403 A&S Students Placed On Probation

A total of 403 Arts and Sciences students are on academic probation for the second semester, Dean M. M. White announced yesterday.

In releasing the figures, Dean White said the percentage of students is about the same as it has been in previous years.

Dean White could not give the exact percentage the 403 students represented, because he does not yet know how many students are enrolled in the college.

"I think that the number of students making high standings and the dean's list has increased in the past couple of years," he said.

The dean pointed out that a large number of students on probation are freshmen who must make a 2.0 standing for their first semester and do not have the advantage of older students who may have an overall 2.0 standing.

Another 1,173 students had already been reported on academic probation in figures released last week by the Colleges of Agriculture, Pharmacy, Commerce, Education, and Engineering.

The combined enrollment of these five colleges is 4,296 with 26 percent being on probation. This was a 4 percent increase over the 1959 spring semester.

Figures from the 1958 fall semester showed that 30 percent of the student body was on academic probation. The 2.0 standing then applied only to freshmen.

An estimate was made then that an increase from 5 to 7 percent of the student body would be on probatation following the fall semester of this year.

This was based on the fact that 35 percent of all UK students made below the "C" level for the fall semester of 1959.

If the figures that have been completed by five colleges are an indication of the campus trend, this figure will not be reached.

Official probation figures have yet to be released by Dean of Admissions and Registrar Charles F. Elton. Dr. Elton said the official figures would be released to the public within the next two weeks.

Peterson Doubts Tax Will Affect Cafeterias

By DICK HEDLUND

It is doubtful that the new state sales tax will affect prices of food in UK cafeterias, says Dr. Frank Peterson, vice president of business administration.

"At the current time we do not feel that the sales tax will affect the students on campus," Peterson said.

Dr. Peterson also said, "If the tax does affect food prices the increase will be added to the present price of cafeteria food."

Miss Betty Gault, head dietitian at the Student Union Cafeteria, said, "We have not received any information from Dr. Peterson on how the sales tax will affect the food prices."

The sales tax which was the heart of Gov. Bert Combs' program will go into effect on July 1, 1960. It is predicted the tax will probably follow the pattern used in Tennessee.

The Tennessee tax exempts anything up through 14 cents or less.

Physics Club

"Health and Physics" will be the topic J. F. Lafferty will discuss at the Pence Physics Club meeting at 7 p.m. Monday. The meeting will be held in Room 208 of Pence Hall.

A one cent tax would be placed on items between 15 and 44 cents, two cents on items from 45 to 74 cents, and three cents on anything between 75 cents and $1.16. A flat rate of three percent will be charged on anything above $1.17.

This was the second sales tax law to be passed in Kentucky in the last quarter of a century. The first sales tax, passed in 1934, was repealed two years later.

The sales tax bill passed the House on Jan. 29, and the Senate on Feb. 3, by a vote of 28 to 8. Gov. Combs signed the bill Feb. 5.

One of the provisions of the tax bill will reduce the present tax on cigarettes from 3 to 2½ cents as of July 1. The 3 percent sales tax will be imposed on cigarettes at that time, however.

The second part of the sales tax bill, which concerns a reduction in personal income taxes, goes into effect on Jan. 1, 1961.

Cumberland Center Opening Is Scheduled For September

The Southeast Center at Cumberland in Harlan County is scheduled for completion this summer and will be opened in September.

Dr. Edsel T. Godbey, director of the center, has moved to Cumberland and has opened temporary offices at 503 West Main St. He is now meeting with senior students in the 13 Harlan County high schools and high school seniors in nearby towns and counties.

Deans of the various colleges in the University will appoint the best qualified faculty available, with approval of center officials, Dr. Godbey said.

The center will present a basic two-year college program with emphasis on English, social studies, arts and sciences, and commerce, the latter includes such courses as bookkeeping, typing, and shorthand.

The building will contain 10 classrooms, four laboratories, an individual office for each faculty member, a suite for administrative personnel, and a conference room.

