Let's Do Away With The Black Sheep

Last week was "Hell Week" at the University of Illinois.

It was just a typical "Hell Week" with plenty of judding, midnight prowls, cases of over-exposure, and inflated dormitories.

The story does not make clear the matter of whether this student was killed as a result of "Hell Week" or not.

On this campus, at least one fraternity has abolished the "Week" completely.

Probably the only argument in favor of the week is that old one of the "misery loves company" variety.

As already mentioned, this realization of "Hell Week's" lack of value is not the "brain child" of one person.

Why don't we also wake up, and abolish this black sheep of the fraternal societies?

reached the unbiased decision that Winter is bad, because it is too cold.

After considerable thought, a course of action has been planned whereby Spring may arrive sooner and in all its glory.

As everyone knows, in a bluish the circulation brings heat to the surface.

We hope the student body will cooperate in making this campaign a success.

This is a week of strange contrasts—a Religion-in-Life Conference, members of the faculty letting down their hair at the ODK game and to top it all, dancing with Anson tomorrow nite.

The University of Illinois has one over on us in that it rates its coeds on a standard scale.

"0 for girl telephone calls, 2 points for a letter from the boy at home, 5 points for local male telephone calls, 7 points for male long distance calls, 8 points for week-end date, 10 points for first major dance date, 15 points for first fraternity major bid, 35 points (wow!) for first fraternity pin. If you average 50 points a week, you are a real queen, 45 points, you are a good girl, 35 points, you still have a chance, 30 points, you still rate above a real crock. Under 25 points, the girls may still like you."

Collegians Sharply Divided On Foreign Sale Of Warplanes

Present Poll Is Closest In History Of Surveys

By Student Opinion Surveys Austin, Texas, February 23—American foreign policy has flared in headlines recently with President Roosevelt's announcement that the United States is helping the democracies of the world to keep in stride in the European arms race.

By the very slim majority of 23 per cent, American collegians last week voted in favor of selling war planes to democracies and not to dictatorships.

On the other hand the majority of those opposing say we should sell war material to no one because strained relations and engagements are sure to be the outcome.

Almost none at all favored selling planes to the dictators to the exclusion of democracies.

Dividing the ballots sectionally, the Middle Atlantic, West Central, and Southern states showed approval of the question more than other sections by a few percentage points.

Calling 'Em Wild
 By JOE CREASON

Well slap my saddle, ain't it screwy. To date this season the basketball hoop bucket, supposedly a thermometer of what teams can and can't do, has been banged around like a fire-house srong. As time stumbles on, and upsets pyramid upon upsets this net season threatens to surpass all records for dizziness. Right now, with the teams pounding into the stretch, the basketball picture still is as jumbled and involved as the Einstein Theory.

Tomorrow night Kentucky goes to bat in the last inning against Vanderbilt in Alumni gym but to name the winner by comparing the two teams on paper would be as futile as trying to tack down a retrofired truck with a pen-kick.

For a few examples of the crazy way games have ended: Notre Dame, caged Kentucky by 42-37, Kentucky trimmed Marquette 37-31 and Marquette in turn broke the Irish back by a margin of 47-22. Then—Kentucky defeated Vanderbilt three weeks ago by 51-37, the Cats after two overtime periods, defeated Tennessee two points but Tuesday night Vanderbilt, a team supposed to be a bit shuffling from too much untold handwringing, bumped the Vols with a 46-38 score. Thus, on one hand we have Kentucky plus 13 points, but on the other we find that Vanderbilt beats a 15 point advantage.

At the rate cock-eyed things are happening, I wouldn't be surprised if Chief Justice Hughes brought himself an electric shaver.

A Yankee Gazette
 The name "Connecticut Nittmug" probably means very little to the average Kentuckian. It is a literary gazette, printed at New Canaan, Connecticut, and is one of the foremost papers of its kind in the nation. A glance over the masthead of the gazette is like peering into the blue-book of journalism for among the contributing writers are Quentin Reynolds, Heywood Brown, Jack Pepler, Gene Tunney, Stanley Hoar, Deems Taylor, Franklin P. Adams and John Erskine.

On January 4 of this year Kentucky was beaten by Long Island University by a margin of 52-34, the only sound trouncing handed the Wildcats this year. Quentin Reynolds, one of the best sports authorities in the business, and the following is an article taken from the "Connecticut Nittmug" concerning Bernie Opper.

Story With A Moral
 This is a story with a moral to it, but I can't find the moral. It goes like this:
 "A couple of weeks ago the University of Kentucky basketball team came to Madison Square Garden to play Long Island University. The University of Kentucky is an old school with honary traditions so long that sometimes the players tripped over them. Long Island is a brand new school—a day school without any endowment or campus or football stadium. Most of the players are the sons of the poor, who go to L. I. U. to get a degree in pharmacy so they can get a job in a drug store serving double-decker sandwiches. But they can play basketball!"

