

Police charge two with funds misuse $50,000 missing from Med Center

By JERRY LEWIS
Associate Editor

A UK Medical Center business administrator and a local official of the National Credits Inc. of Ky. collection agency were arrested Wednesday and charged with alleged misapplication of state money, reported to be in excess of $50,000.

The arrests stem from a state police investigation which charges the men with the misapplication of certain insurance company checks payable to the UK Medical Center.

County attorney E. Lawson King said an undisclosed number of checks from patient's claims were apparently diverted to an account under the title of "M. C. of Kentucky" at the Bank of Commerce and Trust Co in Lexington.

Asked what the M. C. stood for, King said, "I don't know but it certainly could fit Medical Center, couldn't it?"

Bond was set at $60,000 for James R. Robinson, of 575 Laketower, Apt. 534 and Donald Burcham, of 521 E. Main Street, Apt. 3C. Both men are to be arraigned this morning in Lexington Quarterly Court.

Robinson was arrested at 5:15 p.m. in his Medical Center office. Local authorities sealed off his office and subpoenaed his records.

Robinson is reported to be a Medical Center business administrator in charge of several account and credit departments. Burcham is vice president and local manager of National Credit, Inc. of Ky. The collecting agency's office is located in the Bank of Commerce.

Commonwealth Attorney George E. Barker said the official investigation was still continuing and the possibility of further arrests still exists. King said he was almost certain of at least one more arrest but that he did not believe the person would be associated with the University. Lawrence G. Forgy, UK vice president for business affairs, made this official statement on the arrests:

"The University has discovered some apparent irregularities in certain financial transactions of the UK hospital. They have been fully reported to the appropriate law enforcement agencies and officials and are now being investigated."

Forgy said he and other UK officials could make no further comment pending the further development of the investigation.

"This decision was made at the request of the commonwealth attorney and the Fayette County attorney, Forgy said.

S. Jerry Goodman, president of National Credits, Inc. of Ky. which has its home office in Huntington, West Virginia, was contacted at Burcham's Lexington apartment where he said he knew nothing about the arrests.

The two men were arrested under KRS 434.020 sub section 2, which deals with the "misapplication of money, bonds, notes and other property of state." The maximum penalty for conviction is not more than 10 years in the penitentiary.

LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY

'Here comes the sun'

Not to be out-done by a mere student newspaper, the weather bureau has decided that Thursday's weather will be sunny and warmer with a high in the upper 70's. Tonight's low will be in the lower 40's and Friday's high will again be in the 70's. And for good measure they have decided there will be no rain. We must all remember, however, that the weather bureau is a non-prophet organization.

Student Senate seats may remain open

Only ten people have filed for the 16 available 1972-73 Student Senate seats, Mark Paster, a junior in educational and social change, said Wednesday.

Speaking to the current student senators at their meeting last night, Paster said, "I suggest everyone get out and try to find one or two qualified people to run for your college."

Filing for candidacy for senator, Student Government (SG) president and vice-president ends 5 p.m. Friday. Elections will be April 19 and 20.

Concerning eligibility for the offices of president and vice-president, the Student Senate amended Article II of the SG constitution to read, "To be eligible to stand for election and serve as president or vice-president of the student body, a student shall be a full-time student in good standing as a student at the University of Kentucky Lexington campus."

Previously a candidate was required to have completed "at least three full semesters as a full time student, one complete semester of which must have been at the Lexington campus."

The Senate voted on this eligibility requirement at the suggestion of SG president Scott Wendelsdorf, who said several potential candidates had approached him because they could not meet the three semester requirement.

Turning to the proposed Arts and Sciences degree requirement changes, the Student Senate discussed their strategy for Monday's University Senate meeting (Agricultural Sciences Auditorium, 3 p.m.).

The proposed Bachelor of Arts (BA) and Bachelor of Science (BS) degree changes, accepted by the Senate Council Saturday, would integrate "basic skills," "breadth of study" and "depth of study" course components into the final degree. Specific numbers of hours in each area are outlined for completion of degree.

The University Senate will hear the proposals Monday.

The student senators will oppose the BA-BS proposal as offered by A&S. However, they will be supporting the Bachelor of General Studies (BGS) degree.

They will oppose the addition of five out of eight area requirements on top of the BA-BS and BGS requirements A&S is proposing.

The senators decided they will ask that college autonomy be considered as a separate issue Monday.

They will ask for a straw vote to "reaffirm the principle in the governing regulations passed by the Board of Trustees that the University Senate has the final say on college requirements," Paster said.

The senators also want the BA BS and BGS requirements to be voted on separately by the University Senate rather than in one package, Paster said.

