Wildcat Blasts

39 Point Loss Is Worst Since 1924

Tom Dinkin New York City, March 24—Hitting 40 percent of their shots and playing like a bunch of wildcats, the unseeded CNY eagles blasted the Wildcats 89-50, here at Madison Square Garden last night for the first of two games in the best-of-three series.

The crowd of over 18,000 went crazy as City College of New York jumped to a 7-0 lead, then extended it to 13-1, 25-9, 36-16, and finally to 45-20 by halftime. It was all over by that time as far as the crowd was concerned.

Records show it was the worst losing game a UK team since War. Bob Wallace, the Cats' 57-11, made in the 1924-25 season. The 39-point loss to CNY was the largest margin in that a Kentucky basketball team has been beaten since Coach Rupp took over the reins in 1930-31.

Ironically, it was the same date last year, March 14, that another heartbreaking defeat was inflicted upon the Cats. For approximately a year ago, Loyola of Chicago pulled the upset of the season and beat Kentucky, 67-56, in the quarterfinals of the '49 NIT.

Even after seeing the CNY game last night, the whole thing seems like a wild nightmare.

The unsuspecting Cats ran into a team that was really fired up for the important fray, never before have we seen a basketball team that played any more intensely.

The CNY basketekers, particularly in the first half, were as determined as though they had been injected with strong stimulants before the battle. Everything they did was to near-perfection throughout most of the 40-minute session.

The Wildcats took the beating like champions. Not one of them lost his head or temper and every one who saw service played his heart out to stem the onslaught.

How could you not be a team that made such a valiant effort? The goal attempts? Undoubtedly CNY, a 4-point underdog, played their game in history and set the talk of the New York sports writers in this region.

The game Cats tried desperately to get back into the scoring during the second half, and managed a margin to 16 points, 54-38. Their comeback was short-lived, however, as they were outscored 15-11 in the final 10 minutes, hitting only one shot while the Wildcats scored 15 more, and for CNY to pour it on.

Spivey Held Nat Holman's team closed up Kentucky's big game. Bill Spivey, who got three points at the hoop in the first half, making none. He had just one point at that stage but added 14 in the final semester.

Dale Barnhart also had 15 attempts in 11 shots, Jim Line in seven; Shelby Linnville scored five points in 20 attempts; Walt Hirsch had one in 12; Bobby Walker one for five.

VOCATIONAL CONFERENCE—One of the highlights of the Women's Vocational Conference this week was the dinner on Tuesday night in the Student Union Building. Guests at the dinner who spoke during the conference were (seated at left) Virgil Couch, personnel director of the Economic Cooperation Administration in Washington, and Miss Wilma Buckman, instructor in vocational guidance at Purdue University. Seated at right are Miss Virginia Kelly, toastmistress, and Dean of Women Sarah B. Holmes.

Personnel Director Tells Women To Make Plans Early For Career

Many Job Seekers Today Unqualified

By Kathryn Whitmer "Plan your career instead of just drifting into something" was the advice given freshmen and sophomore women Tuesday by Virgil L. Couch, personnel director of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

Mr. Couch told students attending the opening of the Vocational Information Conference on campus that "too many people seeking jobs today are unqualified in training and experience for any particular job. When asked what they can do, they all too often reply, 'Anything.'"

Choose Early He stressed the importance of "making up your mind" as early as possible in choosing a career.

Mr. Couch listed the preliminary requirements for any job as knowledge of chosen field, common sense, ability to get along with others, and emotional stability.

Unqualified Graduates "Too many job applicants in college graduates, still do not know how to read, write, speak, or listen effectively," Mr. Couch said in pointing out what the college of today can do to make the applicant better qualified.

Reviewing the job outlook for 1950 college graduates, Mr. Couch said that the student should investigate all possibilities.

"When choosing a vocation," he said, "think first of the things you like to do, carefully select one, and then learn all you possibly can about it."

Started With 100 Sponsored by the Department of Music for the starting phase of the new building and is one of the main items of interest to the visitor. Both green and light gray walls, and a high ceiling provide a restful background for the colorfully upholstered furniture. The record library itself opens into the music lounge, and at the opposite end of the lounge are four booths equipped with phonographs for music majors doing independent listening.

Modern in every detail, the music lounge boasts a new custom-made phonograph which is the best of its kind. All the rooms are soundproofed and scientifically built for its purpose.

