'Stars In The Night' To Honor Outstanding Women Students

The annual "Stars In The Night" program, which honors the outstanding women on campus, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Memorial Hall, Pat Morrissey, chairman of the Women's Administrative Council, has announced.

The Women's Administrative Council, which is composed of the presidents of all women's organizations on campus, sponsors this program annually in connection with the Mother's Day program, sponsored by the House Presidents' Council, Owens, sophomore women's honorary, and Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's honorary.

The theme of the "Stars In The Night" program is kept secret until the night of the presentation. There is a skit carrying out the theme that unites the whole program.

Last year's theme was "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star" with Kim Sanford, chairman of the WAC last year, as mistress of ceremonies.

New members of the campus honorees will be tapped during the program. Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, Links, junior women's honorary, Owens, sophomore women's honorary, and Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's honorary, will choose their members.

The discussion panel will consist of Dr. George Tuttle, professor of English Bible at Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore; Dean Albert Burt, C.R. of St. Mary's College, St. Mary; Dr. John Henry Meier, associate professor of philosophy at UK; and the Rev. James W. Angell, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Lexington.

The program will be planned and moderated by Dr. Jonah W. D. Skiles, head of the Department of Ancient Languages and Literatures.

Easter Is The Symbol Of Man's Immortality

Easter is the springtime of faith and hope. It is the time for the rebirth of hopes, beliefs, faiths, and ideas.

Easter is the life and the resurrection, a fountain of hope, and an anchor for faith.

By RES PUBLICA

Easter can be more than a holiday or a commemoration of the life and the resurrection.

Easter is the symbol of mankind's immortality.

Flesh can be torn. Guns, knives, fire, steel, atomic fury—all can kill and maim.

But none of these forces can destroy the one, great, indestructible heart of mankind—the will and the spirit to be free.

Easter is a symbol of the fight of the will to be free.

Since the beginning of man's history on earth, forces have always acted against this desire for freedom.

Nations have waged against nations to crush the belief that men are born free to live in the manner of their choosing.

Men are murdered and tortured to twist their convictions from their minds.

Whole races and populations have been decimated because they believed that they were born with obedience to no one save the Supreme Being.

And yet, no one nation or man has ever succeeded in crushing this belief, this ideal of freedom.

Easter is the eternal resurrection of man's freedom and of his hopes and ideals of freedom. It cannot be destroyed.

Easter comes from an ancient Sanskrit word, ava, meaning the dawn.

Traditionally, dawn has been a symbol of arising truth, the duty of truth shining to show men the way of life.

In old German, the word can be traced to ostern, an old Teutonic goddess of the spring.

Spring is the symbol of the resurrection of life after a seeming period of death—a rebirth of life.

PLANS STAYS IN THE NIGHT—Members of the Women's Administrative Council drew up plans for the annual recognition program. They are, front row, I. to E. Kim Sanford, Pat Morrissey, Betty J. Martin, Lucy Ward. Back row, Jody Terney, Carol Dutton, and Iracine Cruise.

Most Complaints About Infirmary Are Groundless, Interview Shows

Complaints by UK students have been directed against the infirmary for some time. The subject was brought up by SGA members at their last meeting. Upon investigating the matter, we have found that most of the complaints were groundless.

The criticisms were that a fever seemed to be the only criterion for admittance, that nurses instead of doctors diagnosed the students, and that some students were refused treatment.

Dr. John S. Chambers, head of the campus Health Service, stated this week that anybody who looks sick or feels sick is welcome to stay at the infirmary at any time. He added that there were no barriers or restrictions to admittance at the infirmary.

In very few instances are UK students refused treatment at the infirmary. However, it should be recognized that any student requiring specialized treatment would have to go outside the campus for medical care.

An incident brought up at SGA meeting last week about a student who was refused treatment to check bleeding following the extraction of four wisdom teeth is an example of a student requiring specialized care.

In regard to the criticism about nurses diagnosing the students, a doctor is on call at the infirmary 24 hours a day. During the day, each student is required to see one of the doctors before receiving any treatment.

Massie Compares Med School Cost

In two previous guest editorials we have tried to point out the need for a second medical school in Kentucky due to the falling number of doctors in practice and the increasing population in this state.

We have quoted the figures showing the cost of building and maintaining a medical school at UK. These figures were presented by the University's own Committee on Medical Education.

The Kentucky Kernel

Entered at the Post Office at Lexington, Kentucky, as second class matter under the Act of March 3, 1879. Published weekly during school except holidays and exams. SUBSCRIPTION RATES - $1.00 per semester.

Even if a student were living at home, it would be difficult to contact a doctor and have him in the home in the length of time it takes to get one at the infirmary.

We have no doubt, that, at times, the Infirmary makes mistakes in its diagnoses or treatment. But it would be impossible to name any doctor or hospital which has not at some time diagnosed a patient or patients incorrectly.

Stay In College? Sure, Here's How!

Staying in college really isn't a very difficult task, that is, if you know the ins-and-outs of psychology.

1. Bring the professor newspaper clippings dealing with his subject. Demonstrates feeling interest and gives him timely items to mention in class.

2. Look alert. Take notes eagerly. If you look at your watch, don't stare at it unbelievably and shake it.

3. Nod frequently and murmur, "How true!" To you this seems exaggerated; to him, it's quite obvious.

4. Sit in front, near him. (Applies only if you intend to stay awake.) If you're going to all the trouble of making a good impression, you might as well let him know who you are, especially in a large class.

5. Laugh at his jokes. You can tell. If he looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly, he has told a joke.

6. Ask for outside reading. You don't have to read it. Just ask.

7. If you must sleep, arrange to be called at the end of the hour. It creates an unfavorable impression if the rest of the class has left and you sit there alone, dozing.

