

CENTRAL KENTUCKY JEWISH FEDERATION

December 1985

Vol. VIII No.9

ONLY THE NAME HAS CHANGED

If your ear picks up a strange initial when you call the office, or if you noticed a difference at the top of this page...you are attentive and perceptive.

The Central Kentucky Jewish Association changed its name to the Central Kentucky Jewish Federation at the Nov. 20 meeting of the board of directors. The first official announcement of this change was made at the Annual Meeting in November.

The new name reflects our affiliation with the Council of Jewish Federations and is intended to more accurately convey the community-wide functions carried out by the organization.

Major activities include the annual CKJF/UJA Campaign, budgeting and allocation of funds collected, community relations, community activities and social services. In addition, the Executive Committee sponsors the annual Shalom Lexington welcome to newcomers, and Interact, the young leadership development program.

Through these programs, CKJF, and similarly federations throughout North America, seeks to strengthen the local Jewish community and our ties to Jews throughout the world.

A REPORT FROM THE G.A.

The Council of Jewish Federations annual meeting, the General Assembly, this year reached new records in attendance, 3,012, and in the number of separate sessions, over 300.

Washington, D.C. was an appropriate site for this impressive gathering -- making it possible to meet with legislators, hear from key individuals about many important issues of concern to the North American Jewish community, and share ideas with representatives from all over the U.S. and Canada.

Representatives from Central Kentucky stood vigil at the Soviet Embassy with Avital Scharansky. We heard Yitzhak Rabin present an Israeli perspective on Middle East peace prospects. And we listened intently as Ambassador Max Kampelman shared his perspective on the U.S.-U.S.S.R. arms limitation talks.

Much time was spent in work sessions learning about campaign strategy, church-state relations, and the nuts and bolts of Federation structure and function. Major forums dealt with the status of the American Jewish community in the political arena, meeting human service needs, and the condition of the European Jewish community forty years after the Holocaust.

Shabbat is especially significant at the G.A. It was replete with special study sessions, Reform, Conservative and Orthodox services, and a Shabbat sermon given by Dr. Louis L. Kaplan, President Emeritus of the Baltimore Hebrew College.

Dr. Kaplan spoke on "The Coming of Age of North American Jewry, A Religious Affirmation." He used the growing acknowledgement of our Jewish identity through the quality and quantity of Jewish observance at the G.A. as an indication of a stronger commitment to Jewish values and traditions in our own communities.

Attending as CKJF delegates were: Gloria Katz, President; Gail Cohen, 1986 Campaign Committee Chair; Jack Miller, CKJF past president and national board member of the Council of Jewish Federations; David Wekstein, Community Relations Committee chair; and CKJF Administrator Judith Saxe.

ONE PEOPLE, ONE DESTINY

From biblical times on, Jewish communities have always believed that charity and the support of community institutions was obligatory. CKJF tries to live up to that obligation with a variety of programs.

To insure that our children maintain their heritage, CKJF supports Camp Shalom, a Jewish summer day camp. The federation also sponsors preschool community holiday parties, Jewish camp scholarships, and fellowships for students at school in Israel.

For adults, we maintain an active educational program about Jewish activities at home and abroad. CKJF supports the Jewish Forum series, sponsors guest lectures through the campaign, community activities and community relations committees and subsidizes mission trips to Israel and Washington, D.C.

CKJF also provides a variety of services to those in need. Our administrator, who is a trained social worker, can refer people with particular problems to a variety of social agencies in Central Kentucky or to Jewish agencies in Louisville and Cincinnati.

CKJF also maintains an emergency loan fund to help individuals with short-range financial problems. In a community that is generally affluent, we cannot afford to be unaware of those with social or financial needs.

A community is not effective without communications. CKJF's community relations committee provides communication both within the Jewish community and between the Jewish community and the entire community of Central Kentucky. Our newsletter is the major effort of this committee to maintain awareness in the Jewish community of activities taking place. A speakers bureau is available to non-Jewish organizations. A liaison is maintained between CKJF and the public school system to avoid calendar conflicts and to serve as a resource for Jewish awareness and education.

