ZPG Quizzes Candidates

The Lexington chapter of Zero Population Growth (ZPG) issued yesterday a "political orientation" newsletter which sounds Kentucky's congressional candidates on their views on population growth and control.

The newsletter was compiled from a letter and survey sent to candidates in the third through seventh congressional districts, said Doug Hennig, student coordinator for ZPG.

"Since the newsletters came out, we haven't had the time to mail them, so we're just going to make them available on campus and try to get press releases to the Lexington and Louisville people," he said.

ZPG's letter to the candidates said in part, "The astute politician should recognize the opportunity to make political mileage by coming out strongly in favor of population control, for now we have public support and sympathy." The survey asked candidates if they favored a list of population control measures, including:

▶ Setting a national goal of stopping population growth within ten years.

▶ Repeal of all state laws restricting abortion.

▶ Federal or state income tax deductions for the cost of birth control devices, abortions and sterilization.

▶ A constitutional amendment prohibiting discrimination on the basis of sex.

The answers receive by ZPG range from "enthusiastic" to "comical," said Hennig. Here are some excerpts from the newsletter's survey of the candidates:

Third district—Democrat Romano L. Mazzoli favored a national birth control aid program.

Weather

Forecast today: Cool with periods of rain ending tonight. Partly cloudy and cool Friday. High temperature today, low 60's; tonight, mid 40's; tomorrow, mid 50's. Tomorrow's forecast: sunny and a little warmer Saturday. Precipitation probabilities: today, 80 percent; tonight and tomorrow, 20 percent.

but said he believed that "overconcentration of people in urban areas," not overpopulation, was the biggest problem. Mazzoli also supported the repeal of abortion laws, and tax deductions for birth control devices.

Republican William O. Cowger did not reply to the questionnaire, but American party candidate Ronald W. Watson stated that his main environmental concern was "to get rid of the hysterical press agents, bearded college professors, and federal bureaucrats." He answered all questions on the ZPG survey negatively, without elaboration.

Sixth district—Republican Gerald C. Gregory claimed that ZPG's contention that population growth was the nation's most serious problem was "too strong to give complete support," and he favored population control by "moral persuasion" rather than by law. Gregory also said constitutional amendments on sex discrimination and environmental protection were unneeded because "present laws adequately cover most if not all instances." Incumbent John C. Wattel did not reply to the survey.

Seventh district—Rep. Carl D.

Perkins, a Democrat, did not reply to the questionnaire, but his opponent, Herbert E. Myers, questioned ZPG's "sincerity in America and the American way of life."

"So many communist, neo-communist, fascist and such organizations have sent me questionnaires during this campaign that I have a hard time establishing their true identity. Of course I always check my list of communist financed or front organizations."

"It might be a good idea for you to consider the above questions if you do not know too much about the parent organization (of ZPG)," Myers said.

Despite the lack of replies from candidates, Hennig said ZPG would "definitely" prepare new, more complete questionnaires for the upcoming election for governor.

While ZPG has endorsed no candidates for the Nov. 3 election, Hennig said that "if there's one person in the state we'd definitely support, it's Tim Lee Carter (fifth district incumbent).

"He sponsored a population and family planning bill that was very important to ZPG. He's very concerned with the same things we are," he said.

For Early December

Mobe Sets Meeting on War, Poverty

JANICE S. FRANCIS
Kernel Staff Writer

Members of the Student Mobilization Committee (SMC) announced plans last night for a three-day convention on the Vietnam war, poverty, repression and other topics for the first week in December.

Tentatively set for Dec. 4-6, the convention will hopefully include representative from local and statewide groups including SMC, VISTA, Lexington Peace Council, Black Student Union, Zero Population Growth, Environmental Awareness Society, Civil Liberties Union, UK Draft Counseling Service, Women's Liberation and the Pike County Citizen's Association.

According to Dan Mohn, SMC steering committee member, the convention will serve as a means of setting up contacts between "issue-concerned" groups throughout the state.

"It will help them to pull together and work more strongly," stated Mohn.

Each group will set up a workshop, including a speaker and a question and answer period. People attending the convention would attend approximately three workshops, discussing problems and solutions to particular problems.

Mohn stressed his desire that the convention reflect a cross-section of interests from throughout the state, not just those of UK students.

A coordinating committee including a representative from each interested group is expected to be set up within the next week. Steve Dunifer, Transylvania SMC representative, announced that a similar conference is being planned at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Mitchell Fine Arts Building on the Transylvania campus.

Speakers from the NAACP, The Young Democrats and Young Republicans, Student Coalition and the Lexington Peace Council will present views and goals of their organizations.

Mark Paster, SMC member, announced the printing of 8,000 to 10,000 leaflets to be distributed Saturday at the UK-North Carolina State football game and the Lettermen concert. The leaflets will carry a general anti-war message, stressing financial and moral aspects of the Vietnam war.

