'Already picked'

Bryans to be named?

By STEVE SWIFT
Editor-in-Chief

THE APPOINTMENT of Dr. J.T. Bryans to chairman of the department of veterinary science is expected to come at this afternoon's Board of Trustees meeting.

The meeting will begin at 2 p.m. in the Trustees room on the 18th floor of the Patterson Office Tower.

Reliable sources said the appointment of Bryans has been approved by Dr. Charles Barnhart, dean of the college of agriculture, and forwarded to President Otis A. Singletary.

ONE BOARD MEMBER said, "It is my impression that the gentleman has already been picked." However, "I am going to speak to the issue, but just how much discussion will come about I can't say."

Last week, a letter sent to the Kernel with a Grayson Foundation Inc. letterhead threatened to "seriously reduce" its research funds to the University if Bryans was not named to the post. The letter was signed by L.P. Doherty, president of the foundation.

The selection of Bryans has been opposed by the Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association because he is not a veterinarian and his work has been limited to equine research.

A May 27, letter signed by D. L. Proctor, D.V.M. and president of the KVMA, said, "The Executive Board of the Kentucky Veterinary Association feels it imperative that the head of the department be a veterinarian with nationally recognized expertise in disease control."

AFTER THE business session, the Board will listen to an hour-long presentation dealing with the community college system. Dr. Stanley Wall, vice president for the community college system, will give a 20-minute report to the Board followed by an 18 minute slide presentation which gives an overview of the community college system.

Wall said, "Basically, I will be providing the Board with general information of what is happening in the community college system."

Following the slides, the Board will have an opportunity to question Dr. Wall.

THIS IS THE first of what may become a regular feature for Board meeting days.

The Great Student Center Bathroom Massacre (in two-part harmony)

Everything was running smoothly for a Student Center custodian one day last week until he noticed a pair of legs in a restroom 24 hours after he had seen them the first time. After regaining his composure and sending for help he found out it was only a trick played by a University practical joker. (Kernel staff photos by Bruce Singleton.)

Autumn will descend upon us today as temperatures only reach the upper 60s. Partly cloudy and cool weather will continue tonight as temperatures dip to the low 50s.

Misrepresentations of the Open Door Program were made in Monday's Kernel story.

It was not stated by Sandra Schenkar, director of the Open Door Program, that the primary objective was student participation.

The overall objectives of the program are threefold:

—To provide transitional living facilities so the mentally retarded residents can learn skills in independent living.

—To provide a facility where students of many colleges can be exposed to the problems the mentally retarded face in trying to reach the goal of independent living.

—To research and document effective and different approaches used in the project.

Karen and Rick Paul, who are now ending their period with the program, have been primary in helping to achieve the over-all objectives.

Nixon tax scheme isn't a bargain

Lame duck President Richard Nixon has come up with a lame brained idea which would hit the American taxpayer with a 10 per cent increase in federal income taxes.

Nixon's theory is the increase will give the taxpayer less money to spend and, therefore, will slow down the inflation-ridden economy.

Nice in theory, except for some very large problems:

—Taxpayers have the idea now, however uninformed they are, that they have little enough money to spend as it is.

—Nixon talks of refunding this "enforced savings" to the taxpayer at some future date. That date, you can feel sure, is sometime after Nixon leaves office. Who, then, is to guarantee the next administration will feel like repaying these "enforced savings?"

—Nixon, as a lame duck, can propose tax increases until he's blue in the face, because he doesn't have to face the voting public again. But the Congress, those members of the houses of government who face election every two years, are surely not going to seek reelection after having voted in favor of a tax increase and expect to stay in office. Since the primary duty of a politician is to be elected, you can bet your last dollar the Congress will look coolly on any tax increase.

—What is to make us believe this man, he of the bungled economy, mismanaged staff and questionable political ethics?

He said Phases 1, 2, 3 and 4 would heal the economy. Each has failed. Is a tax surcharge capable of resurrecting Nixon from his economic failures? We think not.

Is Board of Trustees a 'rubber stamp' group?

