Ed, Coed Selected

Mary McKinley, Delta Delta Delta, and Frank Bassett Jr., Sigma Alpha Epsilon, were named UK's typical students for 1950 as a highlight of College Standards Week which ends on campus today.

Miss McKinley and Frank were judged winners of the titles "Typical Ed" and "Typical Co-ed" by a committee of student and faculty members. Their pictures will appear in the 1950 Kentucky Standard.

Miss McKinley is a sophomore in Arts and Sciences. She is a member of the YWCA and the SUB activities committee, and has an all-over standing of 1.7.

Bassett is a senior in Arts and Sciences. He is active in Pershing Rifles, Scabbard and Blade, and a member of Lambda, Alpha Phi Omega, Pryor Pre-Med, and SGA. His standing is 1.7.

UK's first campus-wide College Standards Week closes today at noon. During the morning, Mr. Robert Detchemey, head of the personal appearance department at Stephens College, will conduct personal examinations on half styling and make-up.

The week was sponsored by the activities committee of the SUB. The SUB board plans to make the five-day program an annual affair.

New University Budget Declared Insufficient

UK Officials Say Expansion To Stop

Increasing the University's appropriation to $283,200 a year as proposed in the budget submitted to the state legislature Monday night by Gov. Earle Clements is not sufficient to offset the anticipated loss in funds which the University Division of Colleges has been receiving from the federal government under the G. I. education bill.

Dr. Leo Chamberlain, dean of the University, said. He explained further that the expansion program would necessarily be practically nil.

He said that the University was grateful for the additional funds allowed by the governor's budget, but disappointed that it did not receive the sum requested. The requested increase totaled $815,200 for the first year and $1,615,200 for the second year. However, the Division of Colleges will be operating the next fiscal year, which begins July 1, on $71,180 less than it now has, and $260,260 less during the 1951-1952 fiscal year.

The decrease in federal funds, which the state appropriation is not expected to offset, will result from a gradual drop in the number of veteran students. The 1950-51 decrease will be more than canceled by a gradual increase in the number of non-G. I. students. Dean Chamberlain pointed out. The government pays $210 more tuition for each veteran than the University receives from non-veterans.

Doesn't Allow Capital

The budget does not include any items of capital outlay but appropriates $15,000,000 to the State Hospital last Saturday. Dr. Chamberlain pointed out. The government pays $210 more tuition for each veteran than the University receives from non-veterans.

Noted Author To Talk Here

By Bill Simon

Bernard DeVoto, novelist, historian, biographer, and critic, will make two lectures here next week. Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. in the Guignol Theater he will talk on professional writing and Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall he will lecture on "Across the Wide Missouri." DeVoto has written 12 or more books, over half of them about the development of the western part of the United States. His most recent book, "Across the Wide Missouri," won three national prizes, including the Pulitzer Prize for history. It deals with the westward men who penetrated the land between the Missouri River and the Rocky Mountains in 1822-1836.

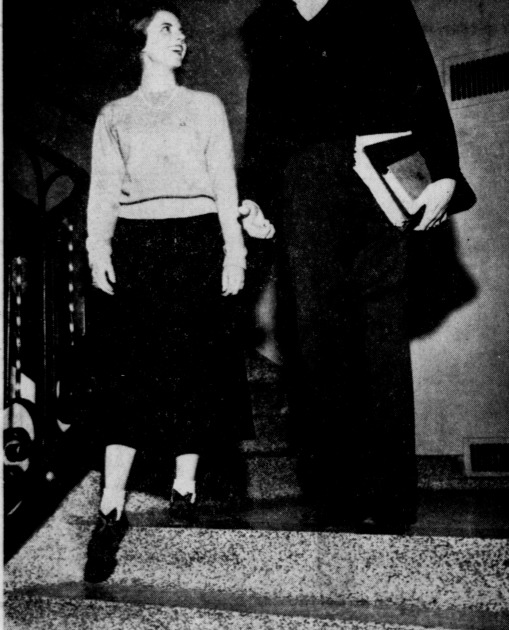

To Visit Koffee Klub

Following his Wednesday lecture in the Guignol, DeVoto will be the guest of the Koffee Klub at a reception in the Music Room of the SUB at 4:30 p.m.

For 15 years DeVoto has written the "Easy Chair" department of Harper's Magazine. In the many essays written for this feature he has discussed a great variety of subjects, ranging from Mormon history and regionalism to technocracy and socialism.

