INDIANA UNIVERSITY VICTIM OF WILDCATS

3-1 Defeat Handed Hoosiers In Opening Game on Stoll Field

MAC WHIFFS TWELVE

Aggressive stickwork together with a loose performance on the part of the Hoosier infield in the first inning accounts for the three scores made by the Blue and White baseball tossers in their opening game with the Indiana University nine on Stoll Field, Tuesday afternoon when they defeated the 1916 champions of the Big Nine conference by the score of 3 to 1.

And his name is McClellan. The star pitcher for the Wildcats was the big doings thruout the entire nine innings. He had the opposing batters under his thumb so completely that they were able to make only a very few scattered safeties off of his masterful delivery. The Springfield wizard whiffed an even dozen Hoosiers and came within an ace of pitching a no-run game. Their lone tally came in the final frame when, after McClellan had given the first man up a free pass to the first sack, two consecutive bingles were made.

The Kentucky players acted in the following manner during their spasmodic session at the bat in the first inning. Scotty, the lead-off man, was given a passport. Charlie Haydon sacrificed, Scott advancing to the key-stone sack. Chicken Park, the old Krupp, then came to the plate and smacked the first ball pitched to the right field fence. Scotty ambled home with the first marker and Curt took his stand at the triple corner where he scored on a wild pitch by the martyr in the box.

Waters was up next. He popped an easy one to the third baseman. With two men out and the bases void, George Park advanced to the rubber and cracked out a single. He advanced and scored on successive bingles by Jones and Rodes. Roark retired the side when he was struck out.

The team, collectively, showed up well for so early in the season, to such a good advantage, in fact, that they bid fair to cop the majority of contests in which they engage. Cambron, the only new man to be sent in, replaced Roark at second in the fifth, accepted three chances without a bouble, and looks good. Rodes covered

FRED O. MAYES WINS ORATORICAL CONTEST

Will Represent Patterson Society In Contest With Union

DR. PATTERSON IS 84

Fred O. Mayes, a Junior in the College of Arts and Science, was the winner of the annual oratorical contest of the Patterson Literary Society, which was held in chapel Monday night. Mr. Mayes' subject was "Chaos, Cosmos," in the discussion of which he gave a picture of the present world war, ending with a vision of what peace will bring. He will represent the society in the annual contest with the Union Society.

It was announced at the contest that the will of President Emeritus James K. Patterson contains a clause providing for a $200 scholarship to be used by the society in honor of the "grand old man" of the University.

Dr. Patterson was unable to accept the society's invitation to attend the contest and present the medal, which he gives the society each year.

Other speakers who participated in the contest were: J. W. Kallbreier, "The Fatal Thrill"; Hume Wilson, "The Practical Dream," and A. B. Crawford, "The Dignity of Man." Judges of the contest were: Dr. Edward Tuthill, who presented the medal, and Professors Bradley and Jones.

The oratorical contest of the Patterson Society is held annually on Dr. Patterson's birthday, Monday was the eighty-fourth anniversary of the "grand old man's" birth and he spent most of the day at his home on the campus, receiving congratulations and best wishes from his many friends.

Dr. Patterson became president of the University in 1869 and under his supervision and guidance the institution grew from a small college into a University. Dr. Patterson retired from active service in 1910, but he still takes the same deep interest in the University.

UNIVERSITY'S TRACK ARTISTS WIN RELAY

The University relay team, composed of Kinne, Grabfelder, Kahn and Knight, won the midnight relay race held at the track meet in the Armory at Louisville Saturday, March 24, outclassing the teams from the University of Louisville, Georgetown College and Berea College.

The four men with Dr. J. J. Tigert left Lexington on the L. & N. Saturday morning to attend the meet. In the 80-yard dash held that morning, Grabfelder won the preliminaries and in the finals came fourth. Irvin Mahl, of the Columbia Athletic Club, broke the world's record in this event. The team with their coach returned Sunday afternoon.