Paster cautioned leafletting volunteers to conduct the leafletting in a "calm, polite way."

"If people don't want the leaflets, don't give one to them," he said. "If someone wants to argue, it's up to you. If you think you can defend your position, OK."

Paster suggested that if the money and manpower can be arranged, leafletting could continue throughout the remaining football games and be carried over into basketball season.

"SMC needs to make its presence known on this campus," urged Mohn. "We really haven't done much lately."

An Example?

Crossen Says Abortion Stand Contributed to His Arrest

By JEAN RENAKER
Managing Editor

Dr. Phillip Crossen said last night that the recent rock festival held on his farm "wasn't worth" being convicted for.

Speaking before Louisville's professional chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, a national journalistic society, he added that "there is good to come out of it (rock festivals)."

Crossen contended that his favorable stand on abortion and his previous connection with the Lexington-Fayette County Human Rights Commission contributed to his arrest.

He added that he became a "symbol" of someone who "listens to the younger generation" when he furnished his farm to student. He contends that his arrest "supposedly effectively stops anyone" from involvement with young people.

He described the festival, occurring on the weekend of Sept. 18, as "beautiful" and "full of love." The doctor commented that the community is "in bad shape if they can't allow kids to have festivals like this."

Responding to a question from the audience, Crossen said he felt he had grounds for an appeal, but said he didn't appeal because he "also has to practice medicine." He added that he saw "no point in providing a political circus" for E. Lawson King, Fayette County's prosecuting attorney. He later added that King and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew are "in the same camp."

Within You, Without You

The "All-Star Potato Band" sponsored an "event" Wednesday night in the Reynolds Building. Small plastic tubes lead into larger ones while lights, strobe and otherwise, added to the environment. In the end, as participants became "overly involved," all was destroyed.

Government Ignores Harmful Food Additives

"The Chemical Feast," by James Turner, is published by Crossman Publishers and is available in hardcover at $5.95 or paperback at 95 cents.

By JEAN CARPER

Dispatch News Service.
Could there be any more insidious violence to individuals than the institutionalized poisoning of our food supply with the government's knowledge and approval?

That's what this book is about. And in it James Turner brilliantly documents the corruption of purpose that has beset the FDA which is supposed to protect our food supply. As Turner proves, the FDA is much more concerned about the economic position of the food industry than the health of 200 million Americans that is jeopardized by the reckless use of untested and patently harmful food chemicals that can cause a range of hazards, including cancer, heart damage, birth defects, undesirable mutations.

Cyclamates

In an especially timely chapter, which gives valuable insight into the FDA's philosophy of operation, Turner dissects the cyclamate incident. He shows that since 1951 the FDA had evidence that cyclamates caused cancer, but the information was suppressed and even distorted to prove the "safety" of cyclamates, enabling manufacturers to use it with no restrictions at all—in general foods, such as Kool-Aid, vitamins, bacon, fruits and vegetables, as well as soft-drinks.

Even when FDA scientists warned of the danger, they were ignored or reprimanded by their superiors. Altogether it was a disgraceful performance up to the very end when the FDA was finally forced to ban all cyclamates as of Sept. 1, 1970, after their illegal maneuvering to brand it a marketable "drug" was publicly exposed in Congressional hearings. Actually Turner's group—the Center for the Study of Responsive Law headed by Ralph Nader—filed a petition with FDA demanding a complete ban. Three days later the FDA in a hastily called news conference announced the total prohibition on cyclamates, and tried to save face by saying the decision was based on new evidence. Of course, there was no new evidence.

Unfortunately, the cyclamate decision, rightly predicts Turner, "must be viewed as the beginning, not the end of public concern about chemicals in the food supply." For thousands of additives that have never been safety-tested at all are willy-nilly dumped into our food supply. Many are contained on the FDA's so-called GRAS (generally recognized as safe) list which Turner charges is unscientific and illegal. Manufacturers, we find out, are even free to get up their own GRAS lists, using chemicals indiscriminately, without even informing the FDA of what they are using. Thus, the law which requires additives to be tested prior to marketing is openly flouted by the FDA and industry. And the mistakes of FDA are repeated over and over with ourselves as the losers. Now, for example, with saccharin, which is also dangerous and possibly carcinogenic, but FDA continues to keep it on the GRAS list.

In other areas, Turner tells how, unknown to consumers, caffeine is loaded into soft drinks, and how essential foods, such as bread, are stripped of most of their nutrients during manufacture with no replacements. Food is contaminated in the factory with illness-producing bacteria and inedible filth; for example, in soft drinks consumers have found "decomposing mice, maggots, used condoms, cigarette butts." And the FDA makes only pathetic attempts to halt it.