DeVoto grew up in the West but in 1920 had been living in the East, mostly in Cambridge. He has taught at Northwestern and at Harvard. He has also written a number of books, many of his short stories and essays, and at least three of his books deal with the history of the American West. He has written books on Mark Twain which include "Mark Twain's America" and "Mark Twain at Work."

TYPICAL ONES—Mary McKinley and Frank Bassett, named UK's 1950 "Typical Ed" and "Typical Co-ed," pose typically on the SUB steps. Revenue Bond Bids Accepted

A bid of $227,250, submitted by Doll and Iphorhing of Cincinnati, for $250,000 in revenue bonds required to help finance construction of the Journalism building was accepted by the Board of Trustees recently.

The average rate of interest on the bonds will be 2.6483 percent.

At an earlier meeting of the Trustees, the $452,112 bid of the Hamilton Construction Company of Lexington was authorized. Remander of the cost will be paid out of accumulated and future earnings of the Journalism building.

Chemistry Prof Dies

Dr. Franklin E. Tuttle, 85, professor emeritus of chemistry and for 28 years head of the chemistry department, died at Good Samaritan Hospital last Saturday.

He had been under treatment at the hospital since Dec. 20 and in health for several weeks.

Dr. Tuttle was graduated from Amherst College with an A.B. degree in 1909 and received his doctor's degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1913. He came to Kentucky in 1906 from Pennsylvania State College.

He held membership in many national and professional organizations and brought national recognition to his department and to himself through the execution of his regular duties and important researches. He was a past president of the American Chemical Society, and the author of numerous papers in his field.

During Commencement Week of 1938, a bronze plaque by Dr. Tuttle with profile likeness in relief was presented the University by former students. It bears the inscription: "Outstanding teacher, inspiring adviser, keen judge of men."

In Appreciation

The vastly improved football program at the University of Kentucky is largely the result of the work of two groups—the people of Lexington and the Bluegrass and of UK alumni.

The football banquet to be held Monday night at Joyland is a good example of the work of the Lexington Chamber of Commerce and other civic groups here.

An isolated University could hardly hope to field such a football team as UK did in 1949. Without the continued support of Lexingtonians, the Wildcats would, in all probability, still be the welcome mat of the Southeastern Conference.

While a great deal of credit must go to the coaches and players who carried the Blue and White into the Orange Bowl, all of us know that without the help of outside organizations and individuals, the present successful program could not have been launched and maintained.

In looking back over the best football year in the history of the University, it is well for us to remember and appreciate the work of all those who gave their time and efforts for the cause of better football at UK.

Our Opportunity

The letter published this week under the subhead "Statewide Rushing" shows a great deal of reasoning on the part of the writer.

From our experience, too few UK students take the time while at home to pass the word about their school. The Public Relations department is continually working to get all the University news into Kentucky newspapers, and in printing data about the school for consumption by high school students and interested parents.

To be really effective, however, the Public Relations release must be endorsed by the students actually attending the University of Kentucky. Personal contact is of far greater effect than is printed matter.

It is the duty—in fact, the privilege—of every UK student to amplify the printed material with his own experiences.

If every student here should talk with just one high school senior who is thinking of college next September, more than 7,000 prospective UK students could be reached. Usually, small groups will expect to attend the same college. Why not tell them all about your school?

Literary UK

Men like Robert Frost and Bernard DeVoto are famous not only in the United States, but throughout the English-speaking world. Mr. Frost will probably become known in history as one of the greatest American poets.

Mr. DeVoto is known not only for his own writings, but also for his help in developing the talents of such men as UK's A. B. Guthrie Jr., recently praised in the Saturday Review of Literature for his outstanding novel, "The Way West."

The English department is to be congratulated for bringing such men to the campus and offering students, faculty members and the general public the opportunity to see and hear them.

Check Jay Jay

After reading a recent column by Jay Jay (a fellow UK student, incidentally) in the Lexington Leader, we wonder if his comments about the UK parking situation didn't add up to a slightly back-handed compliment.

He says that the UK system is better than Lexington's, but then goes on to intimate that practically anything would be better.

The Lexington parking problem has been batted around so long we wonder if some means whereby Lexington citizens had to pay or move out wouldn't be as effective as UK's pay-to-stay policy.

Letters To The Editor

Statewide Rushing
Editor, The Kernel:
I would like to take this opportunity to remind all alert students that the time for "rushing" is once again near at hand. Soon the student body will be dismissed for between-semester holidays. The majority of students will go to their hometowns or to visit friends and relatives elsewhere.

