On Tuesday night at 7:30 Prof. Carl B. Cone of the UK History Department will give a talk, "The Protestant Revolt in England," at the regular Newman Club meeting in the Social Room of the SUB.

Both of these addresses are open to the public.

Math Club Members To Hear Dr. Howard

Dr. A. S. Howard, head of the division of science and mathematics of the Kentucky Wesleyan College, will speak on "Notes from the Early History of Mathematics" at the White Hat Club meeting, 4 p.m. Tuesday in Room 129 of McVey Hall. Dr. Howard received her Ph.D. degree in mathematics at UK under Dr. H. H. Downing, head of the Department of Mathematics and Astronomy.

Three Are Pledged By Music Honorary

Three new members were pledged to Phi Beta, music and drama honorary fraternity, yesterday, Priscilla Hancher, president, announced.

The new members are Priscilla Hegler, organist; Joyce Blair, contralto; and Peggy Sherrow, pianist.

Three Religious Clubs To Have Joint Party

The Disciples Student Fellowship, Wesley Foundation, and Westminster Fellowship will hold a joint party at 7 p.m. tonight at the Women's Gym. Mrs. Jane Lender will direct folk dancing. There will be also ballroom dancing, and refreshments will be served. Don Darrell, Frank Guiley, and Pat Lancaster, presidents of the three organizations, are in charge of arrangements.

Public Dubs Of Fem Ability 'For Men Only' Is No Longer Applicable In Pharmacy Field As Women Take Over

By Gloria H. Hartman

Pharmacy is rapidly growing out of the "for men only" category. This change is occurring in all professions and is a wholesome one, for recognition has already been won by the feminine members in medicine, nursing and bacteriology, to name only a few.

There is a regrettable tendency on the part of the great portion of the American people to regard the present-day pharmacist of the neighborhood drug store as one whose service requires no great amount of specialized scientific knowledge and skill. And so to this quotation from the 1948 Pharmaceutical Survey could be added the statement that the woman pharmacist, although fully accepted in related fields of science has been regarded with the same perverted views as to her capabilities. Instead, in professional educational circles, they are seriously considering making the four-year pharmacy college course to five or six years with a corresponding higher degree. This is the same profession which, less than 20 years ago, required a State Board examination, only for registry.

THE QUESTION IS, will Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public take the woman in pharmacy as a matter of course along with their progression into the fields of science? It is thought that the answer to this question will be "yes" because of every sort, from Equine to the New York Times, can be found.

The Faculty Club meets only once each year, the first week in May. Then it elects officers, who take office on Sept. 1. During the rest of the year, the activities of the Club are directed by an executive board, consisting of the outgoing president—the president and vice-president cannot succeed themselves—the officers of the club, and two other members.

AT PRESENT, THE OFFICERS are: Prof. Paul Oberst, president; Comptroller Frank D. Peterson, treasurer; Edna Church, mathematics instructor, vice president; and public relations director Jack Wild, secretary. The other members of the executive board are Dr. Don Cash Seston, head of the Physical Education Department, and the outgoing president, J. W. Matthews, of the Agriculture college; and Herman Ellis, assistant professor of economics.

The law and commerce colleges contribute a host of members to the Club, which now has more than 130 members. Proximity is an advantage for staff members of these colleges.

Besides providing a daily lunch and occasional dinners, the club occasionally sponsors a dance. The main thing that the club does is furnish a medium for faculty social gatherings and relaxation.

At present the club is conducting a membership drive, and 12 new members have been recently added to the fold, including football coach Paul Bryant.

THE AMERICAN COUNCIL on Education's Committee on Pharmaceutical Survey reported some interesting facts about women in the profession in the period 1946-48. The Deans of 33 Pharmacy Colleges answered with a prevailing affirmative that women should be admitted to Pharmacy on the same basis as men, and as far as institutional policies are concerned, this "feeling" is in practice. The participants in this survey were also asked to compare the qualities of women in the classroom and laboratory with the men students. In accuracy, ability to cooperate, interest, ability to handle ideas, they scored evenly with the men students.

