HERE SHALL THE KERNEL ALL STUDENT RIGHTS MAINTAIN

A PROGRESSIVE LIBRARY

In line with the recent suggestion of The Kernel and with the idea of more efficiently serving the student body our library has extended its closing hour to ten o'clock. The need and reasons for such procedure are well understood by all and were advanced at some length in this column.

It is our purpose, therefore, to compliment the library administration upon this effort to aid the student body in making better use of its facilities. It is an exhibition of a progressive spirit and is decidedly deserving of commendation. At the same time The Kernel hopes that this will be merely the initial step in improving the bibliothecal accommodations of the University. The library has enjoyed a constant growth but likewise has the student body. In certain respects the library's facilities have failed to keep pace with this growth of the student body, and a remedy of this condition is desirable.

HONORARIES

At this season of the year The Kernel is filled with announcements of pledgings to I Felta Thi, Sis Boom Bah, Spears, Lantern and Symbol, Locks, etc. The candidate wears a dainty piece of ribbon for a short period, pays out his hard cash and is then duly entitled to dangle from his watch chain the emblem of the organization. Two weeks after initiation the purpose of the organization, if it has any, is utterly forgotten by the initiate.

The foregoing description is typical of the situations which are daily developing around us. Everyone is making a mad effort at a front which will gain him recognition and subsequent pledging by some organization while at the same time the various societies are casting wildly about for enough "suckers" with the cash which is customarily required for entrance into such an organization.

There are about fifty organizations on our campus which exist under the title of honorary of one sort or other and out of this fifty, three-fourths are hard put to justify their existence. A large number of them exist purely as representatives of gigantic national rackets; most of the money which is paid in as initiation fees is sent to the "national headquarters" which in turn sends back a small sheet of paper which says "This is to certify that Blank Blank is a member of Blank Blank."

The fact that such a situation exists is undeniable. One can even make the assertion that anyone having the money necessary and the desire to get into some honorary in order that he may have the privilege of wearing a key and the pleasure of writing home to the folks that he has "made" such and such an organization can easily find one which will be willing to welcome him as a brother.

Moreover such organizations are a definite hindrance to the efforts of really worthwhile organizations which attempt to bestow honor where honor is due and which contribute something tangible to campus life in the form of ideals and standards which are worth striving after.

Such a condition should exist on the campus of the University of Kentucky is indeed deplorable and little short of amusing. The student body should awake and rebel against the existence of societies which have no merit.

The "honoraries" not only tend to overshadow the purposes and ideals of more worthwhile organization, but they seriously impede them in the selection of candidates which really possess merit, because of the difficulty of sizing up the worth of the organizations and honors which they have received.

WHY STUDY?

There is a song that goes something like this: "The more you study, the more you know; the more you know, the more you forget; the more you forget, the less you know; the less you know, the less you forget; the less you forget, the more you know; so why study?"

Here are some figures which, from a financial standpoint, show the value of studying. A statistical survey made recently by the Massachusetts Department of Labor and the College of Business Administration at Boston University shows that the average college graduate earns, during his life, $150,000 as against the life earnings of $45,000 for the untrained man and $78,000 for the high school graduate.

The untrained man receives his maximum salary which averages about $1,200 a year, at the age of thirty. The high school graduate receives his average maximum salary of $2,200 at the age of 40, while the college graduate attains the maximum salary of the high school graduate within six years and is often earning as much as $6,000 at 60, when the untrained man, whose salary depends on his physical ability, has passed his usefulness.

Over and above these financial advantages of a college education, there are innumerable cultural and recreational advantages. People learn to appreciate literature and art. They acquire hobbies which enable them to wisely spend their leisure time. They gain poise and tact in their dealings with other people. In short, they become educated.—Hills News, St. Lawrence University.

"SLOPPY" EDUCATION

Higher education in the United States from 1920 to 1930 was recently characterized by Dr. Stephen Duggan, director of the Institute of International Education, as a "pretty sloppy kind of affair." In denouncing past practices, Dr. Duggan said:

"During the decade from 1920 to 1930, some of the greatest new industries came upon the scene—the cinema, radio, airplane and the new kinds of automobiles. The result was that any college graduate, until 1930, who was unable to get a job within six months after he left college, was a pretty poor college graduate. In the past ten or fifteen years, we in higher education have been stimulated by expansionism. We have not studied society outside the walls of the college to analyze the new industries, enterprises or movements."

Since the time referred to by Dr. Duggan, advances have been made to remedy this situation. The time is past when all that college students wanted from their alma mater was instruction in the finer arts of life and good football games.

Students today have their choice of industrial training or liberal arts courses. Divisions are so numerous that almost any type of education can be realized through wise choice of subjects. Each course graduates many students each year, trained in the field they have chosen, whether it is science, business, engineering, art, forestry, home economics, music, or varied courses which teach the finer arts of life.