Wherever the students go, I would like to remind them of their duty to talk up the University of Kentucky to high school seniors, those in the state of Kentucky in particular. It is about time that the Kentucky teenager stops thinking of UK as only a sports power. Our University has a high scholastic rating, and is a good school to continue one's studies in.

This "rushing program" is the duty of every loyal student. Too many potential leaders are leaving the state to pursue their studies elsewhere. We have got to keep our youth in this state if our state, as well as university, is ever going to advance.

Even though all students that we "rush" will not attend, we have got to start to get the high school students thinking of UK as the University, as it well is. The sooner that we get high school students, as well as scholastic conscious, the sooner that our school can improve even more, and have more friends over the entire state and nation as well.

Let's all go home prepared to spread the word about a great state University. Tell those that you meet about our building and expansion programs. Get all the info that you can about our school and tell everyone about it.

We have got to retain more of our high school graduates within this state. It is up to UK to do it, and it is up to us, the students of UK, to help our school improve and advance in the future, as it has these past few years.

We have a great school here in Lexington. Let's not only tell everyone about it, but let's get them here to prove it to them!

Sincerely yours,
Irvin Goldstein.

Best Letter Writers To Receive Awards
Starting this week, and continuing indefinitely, the Kernel editors, consisting of George Reynolds, Bob Cox, Neil Blair and Tom Diskin, will select the most interesting "Letter to the Editor" used in the Kernel.

Each week the writer of the winning letter will receive free a carton of Chesterfield cigarettes from the campus representatives. The name of this week's winner will be announced in the next issue of the Kernel.

Debaters To Discuss Student Drinking
The debate team will enter a panel discussion on "How can we best solve the drinking problem in American colleges?" at Eastern State College Tuesday.

Three students from each school will make up the panel. Representing UK in the discussion will be Betty Hammock, Robert Shearer, and Harold Griffin, with Betty Hammock, Robert Shearer, and Harold Griffin, with Betty Hammock as moderator. Dr. Clifford Blyton, director of forensics, will accompany the group.

To get any material from your university, if you publish a student paper we would be very happy to receive a copy as an exchange.

If you are interested in our country we are only glad to send you Ylioppilaslhti and the NUS of Finland. We will send you any material about Finland.

CONN-COX 'UNS

By Earl Conn and Bob Cox
All you faithful followers—there are some left!—will be glad to know that the ole column has turned over a new leaf with some New Year's resolutions. They are:

- 1—No more jokes concerning fraternity brothers who don't keep their rooms tidy.
- 2—No more abridged and profane jokes.
- 3—No more scotchman jokes.
- 4—Absolutely no more parodies on Milton or Shakespeare. Open reason on the rest of the poets though.
- 5—There will be no more efforts being "signed" "she was only," "water-there is a fly in my soup," "a freshman once."

And we do hereby declare that these resolutions shall not be broken any sooner than the rest. So, with the show!

Shadows Give Added Effects To Fine Art Tower Symbols

By Bill Boughey
You may have had difficulty finding just what those sculptural symbols represent which grace the four faces of the tower of the Fine Arts building. If so, you probably were not looking at the right side at the right time of day.

There is only one time of daylight that each symbol can be truly appreciated because the striking of white figures on white background relies greatly on the effects of shadows, so says Prof. Raymond Barnhart, assistant professor in the art department and designer of the sculptural works.

For example, in the morning, symbols on the south face are sharp and plain, but in the afternoon they are difficult to understand. The symbols around the entrance, however, are not governed by light-shadow effects and are more simple in design.

Problems in Design
Prof. Barnhart, who contributed his services beyond the duties of his position, states that there were many problems to be considered in planning the symbols. One major problem was to represent the departments in the building—music, art, speech, and the theater—in appropriate ways. This problem was not simple but yet not too original and puzzling.

Another problem, a serious one in modern design, was to keep the symbols from being over-decorative so that they would not detract too much attention from the architectural lines of the building.

Work Done in Spare Time
The designs were done in Lexington and then shipped to Bedford, Ind., where the finishing process was done by mechanical methods. The figures are in Indiana Limestone.

Prof. Barnhart at first hesitated about doing the job. It was a little out of his line, he being a teacher of design, drawing, and wood sculpture. The work was done in his spare time covering several months in the spring and summer of 1948.

In just a few seconds you can prove
PHILIP MORRIS

Everybody talks about PLEASURE, but only ONE cigarette has really done something about it. That cigarette is PHILIP MORRIS!