8. Be sure the book you read during the lecture looks like a book from the course. If you do math in psychology class and psychology in math class, match books for size and color.

9. Ask any questions you think he can answer. Conversely, avoid announcing that you have found the answer to a question he couldn't answer, and in your brother's second grade reader at that.

10. Call attention to his writing. Produces an exquisitely pleasant experience connected with you. If you know he's written a book or an article, ask in class if he wrote it.

As to whether or not you want to do some work in addition to all this, well it's controversial and up to the individual.

You're Another One

The new office editor for Elvis J. Stahr, we have discovered after careful consultation with Mr. Webster's Fifth, is pronounced "priv-ust," not "pro-vo," as in the Army's Provost Marshal. That's nice, but does it bring more coin from the legislature?

Warm weather, nature's invitation to pneumonia, has brought spring clothing styles out in force. We're happy to report the feminine portion of the student body appears in great shape.

Our Readers Speak: Music Critics Disagree...

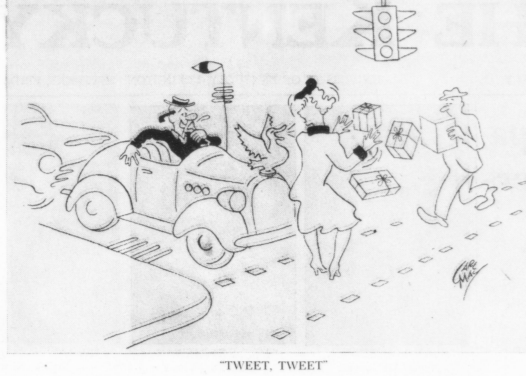

Dear Editor: Hoora! for Bob Lee and his savvy pen! But his words should have come way back when: For though our orchestras are first rate, The stuff they play should get the gate.

Don't praise the jacks who come here to play Their second class stuff in a first class way Until their first class music in the score And mutual appreciation when we want an encore.

Oh, for Art Friedler and his Boston gang: When they played here, the rafters rang. Maybe their formality was a bit low, But their music and style set us a glow.

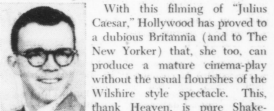

Let's change the key; pep up the tune; Display our taste when it's opportune; And now let's pray for renewed success; And for some concerts that are really the best.

Dear Editor: In reply to Robert E. Lee's puerile article of last week, I would like to suggest a program for the

The Gallery 'Julius Caesar' Receives Plaudits As Greatest Movie Ever Filmed

By this time we hope most of you have viewed MGM's masterful production of Shakespeare's 'Julius Caesar,' which is just about the best thing of its kind to grace the silver screen since Laurence Olivier turned to light opera.

With this filming of 'Julius Caesar,' Hollywood has proved to a dubious Britannia (and to The New Yorker) that, she, too, can produce a mature cinema-pictorial without the usual flourishes of the Wisliria style spectacle.

And, as to the performers—they are superb, but well, let's take a look at Marlon Brando's sensitive and dynamic portrayal of Mark Antony. This is no longer the Stanley Kowalski of Desire Street, or the hopster of 'The Wild One,' but a new Brando—and there will no doubt be much controversy over his unusual interpretation of the role.

James Mason has the choice role, that of the Spartan Brutus, and he, too, should have been recognized by the film colony for his polished achievement in a difficult part. John Gielgud, as Cassius, is probably unknown to local cinemagoers. He was signed by MGM from the British stage after a score of successes in Shakespearean drama.

and he seems right at home in his American debut. As for Louis Calhern's Caesar—we have a bone to pick. This veteran of play-acting was much abused by the critics, who signaled him out as a weak link in the otherwise smoothly-acted tragedy.

We do have several criticisms, and we offer them humbly—because, despite the Academy Award smug, we recognize a superior cinemadrama when we see one. First, we've thought over the reasons why color-conscious MGM decided to film this one in black-and-white, and we failed to come to any logical conclusions.

Second, we felt the only break with the original text—which moved the camera into the Hollywood Hills to film the battle on the Macedonian plains—a trifle unnecessary. It is true that Shakespeare would probably have written it in if he were doing the screenplay, and didn't only because of the confines of the old Swan Theatre—but, unfortunately the pen was turned over to a U-I out-outer man.

Third, as we hinted before, it's too bad that this had to be an all-star cast. It's difficult to imagine some of the characters in their new roles, even though all give admirable performances. We are just more accustomed to seeing Brando as an embittered motorcycle-jockey, Calhern as the caustic smoothie, and Edmund O'Brien (Caesar) as a two-fisted private eye.

But 'Julius Caesar' overcomes all of its minor ailments and emerges as a great picture of this or any other year—don't miss it, it's more fun than reading the ol' boy. P.S. to the over-enthusiastic ad-writer for the local cinema page: please don't refer to the picture as 'lusty, bawdy, violent'—it just doesn't seem respectful, somehow.

Dear Editor: What's wrong with the all-campus sing? In the past years people have enjoyed it so much but interest is definitely falling off. This year, there were too many vacant seats and much criticism from towns people as well as the students about the discourtesy of the audience while the groups were singing.

The number of groups to enter is dwindling each year. Some even practice for awhile only to drop out at the last minute. Is this a lack of interest among the campus organizations or could the sing be organized in some other way to give it a more general appeal? It can't be entirely the fault of the participating groups. They practice long and hard each year, and put much more time in it than is warranted by such a brief appearance before so small a group.

Part of the pleasure of a contest is knowing the winners. If the winners are not to be announced at the time of the contest, it naturally lessens the enthusiasm of the crowd. I for one, enjoy listening to the groups sing and hate to see the sing die for lack of interest. What do you think can be done?