HEN 707 EXCEEDING EGG-LAYING RECORD

The Kernel, following the lead of the daily papers, would not feel complete unless it had more space devoted to Hen 707 than to the war in Europe and domestic disturbances in America. This busy biddy has now tied the consecutive daily laying record with eighty-two straights. From our contemporaries we glean the following facts:

Hen 707 not only lays eggs, but eats, drinks and sleeps after the manner of other chickens. In order to get to her food when it is covered with foreign substances she scratches. Also, after every egg she cackles. Maybe she is only laughing at the referee and his assistant accountants.

The following will watch the coop today to see that the daily egg is laid as per schedule: Professor R. H. Wilkins, Professor J. J. Hooper and Ralph Kenney. Students of the Ag. Department will ask for a holiday in case the egg is laid.

PHILOSOPHIAN PLAY READY FOR CURTAIN

"A Southern Cinderella" To Be Presented Saturday Night

CAST WELL TRAINED

Finishing touches are being put on the annual play of the Philosophian Literary Society, "A Southern Cinderella," which will be presented in Buell Armory Saturday night, March 31.

For several weeks the members of the cast have been working on the production under the direction of Mrs. Will Irwin, who has coached several successful plays for the Lexington High School.

This is the fifth annual play the society has presented. Last year a splendid performance of "Twelfth Night" was given. Several members of last year's cast will appear in "A Southern Cinderella."

A room at Patterson Hall has been furnished with the proceeds from former plays. The money this year will be used to start a library for the society.

The cast is as follows:
Madame Charteris, an old aristocrat—Louise Will.
Johnnie Bell Randolph, a coquette—Vivian DeLaine.
Miss Rosie Ainterberry, a settlement worker—Eyril Richmond.
Enid Bellamy, a Southern Cinderella—Elizabeth McGowan.
Katherine Hawke, an English nurse—Zula Ferguson.
Caroline Hawke, her sister, an adventuress—Edith Sachs.
Mammy Judy Johnson, a black Blue-grass widow—Esther Helburn.

INTEREST IN TENNIS REVIVED THIS YEAR

Stiff Schedule Arranged With Kentucky College Teams

WILL AWARD LETTERS

Contrary to former years, tennis promises to assume an important position in the realm of sports at the University this spring. The sport was revived last season, when our racquet artists carried away two of three matches they played.

Five games have already been arranged for this season by the manager, two to be played with Georgetown College, two with Kentucky Wesleyan and one with Centre College. Arrangements for a trip to Knoxville, where the team will engage the University of Tennessee boys, are also being made.

With Captain Kinne and Paul Anderson, Jr., two of last season's team, as a nucleus, the University should be able to account for most of the matches. Besides these men there are several others who expect to try hard for positions. Letters will be awarded to the team members as in other sports.

Besides the match games arranged with the several Kentucky colleges, a tournament will be held in Lexington, either on the University courts or at Woodland Park to decide the champion team of the State. All Kentucky colleges were asked to join this and Berea, Georgetown, Centre, Kentucky Wesleyan and Kentucky responded to the invitation. Plans for this tournament were outlined about two weeks ago by representatives of the various colleges who met here. R. G. Demaree, of Kentucky Wesleyan; A. C. Bruner, of Centre; E. S. Walne, of Georgetown, and McClarty Harbison, of Kentucky, were present at this meeting.

DECLAMATORY CON- TEST SATURDAY

The members of the Union Literary Society will compete in a declamatory contest in the society room Saturday night at 7 o'clock for the possession of the history set recently presented the society by Judge Barker.

The history is in five cloth-bound, gilt-edged illustrated volumes. All those desiring to enter the contest must present their names to the president of the society at once.

DEAN LAFFERTY ILL.

Judge W. T. Lafferty, dean of the College of Law, has been ill at his home on East Maxwell Street for several days. During his absence, J. D. V. Chamberlain, Senior in the Law Department, has had charge of his work.