The Kernel was surprised to learn from a member of the Board of Trustees Monday night that the selection of a chairman for the department of veterinary science has been finalized before the group has met to discuss the matter.

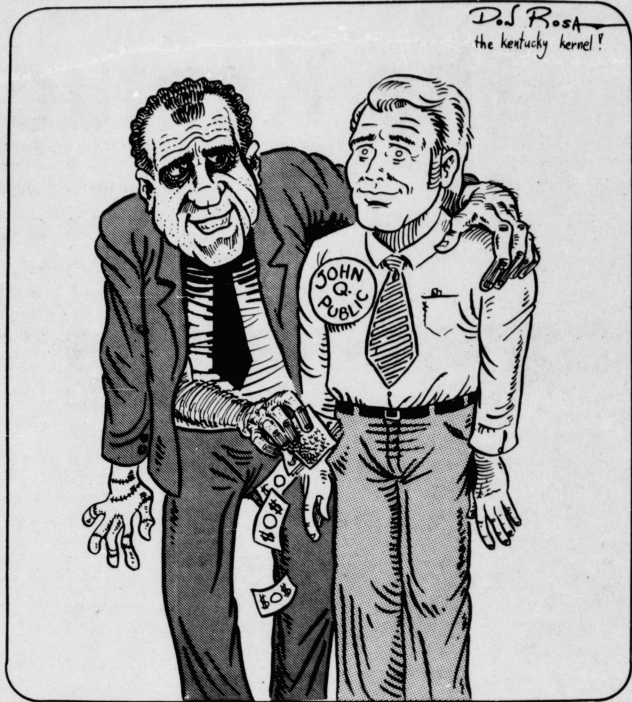

The member, not satisfied with the information supplied by University officials, conducted a quick investigation of the issue over the weekend.

By finalizing decisions of the University's governing body before it meets, the Trustees position is reduced to that of sheep rubber stamping the whims of their shepherd.

From the beginning, the selection of this particular chairman has been a shambles. One search committee member had a conflict of interest while he served on the panel. L. P. Doherty, as president of the Grayson Foundation Inc., a nationally known equine research group which has given the department of veterinary science almost 26 per cent of its funding over the last 10 years, Doherty had no business on the search committee.

The Foundation also put undue pressure on the Trustees when it informed the group it would reduce funds to the department if the foundation's selection was not chosen for the post. This is preposterous, especially if the organization thinks it can buy positions from the Trustees.

Before the Board makes its final decision, we hope it will study the facts as a group. If some doubt remains in the minds of particular members, the appointment can easily be tabled for further investigation.

Why force it?

If Vicky Heston really wants to insist on her right to be judged entirely on the basis of "grooming" and whatever "personality" is, I suppose that's her business. I hope, though, that somewhere along the line she asks herself Amiri Baraka's famous question—Who wants to be integrated into a burning house?

Fantasy world

UK is indeed a world of fantasy. Mythological ideas are firmly woven facts for freshman women arriving on campus. In the Garden of Eden it was the woman Eve, the perpetrator of inherent evil, who plucked the forbidden fruit. In recognition of this knowledge, young women are put through an adjustment period of restrictive hours to purge them of these evil tendencies before they are grudgingly set loose in the "garden."

An amusing analogy is lodged in the minds of many on campus and that is that the protection to be found within the dorm walls after the fancifully fearful hour of 12:00 is like unto that which we find after passing through the pearly gates of heaven. Outdoors, with all its tempting evils and treacherous pitfalls reminds one of the bowels of hell, to be avoided at any cost.

Really, these misguided myths are amusing but they are also impractical, unjustified and unreasonable. Let us place the campus back in the realm of reality.

Stuck on 'wrong side?'

This letter is in response to Paula Biggerstaff's column "Bad Side of the Moon II" which appeared in the September 13 issue of the Kernel. It is too bad she is stuck on the "bad side"; if she is willing to get unstuck she might come into contact with her own biases as well as learning something about journalistic reporting. How she can report on the Counseling Center without interviewing any of the professional staff is beyond my scope of understanding. If she can document one case of racism among our counselors, I invite her to present it to me.