The Toolbox Space For Hire As Ball Of Fire Rolls Over Earth

(Astronomers, being what they are, are inclined to think up all kinds of theories dealing with the universe. Some of these theories are informative, some interesting, some amusing, and some downright ridiculous.) Among the ridiculous theories is the one which states that, a long, long time ago, there was a big, hot blob of matter all scrunched up in one corner of the universe. According to this theory, the big blob got hotter and hotter until 'boom!'—everything let go at once. This was the universe created, so they say.

Well, men have come along since then. And, in the process, they've thought up some pretty interesting gadgets. Among these is the H-bomb, which scientists love to set off over islands.

Japanese cabinet minister: "How, gentlemen, can we best cope with Communism and radioactive tuna fish?"

Indian military leader: "My next strategy will be to attack a school bus loaded with Israeli children."

General Giap, preparing to launch another offensive in Indochina: "This time we'll sacrifice 10,000 lives. It will give us a diplomatic advantage and provide work for the Comrade Cravetliggers."

(A B-36 takes off from a secret base in the Pacific and fights to gain altitude.)

Guatemala leader: "No doubt about it. Secretary Dulles is a puppet of the fascist leaders in the United States."

American Air Force general: "Massive retaliation, boys, is the solution. We can blast every man, woman, and child in Russia if they so much as spit on our flag."

(The B-36 reaches its designated altitude and levels off, heading toward its target area.)

Church leader: "... consequently, all other religions are cheap imitations of ours. Either you believe in our way or end up eternally condemned."

French politician: "Oh, let's not bother with unifying Europe. We have too many problems now. Besides, the Germans cannot be trusted."

Russian scientist: "In accordance with a new policy of freedom, newspapers will be given freedom of the press. From now on, all editorials written by the government will be mimeographed free for all Russian newspapers."

American college girl: "... sororities are wonderful. They teach you so much about meddling with other lives, learning the finer points of prejudice, and pretending to be what you never were."

(Entering the target area, the B-36 pilot begins a minute by minute radio check with ground observers.)

English newspaper: "... there is no intelligent reason why we should not trade with Red China, Russia, or any other satellite nation. They need strategic materials and we need trade."

American senator: "Truth is secondary, headlines primary. If we can't prove a point, we'll smirk, sneer, and smear until we win."

(Five minutes remain before bomb-release time. The pilot turns the navigation of the plane over to the bombardier.)

Historian: "By changing a few arrangements of facts, we can make this period look like a million dollars."

Jealous scientist: "... and I say that my death-tens-ever gas would be more practicable than atomic weapons. It chokes to death in only a few seconds ... no one escapes."

Mathematician: "I can prove that the elements were formed 20 to five minutes after creation. Anyone who disagrees can't count without his fingers."

(The bombardier begins counting off the seconds before releasing the bomb.)

Women's League to Improve: "Anything which people enjoy is evil."

(Ten seconds remain.)

Economist-politician: "We must destroy our surplus food."

(The bomb doors swing open. A black, squat monster floats earthward on a parachute.)

Congressman: "... all other ideas other than mine are Communist."

(The black monster reaches zero point. A white ball of death forms.)

Two youngsters slit each other's throats in a back alley. Two juveniles shoot a filling station attendant. A man is shot for disagreeing with his government.

(... and the white ball grows into an unstoppable fury of searing heat, spreading over the ocean, and the land masses, the continents, the polar regions—all the earth. A billion human beings wonder for a brief moment about the unusual glow in the horizon, then cease to be, along with the other half of the world.)

First Martian astronomer: "Say, did you know Earth just disappeared in a burst of flame?"

Second Martian astronomer: "No kidding? Well, that's the way it goes."

First Martian astronomer: "Yeah. Here today, gone tomorrow."

WHAS Airs Show On Agriculture

The day was April 1, 1929. On hand for the first radio program produced by the College of Agriculture for radio station WHAS, Louisville, were original announcer N. R. Elliot, professor of horticulture, former UK President Frank L. McVey, and Judge Robert W. Bingham, then owner of WHAS.

Troupers Give Shows In Bluegrass Towns

By JOHN WALTON

UK's Troupers are well on their way to an estimated audience of 15,000 this year.

One show was presented last Tuesday night at the Bourbon Vocational High School at Paris, Ky., and others are scheduled for Carlisle on April 20, Versailles, on April 30, with the "big show" in the Coliseum on May 12 and 14.

Youth Group Plans Concert In Coliseum

The Youth Symphony Orchestra of Central Kentucky will present a concert at 8:15 p.m. Monday in Memorial Coliseum. This program is part of the Community Concert Series and students are admitted on presentation of their ID cards.

The concert will feature an opera in miniature, "Call It Square," composed for the orchestra by Dr. Kenneth Wright, member of the UK music faculty. This work was commissioned as part of a program to feature new works by Kentucky composers.

The opera, staged in front of the orchestra, involves three characters played by Carolyn Turner and Harry Carter, both senior music majors at UK, and Jo Anne Thomas, graduate music student. The plot concerns the misunderstandings of a young boy and girl on their first date.

Staging for the opera was done by Almo Kiviniemi, director of the UK Mixed Chorus.

Mills Is No Stranger To Campus

By KEN LITCHFIELD

Dr. Robert L. Mills is no stranger to the UK campus—but, as he termed it, he is a stranger to the registrar's desk in the Administration Building.

The recently appointed UK registrar served from 1948 to 1950 in the Bureau of School Service here. Later, Dr. Mills was named assistant to the director of University Extension. In addition, he received his A.B. ('38) and Ph.D. ('51) degrees at UK.

A vast and varied range of experiences are included in the background of the 37-year-old registrar. Prior to his present position, Dr. Mills served as chief administrative and finance officer in the State Department of Education.

Stahr, Martin Are Promoted; Mills Becomes New Registrar

Kirwan has been "outstanding as a dean and historian."

Dr. Martin's appointment as Acting Dean of Men will become effective on July 1 with the additional title of Dean of Students being abolished.