SUB Bridge Experts Begin Competitive Play January 19

The first session of the Student Union Bridge Tournament will be held Jan. 19 in the Card Room of the SUB, according to Miss Margaret Bruce Cruise, social director. The second session will be held Feb. 16.

Match point scoring will be used in both sessions and the player's score calculated for each session as percentages of the highest possible score for that session. Players who are ineligible for the first session but who become eligible and participate in the second will be given an arbitrary score of 50 percent for the first session. Players who are eligible for both sessions but fail to play in the first will be given a score equal to the lowest score made by any player in that session.

The first winner will be determined by adding the percentage score for the first to three times that for the second session. Contestants with the eight highest scores will play in the inter-collegiate tournament Feb. 23.

Those wishing to participate should sign up at the Information Desk in the SUB.

Alpha Gams Present Masque Ball In SUB

The chaparrons for the dance will be Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, Miss Jane Haselden, Mrs. Sears Moss, Mrs. George Newman, and Mr. and Mrs. George Bunnell.

Officers Are Elected By Lances Honorary

Bob Mcowan has been elected president of Lances, Junior men's leadership honorary for the spring semester.

Other officers are Gibson Downing, vice president; Bob Greer, secretary, and John Kuiper, treasurer.

The question is: What shall we do with it? Essentially, radio facsimile is capable of transmitting documents such as maps, photos, diagrams, and other material to reception points. So, if you're sparked with a bright idea, let the people at WBYC know about it.

Chief Engineer J. Randolph Davis (answers to Rummy) is on the ground for student engineers who would like to pick up some cheap experience in the broadcasting racket. If you're a lad who likes communications work, who is endowed with the "catch on" department, drop up to the McGuffey Hall studios and scream for Rummy. You might end up with a deal on your hands.

By T. A. Clark

It was Jan. 7, 1950, and an icy sleeping city. The minute hands on most timepieces in the vicinity crept toward one o'clock on a rather unimpressive morning. The reels on the tape recorder were not to be hurried as they turned, and the 'VU meter obediently flicked at each sound. Eighty miles from home base, the University of Kentucky Radio Service was on the job.

Inside the functional Courier-Journal building a task force of three was engaged in visiting a Kentucky industry. Soon a series of half hour documentary programs

NEW career opportunities for you in the U. S. AIR FORCE as an OFFICER and NAVIGATOR

In this era of long range flights, the role of the navigator has become increasingly important. The U. S. Air Force now offers new opportunities to young college men between the ages of 20 and 26½ who are single and can qualify for such training. If you can meet the high physical and educational standards (at least two years of college), and are selected, you can be among the first to attend the new one-year navigator training course at Ellington Air Force Base near Houston, Texas. A new class begins each month!

You'll be an Aviation Cadet! And, you'll receive the best available training—including 184 hours in the new T-29 "Flying Classroom."

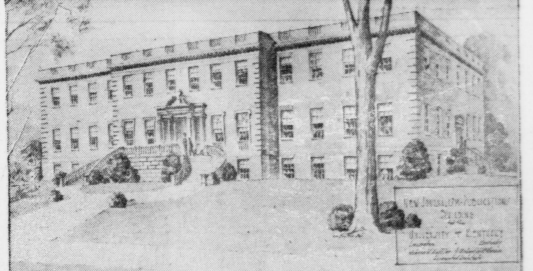

Then, graduation! You'll win your wings as a navigator... and a commission as a Second Lieutenant in the Air Force. After a 30-day leave with pay, you'll be ready for challenging assignments as navigator with one of the famous commands in the U. S. Air Force. Your office will be the "front office" of mighty bombers or long-range transports!

Be among the first to win your wings as a U. S. Air Force navigator under the new navigator training program—be a key man on the Air Force team!

Air Force officer procurement teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain these career opportunities. Watch for their arrival—or get full details at your nearest Air Force Base, U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station, or by writing to the Chief of Staff, U. S. Air Force, Attention: Aviation Cadet Branch, Washington 25, D. C.

Other Flying, Non-Flying Careers
Aviation Cadet pilot training is also available to young men between the ages of 20 and 26 1/2. See about the many non-flying assignments, too! Never before in peacetime has there been such a good opportunity for college-trained men and women to obtain regular commissions in the United States Air Force.

AT LAST the dreamed new building for the Department of Journalism is about to become a reality. The building pictured above, will be located next to M Vey Hall and will house not only offices and classrooms for the department, but student publications and the Kentucky Press.