One of the most serious of all the injustices done by activist leaders to their following is to convince them that only one of their "kind" can be helpful to them. It is absurd to say that only blacks can counsel blacks, chicanos can only be counseled by other chicanos, etc. Every person is unique; no experience is ever the same for any two people. Ms. Biggerstaff's black experience is certainly different from that of Bubba McCollum or Harry Sykes. If there were simply one black experience as Ms. Biggerstaff implies, counseling would certainly be easy; all counselors would have to learn would be that experience. Naturally it is not that easy, counselors learn to work with people, not color.

It might be enlightening for Ms. Biggerstaff to examine the budgets of the two agencies she mentions in her column. It should be looked at on a percentage basis. For the potential users of the Office of Minority Student Affairs there is approximately $117.00 allocated for each student. For the potential users of the counseling Center there is approximately $5.00 allocated per student. Quite a difference. Also, the Counseling Center does not receive any HEW funds.

Finally, after reading Ms. Biggerstaff's column I wonder—who really has the problem of racism?

Spread the blame

I believe that Ms. Heston is absolutely correct in her charges against the UK sororities. However, I do not think that the blame should be confined to sororities since there are 20 fraternities on this campus that practice the same code of ethics. I only regret that what ever happens from here on in probably won't change a thing.

'I was misquoted, misinterpreted, used'

By EILEEN CORRIGAN

In response to Vicky Heston's article in the Kernel on Friday, Sept. 14, I would like to comment on being quoted by Hilda Bailey. It is my belief that Hilda quoted me because she sincerely believed that is what I said. I respect Hilda for her honesty and I hope to receive the same respect in return. I must honestly say I was misquoted, misinterpreted and used to prove the existence of segregation in the UK sororities.

About one month ago, I spoke with Hilda Bailey in the Student Center cafeteria. To be honest, I cannot remember verbatim what I said yesterday, much less a month ago. But I distinctly recall the essence of what I said and the context in which I said it.

I had met Vicky Heston, a 22-year-old Navy veteran, during Rush. Her Naval experience, her ease with conversation, and her bubbly personality really impressed me. Black-white, rush or not, if I like someone I have a tendency to bring up his or her name in conversation.

Well, when I saw Hilda, I did just that. I thought Vicky was a neat person and I wanted to know if Hilda thought the same. I asked Hilda if she knew Vicky and she said she did. I took Hilda's casual "yes" to mean she knew of her but she didn't know her personally. I wanted to know if Hilda thought as highly of Vicky as I did, and if so to let me know. I apologize to Hilda because it was my fault for not making myself clear. I'm especially sorry she misinterpreted the intentions behind what I had said. However, I do deny the quote. I truthfully believe it is not what I said. I was misquoted. Furthermore, what I did say was misconstrued and taken out of context.

As I told Vicky Thursday night, and Hilda after the article came out, if you do strongly oppose or question what someone says, you should have the integrity to confront them directly. To me, being quoted a month later and not informed until the night before the article is published is just not fair. This, however, is my own personal opinion.

Well, I found out Thursday night, the hard way, that Vicky Heston was indeed the neat person I was impressed with during rush. After a long conversation, I think I understand how she feels. Vicky believes she was cut from rush because she is black. Thus she questions sorority practices, as the title of her article states, "Do UK Sororities practice segregation?" I cannot speak for another sorority, but in my house this certainly was not the case. Vicky Heston was rushed and evaluated on an individual basis, like every other rushee. No more and no less.

Perhaps it was my mistake for treating Vicky like any other rushee. During one of my trivial, "pass the time" conversations, I brought up her name. I liked a rushee, I personally inquired about her, only to find out a month later I can inquire about a white rushee but not a black rushee because that would be racial discrimination. It doesn't make sense to me. My inquiry had nothing to do with racial discrimination. So why am I being used as an example? Perhaps racial discrimination at UK is a two-way street, I don't know.