The new Dean of Men came to UK in 1949 as assistant director of personnel and as psychology instructor in the College of Education.

Dr. Martin holds B.S. and M.S. degrees from Purdue University and a Ph.D. degree from Indiana University.

Dean and Mrs. Martin will live in an apartment in Bowman Hall, fulfilling a University requirement. In addition, Mrs. Martin will be hostess and hostess for all men residence halls on the campus.

Dr. Mills took over the vacant Registrar position last Friday, and

DR. ROBERT MILLS To Be New Registrar

Tuesday's action by the Board of Trustees was only a confirmation. He succeeds Dr. Richard L. Tutthill, who left in February to become registrar at Duke University.

Dr. Mills has held several positions on the UK campus in past years. He served from 1948 to 1950 in the bureau of school service here. Later he was named assistant to the director of University Extension. The new registrar received his A.B., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees from UK.

While working in the State Department of Education, Dr. Mills aided in promoting a successful campaign last fall to change Section 186 of the State Constitution.

A native of Kenton County, the new registrar has taught in Covington public schools, served as technical advisor to the Air Force, and spent four and one-half years as supervisor at the Oak Ridge atomic plant.

Mills Is No Stranger To Campus

While in Frankfort, Dr. Mills undertook a recent assignment to aid in promoting the campaign last fall to change Section 186 of the State Constitution. He served as executive secretary to the Legislative Research Commission's education advisory committee during the successful drive to change the method of distributing common school funds.

A 4 1/2-year stay at Oak Ridge, Tenn., will be long remembered by Dr. Mills. It was in March, 1946, as the registrar recalls, that he was interviewed and named to a supervisory position at the first atomic plant.

He had been serving as technical instructor for the Air Force at Lincoln, Neb. Details are lacking on the Oak Ridge assignment for security reasons. The UK registrar remembers signing a statement when he left the atomic job requiring that he always be vague in referring to the position.

Was Phi Tau Treasurer

While a Junior at UK, Dr. Mills was treasurer of Phi Kappa Tau and treasurer of his Junior class. He was promoted to the president's position of his fraternity during his senior year and served as president of Lambda and Cross.

The new UK registrar is superintendent of the University Sunday School department and chairman of the Board of Trustees at Emmanuel Baptist Church.

His wife is the former Mildred Storer of Cincinnati. They have two children.

Asked about any proposed plans in the registrar's office, Dr. Mills remained non-committal in saying, "Well, a man always has plans."

Four English Profs Write Books Published This Year

By NORM MILLER

Four members of the English staff have written or edited books that have been published this school year.

Dr. Ward head of the English Department, has written "Index and Finding List of Serials in the British Isles, 1789-1822." This is the first list of serials of American and British literary holdings. It reflects the holdings of almost eleven hundred libraries and gives the location of all the newspapers, magazines and other serials published during the years between the French Revolution and the Great Reform.

Dr. Robert D. Jacobs, an instructor in the department, with the help of Louis D. Rubin Jr., edited "Southern Renaissance—The Literature of the Modern South," a series of essays on Southern writers and works of the 20th century. It contains the combined work of more than 24 authors and critics and is an evaluation of 20th century southern writings and an attempt to find the origins of these works. Many of the essays are by Kentuckians.

"Carlyle's Early Reading to 1834. With an Introductory Essay on His Intellectual Development" has taken Professor Hill some 25 years to finish. The book contains an introductory essay on Carlyle's intellectual development, but consists mainly of a list of Carlyle's readings during the first 40 years of his life.

Professor Thomas B. Stroup and Dr. Sterling A. Stouffemire, head of the Department of Romance Languages at the University of North Carolina, edited "South Atlantic Studies for Sturris E. Leavitt," a book of new scholarly studies published in honor of Dr. Leavitt upon the occasion of his retirement as editor of the South Atlantic Bulletin.

Three more books written by members of the English Department are soon to be published.

Old And New Campaign Souvenirs Are On Display In Library Foyer

By KEN LITCHFIELD

"A full dinner bucket—property of McKinley and Roosevelt." "Vote for Hoover and Be Safe." "Worst Public Administration." "Watch Willie Win."

These slogans from various presidential campaign buttons, ribbons, and badges form an extensive collection now on display in the foyer of the Margaret I. King Library.

Souvenirs range from 1825's "I Like Ike" buttons to an historic ribbon promoting "Clay and Tarrill" from the Democratic White National Convention of 1844 which included Collecting Is Noble.

Collecting these campaign remembrances has been the life-long hobby of Orla King, 48-year-old school teacher from Ulita, Ky.

Mr. King, in co-operation with Dr. Thomas D. Glavin, head of the History Department, and Dr. Lawrence S. Thompson, director of libraries, managed to bring his collection to the University for public exhibition.

Events of American history are evident as many of the slogans recall the famous struggles of past presidential campaigns.

From the Civil War era remains a campaign ribbon of "Abraham Lincoln—Union and Liberty." Noticeable was the change in spelling of Lincoln's name and the fact that he was no heard at that time.

Promote Opponent

Other ribbons promote Lincoln's long-time opponent, Stephen Douglas, who ran against him on the Union Democratic ticket in 1858. "He's good enough for me." "Free partridge, peace, T. R." are sample but slogans used by the backers of Theodore Roosevelt in his race for the presidency.

Many buttons used by unsuccessful candidates for the party nomination are exhibited by Mr. King. Take for example "North, South, East, West, All Agree Barkley's Best" or "Harry move over, make room for Kefauver."

Neckties, watch fobs, automobile license plates, hat bands, ribbons—all these prominent ideas of past presidents are shown.

A paper teapot is featured urging a vote for Davis and Bryan in a vote against special revenue—remember the teapot dome.

