Dear President Patterson:-
I hope that by this time you have forgotten or at least forgiven my impatient and hasty letter of several years ago. I have constantly regretted it, because you are always kind to me as a boy, and now that I am at least successful, I wish to pay a tribute of gratitude and respect to you.

I am sending you a copy of my edition of the Cyclops.

On the strength of this work I believe, I am about to be offered a position of some considerable honor.

I did not put my A. M. degree of the State College in this work because I did not know whether it would meet with your approval. If however, you will give the word, I will have my State College degree put in the 2nd edition, and feel honored in doing so.

I hope, Sir that you are in good health. Mrs. Patterson joins me in sending love to all your family.
Yours faithfully,
John Patterson

Dear President Patterson:- Nothing could have given me more pleasure than your kind note.

I hope that you will come to Louisville soon and stay with us while you're here.
I have so many pleasant friends whom I am anxious for you to meet.

I am glad to know that the State College is in such a fine condition and I hope that its prosperity will increase.

With highest regards for yourself and family, I am yours faithfully,
John Patterson.

Dear President Patterson; —

I thank you very much for your last kind letter. Professor Miller called on me last week, and I hope that our new school and the State College will be on the best of terms.

I am glad to tell you that at least two young new pupils are thinking of preparing for the State College.
I am sure that I can reference them enough to send them to you. They are boys of a type the value to any institution.

With kind regards, I

Yours faithfully,

John Patterson