Some accounts are true, but ZTA portion 'false'

By SUE NOLTE

I am writing this to further clarify the article on racial segregation in UK sororities. As a senior and an officer of Zeta Tau Alpha, I have been through many rushes and can accurately report the facts pertaining to them. Vicky Heston's story does have a point; however, while the various accounts she gave were true or partially confirmed, the story about Zeta Tau Alpha was entirely false. Let me give you the facts:

1. Vicky Heston stated that "the house had spent three hours arguing whether they should give a black a chance in their house." Zeta Tau Alpha never spends three hours discussing any rushee. While our time limit is confidential and irrelevant, I can assure you it is no more than several minutes.

2. She also said, "After three hours of heated debate, a vote was taken, and I was voted completely out by only a few votes." Discussions do not get heated; if they are headed in that direction a secret ballot is automatically called. In Vicky's case, a secret ballot was called and the outcome was, as always, determined by a simple majority. The particular numbers in her vote are known only by the person who counted them, and this fall all votes were tallied by a national officer.

3. "I was later told by a Zeta pledge that all the girls, after voting, had to say in front of the president, they did not vote me out because of my color." Our pledges do not take part in these votings, so a pledge cannot truthfully verify anything. We never have to present a reason for the way we vote. As stated before, it is a secret ballot and it remains so.

Obviously, Vicky had her goal set on Delta Delta Delta. Many rushees set goals, and many are disappointed at the outcome. I am sure every girl that received no bid can create some reason that she believes to be the basis of her cut, and they may or may not be true. If Vicky believes she was cut from all houses because of her color, how does she explain that a sorority already having a black member cut her?

The Kernel is an independent newspaper, and Page III is free to print any article containing opinions. However, what was printed about Zeta Tau Alpha was, in the purest sense, libel. Or, if anyone wants to argue that point, then let me state my "opinion": The Kernel may be improving in some ways, but it is still an anti-Greek publication, as it always has been. If Steve Swift will print this, we will accept it as a form of apology for the embarrassment and degradation the Kernel caused our chapter.

Sue Nolte is the corresponding secretary for Zeta Tau Alpha.

Editor's note: Publication of this comment by the Kernel editors does not constitute an apology on the part of the Kernel. It is, instead, in keeping with Kernel policy of printing letters and comments in their entirety.

This brings me to the Monday, Sept. 18 issue of the Kernel, where I have been accused of "dirty rushing". If Hilda Bailey had looked closer into her accusation, she would realize that I did not break any Panhellenic rules. I will waste no further time dwelling on a comment based upon a misconstrued quotation, a false accusation and illogical reasoning. This futile attempt to find fault is rather an immature and unnecessary means to accomplish anything.

I sympathize with the blacks on campus because, as a native of Atlanta, I well know Southern racism. I will be the first to admit that there is racial discrimination at UK, perhaps more so than in my hometown. However, the prejudice here is a deep, intangible something, within the people, not the system. If all the time and energy we used to emphasize the existence of racial discrimination were constructively used to broaden communication on both an overall and personal basis, I believe we could really improve UK's black-white relations, and we'd all be that much better off.

Comments on venereal disease

By ROBERT E. FRENCH, M.D.

Each year I am asked what symptoms should be considered as possibly due to gonorrhea or syphilis.

GNORRHEA:

Let's start with gonorrhea since it is the most common. In the male, there is usually irritation at the tip of the urethra, along with some pus-like drainage starting several days (usually 3 days to a week) following sexual intercourse. The unpleasantness of the symptoms are quite fortunate, because they prompt the man to seek medical attention quickly before any damage can take place, such as scarring of the reproductive tracts, or sterility. Treatment usually cures the disease within a few days, but some men have a post-gonococcal urethritis which gives annoying, but not dangerous symptoms for weeks afterward.

IT IS WISE to have a follow-up urethral culture just to be sure we are not dealing with one of the rare resistant strains of gonorrhea sometimes brought back from overseas, but usually a single treatment is a curative.

There are other causes of urethral irritation in the male, besides gonorrhea, and many of the cases we see are non-specific urethritis, which is annoying but usually not dangerous. It is treated differently than gonorrhea.