Song Books Included

Song books used in the nominating conventions are also included. Just how the selection of songs differs in the two parties is shown by the titles of the books: "True Blue Republican Campaign Songs, 1820" and "True Blue Democratic Campaign Songs, 1820."

One large section is devoted to World War II propaganda and presidential campaigns during that period. Remember—"Kick them in the Ass." "Let's take a poke at Tokio." "Phoney on Dewey."

Franklin Roosevelt and his unprecedented term for 3rd and 4th terms in office naturally suggested a wide range of topics: "Out-stealing him." "Product." "Unip. 900. Kicker." "Sweeping the depression out." "A switch in party sentiment is evident in this button wording—

"TRY THIS ONE FOR SIZE"—Bob Burkhardt tries on the largest in the collection of old presidential campaign buttons on display in the library foyer as Jean Skinner looks on.

"Republican Re-elect Roosevelt Club."

Mr. King has collected more than 100 tickets to the Republican National Conventions of 1888, '92, and '96 and to the Democratic Convention of 1900.

Hobby One Of Many

To Mr. King this vast assortment of historically significant items is just one of many hobbies. In fact, the Ulita school teacher has a hobby of developing hobbies.

He has secured post card pictures of every court house in the United States except six. He helped organize the National Hobby Club, has served as its president, and is now a member of the Board of Trustees of this group.

The club meets annually to bring together huge out-of-state collections. This summer the meeting will be held in Cincinnati.

As Dr. Clark pointed out, the winners of the 13th Annual Newspaper National Snapshot Awards of 1953 are now on display in the Margaret I. King Library.

Jointly in charge of the exhibit are Dr. Lawrence S. Thompson, director of the library and Dr. William M. Moore, associate professor of journalism. The Lexington Herald-Leader and the UK School of Journalism are co-sponsors.

'War' Declared On Prof Flunking Most Of Class

A Kernel reporter received an anonymous telephone call Monday night telling of a "war" declared against a professor for failing most of the students enrolled in two of his first four courses.

A woman who identified herself only as a UK student enrolled in one of the classes in question, said, over the telephone, that students would meet Thursday (yesterday) afternoon to decide a course of action.

The anonymous caller said students in the classes had talked to another professor in the same department and that he had agreed that they were probably right for complaining.

Speaking of the professor who is allegedly failing 30 students in a class of about 100 students, the caller said, "At first we felt sorry for him, but now we realize that we're the ones who are suffering. He's being nothing while we are losing our standing and five hours."

She also said students in the two unannounced courses were spending so much time trying to pass the courses that they were "robbing Peter to pay Paul" and were lowering their grades in other courses.

The situation, said the anonymous caller, has been in evidence for one and a half semesters.

A 56-year-old can now attend the University of Southern California—if he wants to take courses in rhythm, piano and orchestra.

Taken from a last paper in English literature: "A morality play in one in which the characters are goblins, ghosts, virgins, and other supernatural characters."

Girls, Boys Can Never Go Out Alone In Home Country, Philippine Girl Says

By ROSEMARY LATE

"A girl and boy never, never go out alone in my country," said Primitiva Perez, a UK graduate student from the Philippine Islands.

Typical Miss Perez is called by her classmates, said that there is no dating in her country. She explained that the boys and girls meet at parties and dances, and if the boy is interested in the girl, he visits in her home.

When asked if she had difficulty in understanding our social life, she said, "Yes, but my friends and associates in the dormitory have contributed much to my better understanding of the American college social life, especially in matters of dating and dances."

Graduated In Philippines

Before coming to this country a year and a half ago, Tiva completed six years of elementary school, and four years of high school. She graduated from the University of the Philippines. She received a scholarship to the University of Kentucky through the Fulbright Foundation of her country and the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs. Last June, Tiva received her M.A. degree in education.

Asked her reason for selecting the University, she said, "I first learned of this university through a friend of mine, who was corresponding with an American soldier from Louisville. He sent many pictures of Louisville and Kentucky, and I became interested in the pretty country and the home raising. You see, home raising is one of the favorite sports of my country, too. I wrote to four universities, but I received an answer from the University of Kentucky first, so I am here."

The University of the Philippines, Tiva said, is patterned after the universities in America. Their classes are conducted in much the same way as ours are conducted; lectures and discussions.

English Is Taught

She said that English is taught in all the schools, as well as Spanish and the national language of the Philippines, Tagalog. She explained that English is spoken by all the people who have gone to school. She said that families in her country are very large, sometimes having as many as 12 children. The dominant religion is Catholic, but there are a few Protestants.

As her country is different from ours, Tiva said her first six months at the UK were a little bewildering. She said she had difficulty with her professors due to their accent and intonation, and that she didn't understand the jokes. The difference of food, social customs and climate between her country and America also proved difficult to her at first, she said.

"I took me several months to get used to drinking milk instead of water during meal time—to eating bread most of the time instead of rice—to saying 'Hi' or 'Hello' to my professors instead of 'Good morning, Professor," and it took me almost a year to get used to the cold weather."

Gives Opinion of Students

"UK students," she said "are very friendly, congenial, helpful, and basketball and football crazy."

She couldn't quite understand the terrific interest in basketball in Kentucky. She said that they have basketball games in the Philippines, but they are played on outdoor courts and are free. Only the universities have gymnasiums and the national games are played there. She said you have to pay for these games, but not as much as you have to pay in America.

Tiva has many out-of-school activities. She belongs to the Psychology Club and the Comopolitan Club on campus. Last summer she was a counselor in a girls' camp in Sellersburg, Ind., under the sponsorship of the YWCA. She said, "My contact with the American way of life has also been made closer by my visits to several American homes during weekends and vacations; and by my 'speaking tours' to different clubs and organizations."