The library will be the largest room in the building and will be about 85 feet long.

Other rooms will accommodate a book store, check room, a concessions room composed solely of vending machines, and a music room with acoustical walls and risers. All floors in the building will be of concrete.

Dr. Godbey explained the roof of the second floor will be constructed exactly as that on the first floor, so if expansion is needed, a third floor can be added without reinforcing the second-floor roof.

Heat for the center will be produced by a separate coal-burning plant. The center also will be air-cooled in warm weather and will be the only University center containing an elevator.

Prospective students may submit applications now to Dr. Godbey. Deadline for applications is 30 days before the opening of the fall semester.

Shaikun Announces Greek Week Profits

The Greek Week Steering Committee reported Wednesday night that between $1,000 and $1,500 was made on Greek Week this year.

Jerry Shaikun, cochairman of this year's Greek Week Committee, said that the exact figure is not known yet as some expenses still have to be paid. It is expected that the Louis Armstrong concert will net about $900 and the dance, $400.

Shaikun said that the money made this year will go into a Greek Week fund and will be carried over to help cover initial expenses next year. This fund already has $900 which was made on last year's activities.

Shaikun has recommended that part of the money go toward bringing some nationally famous speaker, such as Eleanor Roosevelt, here to the campus next year in connection with the Greek Week program.

Greek Week now has its own weekend each year like the Little Kentucky Derby and Homecoming. Plans are now underway to set up a committee to work on next year's activities.

Shaikun added that this year's committee feels that the whole program was a great success.

UK Debaters Will Attend Tournament

Tex Fitzgerald and Deno Curris, both of Lexington, will represent the University in the Notre Dame Invitational Debate Tournament to be held March 3-6.

Dr. Gifford Blyton, UK debate sponsor, said the tournament at Notre Dame is one of the largest in the nation. He added that 43 schools will be represented.

UK Professor Aids Japanese Toward Understanding Of U.S.

By SUE McCAULEY

Aided by a small picture magazine, Dr. George K. Brady, head of the Humanities Department, has become an ambassador of good will to Japan.

Dr. Brady collects copies of Scenic South, a monthly publication of the Standard Oil Company, and sends them to junior high school students in Shiga-ken, Japan.

The children, who are learning English, like the magazines which consist largely of pictures of scenic spots in the Southern states. They are able to read the simple captions and descriptions under the pictures.

The project has a long history. The UK English professor became interested in Japan and its folklore in 1948 when he was there as a member of the U. S. Government Social Science Mission.

His interest continued after his return to the United States, and he started a correspondence with a professor at a Japanese university.

In 1951, this professor asked him to sponsor an English oratorical contest for junior high school students in Shiga-ken. The contest has become an annual affair, and each year Dr. Brady sends prizes of a loving cup and books to the winner.

He said the first year he sent money for the engraving since he didn't know what they would want written on the cup. Afterwards he found out that it is engraved as the George K. Brady Cup.

After this project, he got the idea of sending the Scenic South magazines to the children learning English. He started collecting them from students, other faculty members, and friends, and now often gets as many as 25 a month.

Dr. Brady has received many letters from both the winners of the contest and students who have read the magazines. He says he always answers the letters, and friends of his in Japan report on the tremendous enjoyment the Japanese get from an American letter. Once a blind girl won the contest. She sent her thanks in a letter written in Japanese Braille.

The last group of magazines were sent to an English club of junior high students. Miss Itoh, the English teacher, wrote, "I send you many letters which my pupils wrote hard. You may not understand them, for they have learned English only two years ago, so they don't write and read English well."

One 14-year-old girl showed her enthusiasm by saying, "Thank you very much beautiful magazine. We are very glad . . . I did not sleep that night."

Some children tell Dr. Brady about themselves. A boy wrote, "My tall is 5 feet 2 inches. I live in Shiga-ken. Where do you live? Please tell me."

