7 onight's Game ...

When the Auburn Plainsmen (or Tigers, if you prefer) trot onto the Stoll Field turf tonight for their fifth meeting with Kentucky's Wildcats, it'll be a strange match of two former Southeastern Conference "doormats," now turned major grid powers on the national scene, battling to erase the stigma of a frustrating tie that occurred in their last meeting.

The two teams first got together on the gridiron at Lexington in 1934. Both were then a far cry from being the class of their own league, let alone championship and bowl contenders as they have ranked in the past few years. Kentucky emerged from that first meeting with the first blood of the series, a 9-0 success. Auburn evened the count by triumphing the next year at Montgomery and then the rivalry was interrupted for almost two decades while both clubs virtually went "from bad to worse" before starting climbs up the football ladder to the prominence each now enjoys. New U.K. Coach Blanton Collier guided a Wildcat victory in a 1954 test that resumed the series and last season engineered his club to an upsetting, 14-14 tie in the face of two-touchdown underdog odds.

Neither coach or ball club was entirely satisfied with this outcome, which was marred by frustrations of unsuccessful gambles, key penalties and incomplete field goals. Coach Ralph (Shug) Jordan can be counted on to have his boys full of revenge and bent on putting Auburn back on the track of terrific success enjoyed over the past three years.

The Plainsmen are supposed to be beset by almost as many problems as Kentucky, but scouting reports defy any tendency to type them as a "weak sister." The experts in pre-season estimates picked them to finish fourth in the power-laden SEC and they should be ready to demonstrate their claim to this right. Although soundly trounced at the hands of ambitious Tennessee by almost the identical score that Kentucky absorbed in its licking by Ole Miss two weeks ago, indications are that, like the Wildcats, they are nowhere near as bad a team as the score might indicate.

The nation's most sports-minded governor.

That is probably one of the most appropriate descriptions ever tagged on A. B. (Happy) Chandler, twice chief executive of the Commonwealth of Kentucky and holder of two degrees from the state university (LL.B. '24, LL.D. '37).

Governor Chandler is familiarly known throughout the world as the former commissioner of organized baseball in the United States, but comparatively few people know that his sports background goes back even further.

He played baseball for the Grafton (N. D.) team of the Red River Valley League, between terms at Transylvania College. Following graduation, Happy entered Harvard Law School and, even in these busy days, found time to tutor football and basketball teams at Wellsley Hills (Mass.) High School.

Later he enrolled at UK and, in between law classes, coached basketball at Versailles High. He was also coach of the 1922 UK girls' basketball team.

The energetic young man somehow found time to be a scout and assistant football coach at Centre College, for 11 years. One of his unforgetable experiences of these days came when Centre upset then-mighty Harvard, 6-0, at Cambridge, Mass., back in 1921.

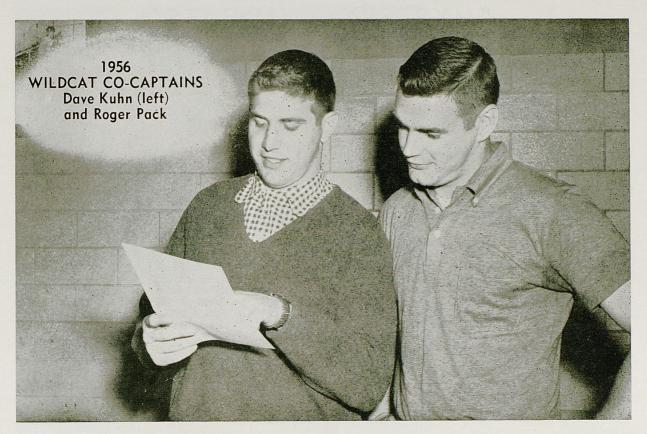

Many years later, after becoming Governor (1935) and U. S. Senator (1939), he served as Baseball Commissioner for six years and was extremely popular with the ballplayers.