Discussion has been long and heated on the values of specialized versus general training and which should be emphasized in colleges. The battle still rages. Opportunities for both "sloppy" education, as Dr. Duggan calls it, and practical training are offered in most colleges. Students must decide the problem themselves.—The Daily Orange, Syracuse University.

POLITICS BLAMED FOR CRIME WAVE

In a recent address before a New York audience, J. Edgar Hoover, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, speaking of the unprecedented spread of crime throughout the entire country during the past few years said, "When a man commits a crime and starts upon his escape, the easiest avenue toward freedom is after he has been apprehended by a law-enforcement agency." And further, "The American should make it his business to combat crime and all of the filthy and stultifying influences which foster crime." In other words, the citizen's obligations to the country is not satisfied by the establishment of a police system—but his interest, in what is ultimately his own well-being, must extend into the courts to the final conviction and incarceration of the law breaker.

These charges are by no means new. The connection between rotten politics and crime is too tacitly understood by the majority of people for it to come as a surprise. But, when the pronouncements of a man whose position and experience lend credulity to his words, are speeches of those stultifying influences of which, "the most important of all is rotten politics," it is time that the ordinary citizen take interest.

It is a well known fact that many criminals have enjoyed a long life of crime before they are brought to the higher courts, and this in many cases is not due to the lack of vigilance on the part of the police. The fault lies in the lower courts, where a little bit of "pull" judiciously exercised can bring about a man's release for offenses that merit jail terms.

The public is failing to interest itself in this matter of "cleaning" the lower courts, is forced not only to bear the onus of the situation, and its unnecessary expense, but is also increasing the likelihood that he, himself, will be the next victim of the purse slim footpad.—Villanovan, Villanova College.

night and day

By ENGY

All good things must come to an end—if being editor of a college paper can be called "good"—and so with today's issue of the Kernel, the present staff will ring down the curtain on its 1935-36 journalistic activities—in the college world. It was just a year ago this time that the old editor took command of the good ship KERNEL, but at that time he did not know what he was getting into. They say there is supposed to be a lot of honor attached to the editorship, but if such is the case, it is totally put in the background by the grief that is suffered from all sides. Most of the persons who know nothing about the internal workings of a newspaper think that the editor's job is one with an easy chair attached to it. This may be true to a certain extent, but on the other hand, there is much he has to account for that never comes to light, especially what the people "think" he ought to account for. It is a position that creates more enemies than any other activity on the campus. He is the "fall guy" for everything that appears in the paper and for a lot of things that don't appear. As to the experience, both practical and theoretical, acquired in being editor, well, that's a matter of personal opinion. However, one thing is certain, when a person is writing he loses all the knack of editing any kind of story that is worth reading. Once in a great while he may sit down and write an editorial, but even that is on his own initiative. Friday Kernel will be put out by an entirely new staff, and those of the passing regime are about trying to discover what in their new endeavor. It's a tough racket!

Another "gloomy" Sunday has passed into the great beyond. Sundays are the longest days of the week, no matter how one looks at them. Even with Spring in the air and all the fitting epithets that go with it, the "blues" still prevail on the seventh day of the week. The words and music for "Gloomy Sunday" is having a tough time of it. It is claimed that many persons have committed suicide because of that song, and because of this he says he is sorry that he wrote it. Nevertheless he received some good publicity out of his venture, but time marches on!

Would have liked to be in Washington last Saturday night to attend the annual "Gridiron" banquet given by the newspaper correspondents at the capital. Each year this group of men get together and give the nation's dignitaries a burlesque version of national events as seen by newsmen. President Roosevelt made a speech, but it was one time when it did not crash the front pages of the fourth estate; it was "off the record." Everybody from William Randolph Hearst to James A. Farley were taken over the coals. One of the cleverest things was the variable to the recent song hit "We Saw the Sea." Here it is:

"We joined the New Deal to see the world
And what did we see? The C. C. C. Right from the Pacific to the Atlantic.
Are so gigantic, C's make us frantic.
We think the New Deal isn't what it's cracked up to be."

Edwin W. Gableman, Washington correspondent for the Clinton Enquirer, was elevated to the post of president of the organization for 1935-36 and six new members were initiated.

The floor show at Dean Jones' "night club" last Friday night seemed to be a success. As a mascot without an equal; Kelly the KOP, who knows more gossip on the than do the scandalists; Phittau Andy Anderson, but he speaks for himself.

OL JUDGE ROBBINS WHAT—METAL PIPES!

YES, THAT BRASS AND COPPER PIPE CAME FROM ASIA. DADDY HAS LOTS OF METAL PIPES IN HIS COLLECTION.
BUT GOSH, QUEBBINS, WHO WOULD WANT TO SMOKE A RED-HOT BRASS PIPE? IT'S CRAZY!
WELL, DADDY GAVE THE ASIATICS ARE VERY FOND OF METAL WORK, EVEN IN PIPES. AND IF YOU DON'T MIND, WHY SHOULD YOU?