"They took an early lead over Kentucky and from then on it was never close. Well, the garden was jammed that night and of course most of the customers were L. I. U. fans. In the second half the Kentucky players were mighty tired—all except one kid identified by the program as B. Opper, captain. This dark haired youngster never gave up. It reminded you of Pickett's Charge and you wondered if perhaps the blood of Confederate heroes didn't flow in the veins of this kid."
 Caught Crowds Fancy, but he played grimly on and his effort caught the fancy of the crowd. Sure he was captain of the Southern team but he had what it took and his every move was greeted with rapturous cheers. Finally, with a few minutes to play, his coach took him out and the whole Garden arose to give the lad a great ovation.

"New York sports crowds are the fairest in the country but it was amazing how they cheered the dark-haired Southerner. I talked to Ned Irish, who promotes the Garden games, and I mentioned it to him."
 "This crowd is nine-tenths for L. I. U. It is a crowd composed of Jewish supporters of the team. And yet look at the ovation they gave Opper."
 "The Irish said, That's right but that isn't the funny part of it. That boy's name is Bernie Opper and he used to play for Morris high school in the Bronx. Then he played for the Bronx Young Men's Hebrew association. Then he went to Kentucky and they made him captain of the team. Funny isn't it, a Southern school making a Jewish kid just off the sidewalks of New York their captain?"

"That's the story with a moral, but I can't find the moral,"—Quentin Reynolds.
 Which is a mighty good way to end this column.

WEATHER SENDS GRID TEAM INDOORS
 By JOE CREASON

Force inside boxing of inclement weather that brought rain and then snow, a total of 63 Kentucky varsity football candidates are being sent through "spring" practice sessions daily in Alumni gym.

Although practice was officially opened two weeks ago, but four good outdoor drills have been held this far. Due to the cramped space available in the gym and having to share that room with other teams now in practice, Coach Ab Kirwan and his staff, Bernie Stively, Frank Moseley, Joe Rupert, Gene Myers and Bert Johnson, have limited the indoor seasons to calisthenics and light signal and formation drills.

Wednesday afternoon, with the thermometer shivering under near freezing weather, an hour's drill was held. At one time during the afternoon Coach Adolph Rupp's varsity basketball team was holding a light workout. Coach Paul McBryer's freshman net team was preparing to take the floor, Bob Rankin of the track team was using one side of the floor practicing starts, the fencing team was huddled in one corner holding their drills and the football hopefuls were passing the leather on the other side of the building.

Of the 63 candidates, 31 are from last season's powerful freshman squad that dropped but one decision, a 12-7 loss to Tennessee, and 5 are newcomers. Last year's varsity team is represented by 37 men, 22 having merited letters. On the senior members of the 1958 squad, Sherman Hinkbein, Damon Davis, Randall Phillips and Harry Brown, did not join the military parade to the post.

DEAN APPOINTED
 Dean W. S. Taylor of the College of Education has been appointed on a national committee on education for the World Congress. Dean William F. Russell, of Teachers College, Columbia, is chairman, and President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia, is honorary chairman of the committee.

THINLIES SETTLE TO INDOOR WORK

Candidates for positions on the varsity track team have settled down to serious conditioning work indoors while awaiting the advent of favorable weather.

When work officially started Monday more than 30 boys, most of them members of the freshman and varsity teams last year, had drawn equipment. Jack Crain, who has charge of this early work, said yesterday:

One of the members of last year's squad, Bob Rankin, has been working out for some time in preparation for the annual A. U. U. athletic carnival to be held this Saturday at the Ohio National Guard armory in Cincinnati. Track stars from Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky will compete in the events.

Because of the many entries, over 300, there will be trial heats run in the dashes and many of the other events. Rankin will compete in the 50 and 200 yard dashes in the absence of his specialties, the hurdles and the 100 yard dash.

KITTENS SCORE EIGHTH WIN OF SEASON

In a preliminary attraction to the Kentucky-Xavier varsity game, the Kentucky Kittens rolled to their eighth win of the season with an easy 62-32 win over the Campbellsville Junior College Tuesday night in Alumni gym.

At no time during the game were the Kittens threatened and dominated play throughout the fray. Using their superior size and ball handling ability to the fullest extent, the frosh penetrated the Campbellsville defense for a 27-17 lead by intermission.

The second half found the Kittens' fast rearing offense running in high with their hard checking defense giving the Tigers few open shots at the basket. The Kentucky attack was led by Eralm Allen and Jim King, who hit 20 and 17 points respectively. King racked 13 points during the first half while most of Allen's total came in the final half.

Curtis Still Leads Blue Net Scoring