FOUR-YEAR MILITARY COURSE IS ADOPTED

Provisions For Reserve Of- ficers' Training Corps Accepted

UNIFORMS FURNISHED

Provisions of the National Defense Act, recently adopted by Congress establishing a Reserve Officers' Training Corps at the University, were accepted by the Executive Board at its session last Wednesday. A four-year course in military science, leading to a bachelor of science degree, to be directed by the commandant, was also established by the Executive Board.

Under the new plan the cadets will be required to drill five hours a week instead of three and they will come under more direct supervision of the War Department.

Uniforms will be furnished cadets by the War Department during their Freshman and Sophomore years. After drilling two years, students may elect to drill for the remaining years of their University course or they may be excused as at present. If they adopt the former course they will be given an allowance of 30 cents a day, together with a uniform for each year they drill.

After serving four years in the battalion, students are eligible for six months' service attached to a unit of the regular army with a Second Lieutenant rank, for which they will receive a salary of $100 per month.

The military course is designed to interest University students in military training and at the same time give them a liberal education with collateral studies in various departments. Captain John C. Fairfax will direct the course.

At the same session of the board, $3,000 was appropriated for carrying on the work of the Probe Committee, upon recommendation of Chairman R. G. Gordon, of the Probe Committee.

Fire escapes were ordered installed at Patterson Hall in accordance with recommendations of the State Fire Marshal.

The Committee of Deans, composed of Dean F. Paul Anderson, Dean A. M. Miller and Captain John C. Fairfax, made the following recommendation in regard to adopting the provisions of the Reserve Act:

"To the Executive Committee, Board of Trustees, University of Kentucky:

"The Committee of Deans, having been directed to make recommendations regarding the adoption of the military system known as the 'Reserve Officers' Training Corps,' which system is embodied in the National Defense Act, an act of Congress of June 3, 1916, do therefore respectfully make recommendation as follows:

"1. That the proper authority of the University of Kentucky make to the War Department an application to have established and maintained at

Cincinnati Mayor Says Hard Work Necessary To Achieve It

SPEAKS TO SENIORS

"A sound body, a sound mind and a fixed purpose, something to strive for, spells success," said Mayor George Puchta, of Cincinnati, in addressing the Seniors in the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering Tuesday, on the subject, "How to Attain Success." "You never knew of any great building being built without a plan. So it is with a man.

"One of the principal elements in attaining success is work," he said. "You have got to do it. If you would succeed you can't get away from it. This world is so constituted that some must lead and some must follow. There must be employers and employees. And we who are employees must serve loyally, giving more than we are paid to give.

"James J. Hill, the great railroad builder, summed up the reason for his success in words characteristic of the whole attitude of the man. 'When I was a brakeman receiving $40 a month I did $80 worth of work.'

"There was never before such an opportunity for success for men who can and will think and work. The leaders of business are searching for young men who are willing to put character into their work, honest and thoro effort. Character, young men, is the big thing you must seek to build.

"This is a world of sacrifice. I believe no man has accomplished anything worth while without sacrifice. Men who have succeeded are those who were willing to sacrifice themselves for what they were seeking to accomplish. Everything must be done in a moderate degree, however. There must be time for recreation, for fun, enjoyment and for sport and athletics."

Mayor Puchta was elected Mayor of Cincinnati by the largest majority ever given any mayor of an Ohio city. He is president of an engineering supply house of the Queen City and is familiar with many of the difficult problems which confront a young engineer.

While at the University, Mayor Puchta was the guest of F. Paul Anderson, dean of the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering.

REV. BUSH SPEAKER AT Y. M. C. A. MEETING

"The mission of the great world-nation is to receive what has been given by those who have gone before, to use it, add something and pass it on," said the Rev. Benjamin J. Bush, speaking at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday night on the subject, "The Mission of a Nation."