FDA Against Individuals

But if the FDA is reluctant to pursue the big economic interests Turner points out, their abuse of power against a hapless individual they dislike can be frightening. As in the FDA's persecution of Dr. Wilhelm Reich, the well-known avant-garde psychoanalyst, who also had some published beliefs that certain devices could improve health.

"For 13 years," writes Turner, "FDA conducted a vicious campaign to discredit him and his ideas, distorting facts in its possession to achieve that goal." Finally the FDA succeeded in obtaining a ban on the sale of all Reich's books, a destruction of all the documents of his research foundation, and a burning of his books. Turner says, adding that because Reich would not repudiate his views to suit the FDA, he was forced into federal prison where he died.

Turner is a man who thoroughly knows his subject and has done a masterful job of searching out the incriminating facts from long-secret FDA files, and suggesting remedies. After reading this book, one feels that the most needed response is a public uprising to halt this incredible constant assault we are being subjected to from our contaminated food supply through FDA negligence.

TODAY and TOMORROW

The deadline for announcements is 7:30 p.m. two days prior to the first publication of items in this column.

Musical Entertainers!

I am interested in auditioning young talented duos or trios featuring vocals, including attractive female singers. Contemporary, but not rock. Easy listening ballads, folk, Glen Campbell and Johnny Cash arrangements etc. Instrumentation could be organ, or guitar, or piano, or combination. Vocal harmony should be a strong point. This would be entertainment for young adult crowds for listening more than dancing.

GROUP WOULD START THREE NIGHTS (Tue., Wed., Thur.) 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 p.m. AND POSSIBLY EXPAND TO WEEK-ENDS LATER!

Pollution Controls Lacking, State Official Says

FRANKFORT (AP)—About 90 percent of the counties in Kentucky do not have adequate county-wide disposal systems for solid waste, a pollution control official said Wednesday.

Woodrow Smither, assistant director of the state Water Pollution Control Commission, made the comment to the joint legislative subcommittee on environment. The subcommittee, holding its first meeting, elected Rep. John Swinford, D-Cynthiana, as its chairman and Sen. Walter Reichert, R-Louisville, as vice chairman.

Members of the subcommittee agreed they needed to come up with some legislation on pollution control before the 1972 General Assembly. But no suggestions were offered Wednesday.

Smither also noted that the most logical method to dispose of solid waste would be a landfill. In that method, six inches of soil are spread over the waste each night and two feet are spread over the top when the landfill is closed.

But a population of about 20,000 is needed to support the cost of maintaining a landfill, including the necessary equipment, he said.

Cities and counties are allowed to combine to operate a landfill, he said, but few have done so. However, some progress along this line is being made in a 16-county demonstration project in Eastern Kentucky, he added.

A major problem in connection with landfills is getting the public to accept them, Smither said.

Smither and Kenes Bowling, deputy commissioner of natural resources, both exhibited a lack of enthusiasm for placing all agencies involving pollution or environment into a new, single department.

Speaker Blacklist Prohibited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declaring an official House report on campus speakers was issued "solely for the sake of exposure or intimidation," a federal judge Wednesday prohibited its public distribution by the government.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell, in a landmark confrontation between the courts and Congress, ruled the list of 65 so-called militant, radical or Communist-oriented speakers serves no valid legislative purpose.

Gesell permanently enjoined the U.S. public printer from printing the report at public expense. But he specifically refused to prohibit individual congressmen from distributing it on their own.

"There are undoubtedly individuals who would destroy our institutions and form of government," Gesell said in his order.

"If any of them are listed in this report, our Constitution nevertheless preserves their right to speak even though their acts may be restrained."

Gesell's court order appears to be the first ever to prohibit Congress from publicly distributing an official report. And Gesell said it was the first to be based on the doctrine of valid legislative purpose.

Chairman Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., of the House Internal Security Committee—which prepared the report concluding that the campus speaking circuit helps finance "promoters of disorderly and revolutionary activity among students"—said he will appeal Gesell's order.

Gesell said the 25-page report itself states it is not related to any legislation but it intended instead to alert university presidents, alumni and parents "to the extent of campus speaking in promoting the radical revolutionary movement."

USAC Recognizes Stephenson, Blues As Outstanding Academic Advisors

Two professors have recently been honored as outstanding academic advisers. Drs. Thomas O. Blues, associate professor of English, and John B. Stephenson, newly appointed dean of undergraduate studies, were presented $250 checks as tokens of appreciation for their work as counselors and consultants with students.

Terry McCarty, chairman of the subcommittee of the University Student Advisory Committee (USAC) which selected the two professors for the honor last spring, made the presentation.

"In presenting this symbolic award, we as students wish to emphasize the importance of academic advising and to express our gratitude to the many professors who are willing to go beyond a regular advising role and take a real interest in students," Miss McCarty said.