Ground Breaking Time Nears For Journalism 'Dream House'

The unsightly Nissen hut on the campus lot in front of Pence Hall will soon be removed and the ground in that area will be sloped for the laying of the foundation of the University's new $425,000 Journalism Building.

Preparations for beginning the construction of the building are already underway by the Hargrett Construction Company of Lexington, low bidder for the construction contract. The building should be completed in approximately one year.

When completed, the structure will house the Department of Journalism, the Kentucky Kernel printing plant, offices of all student publications, and the central office of the Kentucky Press Association. The Kentucky Press Association is an organization representing a number of state community newspapers in coverage and advertising.

Headquarters For Student Publications

The new building, a two-story and basement structure of red brick, will be approximately 142 feet by 72 feet. The Kernel newsroom, departmental offices, editing laboratory, KPA office, typing room, and a radio journalism laboratory, will be housed on the ground floor. The Kernel printing plant will also be located on this floor.

On the second floor will be classrooms, photo-engraving laboratories, dark-rooms, and additional office space.

Offices of the Kentucky will be on the top floor along with the typographic and advertising laboratories.

According to Dr. Niel Plummer, department head, the UK Journalism department, which already is rated high nationally, should be rated even higher once the facilities afforded by the new building are available.

Photography May Be Taught

Dr. Plummer believes that courses in photography may be taught by the journalism department after the department moves into the new structure. Seniors majoring in photography may then be employed to take and process individual pictures for the student annual, and to take new pictures for the Kernel.

Half of the cost of construction of the new building will be paid from profits of the Kernel and the remainder will be financed through the sale of revenue bonds. Total monetary gain for the year of 1949 from the operations of the Kernel was $17,196.35. While the Journalism Building was in the planning stage, the Federal Works Agency allotted the University advance funds for the preparation of drawings and specifications.

Building Plans Began in 1928

As far back as 1928 there was a movement by members of the Kentucky Press Association to encourage the construction of a modern journalism building at UK.

Then it was suggested that the building be named the Waterson School of Journalism, after Henry Waterson, former editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, a Kentuckian who in his day was known as the Dean of American Journalism.

California and Notre Dame Produce Most All Americans

By Earl Conn, Assistant Sports Editor
What State and school have produced the most All-American football players during the past 20 years?

Hard as it may be to believe, the Far Western State of California has produced 21 All-Americans during the past two decades to outshine such well known football States as Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Notre Dame, now riding the pinnacle of football greatness once again, has produced 12 All-Americans for the school title while Army and Minnesota are tied for second place with 14 All-Americans apiece.

Of course, there is the great Leon Hart who has been a brilliant star at Notre Dame for three years, receiving the All-American nomination this year. He is joined by such greats as Johnny Lujack who made the team while playing for Notre Dame in 1946 and 1947 and Charlie Trippi who starred and made All-American while with Georgia in 1944 and 1945.

Other Pennsylvanians who were named to the honor roll of football greatness, included Johnny Mastrogiorgio, Notre Dame guard of 1940; Warren Heller, Pittsburgh fullback of 1932; and Lawrence Kelley, Yale end of 1936.

Frosh Game With Pikeville Postponed

The Freshmen Kittens' basketball game with Pikeville Junior College, scheduled for Jan. 13, has been postponed indefinitely. Coach Harry "Boss" Hays has announced it will be played at a later date.

The Kittens may be somewhat strengthened when the second semester rolls around. Cliff Hays, Owensboro's All-State center returns here. He graduates from high school this January.

Basketeers Go South For Three SEC Games

Kentucky's Wildcats will meet three opponents in the next four days as they swing into Southeastern Conference action.

Meeting the Volunteers, the Cats will be playing a team which was supposed to be one of the most powerful clubs in the conference this season, losing but one regular, Paul Walker, from Covington, who paced the team last year.

Next game for the Kittens will be a clash with Xavier's Midget Musketeers, on Jan. 26, in a preliminary to the varsity clash between the same schools. Their next home game is Feb. 11, against Pikeville J. C.

play the Georgia Tech Engineers at Atlanta. The Tech team has also been having its trouble of late. Last Friday Louisiana State stopped the Tech club 63-32 and then Saturday were defeated again, this time Tulane turning the trick in a tight game 64-62.

Last year the Cats stopped Tech twice, winning at Atlanta 96-45 and then winning again here 81-32. The Cats' all-time record against the Georgia Tech team stands at 23 wins and four losses.

In 21 games played against Georgia this far in Kentucky's basketball history, the Cats have won 19 games and lost five contests.