We must learn to live together and build this country into a brotherhood as strong as we may. No nation other than America was ever charged with being the richest nation of the world, and idle wealth is as dangerous as dynamite in the earth. America faces a great task. It has a great duty to perform, and it can perform this duty only if every man of you does his share."

"FOURS AND THREES" SPEAKER'S SUBJECT

W. B. Ward, of Sandy Valley Seminary, Talks In Chapel

TALK IS INTERESTING

"All things naturally divide themselves into fours and threes. Today's quadrum is science, mathematics, history and arts. Today's trivium is economic prosperity, social employment and religious peace," said Professor W. B. Ward, of Sandy Valley Seminary, in a chapel address to the students on "Fours and Threes" Tuesday. "There's enough potentiality in the heads of the young men and women here to revolutionize the educational methods of Kentucky in the next ten years.

Professor Ward said that the only difference between us is that some of us think while we work and some of us work without thinking. Following are more of Professor Ward's "Fours and Threes."

"Four things have gone before. The civilization of the Nile, medieval civilization, the Atlantic slope civilization, and the Pacific slope civilization, a civilization which was just about to commence when the European war broke out. In my opinion, the Pacific slope civilization will be a big conflict between the yellow and the white races.

"The four and three of great ideas is that the Jews originated righteousness, the Greeks originated reason, Rome first developed discipline and the Anglo Saxon idea was the idea of service to mankind. The day of common brotherhood is gone. Men inherited the first three and are a part of the fourth."

Professor Ward pictured the map of the United States as the life of a man. "The Atlantic coast plain is representative of infancy. When the pioneers first began to explore the country in which they lived they climbed up the Appalachian mountain side. That was youth. Down the other side of that slope is the dead level of service. When we are mounting the Rocky Mountain slope we are taking a retrospective; into the Pacific Ocean is like going into eternity.

"The passions are anger, hate, envy and jealousy. Their cures, the threes, are sympathy, pity and forgiveness. The love quadrum is the love of country, love of home, love of mankind and love of God.

"Kentucky's old quadrum was the blue-backed speller, a bottle of milk, a hunk of cornbread and a sore toe. Her trivium was reading, writing and arithmetic. Even the seasons themselves divide up into four. The sun, the moon and the stars constitute a three."

giving them practical pointers on the treating of steam pipes and wires so as to withstand all attacks of heat and cold.

MAKERS OF HISTORY

Four years ago the little town of Cadiz, Kentucky, sent a representative to the University of Kentucky in the person of Frank Street, then a country youth who marveled at the sight of the tall buildings and other wonders of the city. But that wonderment has long since ceased and Street now enters the Fayette National Bank Building as nonchalantly as he would enter the New Dorm, tho there is considerable difference in the structures.

Street had not been at the University long before the old students were forced to acknowledge that the country youth was one of the coming big men of the institution. Now, in his Senior year, Street is considered one of the most prominent students in the University and is allied with many organizations.

After graduating from the Cadiz High School, Street decided to further his education and consequently came to the University; and that his aforesaid education has been furthered can not be doubted. Why, friends, even in his Sophomore year he became a member of Alpha Zeta, which, in the parlance of the streets (no pun intended) is "some punkins." And such a figure of speech is not altogether amiss when it is understood that Street is purely an agriculturist.

Street was a member of the apple-judging team that represented the University of Kentucky in 1916 at the national contest. While the team representing this institution did not stand very high in the judging contest, our hero was placed fifth. And there were expert judges from all parts of the country at the meet.

Our hero has a leaning toward Patt Hall that compares favorably with the tower of Pisa. He just can't stay away from the hall and on any pretext journeys thither. But you can't rule him off for that, as our friend the English instructor would say.

Men are known by the works they leave. Street is editor of the Kentuckian. It will be some spicy book. And Street already has intimated that he will leave as soon as the edition is off the press. Even as the first edition rolls from the presses our hero doubtless will be seeking the tall, uncut where outraged students and indignant instructors will hesitate to follow.