And of course, it takes resources to continue to raise resources for the activities of the Jewish community, both locally and worldwide. As with all charitable associations, a proportion of the funds raised must be used locally to generate new funds. We are pleased that only a very small percentage of the CKJF budget goes into administrative costs.

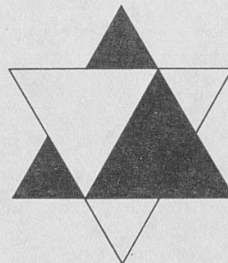

CKJF continues in the tradition of Jewish charitable associations of providing for our local community as well as making provisions for the needs of World Jewry. After all, we in Central Kentucky are a part of "one people, one destiny".

OUR PEOPLE, A PART OF OUR DESTINY

The absorption of Ethiopian Jews into Israel was made easier with the help of American Jews participating in Operation Moses. UJA plans to continue this work through its regular campaigns.

There are about 2,000 Ethiopian children studying in 25 Youth Aliyah boarding schools, and many of them require special help. Their parents are moving from absorption centers to furnished apartments and job-retraining courses.

The 1985/86 Jewish Agency budget calls for $45 million to be spent on the absorption of Ethiopian Jews, an additional $15 million for their vocational training and $9 million more for their living accommodations and education in Youth Aliyah villages.

CABARET

CLKF/UJA CAMPAIGN BENEFACTORS EVENT

From tears to laughter would be an accurate description of the Campaign Cabaret held recently at Levas' Restaurant, co-chaired by Avram Levine, representing the Men's Division, and Sue Ezrine from the Women's Division.

On Sunday evening, Dec. 8, the CLKF Campaign Committee entertained a responsive crowd with a bouncy, slightly naughty musical review, spiced with wine, cheese and delectable desserts.

But the most significant part of the evening was the appearance of Annette Dulzin, Israeli journalist, editorial writer, and passionate advocate for peace and Jewish survival.

Mrs. Dulzin spoke eloquently of Israel's sacrifices in the pursuit of peace. She described her feelings when she first traveled to Egypt, following the signing of the treaty between Egypt and Israel. As part of Prime Minister Begin's official party, the group was greeted by a military guard, band and the flags of both nations. For her, she said, it was reminiscent of the emotions she experienced when, as a child, she was rescued from the Warsaw Ghetto.

Israel, she pointed out, is walled in by hostile neighbors, and the break in the wall, represented by the peace treaty with Egypt, is a significant opening.

Mrs. Dulzin also described the continuing efforts being made to effectively absorb the Ethiopian Jews who came with Operation Moses and the need to maintain our commitment to Project Renewal.

Many outstanding personalities have visited the Central Kentucky Jewish community to share their passion for and commitment to Jewish survival. Annette Dulzin certainly reinforced that commitment for Sunday's audience, heightening our awareness that we are one people with one destiny.

A UJA Mission to Israel...

More than you can imagine...

Not an ordinary trip, but an extraordinary experience.

Jews from smaller communities around the United States will be traveling to Israel from MARCH 23 to APRIL 2 as part of the United Jewish Appeal Small Cities Mission.

The tour presents the opportunity to celebrate Purim in Israel. It will also include briefings and trips to many popular tourist sites as well as an overnight stay at a kibbutz in the north.

Highlights of the tour will include visits to settlements and institutions which benefit from the funds we raise in our annual CKJF-UJA Campaign. Opportunities to meet with Israelis from all walks of life are also part of the itinerary.

Participants may also extend their stay in Israel or visit a European country on the return leg.

The cost of the mission, not including any extensions, will be $1600 per person (double occupancy). A deposit of $200 per person is due by FEBRUARY 14.

Funds to underwrite trips are available from the CKJF Mission program. Recipients of a mission subsidy shall a) have given a minimum monetary gift to the current campaign of $500 (Men's Division), or $200 (Women's Division), or be a spouse in a family where husband and wife have given a total of $700 or more; and b) have never been on a UJA mission to Israel.

Call the CKJF office for more information: (606) 252-7622.