Governor Chandler has been attending UK athletic events for nearly 40 years. His youngest son, Dan, now in the U. S. Army, was a recent member of the Kentucky basketball squad. Ben, his other son, is also an alumnus of UK.

In addition, he has backed the University in other ways. Spearheaded by Governor Chandler, the 1956 Assembly appropriated $5,000,000 to start construction of the new UK Medical Center. Another $6,000,000 is pledged.

Educational allotments throughout the Commonwealth are at an all-time high, largely through the efforts of the Governor, and the recent Legislative appropriations to schools.

Former University of Kentucky backfield ace and star of the old Brooklyn professional football club . . . He was the first Wildcat to pick up All-Southeastern Conference honors (1933) and maintains an honor spot at fullback on the All-Time Kentucky Football Team . . . Posted a phenomenal 43.5 average yardage on 101 punts in the 1933 season . . . Now a successful thoroughbred trainer for the Vanderbilt stable.

A native Kentuckian hailing from Ashland who ranks with the all-time gridiron greats produced at the University of Kentucky . . . He became the first Wildcat football player to win first team All-America mention when the Associated Press named him at a tackle position in 1942 . . . Teammates referred to him by the nickname, "Stoop" . . . Learned his college football under Head Coach "Ab" Kirwan and Line Coach Bernie Shively from 1940-42.

"MARCHING 100"

Back in 1936, an Atlanta sports scribe, subtly criticizing the poor showing of a visiting Wildcat football team, tagged the accompanying Kentucky marching band as the "Best Band In Dixie." That title became traditional in describing the UK musical aggregation as each year's band fulfilled its mission of providing appropriate music in support of the teams at all home football and basketball games, as well as many road appearances. Although the title has since been changed to "Marching 100," the band members still take their original appelation seriously and clearly demonstrate with each new appear ance their literal rights to it. Since 1950, the Kentucky band has been under the able direction of Mr. Warren Lutz who has won the hearts and plaudits of Wildcat fans and band authorities, alike, with his commendable arrangements and terrific half-time shows for the band. The "Marching 100" and Director Lutz have become nationally famous representatives of the University and the Blue Grass State through their appearances on national television and all the major radio networks during the past few grid campaigns.

"The Kentucky Story"

Just a short 17 years ago, Frank Graves Dickey was a comparatively "obscure" teacher in the Lexington city school system who had little if any vision of attaining the enviable position he acceded to on September 1 of this year—fifth president of the State of Kentucky's largest institution of higher learning. Today, as the youngest chief executive in University of Kentucky's 91-year history, Dr. Dickey brings an outstanding and refreshing approach to the many challenging problems of one of the nation's fastest growing educational institutions. Born in Wagoner, Oklahoma, he received almost all of his education in Lexington and graduated from Henry Clay High School. His A.B. degree with highest honors came from Transylvania College while both the Master of Arts and Doctor of Education degrees were awarded by U. of K. in 1942 and 1947, respectively. He also has taken post-doctoral work at Harvard and served in the Army. In 1949, he was chosen to head U.K.'s Bureau of School Service and six months later was appointed as Dean of the College of Education, the post he held until his election to the presidency. Dr. Dickey claims little connection with athletics as a participant since junior high days, but classes himself as an avid sports enthusiast. He is on record as strongly favoring the continuance of University athletics on their current high plane and in balance with the academic program.

Athletics at Kentucky

Kentucky's athletics program is organized under the Department of Athletics and a corporation known as the University of Kentucky Athletics Association.

A firm believer in sports and sportsmanship, Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, Vice-President of the University, has general supervision over the Department and also serves as vice chairman of the Board of Directors of the Association.

Former UK football player and one-time Wildcat coach, Dr. A. D. Kirwan, acts as secretary to the Association. He also is the school's faculty representative to the Southeastern Conference.