By the way, Street is a member of the Mystic Circle and president of the Senior ags. In the list of his accomplishments these were about to be omitted.

When June rolls around, as it has been wont to do in years past, Street will receive his sheepskin and depart for home, where he will engage in the ancient and honorable work of tilling the soil. Our hero will go back to the farm and mingle once again with the cows and chickens. Perhaps after he returns and becomes well established in his community he sometime will get lonely, and, as spring approaches—but one must avoid sentiment in such articles.

The Merry Springtime.

Spring has come again and the staff of the Kernel insists that the time for the annual March editorial on the beauties of Nature has arrived. So be it. Fain would we write of babbling brooks and little birds afflitter and atwitter in the boughs but newly sprung into bud. Fain would we describe the first pangs of the young man, whose fancy lightly turns and twists until his neck is all awry and his brain is dizzy as if just off the merry-go-round. Yes, we must admit that these days of March wind and bright, clear sunshine are conducive to many turnings of youth's dainty fancy.

What so characteristic as springtime in the dorm! Behold blankets hung forth to air; behold renewed interest in the more-than-weekly bath; behold the melancholy "dorm rat," his hair sleek with eau de cologne and his face cracked with too much soap, timidly approaching Patt Hall by way of the chicken ladder in the evening. The ripple of the sweet waters of the Italian lake as they strike the multifarious tin cans that the kind garbage men of Lexington have cast from its precipitous shores is to his ears as sweet as the music of the fabled pipes of Pan. The sweet hamburger-laden breezes from Bill's are to his nostrils as pleasant as the aromatic odors of an Arabian oasis. And to the dainty co-ed who dwells in the depths of Patterson Hall the glowing beacon of his ten for a nickel cigarette is like unto the sight of a rescue ship to a stranded mariner on a desert island.

What so characteristic as spring in the boarding house! Avaunt the bacon and beans of the long winter; enter with great eclat the festive egg and the red radish and the juicy greens, mustard and dandelion. Off with the pie and on with the ice cream. Salad and sliced ham occupy the places of honor vacated by country "sassage" and the despised "dog." The toothsome and beneficial diet of the springtime makes countless thousands smile.

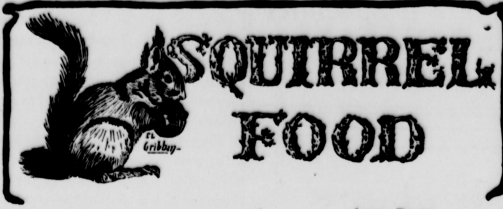

Every student, weary of the toil of a long and arduous winter, feels again upon him the eternal spell of romance. What one of them in dreams does not desire to be transported to some beauteous South Sea Island, where the little monkeys swing by their tails from tree to tree, clutching the hard-shell cocoanut and the golden banana and singing "Yama Yama" in their natural language, while the gibbous moon sends down a beneficent beam to temper the warm velvet of the tropic night? How sweet 'twould be to hear the song of the oyster bird at eventide as the purple sun sinks into the purpler deep, baying like a hound for his favorite food to come to the surface. There let us go to see and listen to the tropic girl, dancing the hula hula in her skirt of grass scarcely longer than that of her civilized sisters on the ballroom floor and singing plaintively the native Hawaiian music written in New York. Roll on, sweet visions, on and on! Hit the pipe again.

Spring is with us once again. Do we not hear rumors from afar of races soon to come? The baseball field is populated vociferously and the battalion is doing daily duty. Just when the iron benches will be brought from the coal bin of Patt Hall and placed in the yard is an important topic of conversation.

So we begin another chapter in the sweet-scented manuscript of youth. Another spring shall come and we know not whither we shall be. The world's gone mad for blood and no man knows when his will redder the green. Perhaps another spring will find America's Easter finery but sackcloth and ashes; perhaps another spring will find Kentucky's sons on foreign strands and Kentucky's daughters in the hospitals tending the wounded.