TRAPPED IN THE SOVIET UNION

Editor's Note: This is another in a series of profiles on Jews who have been denied permission to leave the Soviet Union.

Yosef Berenshtein's desire to leave the Soviet Union has cost him nearly all his eyesight. While in custody on false charges, he was beaten so badly that he has nearly gone blind.

Berenshtein, a mechanical engineer from Kiev now in his late 40s, applied to leave the Soviet Union in 1979 with his wife, Fanya, and their grown daughter, Yana. Permission was denied on the grounds that they had "insufficient kinship" abroad. All three were forced from their jobs.

Mr. Berenshtein protested the visa denial and in 1980 was twice detained for 15 days. In 1982 he joined other refuseniks in sending a letter of appeal to Jews worldwide.

Last year, while on a trip to Novograd Volynsk to clear up a charge against his aunt, he was arrested on charges of "resisting the police."

In December 1984, he was convicted and sentenced to four years in a labor camp. Two days after his conviction, he was severely beaten in his prison cell.

His troubles at the labor camp are compounded by his diabetes, making him unable to tolerate the food.

Fanya Berenshtein has issued this appeal for help to the Jewish community:

"All depends now on all of you...in every meeting, in every conversation, at every opportunity, I beg that the matter be brought up in order to save him to whatever extent he and his health can still be saved...we are in desperate need of help."

Mail to Mrs. Berenshtein can be addressed to:

Entuziastov 35, Apt. 147

Ukrainian SSR, USSR

IOSIF BERENSSTEIN (b. 1937), of Kiev, was arrested on November 12 on charges of allegedly "resisting arrest," while in Novograd Vilinsky to answer criminal allegations against his aunt. On December 10, 1984, he was sentenced to 4 years imprisonment. His true "crime" was actively seeking to emigrate to Israel.

1985 CKJF ANNUAL MEETING

This year's CKJF Annual Meeting allowed us to combine our year-end business with some wonderful entertainment by four talented young people.

During the business meeting, CKJF President Gloria Katz presented a brief annual review of our federation. Reports of the 1985 General Assembly of the Council of Jewish Federations were given by the delegates who attended.

Several presentations were made. CKJF presented a plaque to WLEX-TV honoring their 30th anniversary and a plaque to Ohavay Zion Synagogue in memory of the late Rabbi Bernard Schwab. Ken Kurtz, News Director of WKYT-TV, presented to CKJF a mezuzah in appreciation for his nomination to participate in the recent media tour of Israel.

Presentations were made to Jack Miller and David Wekstein, former CKJA presidents, on the occasion of their leaving the board of directors and to CKJF office manager Beth Altenkirch in appreciation of her support and hard work.

Nominations for the 1986 board vacancies were finalized at the meeting. The nominations are: Michael Ades, Stephen Bobys, Janice Brock, Gloria Katz, Erle Levy, William Levy, and Joe Rosenberg.

The highlight of the evening was the musical sampler: selections of music performed by Ruth Belin on piano, Daniel Baer on violin, Andrew Diamond on piano, and Aron Friedman on the French horn. Their performances were spectacular and a genuine treat for us all.

This year's annual meeting was a success due to the outstanding leadership of Sheila DeKosky. All those who attended extend to her our thanks and appreciation for a job well done.

Sheila wishes to extend her sincere thanks to those association members who "pitched in" during set-up and clean-up times. "I certainly couldn't have done it without you all and I truly appreciate it."

Sheila also wishes to reiterate thanks to the four guest musicians and their accompanists. "We are grateful for your time spent preparing and performing."

CKJF BOARD NOTES

TWO BOARD MEMBERS RETIRING

The CKJF board bids farewell to DAVID WEKSTEIN and JACK MILLER. Both men have lent their time and talents in leadership of the Central Kentucky Jewish Association for a number of years. Our federation has grown and prospered under their guidance.

The officers and board and the entire Jewish community extend heartfelt appreciation for their outstanding service and dedication to our community and world Jewry.

DAVID WEKSTEIN, the only remaining "survivor" from the Jewish Community Association (JCA), has been on the board for nine years. A past president of CKJA, Wekstein has also chaired various committees including the Nominating and Community Relations Committees.