About her future plans, she said, "I plan to attend summer school this summer, and am going to apply for another year's work at the University of Kentucky. Then I am going back to my country to teach again. I taught in the elementary school before, but now I want to teach in a college."

Have you heard about the little moon who took a slice of bread and then went to the corner to wait for a traffic jam? Believe it or not, a big truck came along and gave him a jar.

I-M Chief Announces Spring Sport Deadlines

By GEORGE KOPER
 Deadline dates for all spring intramural sports with the exception of track have been announced by Bob Clark, I-M director.

Entries for doubles play in horse-shoes, golf, tennis and handball must be in by April 14. Softball rosters are also due on the same date.

Today is the final day for listing entrants in the wrestling meet. Contestants must weigh in Tuesday afternoon at Alumni Gym between two o'clock and five o'clock. The wrestling tourney will be along the same lines as last year's except that each group will be limited to two entries in each weight class.

Champions will be decided in nine weight classes, including 115, 125, 135, 145, 155, 165, 175, 185, and heavyweight.

Ronnie Bonnell and Bill Shadoun, KS, were to play Jim Rowe and George Houlliston, DTD, Wednesday night for the basketball doubles title. Rowe and Houlliston defeated Joe Taylor and George Koper, SAE, to gain their place in the finals. Taylor had won the singles championship earlier in the year.

Difficultly in obtaining a suitable playing field has held up final plans

Lohstroh Wins Pool Competition

Robert Lohstroh is the new bank pool champion of the Student Union, according to Leslie Morris, sports chairman. Lohstroh defeated Bruce Miller in a closely contested finale, 8-3, 3-8, 8-6, 6-8, and 8-7, to win the annual tournament.

Morris said that the two-week tourney was one of the largest ever conducted in the Student Union, 37 contestants having taken part in the eliminations. All games except the semi-finals and finals were played on a two-out-of-three basis, and the latter games were played on a best-of-five round. Lohstroh was awarded an engraved trophy, and Miller was presented with a runner-up gold medal.

Morris also announced that the next pool tournament would be during the summer session.

SIDELINE SLANTZ!

by John K. Ryans

Coach Harry Lancaster's UK baseballers got off to a fast start last week with victories over Eastern and Transy. This year's opening was quite different from the one last year, when they opened with a disastrous trip to Florida. This year's beginning shows that the baseballers can do alright, if they don't have to open with a team that has had many more hours of practice under warm temperatures. Poor practice climate and conditions have always been one of the major obstacles in UK's hope of having the SEC championship baseball team.

The basketball banquet honoring Coach Adolph Rupp and his undefeated Wildcats will probably be held early in May. By that time Coach Rupp will have returned from his vacation, and the Big Three will have finished their barnstorming series with the Globetrotters.

Coach Blanton Collier certainly has had his share of injuries to deal with during his first spring football drills here at UK. Last week he had all but one of his quarterbacks on the injured list, and then this week Ivan Curmutte and Dick Moloney suffered injuries. However, despite these setbacks the squad is fast rounding into top form in preparation for the Blue-White game to be played in a couple of weeks.

Incidentally, word from the Wildcat drill camp indicates that UK will surprise a lot of people next season. Many grid experts have not rated the Cats too high in the prospects of fine teams in '54, but they could very easily be proved wrong. The Wildcats may not have too much depth in some positions next season, but they will have many steady performers returning. If Coach Collier can just find a capable fullback to replace Ralph Paolone, they will be hard to handle. Bob Hardy and Delmare Hughes give UK a couple of top-notch Split-T quarterbacks, while Dick Mitchell and Maloney are a strong one-two punch at the halfback posts. Add this to a tough and possibly heavier line and you find that the prospects for this fall aren't so bad after all.

The number of prep stars having signed UK basketball grant-in-aids has now increased to six. The most recently announced signers are Leon Szczepanski of Chicago, Ill., and Lincoln Colledge-worth of Salyersville, Ky. Indications are that UK will have quite a tall team representing them in frosh games next year. Only one player signed thus far is under the 6-3 mark. That is Harold Ross of Hickman, who stands 6-1. Of the two most recent signers Szczepanski stands 6-7, while Colledge-worth is 6-3. Reports say that these two boys are really something to see in action. Other high schoolers already signed are Bill Bayless, 6-4 of Knoxville, Phil Johnson, a 6-5 U-High star, and Bill Ray Cassidy, 6-3 of Inez's Kentucky State Champions. Also don't be surprised if a couple more big boys decide to matriculate to UK next fall. This should make things quite interesting around the Coliseum in a couple of years.

Promoters are planning quite a basketball show in Louisville's Armory the night before the Derby. Plans call for a North-South game between some of the nation's top collegians. UK's Big Three, along with Frank Selvy, Tom Marshall and Bob Pettit are expected to be in the South's lineup. The game should furnish quite an evening's entertainment for cage fans in this area.

WHAT COLOR GOES WITH A BLUSH?

A modest little freshman named Caspar Doyle found himself getting quite neurotic. It seemed that every time a girl looked at Caspar, he blushed. His hollow little cheeks turned a violent crimson. Then he would blush more because he was blushing.

He didn't get very far with the ladies and began brooding. Fortunately, he was a wealthy modest little freshman, and he finally bundled his problem off to a psychiatrist.

"I even hate my shirts. I know when I wear a white shirt it's only going to make my blush look redder," he dolefully intoned from the couch.

The head-shrinker's eyes lit up with dollar signs. He said: "Ahem. This trauma is obviously depressed and will take a long time to unravel. But meanwhile, try wearing some Vanahue shirts. Van Hensen makes them in lots of colors that will tone down your blush and you're bound to like the smart new collar styles. For your practical side, they're fine smooth broadcloth, color fast and Sanforized. See my nurse for the bill, please!"