Bluegrass:

Arts and crafts show kicked off with foot-stomping music

The Botanical Gardens was invaded yesterday—by hordes of craftsmen and musicians participating in the Bluegrass Arts and Crafts Festival.

John Hartford kicked off the whole thing Tuesday night in the Student Center when he brought UK students to their feet with his hand-clappin' foot-stompin' Bluegrass music.

"You all are clappin' like you're stoned," Hartford accused the crowd. "You gotta put some 'oomph' into it." So we did.

The good feeling lasted through the night and was passed around at Botanical Gardens again yesterday.

Pat Prosser of the Law School was showing his dulcimers. "They're the same fret measurements used 130 years ago," he explained.

John Odum a sociology grad student, was selling scented candles. "If you don't have the money for one now, sign up and I'll make one for you," he said. "I'll mix the scent and color—whatever you want."

The festival is sponsored by the Student Center Board. "Kids who wanted to sell just signed up," said education freshman Laura Rawlings who was manning a booth and selling decoupage.

Another booth sponsored by the National Society of Interior Designers was taking a poll to see how many students would be interested in a Student Craft Center.

Photos by Ann Firesheets

Other booths displayed crocheted purses, hats and vests, leather clothes and wooden jewelry.

Steve Jameson, an architecture student, was showing his origami (the Japanese art of paper folding). He started getting his wares together "ever since I found out this (festival) was gonna be."

The Bluegrass band that played yesterday had all the students clapping along, but the pickers had to keep moving down the hill to stay in the sun. So today the whole show area will be at the bottom of the hill.

The only bummer of the festival was a dogfight. One of the dogs was so scared he howled for at least five minutes. Several students were telling each other, "This is the first time I've really heard a dog cry."

He should have been at the Mad Dog Dog Show.

- a warning to students -

Students who read advertisements from termpaper "writing" or "research" companies are warned that the rules of the University Senate governing academic relationships provide for expulsion, suspension, forced withdrawal from class, or failure of class for any student who turns in to an instructor any "academic work, written or otherwise" that is not "the result of his own thought, research, or self-expression."

Any student who turns in a termpaper to an instructor purchased from a "research" company will be considered to be guilty of plagiarism under University Senate rules and will be subject to punishment. Students are urged to read the Code of Student Conduct's section on plagiarism (page 33) before considering purchase of a termpaper.

Commencement plans set; Singletary will speak this May

For the first time in the history of UK, students do not have to pay a graduation fee. According to Tom Padgett, assistant to President Otis Singletary, in past years students have had to pay a fee to cover the cost of the year-book whether they wanted it or not and a fee for the cap and gown even if they didn't attend the ceremony.

Elimination of the graduation fee rectifies the situation Padgett said. Students taking part in the ceremony are still required to wear caps and gowns which can be rented from the University at a cost of $4.

December 1971 graduates "but there are a number of persons for whom we have no addresses" and hence "we have no way of getting in touch with them."

For the benefit of those people not contacted, Padgett said announcements would be placed on the ground floor of Patterson Office Tower "or they can call the President's office," he said.

Approximately 2,600 persons have applied for May degrees, and judging from previous years, degrees will be awarded to between two-thirds and three-quarters of the applicants.

Padgett said the President's office tries to send out announcements to all graduating students and the parents of the

In addition to the commencement ceremony, many colleges of the University will have individual ceremonies and receptions beginning with the College of Social Professions on Thursday, May 11, and ending with the College of Engineering Sunday, May 14.

"Are you happy with the health of your mouth? You can receive FREE oral hygiene instruction and have your teeth cleaned FREE, if you participate in a dental survey. Call 233-5391."

Plans to have guest speaker at commencement fell through, so Dr. Singletary will give the commencement address. Padgett said there was not enough time allowed to get a speaker. Most of the proposed speakers contacted already had previous engagements, and were not positive they could come.

Since it is the University's policy to give an honorary degree to the person who is scheduled to speak at commencement, they did not want to waste an honorary degree on someone who might not show up, Padgett said.

Among the names suggested were: the Rev. Jesse Jackson, John Mitchell, Julian Bond and Shirley Chisholm.

The Lexington Recorder Society concentrates on Schein's "Suite XIII" in G minor. Members are (clockwise) Bruce H. Westley (back to camera in vest), Barbara Cory, Gordon Brocklehurst, Mark Brocklehurst, Tamara Miller, Rachael Brocklehurst, and Barbara Westley. The Society meets at 8:00 p.m. every other Wednesday.