Increased Collection In the new, Edwin K. Stein succeeded Dr. Capshaw as head of the Department of Music, he brings as appreciative the possibilities of a fine record library as his predecessors. His first step toward improvement was increasing the record budget and, as a result, the library now has about four times the original number of records.

Containing approximately 400 classic musical scores, the records have been carefully chosen and represent the best music of every period. The records are selected not only according to composers but also according to the performing artists. There are records of all the great composers recorded by an increasing line of pianists, violinists, organists, singers, symphony orchestras, choirs, choruses, harpichordists, and the masters of all musical instruments. There are operas, symphonies, concertos, oratorios, and sonatas, to say nothing of all the other forms of music. The listening programs in the music lounge are an opportunity to hear the world's greatest music at its best.

One of the latest and most interesting additions to the Carnegie Record Library is the "1 Anthology Sonora" which consists of 123 records and covers the period from 1800 to the present.

Frats Give Records Quite a number of records and album sets are presented to the library by individual students and by fraternities. Such gifts are not expected and are never solicited, but they are appreciated.

The listening programs are held every Friday from 12:30 to 4, and on Thursday evenings from 7 to 9:30 o'clock. There is no admittance charge, and all persons interested in hearing good music are invited. Last year, the total attendance at listening programs was well over 12,000.

"For music-loving people whose work is such that they do not have the opportunity to hear the great symphony orchestras and outstanding musical groups, the Carnegie Record Library helps to fill that need," says Mrs. Lewis H. Mills, record librarian. "It is an Open Sesame to the world of great music."

Attend Student Congress Students from all the 41 colleges at the convention attended the Student Congress last Saturday. At this meeting students were scored on the pertinence and influence of what they said during the minute they were required to talk. Ellen Drake and Betty Hammock were rated as two of the ten best performers in this group.

At the awards luncheon Saturday, the five outstanding "speakers of the year" were named President Truman, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and three of the following classes: news, sports, feature, scientific, and industrial.

Rules and entry blanks for the contest can be obtained by writing George K. Moran, Kappa Alpha Mu, room 18, Waller Williams, University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo.

State Sportmanship Might Improve If SEC Selections Were More Honest

Twila, Ky.
March 12, 1950

Dear Sir: Enclosed is an editorial taken from the Knoxville News-Sentinel which should be of interest to the student body.

Yours Truly,
AN ALUMNUS

Following is the News-Sentinel editorial:

KENTUCKY COMMENT

The Lexington Herald sends us a marked copy citing the editorial which says that "the coaches who selected the (SEC) all-star team started right when they chose Jim Lipe for a forward post, but simply made a bad mistake when they relegated Bill Spivey, who tied Alex Groza's all-time record in the last game, to the second team, and left Walt Hirsch—as well as Dale Barnstable and Bobby Watson and Shelly Laville—off the squad entirely. . . . Perhaps that so-called all-star team reveals the real reason why Kentucky dominates the SEC in basketball. . . . Of course it is understood all around that the all-star selections are made before and not after the finals. We are not detractors of Bill Spivey, nor would we dispute that Kentucky has an all-star ball club.

But we were disappointed for the second time in recent months at the brand of sportsmanship displayed in Kentucky, traditionally known as a land of civility and good manners. It was deplorable that the spectators booed Art Burris of Tennessee when his choice as all-star center was announced. Nor was their Governor, Earle Clements, over-magnanimous when, in congratulating Kentucky for winning, he boasted before all the visitors that "Kentucky will do it again next year."

SGA Committee Should Consider Hare System For College Elections

Animosity between fraternal and non-fraternal groups has long plagued the nation's campuses, and is still an unfortunate and undesirable aspect of student elections at most universities.

George Howatt, instructor in government at Lehigh University, is an advocate of the Hare system of proportional representation for college elections.

The basic feature of this system is the proportional ballot, which the voter is asked to make a number of choices in order of preference for each office to be filled.

"The Hare system," Howatt wrote last year in the National Municipal Review, "induces the student to choose from all candidates by the preferential ballot."

Less than 1500 students, from wrote last year in the National Municipal Review, "induces the student to choose from all candidates by the preferential ballot."

"The Hare system," Howatt wrote last year in the National Municipal Review, "induces the student to choose from all candidates by the preferential ballot."

