1839 - VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE - 1944

Full Name: Virginia Military Institute.

Location: Lexington, Virginia.

History: V. M. I., at Lexington, Virginia, was founded November 11, 1839, as a State military, engineering, and arts college. For more than a century its chief function has been to produce "citizen-soldiers." V. M. I.'s war record has been distinguished by its development of leaders, including in the present war General George C. Marshall, '01, Chief of Staff, and fifty other general officers and Navy officers of flag rank. Intercollegiate football teams have been regularly developed since 1891, and football will be continued during the present emergency just as it was in the First World War.

Lieutenant Colonel Blandy B. Clarkson (V. M. I., '14)
Director of Athletics

Enrollment: As of September 18, 1944, V. M. I.'s corps of cadets totals 256 (48 old cadets and 208 new cadets). Ninety per cent of the 1943 corps, including all Varsity and Freshman football players, are in the armed forces. Approximately 350 Army Specialized Training Program trainees and enlisted reservists are enrolled in basic and advanced engineering, but these men, according to the present War Department ruling, are unavailable for intercollegiate sports teams.

Conference: V. M. I. is a member of the Southern Conference. In 1943, V. M. I.'s team of freshman 17-year-olds won 2 and lost 6 games.

Colors: Red, White, and Yellow (representing the R. O. T. C. branches of the service at V. M. I.: Field Artillery, Infantry, Cavalry).

Football Song: "V. M. I. Spirit"—written by Colonel Benjamin Bowering, '15, Coast Artillery Corps, United States Army.

Nicknames: Flying Squadron, Fighting Squadron, Cadets, Keydets.

Back in 1906 when the University of Kentucky employed a T-formation similar to that newly installed this year at Kentucky by Coach Ab Kirwan, the T system was termed "very simple and very crude." It had none of the deception and finesse imparted to the offense in recent years by George Halas of the Chicago Bears and Clark Shaughnessy of the Stanford Indians.

FALL SUITS

GLEN PLAIDS are good this Fall. Glen Plaid Suits have surprised even us! With the popularity of the Glen Plaid pattern in every type of apparel, it's quite natural that men should want it in a smart looking suit. Some of our most conservative customers are calling for them. They've lost their look of boldness and have settled into a permanent place of smartness for business and all occasions. See our Glens in fine worsteds. Single and Double Breasted.

James Robert (AND) Howe, 17-year-old University of Kentucky halfback, ran wild on Kentucky high school gridirons in his senior year at Fort Thomas, Ky., across the Ohio river from Cincinnati. Jim set an individual scoring record for his home high school, which defeated Ashland for the Kentucky state gridiron championship.

The University of Kentucky football team of 1902 was ruined by a mole which dug the hole that tripped and injured one of the team's best players.

Playing with an underdog high school, Norman (Nick) Klein won All-Kentucky backfield fame in 1943. He's a member of the University of Kentucky football team this year.

The University of Kentucky awarded its first athletic letters in 1905.

Bill Chambers, top quarterback on the University of Kentucky football team this season, played basketball but not football last year at the University of Cincinnati. In high school, he was a member of the famous Huntington, W. Va., high school "Pony Express" backfield.
