executive-director of the museum; and museum secretary, J. H. Ransom. The painting, a portrait of Plainview Julia, was recently donated by R. C. Tway of Louisville.

The museum, available to the public each day (except Monday) from 10-4 o'clock, is located in the Carriage House on the Spindletop estate.

Spindletop Gains Horse Museum

Spindletop Farm, the new University faculty-alumni club, now has the country's first saddle horse museum.

The new museum is in the Carriage House on the Spindletop estate, formerly the property of Mrs. Pansy Yount of Beaumont, Texas.

Mrs. Yount, whose husband, Miles Frank Yount, brought in the prolific Spindletop oil field in Texas, came to Kentucky to pursue her interest in saddle horses.

After dispersing her successful show stable in 1949 Mrs. Yount returned to Texas. Spindletop stood idle until the Kentucky Research Foundation bought it in 1959.

After 10 years Spindletop now has been activated. The Spindletop Research Center is in the construction stage, the mansion has been turned into the faculty club, and now the Carriage House has become the Saddle Horse Museum.

Mrs. Yount's collection of buggies, chaises, landaus, stage coaches, sleighs and pony carts are but a few of the many pieces to be found in the museum.

Some of the other significant items in the museum include a carriage collection, 32 of which are owned by UK. The collection valued at $150,000 is considered to be one of the best in America.

Mrs. Frank Goggin of Lexington is the curator of the museum. Mrs. Goggin is now gathering photographs and paintings of gaited horse champions, and is assembling a library.

Although the official opening of the museum will not be until July 12, the public may visit it each weekday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The museum is closed on Mondays. There is a fifty cent admission fee.

Spindletop is located on the Iron Works Pike seven miles north of Lexington.

Recent UK Grants Total Near $1,000,000

The Kentucky Division of the American Cancer Society has given a one year institutional research grant for $20,000 to UK. The grant will run from July 1, 1962 to July 1, 1963.

This grant is available to any investigator at the University who is doing research related in some way to cancer.

Those interested in applying must send a statement to the chairman of the grant committee defining, 1) the proposed project, 2) the proposed budget, and 3) they must substantiate that there are no other sources of funds available at this time.

The committee is composed of Dr. Wellington B. Stewart, professor of pathology, chairman; Dr. Ralph Weaver, professor of microbiology; Dr. Ellis Brown, professor of chemistry, and Dr. Robert Greenlaw, professor of radiology.

The University, in addition to this week's grant, has received grants totaling nearly three-quarters of a million dollars from the federal government and the National Science Foundation. These funds will be used to support various research projects and to construct a Wood Use Demonstration Center at the University's Robinson Substation.

Construction of the center will cost $642,000. Two research projects of the Department of Chemistry will be supported by grants of $12,000 and $24,000 each.

Dr. W. F. Wagner, professor of chemistry, has received a contract renewal amounting to $12,400 for research in solvent extraction of rare earths from the Federal Atomic Energy Commission.

The object of the project is the development of improved methods of extraction and purification of rare earths such as the cerium metals.

Approximately $9,000 of the new grant will be used as stipends for graduate students engaged in the project.

During the course of the project, Dr. Wagner and his associates have prepared a number of articles for national and international publication.

Another grant awarded to the Department of Chemistry by the National Science Foundation provides $24,600 for support of a program for the development of modifications and revisions in the curriculum for chemistry majors.

The grant includes a stipulation which requires the University to match the amount of funds awarded.

The Department of Agronomy is beginning a three-year investigation of metabolism of diseased plants with $25,500 of federal funds provided by the National Institute of Health of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Dr.

President Dickey Visits Guatemala

University President Frank G. Dickey left Monday for Guatemala to visit the UK contract team now stationed at San Carlos University.

Dr. Dickey was accompanied by Dr. Merl Baker, executive director of the Kentucky Research Foundation.

The purpose of the visit by Dr. Dickey and Dr. Baker is to evaluate the current program of assistance to San Carlos University and determine whether UK is in the position to continue extending assistance.

UK, under a contract with the State Department's Agency for International Development, has for three years maintained a team of specialists at a San Carlos University to assist the Central American republic in strengthening its educational and agricultural programs.

The program is similar, in some respects, to the relationship between UK and Indonesia. In the Indonesian program, however, professors from the University go to the country to teach in the universities while Indonesian professors come and teach at UK.

The San Carlos team is headed by Levi J. Harlacher, professor of animal husbandry. Professor Harlacher is assisted by UK faculty and staff members assigned periodically to San Carlos for three-month stays.

Dr. Dickey and Dr. Baker plan to return to Kentucky this Monday.