At last November's Kentucky-Tennessee football game in Lexington the Kentucky band was announced as "the best band in the South," just after the Tennessee guest band had performed. We well know we have some poor sports here in Tennessee. But we regret we can no longer cite our Kentucky neighbors as a contrasting example of good sportsmanship and good taste.

Although Ed Ashford ran part of the above editorial in his column Tuesday, we thought students would like to see the remainder of it. It has all the makings of the beginning of an even greater rivalry between UK and the University of Tennessee, although neither of the schools was active in the world-play.

It is time, however, that something was said about "the best band in the South" complaint. We have never heard the band called that, but have heard it called the "Best Band in Dixie," a traditional nickname, not a discriminatory claim. In fact, we've heard it called that on the Tennessee playing field loudspeaker, just before the UT hand performed.

In addition, the "over-magnanimous" adjective would fit much worse on a certain Tennessean who not too long ago boasted for posterity that the Wildcat gridders would never beat the Volunteers.

We, too, believe that UK will win the SEC tournament next year, with or without the rather hollow honor of placing deserving players on an all-star team which for several years overlooked completely the greatest player the SEC had seen up to his time. We remember that Alex Groza was good enough to rate practically every All-American team and went on to win all-NBA honors this year and was never chosen on the SEC all-tournament team until his senior year. We wonder whose purpose is being defeated.

to promote spirit and unity on the campus by arousing student interest in student government. The Hare system has proved successful in rejuvenating constructive politics on other campuses.

LETTERS to the Editor

How Long? Ever since the University began its expansion program, the grounds of the campus have constantly been crossed by ditches of one sort or another. This is an expected part of the program.

Yet, this part of the school's growth has led to many problems, some necessary and some which appear not to be so. The main objection to the ditches came when they crossed the walks used by students going to and from class.

There is one ditch, however, which was dug last semester and has not as yet been bridged. This ditch, which crosses the walk leading behind the Administration Building, is still just as deep and as hard to cross as the day it was dug.

With the beginning of the spring semester and still no bridge, some of the students began inching their way along behind the building on a strip of ground barely wide enough to allow one person to pass. Others waded the mud left when the ditch crossing the sidewalk was filled. Still others splashed across the campus directly in front of White Hall. Any of the paths could be, as some already have been, disastrous on a step of ground barely wide enough to allow one person to pass.

A small bridge across the place would cost the school very little and would have the student body much in worry and precious time. Yet, one has not been placed there and there seems to be no indication that the campus directly in front of White Hall. Any of the paths could be, as some already have been, disastrous on a step of ground barely wide enough to allow one person to pass.

It is time, however, that something was said about "the best band in the South" complaint. We have never heard the band called that, but have heard it called the "Best Band in Dixie," a traditional nickname, not a discriminatory claim. In fact, we've heard it called that on the Tennessee playing field loudspeaker, just before the UT hand performed.

In addition, the "over-magnanimous" adjective would fit much worse on a certain Tennessean who not too long ago boasted for posterity that the Wildcat gridders would never beat the Volunteers.

We, too, believe that UK will win the SEC tournament next year, with or without the rather hollow honor of placing deserving players on an all-star team which for several years overlooked completely the greatest player the SEC had seen up to his time. We remember that Alex Groza was good enough to rate practically every All-American team and went on to win all-NBA honors this year and was never chosen on the SEC all-tournament team until his senior year. We wonder whose purpose is being defeated.

to promote spirit and unity on the campus by arousing student interest in student government. The Hare system has proved successful in rejuvenating constructive politics on other campuses.

Love, Sympathy, Kindness Presented In 'Hasty Heart'

"Hasty Heart," which opens Saturday at the State Theater, is a wonderful and different kind of love story. It is different from the typical Hollywood love story, for instead of the usual boy-girl romance it is a tale of man's love for his fellow man which is embodied in pity and the spirit of helpfulness which accompanies it.

Todd's First Major Role

Todd is especially satisfying in his first major Hollywood role, and may well be deserving of the Academy Award which has been recommended for his performance. He plays the part of a stubborn, unfriendly Scottish soldier who has just a few weeks to live because of a field hospital in Burma and the rest of the cast is comprised of five other men who are patients; the nurse, Miss Neal; and a minor character, the head doctor.

