Strong Team for 1935 Seen As Cats Round into Form After Two Weeks of Drills

Squad of Seventy Works Out Under Coach Wynne in Spring Practice

Although handicapped slightly by several rainy days, Coach Chet Wynne is satisfied that his Wildcats football candidates are gradually rounding into shape after a little more than two weeks of spring drills. Coach Wynne announced that the first practice game of the training season will be held on Friday, April 12.

More than 70 aspirants for berths on next season's grid team are working out daily at the practice field, many of whom have had no previous college experience. While none of these boys is expected to step into a regular position in the fall, several of them show promise for future teams.

The regular training routine is still being followed except that scrimmage sessions now wind up the daily program. All the candidates get an opportunity to display their ability and it gives the coaching staff an idea of the material that will be available for next season.

It appears now that the whole team will be stronger and more experienced than it was last season. Only a few of the regulars were lost through graduation and the majority of the players will have at least a year's experience behind them.

One of the major difficulties last season was the lack of capable end replacements. Among the most likely candidates for the jobs this year are Captain Jimmy Long, Gene Bryant, Jim Goforth, 'Duke' Ellington, Joe 'Red' Hagan, and 'Andy' Anderson, captain-elect of the Wildcats basketball team.

The tackle positions should be well protected by Stan Newer, Orah, Joe Bouse, J. Franklin Wallace, Skaggs, 'Dusty' Rhodes, Walter Rhodes, Wade and Lancaster. Newer, as a sophomore last season, gave promise of being one of Kentucky's greatest linemen and stands out as the best of the candidates for his position.

Two guards, who have been seen in past action, Joe Robinson and Sam Potter will again be available for play. Lexie Potter and Frank McClure, along with Homer Nicholas and Charlie Johnson, are all hoping to ease Coach Twomey's worry about the guard berths.

The center position may be the strongest spot in the Wildcat line if present indications mean anything. Gene Myers, the 185-pound sophomore, is the leading pivot performer, his previous experience giving him a decided edge. Hinkley, of last year's freshman team, and Pete Kurachek, a converted guard, have been showing up well, as has Dick Mead, an Ashland transfer.

'Bo' McMillan, Wes Taylor, Bob Sherman, Jay Lucian and Dick Ewing are all expected to have opportunity to call signals and the position seems to be wide open at this time. From the 1929 team squad, Bob Davis, the Dayton flash, Red Simpson, Sonny Bolden, and Jimmy Wadlington, bid fair to make the grade, among others.

News Flashes

NRA QUESTIONED Washington, April 1.—(INS)—Constitutionality of the whole recovery act became a major issue today in the Administration's fight to have the NRA extended another two years. U. of K. Contributions to Horse Breeding Industry Are Employed All Over the World The discussion of the University of Kentucky's activities in the horse breeding industry of the state which appeared under 'Student Opinion' in a recent edition of the Kernel has aroused considerable interest among the students of the University. 'Student Opinion' made the statement that the University of Kentucky existed apparently 'unconnected with the horse breeding activity of the state', to which President McVey replied on March 19, stating there are men in the College Agriculture who are nationally and internationally known for their work with horses.

Young Baritone Is Presented on Music Program

Association Plans to Engage Tibbett for Next Year's Series

Wilbur Evans, young American baritone, presented the final concert of the series sponsored by the Community Concert association, Friday night at Memorial Hall.

A plan was devised by Prof. R. D. McIntyre, of the University faculty and secretary of the association, whereby non-members who intend to join the association may hear six concerts instead of the five scheduled for next year. Those non-members were guests at the Evans concert.

Among the artists who are being given consideration for the next season by Prof. McIntyre include Richard Crooks, tenor; Nino Martin, tenor; Lawrence Tibbett, baritone; Nathan Milstein, violinist, and the Vienna Choir boys.

New UK Flying Club Receives Primary Glider

Members of Organization to Begin Preliminary Training This Week

Arrival of a glider from Cleveland Saturday marked the official beginning of a University of Kentucky Aeronautical association, which will begin preliminary training in the glider this week.

The glider, a Northrup primary, is now on the Kelly farm, two miles from the University campus. The glider, purchased from the Case School of Engineering, Cleveland, has a wing spread of 30 feet, and is some 15 feet in length. This type of glider has been used for many years in both the United States and Germany for the training of pilots. The controls are the same as those used in a biplane. Instead of wheels, the plane is equipped with a landing skid.

The very first of an attempt to equip the organization that a sponsor will be elected in the near future, and that an attempt will be made to arrange an intercollegiate glider contest with Purdue University for sometime in the future.

R. O. T. C. PARADES TO BEGIN APRIL 8

The students who did not go to see "Romeo and Juliet" missed an opportunity to see a beautiful production given with clear insight and intelligent interpretation...

Last year "A Midsummer Night's Dream" was a joy to behold. "Romeo and Juliet" this year, because of its known difficulty of production, was a delightful surprise in the excellent interpretation given to the play by the directors and by the cast.

Moreover, these plays are life-long treasures to the casts who have studied them. If, as some of us believe, the years at college bring with them an opportunity to spend that time living "among the best that has been known and thought," and if the students of the University of Kentucky really sincerely believe in such an opportunity, then surely the production of Shakespeare's plays at the Guignol Theater once each year will be encouraged by a large attendance of students rather than discouraged by the belief held by a few students that such production should not be attempted...

Yours very sincerely, Frances Jewell McVey

BALL SPEAKS AT AG CONVOCATION

Emphasizes that Well-Rounded Training is Essential to Get Positions

YOUNG GIVES SOLO

Carlton Ball, executive of Hughes and Company, Lexington, and graduate of the University College of Agriculture in 1911, was the principal speaker at the Agricultural assembly held at the Agricultural hall Saturday morning.

Mr. Ball emphasized that a well-rounded training is essential to holding responsible positions. He urged that students undertake work now in its beginning stages and go forward with it, speaking of the desirability of staying with a thing rather than constantly seeking better jobs.

Plans Are Made For Topographical Map

New Chart to Be Prepared in Sections to Allow for Topography Changes

Students of the College of Engineering are to develop a new topographical map of the campus. The map is to be in sections made up of 400 by 500 feet and the sheets will be 20 by 25 inches.

The corners of each section will be marked on the ground by a bronze plate set in a concrete block flush with the ground. This will provide the means for keeping the map up to date, as any section having a change in topography can be remapped at any time.

This may be used in planning all developments on the campus, for the project and the following: Prof. R. E. Shaver is in charge of the project and the following are engineering engineers in the work: J. E. Black, J. A. Carrick, M. J. Darnell, J. E. Hooker, J. K. Harrison, J. P. Mumford, G. E. Pero, A. G. deRothman.