Among the standards singled out by Miss McCarty as a basis for the selection of the two faculty members were quality of academic advising, availability to students, and making their role of adviser an active one.

Dr. Blues, a native of Detroit, is associate professor of English specializing in American literature. Dr. Stephenson, a native of Staunton, Va., joined UK in September 1966 as an assistant professor of sociology with a joint appointment in the College of Medicine Department of Behavioral Science.

Mazzoli. Above the Crowd

Voters in the upcoming Congressional election are faced with the old "slim or none" dilemma that plagued them during the presidential election of 1968.

In Kentucky's seven congressional districts, there just aren't many choices to be made. Two congressmen are running for reelection unopposed. To make matters worse, only one of the remaining five races, the third district contest between incumbent William O. Cowger and State Senator Romano L. Mazzoli, has the earmarks of a responsible political campaign.

In the rest of the races, voters have two choices—slim and none. The contests have fallen victim to mudslinging, innuendo, or apathy.

The fourth district battle between Republican M. G. "Gene" Snyder and Democrat Charles Webster has quickly deteriorated into an exchange of accusation, investigations, and insinuations—from Snyder's charge that Webster has misused political advertising to Webster's call for "complete disclosure" of Snyder's alleged conflict of interests.

But at least that race has some action. In the sixth district, where incumbent John C. Watts opposes Gerald Gregory, the voters seem to have been forgotten. Gregory has youth on his side, but has yet to take a stand on a major issue. Watts, a 19-year veteran of the House, appears to believe that he will be elected by force of habit.

The same is true of fifth and seventh district races. In both contests, nobody—voters or candidates—seems to care who is elected.

That leaves the third district, where the Mazzoli-Cowger battle has drawn national attention as a politically significant contest. Superficially, the candidates both share the "moderate" tag, but Mazzoli has adopted a slightly more liberal stance and has won support from prominent liberal organizations.

Despite that support, the biggest difference between Mazzoli and Cowger is their political philosophies. Cowger is a Republican representative, dedicated to upholding a Republican president as much as the rights and interests of his constituents. Mazzoli, we believe, is a congressman first. For that, if nothing else, he should be chosen over Cowger Nov. 3.

The Dire Need for Bond Issue

The state $48.3 million bond issue has been a victim of the general malaise affecting nearly every contest in this Tuesday's election. That is, a lack of rational discussion.

The Nunn administration, which sponsored the measure, has seen fit to campaign for it quietly, ostensibly to avoid partisanship. This campaign has been so quiet, in fact, that only those who were favorably inclined toward the issue were contacted. The result, of course, has been to keep Kentuckians uninformed.

Despite this, we feel the bond issue should be approved. The money generated by those bonds would provide much needed improvements in facilities for the departments of mental health, education, corrections and child welfare, as well as the Kentucky School for the Blind and the Kentucky School for the Deaf. It would also provide a guaranteed loan fund for small farmers.

All of these facilities are terribly overcrowded now. There are presently 300 mentally ill children in Kentucky awaiting admission to state facilities. Only 23 can be cared for, and these in buildings which were built before the advent of elevators, electricity and indoor plumbing.

At present, Kentucky is housing 2,900 inmates at Eddyville and LaGrange in institutions designed for only 1,900. If the crime rate is to be reduced, these facilities have to be expanded to provide a decent rehabilitation program.

The money allocated to the Department of Education would provide for a vocational-technical institute. If approved, this would be a step in reducing the number of people on the welfare rolls.

If approved, this bond issue would cost the state about $3 million annually. This payment can be handled comfortably within the existing tax revenues and should not cause a rise in taxes.

If Kentuckians are sincere about their cries of "law and order" and their wish to reduce the welfare rolls, they will surely approve this measure Nov. 3.

A Black's Reply to Junot

By ANDREW JOHNSON

Mr. Junot's article serves to epitomize Ron Hale's assertion: "we haven't survived because of white people, we have survived despite them . . .", and the assertion: ". . . you're probably saying 'UK love it or leave it,' and we're saying 'fix it. . .!'"

My concern about being "set straight" demands I reply to the very well organized and tactfully presented bit of tripe appearing in the Oct. 19th Kernel. Although I deplore his choice of words, I think Mr. Junot is right about the "white skin guilt" tactic the Black Student Union is trying to capitalize on.

Now about the BSU pushing this "All us black radicals are cool, mean, militant, and together"—that's not right. That sounds more like the Black Panther Party (excluding the meanness). "All white students, and especially radicals, ain't for shit except for what they can do for us blacks." How the devil did you get that out of ". . . we're fed up with the unmitigated hypocrisy of the white man" (the only time in the article that particular phrase (white man) is used) when ninety-eight percent of the article is pointed towards the administration and coach Rupp?