But no matter. Spring is here and we are here. Hey ho, and hey nonny no, as the Bard of Avon had it long ago.

The feminine contingent of the University protest that the heading of this department leaves them out and suggest that it be called in the future, "Squirrel and Poultry Food."

Several students no doubt will have A. M. after their names when they leave college, the A. M. meaning Ada Meade, however. They all seem to be making A plus in this, as usual.

Excellent training for the battalion and practice for possible European war service, would be to have them drill daily in the beautiful "Italian Lake," using the new concrete bridge for breastworks. A few days of such drill would serve also to supply patients for the co-ed branch of the Red Cross. Preliminary training of this sort would fit the survivors to be excellent soldiers for work in France. No doubt such suggestion as this will find favor with the Commandant.

The University battalion had its first baptism the other day. It was not a baptism of fire, however, but the usual sprinkling kind. Full particulars can be had from any member of the battalion and especially from any member of the band as to this occasion.

We heard that the Philosophian girls were going to stage a take-off in chapel, but since seeing the take-off put-off we vouch for it that the take-off was used purely in the slang sense.

First Student: "Why are they hauling all of the green posts off the campus to the Experiment Station?"
Second Student: "They are grinding them into postum to feed the "Diet Squad."

Love Pome.
FIRST WORSE.
I love you in the Winter,
SA I love you in the Fall.
Just the same.

WORSE TWO.
But, Dearie, when the Spring comes,
Then, I love you best of all.
Am I to blame? Are you to blame?

STILL WORSE.
For the tender warming breezes,
Then once more begin to blow.
As of old.

WORST THAN WORST WORSE.
And beneath their fond caresses,
Greater love for you I know.
Am I bold, to have told?
—C. R. H., '16.

Inspiration or Perspiration, Which?
The following little ditty was found lying on the floor of the Journalism room the other day by a member of the staff; call it what you like:
Little drops of water,
Oozing from the skin,
Show us that the weather,
Is getting hot agin.

We hear that Herbert Graham had started a Cupid's Aid Bureau and had made a "date" for "Every Woman." Just think of that!

Theatrically.
Sigma Nu: Did you go to see "Every Woman" last week?
A. T. O.: No, I went to see "The Only Girl."

Sigma Nu: Then I guess it was "Alone at Last."

If every man on the campus don't stop pulling some kind of a pun on "Every Woman," we will just have to punish the next one who does.

It is said that 100 men went out to see Pullet No. 707 last Sunday. Some chicken!

Help!
Sam: I went to sleep in a frame house last night and when I awoke I was in a stone house.

Uel: Walk in your sleep?
Sam: Nope. A wind arose and made the house rock.

Have Mercy, Gentle Reader.
Lucy: John, you are so foolish!
John: Yes, when I was a kid mother made me sleep under a crazy quilt.

Our Answer Department.
Q. Have gotten a large spot on my brown dress. How can I get it off?—Clarice.
A. Take it off the usual way.

That's Oil Right.
Hick: Have you heard that John D. Rockefeller is having his name printed on all the American tooth-picks?
Quick: No. What for?
Hick: Wants to have his name in everybody's mouth, I suppose.

More Squirrel Food.
A bird flew into a chestnut tree. Said the tree, "Who are you?" "I am a little bird," was the answer. "You have nothing on me at that," replied the tree, "for I am a little burred too."

We just found out that Adam was the first woman. According to the Bible Adam was the first made. (Blue print, maid for made.)

Break It Gently, Please.
This is the day Pullet 707 breaks or does not break the world's record. We hope she does—but look out. "The best-laid plans of mice and men gan aft aglee."

Since the walk to Patt Hall is nearing completion, why not name it the "Heavenly Way," as it leads to the place where the Angels dwell?

Cases of "The Lion and Mouse" happen often. "What we were going to say was that the little hen up the way has backed the war off the front page with 83 eggs.