Soft sounds

Every other Wednesday evening sounds of Spring greet the passer-by in the halls of the Journalism Building. If one pauses outside of room 106, one will find a circle of friends peering steadily at sheet music with a rather unusual assortment of instruments. Bruce Westley, Chairman of the Journalism Department, and the Lexington Recorder Society produce the sounds of an English country garden.

Professor Westley encourages recorder players to join the Society. Students, professors, fathers, daughters and sons participate in the weekly recorder sessions. Of course the passer-by, the visitor, the stranger, the on-looker cannot help but pause and listen, and are certainly welcome.

One, and two, and three, and ...

Barbara Cory, playing a bass recorder, provides the deep, rich sounds suitable for any English country garden.

Gordon Brocklehurst and his daughter Rachael supply the tenor for the group. Dr. Brocklehurst is an M.D. at the UK Medical Center.

Bruce H. Westley plays his soprano recorder which sounds very much like the singing of birds. Professor Westley also plays the bass and alto recorders.

More foot-dragging on open housing

Every good bureaucrat knows that the best way to stifle change is to appoint a commission to study the problem. UK, having many excellent bureaucrats, are masters of this technique.

Such is the case with the proposed broad-based committee to review University residence hall open housing policies.

The commission is not expected to make its report until next November and its recommendations will not be implemented, if ever, until the following fall semester.

This is very obviously an administrative foot-dragging tactic designed to deceive students into believing that progress is being made toward a more rational open housing policy.

Worse than that, the administration has already insured that the committee will make no radical proposals by the make-up of the commission. The commission will be stacked in the administration's favor since it will probably include alumni, parents, faculty, administrators, and trustees, as well as students.

When it is finished, the commission will probably file a mammoth report similar to that filed by the famous "Housing Report" and if it includes any major changes that will benefit students they will be postponed while minor changes like sidewalk building will be implemented.

While all this studying—foot-dragging is going on, UK students will still be enjoying the benefits of their "liberal" visitation policy that allows them 12 hours a week to visit with members of the opposite sex. There is reform however. Next year your dorm can choose how it wished to divide its 12 hours! Great.

The University's defense of its policies, that is that they are in line with other institutions around the South is a poor rationalization. Wide-spread abuse does not make local abuse any more palatable.

While the survey did indicate that UK was about average in its open housing policies, it did not show how students at the other universities questioned felt about their open housing policies. We suspect that had this been asked, it would have shown that disaffection with dorm policies at other universities is about as wide-spread as it is here.

In short the administration's defense of its current policies is a hoax, a farce. Dorm residents should demand that the administration move immediately toward open housing and stop dragging its feet by appointing commissions that might as well include Bimbo, the singing whale, Rex, the super-chicken and Oscar, the dancing sea otter.

Paranoiac fear stifles scientific inquiry

The decision of the Fayette County Board of Education denying a UK grad student the opportunity to enlighten the community on high school students' knowledge of venereal disease was a decision primarily based in intense paranoia.

The "good citizens" of the Board were in fact afraid of what the survey might have revealed. It might have destroyed some very treasured myths that they hold about young people.

The survey might have destroyed the myth that VD is confined to "lower-class" neighborhoods. In fact VD knows no social barrier. The only reason

KERNEL FORUM: the readers write

Missed concert

I missed the Vienna symphony during spring break because of the insensitivity of the Central Kentucky Concert and Lecture Series' officials when making their schedule of events for the '71-'72 season. This is an outrage and a direct insult to me and the entire student body who help finance "imported" culture for Lexington and her citizens.

This letter is not designed to undermine the basic idea of the CKCLS. I am requesting, however, that the student representation be a reality and not tokenism. When the UK student body pays for one-third of the total budget for CKCLS, then the students should at least have a say in booking and booking dates.

We must get away from the idea that the Concert and Lecture Series programming's student input in nothing more than, as student committee member Jeff Gumer likes to call it, "The banquet at the Ramada-Imperial where the Boston scrod is excellent."

Detlef B. Moore
Urban Studies, Senior

statistics seem to show a higher incidence among poorer people is because the doctors that most middle-class people go to when they get VD don't report it while poor people go to public health clinics that keep records.

The survey might have shown that young people of all backgrounds are sexually active. An unmarried white middle-class high school girl is probably just as likely to get pregnant as is a poor one.

And the survey might have shown that the VD education efforts in the high schools is not working. It might have shown that a great many sexually active young people know next to nothing about how one gets VD.

To protect those cherished myths the Board told the UK student that the sex lives of high schoolers were none of his business and then condescendingly added that most students would probably fabricate the results any way.