Where we get into the greatest difficulty with gonorrhea is with the patients who do not have any symptoms and who are carriers of gonorrhea without realizing it. A few males are asymptomatic carriers, so we culture them whenever there is any suspicion on their part that they might have picked up gonorrhea, especially when they have had some minor symptoms which seemed to clear up on their own.

IN FEMALES, gonorrhea often occurs without symptoms. When a girl is fortunate enough to develop vaginal discharge or irritation we are in a good position to make an early diagnosis, but if she is unfortunate to have no symptoms, the disease may spread up into the Fallopian Tubes and scar tissue may form. These unfortunate cases of damaged reproductive functions in females might be minimized if all males with symptoms were considerate enough to seek prompt treatment for themselves and to make a real effort to see that any female partner were aware of need for treatment.

To complicate matters, most girls with vaginal discharge or irritation do not have gonorrhea. Most of them have monilia (Yeast), trichomonas, or a bacterial infection other than gonorrhea. Some may have irritation from some chemical agent in soap or commercial vaginal preparations. But we must obtain a specimen and do a culture before we can be certain.

SYPHILIS USUALLY shows up as an open sore or "chancere" at the point of sexual contact. One problem obviously is that the sore may be hidden in the vagina, and it is often painless. Another problem is the "incubation period" between the time of sexual intercourse and the time the sore develops. Usually there is an interval of 1½ to 3 weeks, but it may be over a month or longer. If there is an open sore, diagnosis may be made by a special microscopic examination called a "dark field microscopic examination". The V.D.R.L. blood test may not become positive for even longer. Therefore, when there is a suspicion of syphilis, it is best to do more than one blood test, because a negative V.D.R.L. may be misleading if it is obtained too early in the course of this disease.

CONFIDENTIALITY OF RECORDS:

As with any student medical records, information concerning the treatment of venereal disease at the Health Service is strictly confidential. The Health Service is required to report only the total number of cases of diagnosed gonorrhea to the Health Department. No names or identification numbers of patients or contacts are ever reported to anyone. Health Service physicians tell students to urge their contacts to see a physician. Kentucky has a law permitting physicians to treat minors for venereal disease without notification or consent of a parent.

Robert E. French, M.D. is chief, Medical Service at the Student Health Service.

City-county merger survives court test

By MARIA BRADEN
Associated Press Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. — The merger of Lexington and Fayette County has survived its first court test and will become effective Jan. 1, 1974.

In a ruling Monday Fayette Circuit Judge George Barker upheld "for all practical purposes" the charter providing for merger of the two governments.

UNDER THE CHARTER all governmental and corporate functions of the city and the county would be merged in to a single government with jurisdiction over the whole county.

The new government will be the first of its kind in the state—and the only form of government in the state not drafted by the legislature.

Judge Barker's ruling is based on three suits filed earlier this year to test the constitutionality of the charter.

"ALMOST EVERY SECTION of the charter has been questioned...discussion of each individual issue would extend this opinion beyond understandable bounds," the judge wrote in his 70-page ruling.

THE FIRST PART of the ruling gives an overview of the charter provisions and analyzes the new form of government.

"It is unique in that there is no authority for, nor mention made of such a form of government in the constitution of Kentucky," he said. "The questions is whether such a form of government may be said to be prohibited by the constitution."

THE JUDGE RULED that the new government will be considered a city government, regardless of whether it is known as "urban-county" or "metro" government.