Joy Thought For the Week.
We will not have to donate to Keller for the Freshman dance. We can gather a few Easter lilies. Freshmen just adore wild howers; they're so wild themselves.

RALPH MORGAN HAS IMPORTANT POSITION

Success in the form of the superintendency of the central milk depot planned by the Co-operative Dairy Products Company for Lexington, has come to Ralph Morgan, who graduated from the College of Agriculture in 1914. A contract has already been signed with Mr. Morgan to assist in the preliminary work of organizing the depot, grading the milk and superintending its distribution in the city. Immediately after graduating, he began work at Elmendorf dairy as a bacteriologist, later becoming superintendent of the plant, remaining in that capacity until the Elmendorf herd was disposed of sometime ago. Mr. Morgan is a contributor to a number of scientific farm journals, and has written articles for "System on the Farm," a well-known trade periodical. While in college he was captain of the basketball team.

STUDENT LOAN FUND RECEIVES $100 GIFT

The student loan fund of Alpha Zeta, the honorary agricultural fraternity of the University was increased recently by a gift of $100 received from Mrs. M. A. Scovell, widow of the former dean of the College of Agriculture and director of the Experiment Station.

The local chapter when installed took the name of Scovell chapter in honor of the man who has done so much for agriculture in Kentucky and who was the founder of agricultural instruction in the University.

The student loan fund, which was started by the local chapter in 1914 for the purpose of helping deserving students pay their way thru college, is increasing fast.

Y. M. C. A. TO DISCUSS BLUE RIDGE SUNDAY

Twenty Students From University Expected to Attend Conference

There will be no joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. next Sunday evening as a meeting for the discussion of plans for the student conference at Blue Ridge will be held by the Y. M. C. A. Student speakers will address the meeting, the object of which is to stimulate interest in the conference and have the University well represented at the conference of college men. It is expected that as many as twenty students from here will attend the conference.

The Southern conference of college men and women is an annual event which is always well attended by representatives of the leading colleges of the country as well as by faculty members and alumni who are interested in the work. The conference of the young men begins June 12 and continues ten days. The young women's conference is held from June 1 to 11.

The buildings where the conference is held are situated in the mountains of Blue Ridge, North Carolina, and prove an excellent location for all outdoor sports and every kind of recreation. Tennis courts, baseball diamonds, swimming pools and unequalled fishing are some of the many features. A tent camp is also pitched to add to the local color of the outdoor life. Blue Ridge is located two and a half miles south of the Black Mountain station of the Southern Railway.

In addition to the regular student delegates from the colleges, a large number of Oriental and Latin-American students who are attending colleges in this country, will be present. Among the speakers and leaders who have already agreed to be present is Robert E. Speer, of New York, a graduate of Princeton University, who is said to be one of the most able men in the work. Bishop W. F. McDowell, of Washington, D. C., who has attended every Student Conference since it was established, and held at Lake Geneva, is also on the program. Some of the subjects that will be discussed are: "The Moral Equivalent of War," "The Lure of Africa," "South American Neighbors," "Problems of the Country" and "Mexico Today."

ALPHA ZETA DANCE IS EVENT OF FRIDAY NIGHT.

Scovell chapter of Alpha Zeta fraternity held its annual dance Friday night at the Phoenix Hotel in honor of its new pledges, J. M. Gibson, J. B. Hutson, Joseph Gayle and Professor W. D. Nicholls.

The ballroom was decorated with plants. The fraternity pin in colored electric bulbs shone from one end of the hall. Mr. Frank Street and Miss Nancy Innes led the grand march, which followed the intermission.

The hosts were Messrs. F. T. Street, R. B. Hays, J. A. Hodges, J. E. McMurry, W. W. Owsley, C. W. Bennett, F. O. LaMaster, George Gumbert, L. A. Bradford, C. L. Morgan, J. G. Stewart, E. M.