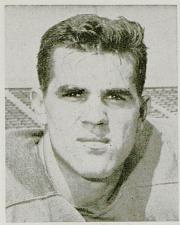

Supervising the steady growth and balanced development of one of the nation's top athletic programs as Director of Athletics is Bernie A. Shively. The former Illinois All-America footballer has guided the development of Kentucky as a nationally-respected power in major sports since 1938 and gained wide prestige through a fair-minded approach to many problems. Under his direction, the seating capacity of McLean Stadium has been doubled, powerful lighting equipment installed to bring night football into new popularity, mammoth Memorial Coliseum constructed, new practice facilities and two modern living units (Wildcat Manor and Kitten Lodge) provided for the gridiron teams.

Maintaining over-all control of U.K. athletics affairs is the Board of Directors of the Athletics Association, composed of the President of the University and 10 other directors appointed by him, including five members of the faculty of the University, the president of the Student Government Association, an alumnus of the school, a member of the U.K. Board of Trustees, and two others. Frank D. Peterson, University Vice President of Business Administration, serves the board as treasurer.

The current Board of Directors consists of:

Dr. Frank G. Dickey, Chairman Dr. A. D. Kirwan, Secretary Dr. Ralph Angelucci Thomas H. Ballantine George K. Brady Aubrey J. Brown Thomas Clark Lyman Ginger Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, Junior — Tackle Swoyerville, Pa.

When usually-placid professional scouts abandon their reserved composure to drool over an "interior" lineman—and a sophomore to boot—it's a pretty good tipoff that they have spotted a potentially great prospect. Such is the case of UK's great tackle Lou Michaels. With only one season of varsity play under his belt, the mature young giant from Swoyer-ville, Pa., is already being tabbed by the experts as a potential All-American. At 6-2 and 230 pounds, Michaels has the physical equipment to go along with great ability, strength, speed, agility and a keen mind—attributes of a great football player—and Coach Collier classes Lou as "one of the best I

Before the 1955 season opened, Coach Collier had grave doubts that his fullback situation was as sound as it should be and wondered if big Bob Dougherty, after a three-year absence from collegiate competition, could get the job done. The smiling Irishman from Bellevue, Ky., every inch the battering-ram type of fullback that is a coach's dream, had already been picked by the Los Angeles Rams for a future in pro ball. But he remained the big question mark nevertheless. Subsequent action by Mr. Dougherty, as one of the leading ground gainers in the conference and outstanding defense man, proved all worries needless, and served notice that the 212-pound lad will be a serious force to be reckoned with in '56 as he goes after All-Conference honors.

KEENELAND

"Thoroughbred Racing In The Finest Tradition"

Keeneland is dedicated to the principle that racing is sport before it is a business. Primary considerations have been given to a safe racing strip, the programming of a maximum number of races for the better class horses, the staging of races for fillies and mares, and an emphasis on racing for two-year-olds.

"World's Greatest Thoroughbred Sales"

The world famous Keeneland Sales, conducted by the Breeders' Sales Company, are held on the race course grounds. The Summer Yearling Sales have produced Kentucky Derby winners Jet Pilot, Dark Star and Determine. Other Keeneland sales yearlings include Oil Capitol, Hasty Road, High Gun, Helioscope, Imbros, Errard King, Greek Ship, Queen Hopeful, Ruhe, With Pleasure, Turn-To, Ace Admiral, Cosmic Bomb, and White Skies. Following the fall race meeting, the sales company conducts a yearling sale, followed by a sale of breeding stock.

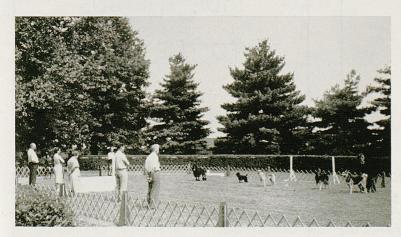

"Year-Round Citizen"

Keeneland is a non-profit race course, with all earnings above expenses going to charitable, educational, and research institutions. No officer receives a salary or expense account. Officers and directors pay to attend the races. No individual can profit from the sale of the track properties, for in such an eventuality, the proceeds of such a sale are earmarked for charitable distribution.