Intramural Sports

By Lewis Dunshear
Although intramural basketball is still going strong and will continue for several games yet, interest is beginning to change to softball, the next major 1-M sport, slated to start March 27.

Howard, Varnits, scored 23 to run a close second. He has now passed Clubbers in the scoring race. Their totals now read: Howard 72—Clabborne 60.

Berea Play Day
Members of UK WAA had a big time at Berea College this past Saturday. They took part in the variety activities offered in the Berea Play Day; among these were an informal get-together of all the other college WAA representatives, basketball and badminton games, and Sokolski Party. Several of the women who represented UK were Ruth Halderson, Chris Morris, Phyl Kloeker, Billie Moore, Bula West and Wargis Myers. These girls plus a few more are going to Cincinnati, Saturday, March 18, for the annual University of Cincinnati Play Day.

Fencing Facts

On Friday of last week, co-captain George Christie, (veteran sabre man), and John Fuchs, (second sabre man), were declared ineligible by the administrators. Charles Mitchell, second epee man on the squad, was down with the flu, Saturday afternoon the remainder of the squad left for Cincinnati where they met the University of Cincinnati.

Handicapped by the loss of these three men, Coach Brockborough called on captain Alan Solomon to replace the absent men in the meet. Solomon came through in noble style by winning two sabre bouts, one and a half in epee, and in his own weapon he picked up two more wins. His total for the afternoon was 5-3 victories.

The rest of the scoring was as follows: Doug Brown and Sid Neal had two wins; Jim Ryan, Bob Southall, and Dick Whitehead contributed a win apiece to the overall score. The bladesmen will have another chance to avenge this defeat when they meet Cincinnati here at Lexington on the first of April.

CCNY Stops Kentucky, 89-50; UK Schedules Season Opener for April 3

Three of the seeded teams came through in the quarterfinal round of the National Invitation Tournament, but the first game was a disastrous affair for the Kentucky Wildcats. The CCNY club of Nat Holman stopped the Cats 89-50 in a terrific upset.

Bradley, Duquesne, and St. John's all won their first games and advanced into the semifinal round along with CCNY.

The story on the Kentucky-CCNY game appears in a separate story written from New York by Tom Dinkin, the Kernel sports editor, appearing on page one.

Dukes Win
Duquesne had its hands full in stopping the LaSalle club from Philadelphia in the Iron Dukes first appearance in the tourney.

Charlie Cooper, the big colored pivotman for Duquesne, paced the Iron Dukes to their win. He tallied 15 points for high point honors for the Dukes in the contest and virtually monopolized both backboards in a brilliant exhibition. Ed Dahler added the Duquesne cause by tossing in 14 points. Larry Pount, the six-nine LaSalle center, scored 18 points for the losers.

The score was tied 47-all with 30 seconds to go but Duquesne scored two points in this period while holding a firing LaSalle club scoreless.

St. John's and Bradley, the two seeded clubs in the upper bracket, came through with wins Monday night in the quarterfinal round. The Redmen from Brooklyn, early season conquerors of Kentucky, won over Western Kentucky 69-46, while Bradley stopped Syracuse 78-49 in the first game. The two clubs thereby qualified to meet each other in the upper bracket semifinal Thursday night.

Western Not On
Western just didn't seem to have it against the St. John's crew. The Hilltoppers blew hot and cold against Niagara in their first game and were definitely off in the second half against St. John's.

Western led by a point at the half, 30-29, and went ahead 44-41 with about seven minutes gone in the second half and then collapsed. St. John's scored 10 straight to go ahead 51-44 and won without too much difficulty. Gerry Calabrese scored 18 points for the winners and Bob Zawohak added 16. Bob Lavoy had 17 for the losers.

Syracuse gave Bradley all it could handle in the first game until Ed Miller, their brilliant center, fouled out with ten minutes to go. At this time Bradley led by but a point, but they opened the gap thereafter. Bradley had led at the half, 40-49.

Oene Melchiorre paced the Braves with a total of 20 points while All-American Paul O'Neil added 15. Jack Kiley was the top point producer for the Syracuse club with 18 points.

First Round
In the first round games played last Saturday, LaSalle, Syracuse, Western Kentucky, and CCNY won their games in a day of high scoring contests.

Western Kentucky won the first game of the tourney when they stopped a hotting Niagara team 79-72 before some 13,000 fans. Western trailed throughout most of the first half and it wasn't until the second half when they opened up their victory margin.