Of the practicing pharmacists in 1947, one percent of these were women, the survey found, and college enrollment statistics in the meantime would indicate a rise in this figure. In 1948-50 10 percent of the students enrolled in pharmacy were women and this figure is retained in totaling the students in all classes of pharmacy, while 7 percent of the students seeking graduate study in pharmacy are women. However, even though the survey shows that women are far from lacking in ability for the practice of pharmacy, another portion of the report shows that because of prejudice of one sort or another, some have a more difficult time in job placement.

WHAT ARE THE OPPORTUNITIES for women in pharmacy? To take another example from the business of today, a woman has recently taken the editorship of "The Professional Pharmacist," a magazine for the elite in pharmacy. In addition to the ownership and operation of a drug store, the ultimate aim of most students of pharmacy, the woman graduate who also makes a successful retail pharmacist is needed for her particular skill in industry. Several pharmaceutical houses employ women pharmacists to represent their products to women doctors. And likewise, in the cosmetic industry, pharmaceutical chemists are in demand for the development of attractive as well as pharmaceutically suitable preparations. The same applied to child health and dietetics.

A woman entering the field today will find the going rough, but the satisfaction at the end of the road will be directly proportional to the output along the way. She may prepare for any of the previously mentioned fields of pharmacy, and there is a great need now for educators and persons with advanced degrees in pharmacy. In summation the survey reported that "... it is evident that women already have come to an important place in the profession and will have an even more important place in the future."

SEC Mark Broken By Cats' 14th Win

By Fred Lawson Assistant Sports Editor

Kentucky's Wildcats added four more entries into the Southeastern Conference record book as the team's No. 1 team snuk the Vanderbilt Commodores 39-57 last Saturday night. More than 13,000 appreciative fans saw the Wildcats win their 14th loop victory and end the regular schedule with a sparkling 24-1 record. In winning their 14th Conference victory, the Cats set a new record for the most number of SEC wins without a defeat. The Wildcats also changed a record they set just last season—the highest average of points per game against SEC competition. They now have averaged 83.3 points per game contrasted with the 1949-1950 mark of 72.9.

Another record fell when the Cats boosted their total in conference play to 1,144 in the 14 games. Auburn held the old record, set last season of 1,029 in 13 contests. Kentucky also tied the record for the most victories in one season. Alabama won 14 games during the 1939-40 season, but lost four. The Cats jumped out to a 14-2 lead with less than five minutes gone in the game. Capt. Walt Hirsch and Bobby Watson led this spurt as Watson hit on all four of his shots from deep out in 18 court.

Engineer Magazine Is Edited By One Of Five CE Coeds

By Paul Knapp

The Kentucky Engineer, a magazine published by the College of Engineering, has come a long way in its 13 years of existence. But since Clark, the present editor, isn't thinking much about the past of her college's quarterly mouthpiece right now. She's a busy girl, setting year number 14 started with an issue near the end of this month.

The cooperation of its 34 members, ECMA strives to develop better engineering college magazines through editorial comments and in securing more and better advertising. Any magazine meeting the rigid standards of practice set up by the association becomes eligible for election to membership after a trial period of one year.

At present a national advertising agency handles all ads except for some local printing under the heading of Professional Services. After the printing bills are paid there is practically no profit to ECMA.

AT PRESENT, THE MAGAZINE contains from 44-46 pages and has a circulation of 1,000 copies. This includes the Engineering alumni, students, high schools, library copies, companies, and all members of the Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers.

It has been the aim of the publication, as stated in an early issue, "to encourage the students to make use of the guidance and equipment at their disposal here and to promote the undertaking of independent research and experimentation."

and quoted numerous occasions, especially the series on "Abandoned Railroads of Kentucky" by Prof. E. G. Sulzer, head of the Radio Arts Department. These have been in demand all over the country. All articles are written by engineering students except for a limited number, one to be exact, by a member of the faculty. To us who come no closer to the College of Engineering than a casual short-cut through the Quadrangle to the Post Office, the Kentucky Engineer won't mean much. But to its readers all over the country it represents a growing University and an Engineering College that's tops.