Fayette County has the highest incidence of VD of any county in the state. The survey would have provided a factual, interesting look into how great the problem is and possibly how it could be solved.

The Board's decision in effect stifled free, valuable scientific inquiry. It also demonstrated that the Board still wants to dictate the morals of several thousand Lexington high school students.

No one remembers Uncle Enoch

What does the EGJ building listed in course schedules mean? Most students are content to find EGJ means the class meets in the Journalism Building.

Only the word "JOURNALISM" is above the front door of the building. Few students know it is the Enoch Grehan Journalism Building, ergo, the EGJ in schedule books.

The building is dedicated to Professor Enoch Grehan, who was largely responsible for its existence. Through his leadership and financial aid, the building was constructed without costing the taxpayer a cent.

"Uncle Enoch" as faculty and students alike called Grehan, on July 17, 1913, was elected head of the newly founded Journalism Department, at a salary of $1,500. He remained as the head of the department until his death in 1937.

Personally signing a note for $2,000, Grehan started the Kernel Press, in 1924. Twenty-five students had pledged their help in making it a reality. A linotype machine was purchased and the Kernel Press was on its way.

Until 1924, the Kernel was printed at a commercial printing plant. With its own presses, brought about by Grehan's efforts, the Kernel became "the largest weekly in the State of Kentucky."

Upon dedication of the Journalism Building, on Nov. 2, 1951, the Kentucky Kernel gave half of the $425,000 cost of the building and retired the bonds for the rest. This was all a direct result of "Uncle Enoch's" desire to see Journalism in its place at the University.

Dr. L. Niel Plummer, Journalism Department head at the time of dedication, said copies of the Lexington Leader, Lexington Herald, the Courier-Journal, and the Kernel, as well as a copy of the cornerstone ceremony and a directory of the Kentucky Press Association, were placed in the cornerstone.

Star—studded field makes 9th UK Relays best ever

By BOB H. GOFF
Kernel Sports Writer

"Two Days of Neck and Neck Competition"—the perfect title for the upcoming 1972 ninth annual Kentucky Relays. This year's relays promise to be the best ever for track fans at the Shively Sports Center, April 7th and 8th.

Seventy-eight organizations are entered in the meet with such standouts as Jim Green, who graduated from UK last year. Rated third in the world by "Track and Field News," Green has been picked by several magazines to win the 100-yard dash in the Olympics.

Gerald Tinker, sponsored by the Kent State Track Club will be competing in the 60-yard dash.

Pat Matsdorf, from Wisconsin, who holds the world record for the high jump at 7'6.75" will be competing along with John Craft, who holds the American triple jump record.

From the University of Kentucky will be SEC standout, Paul Baldwin. Baldwin holds the record for the SEC cross-country course.

From Bowling Green, Ohio will be Sid Sink, American record holder in the steeplechase and indoor NCAA two-mile champion; and Dave Wottle, the NCAA champion in the half-mile indoors.

There should also be an outstanding distance relay between Bowling Green, who won the NCAA distance run, and the University of Illinois, the two-mile relay champions who hold the world record.

Wildcats slug Georgetown

The UK baseball team won their second game in a row by outclassing visiting Georgetown.

Center.

Kentucky broke on top early when Jim Lett hit an inside-the-park home run. A barrage of Wildcat hits and Georgetown errors followed that put the game far out of reach for the visitors.

UK was led in batting by Steve Parrish, who collected three hits and knocked in three runs.

Marion Howard was the winning pitcher as he improved his season record to 2-0.

UK meets highly regarded Auburn in a double-header Friday and a single game Saturday at home.

Tuesday the Cats countered a five-run ninth inning by Eastern Michigan with five of their own in the bottom of the ninth to eke out an 8-7 win.

Greeks: 'a need for change'

Barry Siegel, past executive director of Zeta Beta Tau, said there is a need for changes in the sorority and fraternity systems at the All Greek Banquet held at the Student Center Ballroom last night.

Siegel, the guest speaker, said the system has to constantly change and adapt to the youth culture. Traditions of pledging and rushing are discouraging people to join. The friendship principle "I like you and I hope you like me" will have to prevail if the system is to survive.

Siegel, talked of the fraternity as being a place where you are more than a number. There will always be a need for fraternities, he said, because people are naturally gregarious.

At the banquet there was a presentation of awards. They are as follows:

Sorority Heart Fund Award—Alpha Delta Pi.
Fraternity Heart Fund Award—Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Outstanding Greek Woman Award—Lara Ulrey, Zeta Tau Alpha.

Outstanding Greek Man Award—Damond Talley, member of FarmHouse.