Since its inaugural meeting of 1936, Keeneland has donated over $800,000 to charitable, educational, and research organizations. Of this total, over $530,000 has been given the University of Kentucky—$200,000 to assist in the building of Keeneland Hall, a girl's dormitory, the balance to the College of Agriculture.

Keeneland Race Course is the scene of several cattle shows and sales yearly. A spring and fall dog show is conducted by the Lexington Kennel Club.

Many organizations—civic, religious, and fraternal—make use of the spacious grounds and facilities for picnics, each year.

Athletics at Kentucky

Kentucky's athletics program is organized under the Department of Athletics and a corporation known as the University of Kentucky Athletics Association.

A firm believer in sports and sportsmanship, Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain, Vice-President of the University, has general supervision over the Department and also serves as vice chairman of the Board of Directors of the Association.

Former UK football player and one-time Wildcat coach, Dr. A. D. Kirwan, acts as secretary to the Association. He also is the school's faculty representative to the Southeastern Conference.

Supervising the steady growth and balanced development of one of the nation's top athletic programs as Director of Athletics is Bernie A. Shively. The former Illinois All-America footballer has guided the development of Kentucky as a nationally-respected power in major sports since 1938 and gained wide prestige through a fair-minded approach to many problems. Under his direction, the seating capacity of McLean Stadium has been doubled, powerful lighting equipment installed to bring night football into new popularity, mammoth Memorial Coliseum constructed, new practice facilities and two modern living units (Wildcat Manor and Kitten Lodge) provided for the gridiron teams.

Maintaining over-all control of U.K. athletics affairs is the Board of Directors of the Athletics Association, composed of the President of the University and 10 other directors appointed by him, including five members of the faculty of the University, the president of the Student Government Association, an alumnus of the school, a member of the U.K. Board of Trustees, and two others. Frank D. Peterson, University Vice President of Business Administration, serves the board as treasurer.

The current Board of Directors consists of:

Vice Chairman

LOU MICHAELS Junior — Tackle Swoyerville, Pa.

When usually-placid professional scouts abandon their reserved composure to drool over an "interior" lineman—and a sophomore to boot—it's a pretty good tipoff that they have spotted a potentially great prospect. Such is the case of UK's great tackle Lou Michaels. With only one season of varsity play under his belt, the mature young giant from Swoyerville, Pa., is already being tabbed by the experts as a potential All-American. At 6-2 and 230 pounds, Michaels has the physical equipment to go along with great ability, strength, speed, agility and a keen mind—attributes of a great football player-and Coach Collier classes Lou as "one of the best I

Before the 1955 season opened, Coach Collier had grave doubts that his fullback situation was as sound as it should be and wondered if big Bob Dougherty, after a three-year absence from collegiate competition, could get the job done. The smiling Irishman from Bellevue, Ky., every inch the battering-ram type of fullback that is a coach's dream, had already been picked by the Los Angeles Rams for a future in pro ball. But he remained the big question mark nevertheless. Subsequent action by Mr. Dougherty, as one of the leading ground gainers in the conference and outstanding defense man, proved all worries needless, and served notice that the 212-pound lad will be a serious force to be reckoned with in '56 as he goes after All-Conference honors.

BOB DOUGHERTY Senior — Fullback Bellevue, Ky.

ARCHITECT'S SKETCH OF NEW PHARMACY BUILDING, LEXINGTON

Pharmacy

Young men and women of superior ability will find great opportunities in pharmacy. The great majority of students in pharmacy elect to practice the profession in retail stores and there are many positions open in this field—the neighborhood drug store, the apothecary shop, and the chain store. Training in this field comprises a stepping stone toward the objective of most pharmacy students: to own and operate their own stores. Graduates of the UK College of Pharmacy also occupy responsible positions as manufacturing and research pharmacists and chemists; as analysts for state and federal food, drug, and dairy departments; as directors of public health service laboratories; as teachers in colleges of pharmacy; and in the Medical Corps of the armed forces.