Caspar bought Vanahue in all the colors and smart new collar styles for $2.95 each. It worked. So many of the girls look at him now, he blushes constantly. Everybody thinks he just looks rugged and virile.

Tennis Team Loses Match To Tennessee

The Kentucky netters bowed out to Tennessee by a slight margin of 5-4 last Saturday at Memorial Coliseum in the season opener for both clubs.

The Volunteers took four of the six singles matches on victories by Jim Robinson, Bud Tooney, Kyle Testerman and Tom Davis. The two Kentucky singles winners were George Carey and Joe Teague.

The Wildcats proved to be considerably stronger in the doubles as they won two of the three events. Evans and Koper, UK's mighty doubles team, knocked off two of Tennessee's singles winners, Tooney and Testerman, while Phillips and Carey teamed up to set back the Vol's Davis and Palmer.

The next match for Kentucky will be against Fort Knox tomorrow at Memorial Coliseum.

Singles
 Jim Robinson (T) defeated Billy Evans (K) 6-0, 10-4; Bud Tooney (T) defeated Glenn Dorroh (K) 6-2, 6-3; Kyle Testerman (T) defeated Ted Phillips (K) 6-1, 7-5; George Carey (K) defeated Phil Farrow (T) 1-6, 6-2, 6-3; Joe Teague (K) defeated Eddie Fisher (T) 2-6, 7-5, 6-1; Tom Davis (T) defeated Ed Rodman (K) 10-8, 6-4.

Doubles
 Evans and George Koper (K) defeated Tooney and Testerman (T) 6-4, 1-6, 6-2; Robinson and Farrow (T) defeated Teague and Don Sebold (K) 3-6, 6-0, 6-2; Phillips and Carey (K) defeated Davis and Fisher (T) 7-5, 6-0.

UK Baseballers Whip Eastern And Transy

By Dave Nardimen

Kentucky's Wildcats opened their 1954 baseball campaign in fine style over the weekend by defeating the Eastern Maroons, 8-5, in 12 innings Friday, then completing a two-game sweep by felling Transylvania, 11-0, the following day.

The Eastern battle, won by the Cats on the Maroons home diamond, was decided in the top of the 12th frame when Miles Willard singled home Pete Grigsby from second base to break a 7-7 tie. Willard and Grigsby were Kentucky's best offensive weapons in the win, Willard collecting a homer in addition to the game-winning hit, and Grigsby with a pair of singles and a homer. Jerry Calvert also hit for the circuit for the Cats.

Lefty Phil Gravenmeyer picked up the mound victory in relief as he pitched the final five innings. Charlie White, who came into the game relieving Ron Pellegrin, was tagged with the loss. Pellegrin had relieved starter Don Richardson in the eighth inning, when the latter was shelled off the mound during a four-run Wildcat uprising.

Kentucky opened with right-hander Jim Day who retired in favor of Herb Hunt in the fourth inning with the score despatched, 1-1. Charlie Fichtmaster relieved Hunt in the seventh and Gravenmeyer came on in the eighth.

Eastern's leading hitters were three and four homers and three singles and Tom McAnallen with three safeties. The Maroons snubbed the Wildcats, 12-11, but were guilty of five errors as against only one for Kentucky.

The Cats pounded three Transylvania hurters for 14 hits in drubbing the Pioneers, 11-0, on Stoll Field Saturday. Grigsby scored single runs in the first two innings, then raked up two in the fourth, four in the fifth and three in the sixth.

Hugh Coy, Jess Curry and Charlie Fichtmaster directed the mound chores, with Coy starting and generally good in whiffing nine and walking none in four innings. Curry hurled the next three frames and Fichtmaster finished up.

First baseman Bill Bibb bugged Transy pitching for a single, double and triple in six trips. Bibb singled in five runs and scored three. Miles Willard also collected three hits in six tries while Coy belted a triple and a single in his only two official appearances at the plate.

Kentucky scored once in the first on a double by Willard and a single by Pete Grigsby. Willard also drove in the next tally with a single following a walk to Coy and a wild pitch.

The Cats scored twice in the fourth on a bleeder by Bob McDowell. Bibb's three-bagger and Coy's single. Ten men came to bat in the four-run Kentucky fifth on a hit batsman, a sacrifice, a walk and four straight hits.

Kentucky finished the scoring in the sixth on a pass to Jim Morris. Stony Corum's single, a double by Bibb, a sacrifice, and a one-bagger by Doug Lawhorn.

Transylvania collected five hits off the combined offerings of Coy, Curry and Fichtmaster, with Larry Jeffries and Bob Hager getting two safeties apiece. Transy committed three bobbles afield. Kentucky was guilty of one.

CALVERT CONNECTS—Jerry Calvert, UK outfielder, hits a high pop-up during UK's lacing of Transy last Saturday afternoon. The Cats beat the Pioneers by a 11-0 count. Other players on the UK bench watch the action on the field.

Blue-White Game Set As Last Grid Practice

Coach Blanton Collier announced this week that the Blue-White intrasquad game will be played on April 24 on Stoll Field. The game will mark the close of spring football practice for the Wildcats.

At the same time, Coach Collier said that the annual coaching clinic usually held in conjunction with the intra-squad game would not be held at this time. Instead, the clinic date has been reset for sometime in August in an agreement with officials of the Kentucky High School Coaches' Association.

Under SEC rules, the Wildcats have 26 days in which to complete 20 grid practice sessions. The practice began on March 23 and the Cats have completed 12 workouts (as of Wednesday). Therefore, they have eight more sessions left and 14 days remaining to finish them. The extra days will be accounted for by planned time off and anticipated bad weather.

The Blue-White game will count as the final practice session for the Wildcats. The game is being planned as a Saturday night attraction starting at 8 o'clock. The contest will be open to the public at the charge of 51 per person with the proceeds going to the K-Club.