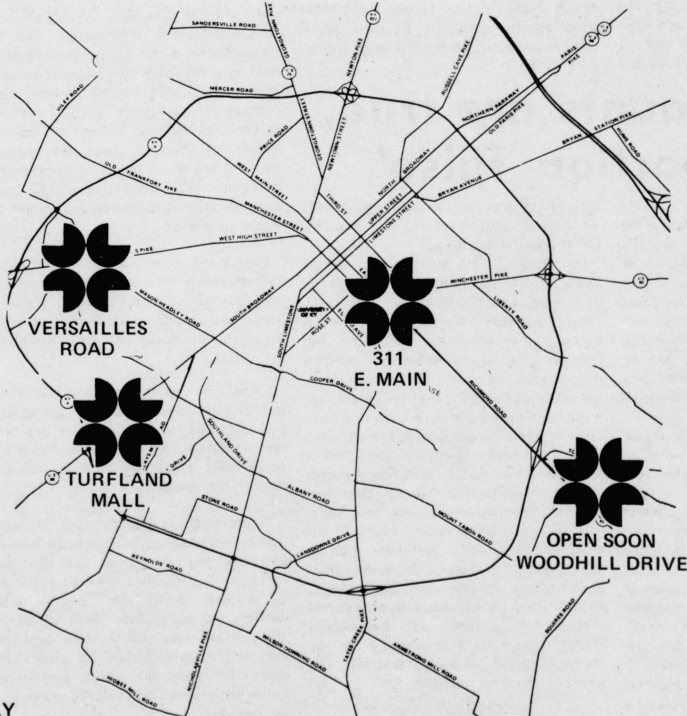

He also upheld the charter's right to dissolve fiscal court, saying it would be a duplication of effort under the new government.

No more reruns--

Cop shows raid new TV season

By PETER JONES

Kernel Staff Writer

Finally, no more reruns. The new television season has arrived with a set of fresh shows basically in the action, comedy, suspense films and variety categories.

POLICE SHOWS make up a large part of the action. ABC has come up with "Griff", the story of a former police captain turned private eye. Lorne Greene, in the starring role, investigates crime in areas ranging from computer-dating to murder. The show first airs at 10 p.m. September 29.

NBC offers an anthology called "Police Story" starting 10 p.m.

October 2. The show deals with what it's like to be a policeman in any one of a modern department's branches. Unlike other police shows it features no regular cast.

"Chase", also an NBC police show (starring Mitchell Ryan), is the story of a handful of Los Angeles policemen who take on the impossible jobs which no one else wants. With a helicopter, a motorcycle and a car, they deal with crimes from auto theft to dope pushing. The show premiered at 8 p.m. September 11.

AS FOR COMEDY the selection is fairly wide.

"Lotsa Luck", featuring Dom DeLuise, seems to be an attempt at ending bland comedy. It has one entire show devoted to toilet jokes. Filling the 8 p.m. time slot on NBC, it premiered September 10.

The Arts

"Roll Out" is a sequel to "MASH". It deals with a mostly black outfit of WWII truck drivers delivering supplies to the front lines. The series stars Mel Stewart and Stu Gilliam. It premieres on CBS at 8:30 p.m., October 5.

THE "NBC FOLLIES" is trying to bring back the feeling of vaudeville days in modern dress. It has no standard host although Sammy Davis Jr. is around most of the time. This show premiered at 10 p.m. September 13.

SC imports Sly in 1st big concert

"Sly and The Family Stone" will be slippin' into the UK Coliseum Oct. 5 for SCB's first major concert.

Plans for the concert were finalized Thursday with "Sly" manager, Ken Roberts. He had contacted SC earlier about the possibility of his group stopping at UK while on their current American tour.

Sly will provide their own front act. The group's name will be announced later.

TICKETS FOR the 8 pm show will go on sale Sept. 24 at the Coliseum and later will be sold at the SC coatroom. Prices are $5, $4, $3.50 and $3.

UK wins cross country opener

By JIM MAZZONI
Kernel Staff Writer

PACED BY freshman Jim Buell, the cross country team placed the top three finishers in winning its opening meet at Eastern Kentucky Saturday.

In the four team meet, UK compiled a winning team score of 30, Eastern Kentucky came in second with 36, Morehead State was third with 79 and Cumberland College was fourth with 96.

would have to work on a closer grouping of his top five finishers. There was a lapse of 1:55 between them at the Saturday meet. Olsen said he would like to get it closer to 45 seconds.

Buell completed the five mile course in 26:05.6. He was followed by senior Paul Dawson and junior Max Hadley, both in 26:30.

Rounding out Kentucky's top five were sophomore Jim Swan finishing ninth and junior Jeff Smith finishing 15th.