Hey! How do you know about the alleged "seducing of white freak chicks"? Did all of this go on in the Student Center Grille? In any case, and probably contrary to popular opinion—I do not think that particular faction of social intercourse is any of your damn business!

On the reparations issue: Well, I certainly can not show you a 400 year old black man. But I can show you people, who are still fighting the Civil War, and people suffering because of it. You know, their is something to that "like father, like son" idea. Do a little adding and subtracting and checking-up on your black history. My father's father would be 80, his father would be about 110. That means the latter here would have been born in 1860. The Civil War ended about five years later, and true reconstruction did not start until some time after that. Do you see my point?

Now about that "corner on human suffering and misery." A further investigation into black history will reveal that American slavery was (today they call them tenant farmers) unequaled at any other place in the world, and at any other time. Wrong again, Mr. Junot.

The Bullshit Press office is not as large as the Kernel office but I would have helped you find it. Please remember that there are still people who do not eat, get decent jobs etc. by virtue of their color, and people dying in the streets because they realize this and want to do something about it. The next time you get angry, try counting to ten.

Every twenty or thirty years Appalachia is rediscovered, consequently written about, discussed, worked over, tinkered with and again forgotten. One UK organization does not intend for the problems of this area to once again be swept under the rug.

This group is the Friends of the Pike County Citizens Association (PCCA). This campus element works with PCCA which is a community action program with headquarters in Hellier, Ky.

PCCA is directed by Tom Ramsey, a resident of the county and made up of only Pike County citizens. It is strictly a self-help project sponsoring such activities as challenging the strip-mining of big Bethlehem Steel Company, lobbying for welfare reforms, pressuring local government to repair dangerous roads made worse by overloaded coal trucks, or operating a sewing center.

The purpose of the campus branch, according to a member of the steering committee, Mary Brown, is "simply to do the things the mountaineers ask us to do." This means to provide research, manpower and funds. One example of its functions is a Mountain Music Program to be presented Friday night which will hopefully raise funds and help to cultivate an appreciation for mountain culture.

Replacing Che and Mao

Palestinian Commandos: New Idols of the Left

NEW YORK (AP) — Move over Che Guevara and Mao Tse-tung and make room for the Palestinian commandos, the new heroes of the radical left.

The kind of adulation that young leftists once reserved for Che, seen as a martyr leading a guerrilla band through the jungles of Bolivia, is today evoked for the Arab commandos.

New Leftist and Black Panther, white radical and black who often disagree on other issues, find common cause in the commandos' struggle against Israel.

Innocent Victims

Radical groups picture the Palestinians as innocent victims left homeless by Western imperialism, and depict Israel as a "racist, Zionist state."

These groups say it is not a question of being anti-Jewish. It is a case, they claim, of choosing sides between Israel—a state they see as carved out by the Western nations and owing its existence mainly to the United States—and, on the other hand, the nearly 1 1/2 million Palestinian refugees seeking a homeland.

Arab countries have become a mecca for some radicals. They turn up there as fugitives from the United States or as political tourists.

Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver, a fugitive, lives in Algeria, where the Panthers have an office.

Recent arrivals there were Dr. Timothy Leary, who escaped from a California prison where he was serving a term on drug charges; his wife Rosemary, and Jennifer Dohm, sister of fugitive Weatherman leader Bernardine Dohmi, who is on the FBI's most wanted list.

Some sources said the Learys and Miss Dohm were touring the Middle East as guest of Al Fatah, the largest of the Palestinian commando groups, but a Fatah spokesman denied this. The Lebanese government expelled Leary, and it was expected he would return to Algeria from Beirut.

Freedom-loving

Radical literature depicts the guerrillas as freedom-loving revolutionaries seeking a return to their land and dedicated to bringing a just peace to the Middle East.

This claim runs through the radical rhetoric and is piped to the American underground press through Liberation News Service, (LNS) which has two correspondents reporting from the Middle East.

The March 1970 issue of "Militant," the publication of the Young Socialist Alliance, had this to say following an explosion aboard a Swissair jet:

"The truth, though, is that in fact a Palestinian individual or organization had anything to do with the crash of the Swissair liner, the 47 people who died were as much victims of imperialism as... the 400 Vietnamese men, women and children of Son My and the six million Jews of central and eastern Europe."

Glamorize Commandos

Observers of the radical scene see it as only natural that the New Left and the Panthers sympathize with and glamorize the commandos.

"The commandos satisfy the three qualifications for New Left heroes," says J. Kirk Sale, who is writing a history of the SDS-Students for a Democratic Society.

"They are fighting against capitalism, that is Israel. They are doing it with guns, and they are part of the Third World."

"There is a self-identification with the commandos. The radical left see themselves coming to power as urban street fighters, carrying guns like the commandos."

Some of the radicals who sympathize with the commandos are Jewish, although other Jewish radicals support Israel.