Added interest in the game this year stems from the fact that it will provide the public with its first look at the grid personnel and system of football being used by Coach Collier in his first season here at UK.

Injuries Hinder Practice

This far despite a number of injuries to key personnel, practice has been quite satisfactory for the amount of time that has been spent on the workouts. This week lefty Ivan Curritute and Dick Maloney were injured during practice sessions.

The system of play of Coach Collier varies little from the style displayed last year by the Wildcats. He is a master of the Split-T, which the Cats used to their advantage last season. The Cleveland Browns brand of the Split-T was the type that the Cats used last year, and Collier was the man that inspired the Browns' backfield. Therefore, the style of play of the backfield should be even better than it was last season.

UK has a smaller squad this year than most major colleges have at the beginning of spring football practice. The full squad of the Wildcats numbers only 80, as compared with squads of 100 or more that some schools have on hand.

Coach Collier has one advantage though in having a smaller squad on hand this spring. It will enable him to get a better idea of the capabilities of each man, which is very hard for a new coach to do. Also, although the Cats are small in number, they have quite a few men returning with considerable experience.

Kentucky Golfers Meet Xavier, Tide

The linksters of the University of Kentucky will put themselves up against Xavier University today at the Bowling Springs Country Club. Tomorrow they will have a meet with the University of Alabama on the same course.

The team, tutored by Johnny Owens, has not won but one out of three matches this spring.

They opened with the Buckeyes from Ohio State and were soundly trounced 24-3. The Cats snugged back to top Tennessee 17th 15-21. They then were whipped again by the Vanderbilt Commodores 18-8-3.

The leading golfers for the Kentuckians are John V. Brown Jr., Mike Prunty, Dan Boone, John Hawkins, Lewis Green, and Bob Logan.

The team is shaping up and is soon expected to start winning more than their share of matches.

Kentucky Artists To Exhibit Here

The 22nd annual exhibition by artists of Lexington and Central Kentucky will be held in the Fine Arts Gallery April 9-30. It has been announced.

Kenneth M. Shuck, director of the Springfield Art Museum, Springfield, Mo., has selected 45 works to be shown from 165 submissions.

The exhibition includes paintings, drawings and prints.

Track Team Meets Ohio

By Don Henly

They'll be off and running at Stoll Field as well as at Keenland tomorrow afternoon when the Wildcats open their track season against the Buckeyes of Ohio State.

Tomorrow's meet, which is to kick-off at 12:30 p.m., will be a follow-up for Ohio who registered 10 points while competing in the Southern Hoops in Birmingham last week end. It is the first of five meets on the Kentucky schedule for this season.

Coach Seaton's team will be handicapped by the absence of many athletes who are still practicing in spring football workouts. The changing weather has caused football practice to extend much further than was originally counted on by Coach Seaton.

The grid practice which is to continue for at least two more weeks will prevent any of the men on football scholarships from getting in shape for any of the track field events.

There will be eight track events and five field events in tomorrow's meet. Ohio is bringing a 20-man team for the entries. The Kentucky squad held field trials last Saturday for selection of the Wildcat entries.

Those Cats who tried out last Saturday for the 100 yd. dash were Dick Mitchell, Ivan Curritute, Dick Maloney, Jack Brown, Don Cooksey, and Joe Platt.

They will be faced by Meade Burnett and Duane Perkins from Ohio State in this event.

In the 220 for Kentucky were Eddie Ernst, Jess Curry, Don Cooksey, Logan Gipe, Billy Mitchell, and Warren Wall. They will be Meade Burnett, Duane Perkins, Ben Ledger, and Alan Roberts of the Buckeyes.

In the 440 run for the Cats will be men of this group who were Len Gipe, Don Atkinson, and William Haas. Don Bartek, Robert Weadick, and Paul Moore will be going for Ohio.

The mile run will have only two Kentuckians entered, Capt. Frank Scott, and David Collier. Opposing them will be Robert Coldren, and Robert Weadick of Ohio.

Capt. Scott, James McClinty, and Charlie White were the Kentucky men in the 2-mile run, and will be running against Robert Coldren and Kenneth Russell.

Bill Vallein will double in both the high hurdles and the low for the Cats. Going with him in the 120 high hurdles is Bill Thomas. The other Cats running the 220 low hurdles will be selected out of this group of trial entries of last week. Along with Vallein were Dick Bushing, Joe Frick, Dayton Moore, Harold Leggett and William Whitman. They will go in both the 120 high and the 200 low for Ohio.

They will be accompanied by Jack Keller in the 220 low hurdles.

Bradshaw Says Ability Is Not Enough For Success

By Bill Surface

You can have all the ability in the world and still never become an outstanding football performer if you're lacking the strong desire to play—that's the belief of Charles Bradshaw, new Kentucky assistant football coach.

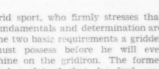

Bradshaw recently hired as end coach by head mentor Blanton Collier, is a master technician in the field.

The ex-UK standout after completing his twelfth practice session with the Wildcats expressed an opinion that it has been a pleasure to work with such a group of outstanding boys, who have cooperated to the fullest extent.

The former flankman has made a big jump from a high school mentor to a collegiate coach, but explained the only difference he has found, thus far, is that you have more good boys with which to work. Bradshaw said he is certainly pleased to coach at his alma mater, having received his Master's Degree at the University in 1936. Charlie considers it an honor to coach at UK, but it is a pleasure as well as an inspiration to be on the same staff with Collier.

Bradshaw has served the past four seasons as an assistant to Bill Moseley at Sidney Lanier High in Montgomery, Ala., compiling an outstanding record of 32 wins and two ties in 49 contests.

Charlie played four years of football at the University, under the tutelage of Paul Bryant. Bradshaw was one of the few graders ever to earn four letters in football at UK, having gained his during the campaigns extending from 1946 to 1949.