Distinguished Professor Selected

Dr. Margaret Hotchkiss, University professor of microbiology, has been selected by faculty members of the College of Arts and Sciences as Distinguished Professor for 1962-63.

The honor includes release from duties for one semester to do research and writing at full salary and the privilege of delivering the college's Distinguished Professor Lecture in April 1963.

Dr. Hotchkiss is the 19th winner of the award established in 1944 as a means of recognizing outstanding academic achievement.

The professor is a native of

Highlight Summer

If you're looking for entertainment this summer, you can find it right here in Kentucky. Take your choice of opera, comedy, and religious or straight drama.

"The Book of Job," a religious drama opened its fourth season this summer. It is presented each night except Sunday at 8:30 at Pine Mountain State Park in Pineville.

The unique feature of this outdoor drama is the kaleidoscope effect produced by the mosaic-like makeup of the actors.

Another outdoor drama, this one a musical, "The Stephen Foster Story," is presented each night, except Monday, at 8:30 at My Old Kentucky Home State Park in Bardstown. Stephen Foster was inspired to write "My Old Kentucky Home," now the official state song, while visiting his cousin at Federal Hill in 1852.

The estate and home became a state park in 1922. The amphitheater was built in 1958 for the first production of "The Stephen Foster Story."

The Pioneer Playhouse, which was designated by the 1962 General Assembly as the State Theatre of Kentucky, will premier 10 new plays this summer.

"Bells of High Dudgeon," by William Werbung, opened Thursday night. Each of the 10 premieres will be presented nightly at 8:30 on a Thursday-through-Monday schedule.

Several of the playwrights will be at the Playhouse in Danville, to see their works presented there for the first time.

"The Mikado," an opera by Gilbert and Sullivan, will be presented by the Summer Opera Workshop at the Guignol Theatre from Aug. 1-4.

Vacationists in the Virgin Islands may purchase $200 worth of duty-free goods in contrast to the $100 limitation effective in all other free ports outside the continental United States.

UK Signs 12th Penn. Footballer

Kentucky has signed Tony Manzonelli of Pittsburgh, Pa., to a football grant-in-aid. He plays tackle.

Coach Charlie Bradshaw said the boy is the 12th youngster from the Keystone state to indicate plans to attend Kentucky.

"Manzonelli impressed me from the very first time I saw him in game movies," the coach said.

"I am convinced he will help us tremendously as he is a sizable youngster and possesses strength, speed, and quickness."

He attended South Hills Catholic High School where he was an all-sports star. In addition to playing football, he also took part in wrestling and track.

He served as president of his class and was a member of the school's student council.

UK assistant Chuck Knox, who signed Manzonelli, said the boy was highly recommended by South Hills Coach Berni Powers and other mentors in the area.

Don Martin, a 1951 graduate of Lexington Lafayette High School, has signed a track scholarship. He is the sixth high school runner to sign with Kentucky.

Martin last participated in high school track in the spring of 1961. He was not in school this past year.

A pole vaulter and high jumper, Martin twice won the regional pole vault championship and once the regional high jump crown. In '61 he was second in state pole vault competition and third in the high jump.

He cleared 13 feet while working out at the Sports Center this spring.

A former Kentucky student, who was a sportsman and a scholar while in school here, will change jobs Sunday.

He will officially become a scholar and let the sportsman tag line fall in its proper place.

Elvis J. Stahr Jr., a former dean of the University Law School, who was quite a tennis player during his days as a student here, will leave the post of Secretary of the Army to accept the position as President of Indiana University. He will succeed Herman B. Wells.

The Kentucky native will add his own color and taste of distinction to the office.

In his high school days, Stahr was thought of as 'just a common boy.' Today he is often referred to as an 'uncommon man.'

Born in Hickman, a small town on the Mississippi River, Stahr started his tennis playing while in high school. In addition to playing a little tennis, Stahr was captain of the debate team, editor of the school yearbook, pitcher on the baseball team and forward on the basketball team.

Just for kicks this athlete studied too. He finished at the top of his high school class. Faculty members judged him the most outstanding student in the school that year (1932).

While a student here he helped set two records. The first was in scholarship. Stahr made a perfect 4.0 standing while majoring in English.

He worked as a part time waiter for $3 a week to help pay his expenses. After a year or two at this job, Stahr took up the job of passing out free mints and chewing gum to help defray expenses.

The dean of men, upon recommending Stahr for a Rhodes scholarship, wrote of him:

"He has made the finest and best record we have had in all our history at the University of Kentucky."

His second record was as a tennis player and average student.

He was cadet colonel of the ROTC unit, president of the class of '36, elected to Phi Beta Kappa and Omicron Delta Kappa, national scholastic and leadership societies. He was awarded the national Balfour Award by his fraternity as the outstanding member. Stahr belonged to the Sigma Chi fraternity.