Fred Cohn is 30, Jewish, a lawyer whose law groups' clients include the Black Panthers on trial for conspiring to bomb buildings in New York.

"Israel is a Socialist state and has a lot of good things in it. Yet, they resort to some of the same tactics the Nazis used," he said referring to the taking of Arab hostages to retaliate for the detention of the hijacked passengers.

Governments Corrupt

"The Arab governments are totally corrupt. But the Palestinians are becoming a true revolutionary force. They are the only tool for social change in the Mideast."

Cohn sees no contradiction between his being Jewish and his position on the Mideast, which he terms a purely political stance.

Another Jew, Sharon Rose, wrote in the June 1970 issue of "Win," a radical publication:

"The revolution will come to Israel. There are indications that some left-wing Israelis have learned that they must help build it. The Palestinian Arabs will gain self-determination despite the best efforts of the present regimes of the Arab states and their American oil company supporters."

Unbeaten Kittens Meet Vanderbilt

By SAM CHANDLER
Kernel Staff Writer

"This could very well be the beginning of a new era in UK football. If we can back up this team with another class as talented as this one next year, this may well be what we need."

The speaker is Carroll Huntress, head coach of the UK Freshman football team. And Huntress is confident that his team may truly initiate a new outlook of the UK football program.

Kittens Play Vandy

The unbeaten Kittens will try to boost this theory when they entertain a very fast Vanderbilt Frosh team. Game time is now set for 3 p.m. at Stoll Field, an hour earlier than the usual starting time.

Friday's game will give UK fans another look at how the Kittens rate in the SEC.

The Commodores lost their first two contests, 28-9, to Louisville, and 37-7, to Alabama. Last week, though, they came from behind to edge the Tennessee Baby Vols, 24-20.

The Kittens beat the same team in their opener, 19-14.

Vandy's offense consists of a well-balanced attack. Their leading rusher is Jamie O'Rourke, a halfback who is rushing at a 3.9 average per carry. Walter Overton, a speedy quarterback, is the second leading runner as well as being the top passer. He has thrown for 256 yards and three touchdowns.

The Commodores have an excellent receiver in 6-foot-3 Mark Dietrich, who has caught six passes for 152 yards and three touchdowns.

UK Has Strong Running

The Young Wildcats will depend heavily on the running of their talented backfield. Four Kittens are averaging over five yards per run thus far, led by Doug Kotar, who has ground out an average of 7.7.

Quarterback Mike Fanuzzi has been very impressive as a runner. He has racked up 212 yards and two touchdowns for better than a 6-yard norm.

Fullback Frank Lemaster is averaging 5.6 per carry, and Mark Campbell, who has handled the ball most, has amassed 237 yards.

The Kittens can also look to their passing game for assistance.

UK Scores Again

The UK girls field hockey team scores one of its six goals in a 6-0 victory over Eastern Kentucky. The game was played Wednesday afternoon at the soccer field.

Fanuzzi leads the hurlers with 138 yards passing, including three touchdown strikes. Ron Sciarro, who broke many of Joe Namath's high school records in Pennsylvania, has a 64 percent completion average.

Jeff Woodcock and Jack Alvarez are the leading receivers on the team.

Woodcock has grabbed eight passes for 70 yards, and Alvarez has caught seven throws for 86 yards and two touchdowns.

VPI Win Not Impressive

In their last outing, the Young Wildcats defeated the freshmen of Virginia Tech, 38-20. The coaches were not overall pleased, however, by the Kittens performance.

"As coaches, we are disappointed," Huntress said. "We made too many mistakes and our execution was bad. We just played sloppy ball."

Haggin A-2 Wins

Haggin A-2 defeated B-2 in the finals of the Haggin Hall football tournament Wednesday night, 20-13.

Haggin B-2 won the dormitory division of intramural football earlier in the month.

How did the Kittens beat VPI then? "We out-personnelled them," Huntress continued. "We had more speed than they did."

"Sure we scored 38 points, but we scored them on ability and not on execution."

The Kittens have been hampered somewhat by injuries this week. Fanuzzi and tackle Bubba McCollum have practiced only sparingly, "but they should be able to play Friday," according to Huntress.

Many of the linemen have had to play both offensively and defensively. Huntress named Jim Hovey, Mike Foster and Harvey Sword as players who have been outstanding on both sides of the line.

Huntress considers that the biggest factor for the Kittens' success is speed.

"This team has the overall speed to be good. Speed is the number one ingredient for a good team."

Is a new era dawning?

Powderpuff Football

By BILL FORSYTH

Kernel Staff Writer

Powderpuff football moved into its second week Monday afternoon with Chi Omega sorority holding off a late Kappa Delta rally for 12-6 win.

Betsy Baldwin scored for the winners in the first half, but the KD's Kay Beard tied the game with a long run as the half ended.