JUDGE, YOU IMPOSSIBLE OFFSPRING'S BEEN SHOWING ME METAL PIPES IN YOUR COLLECTION? GETS MY TONGUE JUST THINKING ABOUT THEM!
HERE, YOU TRY THIS PRINCE ALBERT, AND YOU'LL FORGET WHAT THE WORD "PIPE" MEANS.
Q. What tobacco is "crimp cut" and smokes cooler?
Q. What one is the world's largest seller?
Q. What tobacco doesn't bite the tongue?
Q. Name the tobacco protected in tin.
Q. How do you get the most pipe joy? You've guessed it—Prince Albert! There's no other tobacco like P.A. Mm, try it—at our risk. Below is our open invitation to all pipe smokers.

of ceremonies, Sam Potter is being dressed up with some new sidewalks—something that has been needed for a long time. Someday—maybe—if the present pace is kept up, students may be able to drive through the campus:

Another election is soon due. This time it will be for the proverbial "May Queen." Wonder which sorority will gain that distinction this year—if it can be called that. It used to be given in turns, but present day cut-throat politics have somewhat changed that aspect. From all indications the sororities seem to be on each other's necks for the "Queen" honors on the campus, but then they have to have something to fight about.

It is said that there will be a "war strike" on the campus Wednesday from 11 to 12 o'clock in Memorial Hall. It will not merely be a local strike, but a national one and students in schools all over the country will be striking. Just what good it does nobody knows, but the same thing took place last year on the same date, April 22. Watch for someone to get up and holler "Communists!"

The second edition of the "Sour Mash" goes to press in a few days, and from all indications it will be better than the last one, although the last issue was perfect in comparison with some of the humor magazines received in exchange. The best one seen was the Western Reserve Redcat. It was done in the style of Esquire, and some of the "kuts" were something to write home about. The editor could be a millionaire on that magazine. "Sour Mash" will go on sale on May Day, and don't miss it!

Two other campus publications have come off the press within the last few weeks. One by the Commerce College, "Bargains in Brains," and one by the College of Education, "Who's Who in Education." The commerce students use a subtle title for their publication, but then—, nevertheless, their idea is very good, and at least the students in those two colleges have a "string" on a job before they get out of school, and that's not a bad thing. Devils have to tramp the streets looking for one. It would be a good idea for the Journalism department to publish a magazine of the kind, and then maybe some of the persons who slave in the basement of Meyer Hall for years would be able to get a job on a paper that is something more than a piece of paper.

Obviously somebody put some money in Maury Crutcher's bidding coffers, because the campus is Kentucky's intercollegiate sports activities have picked up momentum once again with the tennis and track squads both inaugurating their seasons last Saturday and the golf team already winner of two matches...

Dave Rogan, sensational sophomore from Middleboro, celebrated his entrance into varsity competition by clipping two seconds off the track record for the mile run...

Coach Shively has a well-balanced team and is certain to capture points in many events with Willis and Rogan as a nucleus and such performers as Miller, Gates, Simpson, Nevins, Moore, Craves...

The main weaknesses in the team are to be found in the jumpers. Neither the high nor the long leapers have been able to reach a mark necessary to score in intercollegiate competition...

With all this talent for the first time in several years, Coach Shively is in the ironical situation of being without a track on which to show off his material...

Ben Willis Leads UK Squad with 20 Points; Rogan Sets Mile Track Record at Vandy Field

Led by Ben Willis, speedy little junior, the University of Kentucky Wildcat track squad scored first in nine out of fifteen events to register a 61 1/2 to 58 1/2 victory over the Vanderbilt University Commodores at Nashville, Saturday.

Willis led his opponents to the tape in the 100 and 200 yard dashes and in the high and low hurdles, to score a total of 20 points.

Dave Rogan, Wildcat sophomore, also turned in two smooth firsts, outrunning the group in the mile and the two mile runs.

evidences of developing into one of the top-ranking players on the University team in this match...

The second Kentucky loss was suffered when Dave Randall was defeated by Schiller in a long three-set match 6-7, 4-6, 6-2.

The Wildcats were triumphant in both doubles matches. Co-captains Moore and Stahr, playing number one, defeated Winton and Schiller 6-1, 6-4.

Lead over the Commodores. The Wildcats did not fare so well in the field events, winning only the javelin throw.

W.A.A. News

Lights out! At eight o'clock next Thursday night, the white-sheeted King of Archery and the Queen of Tennis will direct the annual W. A. A. initiation at the Women's gym.

In a death-like silence, members of the organization will undergo the frightening punishments assigned to them by the King and Queen.

Dance club members met yesterday afternoon to decide on the day for their class. This club is still open to any University girl who is interested in dancing.