Big Bob Lavoy, the Western pivotman, paced Eddie Diddle's quintet in this first game by tossing in 32 points on 12 field goals and eight free throws. Johnny Owens and Jack Turner added the Hilltopper cause by each adding 15 points. Zebie Emicola and Tom Egan each scored 12 points for the under-dog Niagara team.

In the second afternoon game CCNY upset San Francisco and earned the right to meet Kentucky in the quarterfinal round, 68-48.

UK Schedules Season Opener for April 3

A lot of busting practice, a few fielding drills, and a great deal of catchments started rounding Coach Ned Moseley's baseball team into shape for their four-game series with Tech and Georgia which starts April 3.

Coach Moseley plans to cut the 40-man squad down to 20 following an intra-squad game to be played tomorrow on Legion Field and it will be this team that opens the season for Kentucky, as five of last year's regulars will not be released from football practice until the middle of April.

Among those still working out on the gridiron are All-American baseballer Dom Fucci, Benny Zaranika, Allen Hamilton—last year's regular outfield combination who averaged 238 at bat—Bill Leskovar, Doug Moseley and Babe Parelli.

Pitcher first baseman Walt Hirsch and pitcher Guy Strong, who reported to Coach Moseley soon after returning from New York, are in pretty good shape, should round in to form quickly.

Outstanding prospects who might work their way into the starting lineup are Bob Terrell and Jim Ryan. Terrell is a slick fielding third baseman, who uses a close, tight swing to get a lot of distance on the bat. Ryan is a left-handed pull hitter who smacks the ball on a line.

Humzey Yessin and Johnny Stough, teaming around the key-stone sack this week, look like one of the classiest fielding double play combinations in the South. Capt. Stough is due to better last year's 250 batting average if his early season hitting is any indication.

The outfield is crowded with good prospects with veterans Jay Cummins and Bob Hatchett and rookie Jim Ryan likely to grab first string berths in the opening series.

The pitching staff, despite the loss of 7-game winner Ray Mingers, looks pretty good. C. M. Newton, combining a good curve, a fast ball, a change of pace, with a lot of poise and good sense should be the mainstay.

Lefty Al Wiseman should go well against Georgia's strong array of left handed hitters, and Walt Hirsch, who pitched well last year, is also due to see plenty of action on the mound against the port side swingers, Bob Hatchett, Al MacLeod, and Frank Tuetz round out an experienced mound corps.

Ray Turner, Buddy Clegg, and Jay Cummins, all lettermen, will be in the lineup.

LIU forward, scored 16 points but was fouled out (English). Big, the avalanche of Syracuse buckets.

Warner & Co.

Following is the box score for the CCNY-Kentucky basketball game played in the quarterfinal round of the National Invitation Tournament last Tuesday in Madison Square Garden in New York City.

The Cats absorbed one of their worst defeats in recent history in losing the contest 89-50 to the crew of Nat Holman. Ed Warner, the handle the catching chores. Coach Moseley looked out over his 40 candidates going through their catchments. "Yes, we ought to have pretty fair ball club this year."

When Dr. C. L. Anderson came to his waiting room door and said:

When Dr. C. L. Anderson came to his waiting room door and said:

Coaches Meet K Club Tonight

Fans and players alike will get a kick out of tonight's basketball game in Alumni Gym. It's going to be on donkeys.

Staid old Alumni Gym, which has complementarily looked on while Wildcat basketball teams racked up win after win in comparatively easy fashion, will shudder in indignation when 10 squeamish players mount 10 squealing donkeys to start the fracas at 8 o'clock sharp.

The players, apart from the donkeys (usually way apart), will be the football coaching staff and athletic director Bernie Shively, fighting it out against the senior K Club members.

Mr. Shively, who participated in the donkey basketball game sponsored by the K Club 12 years ago, is expected to spark the coaching staff, while Lloyd McDermott and Bob Pope, if they find mounts to hold them up, are due to shine for the K Club.

Probable starters for the two quintets: Bernie Shively, Bear Bryant, Carmie Lassie, Bill McCubbin, and Ernie Allen for the coaches; Harry Ulmski, Dopey Phelps, Lee Truman, Bob Gain and Babe Parrilli for the K Club, and 10 donkeys.