The game was finally decided in the second half when Judy Jones ran for the final touchdown.

Jane Phillips and Elinore Hedges played outstanding defense throughout the game, stopping KD drives on numerous occasions.

Valerie Decourey raced the length of the field on a punt return to pull the Tri Delt's past Alpha Delta Pi, 6-0.

The win brought the Tri Delt record to 2-0 and dropped the AD Pi's to 1-1. The Tri Delt defense has not been scored on this season.

Delta Gamma rallied in the second half to whip ZTA, 21-14.

The ZTAs led at the end of the first half, 8-7, but were unable to hold the Big Pink Machine the second half, when the DC's scored two touchdowns.

Diane Dutton, the Pink Flash, accounted for all the DC scoring and was aided by the defensive play of Sue Harris and Barbara Synder.

The DC's are presently averaging over 30 points per game.

In action last Thursday, Adria Doorman ran for two and Jane Marty scored another as the Gamma Phi's downed Alpha Chi Omega, 18-2.

A fumble in the end zone dissolved any chances for a shutout accounted for Alpha Chi Omega's only score.

Alpha Gamma Delta intercepted a pass for a score in the first half and scored another in the second in shutting out the Pi's, 12-0.

In the final game Thursday, Alpha Delta Pi beat a determined Delta Zeta team, 23-12, in a free scoring battle.

Nixon's Tour Receives Warm and Wet Welcome

LONGVIEW, Tex. (AP) — President Nixon, pressing his campaign to elect Republican senators in Florida and Texas, declared Wednesday his administration's economic policies are working and "inflation has been checked and will slow still further."

on the economic situation, the chief target of Democratic campaign efforts across the nation, in a statement as he arrived in Texas to campaign for George Bush and Paul Eggers, the Republican candidates for senator and governor in this heavily Democratic state.

against big spending," Nixon said, "we see signs on every hand that our economic strategy is working."

Besides the slowing of inflation, he said: "Interest rates are definitely on the way down and housing starts are up."

Nixon spoke at St. Petersburg, Fla., earlier in the day drawing repeated applause from a crowd of about 10,000, many of them school children let out of classes for the day. As they arrived at Bayfront Center Auditorium in St. Petersburg, Nixon and Kirk got their feet wet. An enthusiastic crowd outside overturned one of the drums of water that was set up to hold a rope barricade.

The crowd of several thousand unable to get in the auditorium cheered the President as he circled the parking lot in his car. The dousing occurred when he got out to shake a few hands.

As the President headed back to the Clearwater airport for the flight to Tallahassee, his motorcade was delayed by the crash of an escort motorcycle.

A police officer, Donald Leadbeater, was lying on the ground in obvious pain from a broken foot and arm, and Nixon got out of his car to talk with him.

Offers Condolences

"We certainly appreciate your work," he told the officer, promising to send him a note. Nixon asked aides for presidential pens and presented them to Leadbeater.

As at his other Florida stops, the Tallahassee rally drew a small band of hecklers. For the first time on this trip, Nixon acknowledged their presence, pointing to them when he said his Vietnam policies are designed to assure that "these men" don't have to go to Vietnam or to fight in another war.

Towards the close of the President's remarks, at least two protesters were arrested by police.

'In Loco Parentis' Flourishes, Bright Tells Greek Gathering

The "in loco parentis" doctrine not only exists, but flourishes, at the University, student body President Steve Bright told Theta Chi fraternity Wednesday evening.

Bright said that many were under the impression that the concept of the University making decisions of a non-academic nature for students was abandoned in 1967 with the adoption of the student code.

He said that he was shocked recently to find out that the University openly embraced the "in loco parentis" concept.

He cited a regulation prohibiting members of the opposite sex in fraternity houses after 1 a.m. on weekends as an example. Everyone is aware of the existence of such rules, he said, but few realize that the "in loco parentis" principle is the justification for them.

"I was under the impression that this ancient concept had been abandoned by most progressive institutions of higher learning," Bright said. "Perhaps not."

Bright maintained that students should be allowed to decide their own life styles, pointing out that "if it were really necessary for the University to closely govern life styles, everyone would be required to live in some type of University housing where the University could regulate their behavior."

"In this era, that's absurd," he added.

Bright also said that students who are unhappy with the quality of teaching at the University should do something about it.

"It seems to be universally accepted within the student body that the teaching and advising is poor," he said. "But complaining about it constantly to other students isn't getting anything done—there are many things the individual can do such as write your department chairman or dean."

Europeans Becoming Aware of U.S. Elections

LONDON (AP) - Thanks largely to Spiro Agnew, Europeans are gradually becoming aware that the United States is about to hold mid term elections.