Stahr did not take part in tennis as a freshman in 1933.

He helped H. H. 'Doc' Downing's Wildcat tennis team achieve a 7-4 record during the 1934 season. That was the year the Cats had matches with Berea, Indiana University, Vanderbilt, Louisville, and Tulane.

"We were rather slow at the outset but improved as we went along," the 1934 Kentuckian said.

He helped the team set a 4-record for tennis victories during the 1936 season. They won five straight matches in the nine game schedule. This record stood until the spring of 1961 when Coach Ballard Moore's team won six straight and 14 of 18 matches.

"When he went off to war, he took his tennis racket with him," Stahr's father, Elvis J. Stahr Sr., recalls.

The 75-year-old judge says his son even managed to play a little make shift tennis while in China, serving as a combat liaison officer. The judge modestly describes Elvis Jr., as "just a common boy."

The 45-year-old Hickman tennis player, educator, and administrator has tackled many difficult jobs.

At 32, on Sept. 16, 1948 he became dean of the UK Law school when he succeeded Dr. Alvin E. Evans.

A few months later, the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce named him one of the "Ten Outstanding Men of America."

Between then and today, he has served as vice chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, president

TV Classes Discussed In Workshop

The third annual University workshop for teachers using airborne television instruction began Monday.

The Midwest Program on Airborne Television Instruction's "flying classroom," is telecast from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. (EST), Monday through Friday, at the Stonewall Elementary School located southwest of Lexington on the Stonewall Road.

The purpose of the workshop is to show teachers how to get maximum benefits from classroom television, to demonstrate the educational value of the medium, and to examine the role of the classroom teacher.

Bankers Attend UK School

The Kentucky School of Banking opened at UK last Sunday.

The approximately 75 persons attending the session, held in Donovan Hall participated in a widely varied study program including lectures and discussions.

Some of the subjects discussed were legal problems, financial statements, executive and management development, financial markets, commercial codes, management problems, audit control programs for small banks, records and internal operating procedures, basic economics, and loans and competition.

The different study sessions were held from 3 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday through Thursday. Today's session runs from 8 a.m. till noon.

Last night the group held a banquet at the Holiday Inn. The principal speaker, known as the Tarheel Humorist, was Edmund H. Harding of Washington, North Carolina.

The school was instituted a number of years ago and is co-sponsored by the UK College of Commerce and Extended Programs division, the Kentucky Bankers Association and the State Department of Banking.

In charge of the arrangements for this session of the school are Dr. John T. Masten of the UK Department of Economics and Robert Figg, Extended Programs director of conferences and institutions.

Presiding over sessions were: J. D. Brown, KBA president and executive vice president of The Peoples Bank, Taylorville; E. Paul Williams, KBA advisory committee chairman and executive vice president of Second National Bank, Ashland; Frank B. Howler Jr., vice president of Liberty National Bank & Trust Co., Louisville; Roger Clouse, vice president and secretary of Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland.

Others included Perry Wydman, vice president of First National Bank, Cincinnati; Gerald S. May, president of Lincoln County National Bank, Stanford; Merle V. Stone, vice president and comptroller of American National Bank, St. Paul, Minn.; J. W. Bratcher, vice president of Citizens Union National Bank & Trust Co., Lexington; John S. Swift, auditor of First Security National Bank & Trust Co., Lexington; W. T. Finn, executive vice president of Deposit Bank of Pleasureville.

Also attending were R. D. Willock, president of Citizens National Bank, Bowling Green; John W. Woods Jr., president of Third National Bank, Ashland; L. Felix Murray, executive vice president of New Farmers National Bank, Glasgow.

Some others attending the school were Lawrence E. Kreider, secretary of Committee on Credit Unions of American Bankers Association, New York City; Dr. C. C. Carpenter, dean of the UK College of Commerce, and Dr. Masten.

High School Musicians Win Grants

High school students from throughout the state, who have passed their preliminary auditions and interviews for acceptance as honor scholars, are attending the fourth annual Summer Youth Music Institute.

The program will continue through July 6.

The 26 students from 12 cities in various parts of the state are receiving instruction in music theory, music appreciation, and private lessons from members of the music faculty.

Bernard Fitzgeral, head of the UK Department of Music and coordinator of the program said after students have completed two summers of work in music theory, appreciation and applied music, they will be eligible to apply for advanced standing in these courses.

Language Exams

Students taking Graduate School foreign language reading examinations should register in Room 306, Miller Hall before July 6.

The examinations will be given on July 11-12. French and Spanish examinations will be given at 2 p.m. July 11. The German and other language examinations will be given on July 12.