"THE DEGREE OF intense effort really told the story," said Coach Ken Olsen. "They gave me all I could ask for."

Speaking of Buell's performance, Olsen said he was "very pleased" to see the freshman win, and added that "he has shown evidence of being strong, so it was no big surprise."

Even though his squad performed as well, if not better, than he expected, Olsen noted that he

Olsen, who has taken charge of the cross country team in Paul Ward's track program, said that though he was very confident with his team, he still had room for worry.

"THE PLAN WAS to stay behind in the first part and reserve strength," he explained. "We were well behind in scoring until the last two miles, so I was pretty nervous. I wasn't for sure that they were really following instructions."

SAE wins tug-of-war

By BILL MEDLEY
Kernel Staff Writer

IN WHAT IS becoming a tradition, the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity captured their ninth consecutive championship in the annual UK Tug-of-War tournament.

SAE, who has never been beaten in the nine years of competition, out tugged Lambda Chi for the championship of the men's fraternity division.

In the men's independent division, the Super Snakes upset last years champ, the UK Dental School, for the title.

The women's championship was won by the Tri-Delt sorority, who out-pulled Lambda Tau Iota.

ACCORDING TO Jim Daopoulos, the new intramural coordinator, over 45 teams participated in the tug-of-war competition which ended last Thursday.

Intramural football is to begin this week, with over 200 teams scheduled to compete. Fraternities will play on Tuesdays and Thursdays while independent play on Mondays and Wednesdays. All games will be played in the evenings at the Seaton Center firelds.

Weightlifting club to start

By HANK ELLINGTON
Kernel Staff Writer

A WEIGHT-LIFTING club which will be open to all students is about to become a reality here at UK.

The first meeting of the club will be held on We., Sept. 19 at 7 p.m. in room 206 of the Seaton Physical Education Building.

Three major forms of weight training programs are currently being planned by the club. Olympic lifting, power lifting and general body building are the programs now on the agenda.

Olympic weightlifting is the type done in major international competition. Lifts such as the military press and the "clean and jerk" fall into this category. A power lifting program is one designed to develop sheer strength. Bench pressing and leg lifting exercises are parts of power weightlifting. Body building programs consist of repetitious exercises such as "curls" which tend to increase muscle mass.

All weight training programs will be set up under the supervision of experienced lifters. Any interested student who cannot attend the first meeting of the club may call Jon Arem at Campus Recreation, 258-2898 for more information.

Rugby team wins second

By JIM MAZZONI
Kernel Staff Writer

THE UK RUGBY team remained undefeated Sunday by whipping the Indianapolis Naps 24-0 at Indianapolis.

According to coach Geoff Wall, both the game and the scoring moved on smoothly for the UK team.

"The scrum got the ball and we had plenty of possession," he boasted. "We used the ball and scored."

"In fact we dominated the whole game and should have scored more," Wall said.

FOUR PLAYERS contributed to the final tally scoring one try apiece. They were Joe Fadell, Tim Popham, Rod Albright and Ken King. King, a linebacker for the UK football team last season, also kicked the four conversions. The halftime score was 12-0.

Then, at the risk of getting a lot of ribbing from the jubilant players around him, the small Englishman jokingly added, "We didn't play too bad."

Director favors higher status

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—After some evasion, the head of Kentucky's Commission on Aging has agreed to decide whether to endorse upgrading his agency to a higher level than Gov. Wendell Ford apparently feels necessary.

Commission Director Henry Beach told an Interim Legislative Subcommittee on Aging Monday that he would give his recommendation on such a proposal at a later meeting. He finally gave that promise after evading repeated questions on his stand on a proposed bill that would raise his commission to department status.

BEACH WOULD GO no further Monday than to say he could see advantages "either way"—leaving his agency a commission or making it a department.

But he also said problems of the elderly could be handled better in one department rather than having separate agencies care for those who were mentally disturbed, physically ill or poor.

"I would hesitate to promote something that the governor evidently has spoken on through reorganization," Beach said the first time he was asked his view on creating a separate department on aging.