The vice president's alliterative utterances seem to have done the most to break through public consciousness on this side of the Atlantic. Press interest in the campaign, apart from the vice president's role, has been muted but is picking up with the approach of next Tuesday.

Agnew's approach has tended to identify the contest, in many European eyes, as the White House and its allies in the "silent majority" versus forces of smut and permissiveness.

Europeans understand the Republican objective of taking as many seats as possible from the Democratic majorities in the Senate and House. They find it difficult to penetrate the mysteries which lump disparate politicians from left to right in the same party.

So far the French press has virtually ignored the election. Here are reports from other countries:

Britain

Richard Scott, U.S. Correspondent of the Guardian, noted that Nixon would gain from the Senate race in Texas whichever candidate won. He described the Democrat candidate and his Republican rival as conservatives with identical political views who would both support Nixon policies in the Senate. He christened them "Tweedle Dem and Tweedle Rep."

British press comment has been fairly extensive, with notable efforts to explain the issues involved and unravel the more intricate corners of the political scene.

Italy

Ugo Stille, New York correspondent of the Milan daily Corriere della Sera, was intrigued by Nixon's "decision to intervene in such a massive and explicit way in the political battle." He described the move as a risk.

Sweden

Reports in Swedish newspapers have been concerned with Edward M. Kennedy's chances of gaining in political strength.

The Stockholm labor newspaper Aftonbladet labeled the Nixon and Agnew campaign "dirty, with McCarthy-style hounding of radicals." It claimed that in response to Republican strategy, the Democrats were hurriedly shifting rightward and that some Democrat candidates were "using the same language as Nixon."

Switzerland

Peter Studer, Washington correspondent of the Zurich Tagesanzeiger, wrote: "Spiro T. Agnew, the incarnate 'silent majority' of disturbed America, a man who believes in constitution and fatherland, in the 'good' and in punishment . . . as self-appointed missionary of the President, he carries Richard Nixon's political philosophy to the people."

Holland

In Amsterdam, the liberal Handelsblad-NRC thought it significant that New York mayor John Lindsay endorsed Democrat candidate Arthur Goldberg for governor rather than Nelson Rockefeller.

Lindsay, the paper said, has presidential ambitions and the Democratic party lacks a man with "Lindsay's appeal."

West Germany

In West Germany the news-magazine Der Spiegel said American politicians "can bring themselves to the public by virtue of money and the cathode ray tube."

Hans Achim Weseloh, Washington correspondent of the conservative Frankfurter Allgemeine, reported that U.S. experts expect the last phase of the elections "will be the dirtiest there has been for a long time."

Poland

In Poland the official Communist paper Trybuna Ludu spoke of uneasy relations between Nixon and Congress. It said:

"The coalition of liberal and moderate senators of both parties, led by the Democratic majority, questioned military expenditure, the Indochina intervention, the build-up of strategic weaponry. They upset two White House candidates to the Supreme Court and sabotaged the President's course toward conservatism."

Correction

Wednesday's Kernel incorrectly stated that Zero Population Growth (ZPG) sponsored a debate at the Newman Center on abortion. Actually, the debate between Drs. William Roddick and Michael McQuillan was sponsored by the Newman Center as a part of the Center's Lecture-Discussion Series.

SG Sets Campaign Rules

Student Government fall elections for the SG Assembly will be held Thursday, Nov. 19. A set of rules governing those elections was accepted by the SG Assembly last Thursday.

Polling for students living on-campus will take place from 11:15 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. and 4:15 p.m. to 7 p.m. Sites for on-campus voting are the Complex Commons, Donovan Hall Cafeteria and the Blazer Cafeteria.

Off-campus voting will take place from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Classroom Building, King Library and the Student Center.

All candidates are required to pay a $5 fee when they file. The fee will be refunded if the candidate removes all of his campaign material from the campus within 48 hours after the polls close.

The elections standards also limit the amount of money a candidate can spend to $15. Parties can spend $25, with the stipulation that "the estimated retail value . . . for a party shall not exceed $25 with this sum divided by the number of candidates that the party is running and the resulting sum subtracted from the $15 allowed each of the parties' candidates."

The regulations for the election also provide that no campaign literature is allowed in classrooms or in the polling areas on election day.

Results of the elections will be announced on Thursday, Nov. 24.

AN OPEN LETTER TO ALL UK SENIORS:

Your 1971 KENTUCKIAN is being planned right now—these plans include a separate Senior supplement to come out in May, in addition to the regular September issue.

This supplement will include senior interviews concerning campus issues, pictures and other features during the past four years, and of course your senior pictures (approximately 2-3" in size).

We're looking forward to putting this paperback supplement together—we don't mind taking the extra time to make two yearbooks.

Won't you take the time to make an appointment for your pictures—by calling 258-4824, it won't be much of a yearbook without your picture.

Sincerely,
Susan Grimsley