Wekstein has been active in past CKJA-UJA campaigns, chairing the 1972 and 1973 campaigns, and is a Men's Division captain for the 1986 Campaign.

A past president of Ohavay Zion Synagogue, he is a founding member and past president of the Lexington Havurah. Under his guidance, the Faculty Association on Jewish Affairs was formed in 1984.

JACK MILLER has been on the board for six years serving as secretary, vice president and president. Jack and his wife, Susan, coordinated the CKJA Jewish Singles group for two years.

Miller is a past member of the Temple Adath Israel board of trustees and past president of the congregation. For many years he served as advisor to the Temple Youth Group and Ohio Valley Region of Temple Youth.

He presently serves on the national board of the Council of Jewish Federations and is a member of various CJF sub-committees. Miller has served on a number of CKJA committees including the Community Relations Committee and is presently a captain in the 1986 Men's Division Campaign and chairman of the newly formed ad hoc CKJF committee on Endowments.

Their presence on the board will be missed, but we are certain their active participation in the Jewish community will continue.

CKJF President Gloria Katz presenting certificates of appreciation to retiring board members Jack Miller and David Wekstein.

THE
CENTER

The Simon Wiesenthal Center, based in Los Angeles, helps track down Nazi war criminals and works to educate politicians and the public about Nazism and the dangers of anti-Semitism.

Named for the famed Nazi hunter, the Wiesenthal Center aided in the search for Dr. Josef Mengele, who conducted inhuman experiments on Jewish inmates at Auschwitz. Representatives of the center were invited by the Brazilian government to verify that Mengele was dead.

Representatives of the center have also met this year with leading Jewish activists from Moscow and Leningrad about a new wave of Soviet anti-Semitism.

An office of the center was also opened in Toronto in an effort to bring to justice the more than 3,000 Nazi war criminals believed hiding in that country.

This coming year the center has a number of new projects planned, including:

- * launching a massive campaign to apprehend the 10 most wanted Nazi war criminals still at large...among the 10 is Alois Brunner, who worked for Adolf Eichmann, and Hans Wilhelm Koenig, a doctor at Auschwitz who worked with Mengele to select prisoners to be gassed.
- * breaking ground in Los Angeles for a Museum of Tolerance, which will explore the nature and consequences of anti-Semitism.
- * working with Jewish organizations to counteract anti-Zionism and anti-Semitism on campus.

Editor's Note: This is one in an occasional series of articles about agencies supported by the CKJF. In 1985, CKJF allocated $200 to the Simon Wiesenthal Center.

AMSTERDAM JEWS RECEIVE HISTORIC DOCUMENTS

Some years after the close of World War II, a young rabbi sent to Germany by the World Union for Progressive Judaism discovered, amid the ruins of East Berlin, a cache of documents from the destroyed Jewish community of Amsterdam.

Rabbi Nathan Peter Levinson, who was ordained at Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion in 1948, rescued the collection and offered the 44,640 documents to his alma mater where they have remained, in Cincinnati, for 35 years.

The papers, which had been looted by the Nazis from Amsterdam's major Ashkenazic synagogue, encompass engagement and marriage contracts, civil marriage certificates, the transfer of sale of synagogue seats, partnership agreements, cemetery records and birth and death certificates. They date from 1753 through 1939.

At the request of the present Jewish community of Amsterdam, the documents were recently returned by the college in a formal ceremony attended by leading members of Dutch Jewry. Dr. Alfred Gottschalk, president of Hebrew Union College, traveled to Holland to return the papers to Leo Katz, president of the Amsterdam Jewish community.

Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion, founded in 1875, is America's oldest institution of higher Jewish studies. It trains rabbis, cantors, social workers, religious school educators and communal workers and offers doctoral and post doctoral programs for scholars at campuses in Cincinnati, New York, Los Angeles and Jerusalem.

OOOPS!

In this year's Annual Report there is an incorrect title. Instead of ... the Jewish Theological Society of America ... it should read ... the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.