Another said, "I will introduce you about myself . . . I like swimming and running. My family is three and two cats and some chickens. I am go to school by bicycle."

Others ask the professor questions about himself and his family, such as, "What do you play on Christmas?" or "What do you like hobbies?" One said, "I hope you shall be healthy."

In addition to the letters, which are fascinating to read, Dr. Brady often receives gifts from the children. He has a collection of Japanese dolls, many of which were made by hand.

He always carries two very small wooden ones to UK basketball games for good luck.

It's A Priestess Doll!

Dr. George K. Brady, head of the UK Humanities Department, displays a priestess doll from Japan. The doll is one of many the professor has received from that country. Many of them are supposed to bring good luck.

Kernel Has Reported News During Last 50 Years

For the last 50 years the Kernel has reported the most important social, educational, and administrative events on the UK campus.

Ten years ago Dr. Frank G. Dickey, dean of the College of Education, appeared before the Young Democrats Club to discuss why state primary schools need more state funds.

Dr. Thomas D. Clark, head of the Department of History, left for Vienna, Austria, where he was a visiting teacher in the U. S. Army's educational training program.

"Best freshman cup ever," said Coach Harry Lancaster 10 years ago about Kittens Lindle Castle, Cliff Hagan, Lou Tsiropoulos, Frank Ramsey, and Richard (Herm) Pikrone.

President and Mrs. Frank L. McVey returned from a cruise to Bermuda 25 years ago. Also, an architect presented plans for the Student Union Building to University officials.

Frank Fowler, director of the Guignol Theatre played the leading role in the fifth production of the season, "Romeo and Juliet."

Some 50 years ago the Athletic Association announced that no high school or prep school letters could be worn on campus; only the official "K" could be worn in an effort to increase interest in campus athletics.

Plans for the Junior Prom, the biggest social event of the college year at that time, were announced.

The Men's Glee Club presented the first concert of the season.

Links To Take New Applications

Links, junior women's honorary, is accepting applications now through March 12.

Second semester sophomores and junior transfers with 3.0 overall standings are eligible to apply.

Applications may be obtained in the Office of the Dean of Women.

B. R. Fitzgerald To Judge Bands

Prof. Bernard R. Fitzgerald, head of the UK Department of Music, will judge two instrumental music festivals this month.

He will evaluate concert bands at Craddock High School in Portsmouth, Va., on March 6 and the University of Tennessee at Knoxville on March 10 and 11.

Legrand To Visit Here Monday

Dr. Harry E. Legrand of the American Geological Institute and the National Science Foundation will visit the Department of Geology on Monday and Tuesday.

Sigma Gamma Epsilon, geological honorary society, will sponsor a coffee hour for Dr. Legrand at 4 p.m. Monday in Room 205 of Miller Hall.

He will speak at 4 p.m. Tuesday in Room 203, Miller Hall, on "Principles of the Occurrence of Ground Water."

Five Coeds Chosen In Best Dressed Test

Five UK coeds have been chosen as finalists in UK's best dressed contest.

They are Jane Fransen, Shirley Jones, Sally Bennett, Betty Ann Marcum, and Sandy Beach.

The contest is being held in conjunction with Glamour magazine's "Ten Best Dressed College Girls in America" national contest. The finalists were chosen from a group of 13 semifinalists which included Ruth Keller Early, Nancy "Boo" Fink, Jean Lovern, Marlene Pitzer, Nancy Osborn, Marie Stephenson, Marilyn Strjepe, and Elaine Woods.

Originally the contest committee planned to present the semifinalists for an all-campus vote, but they felt that the student body would not have the chance to study the individual candidates and the result would be voting on popularity.

Semifinalists were judged on figure, posture, well-kept hair, impeccable grooming, appropriate campus look, understanding of individual fashion type, neatness of makeup, and individuality in use of fashion color and accessories.

UK's best dressed coed will be chosen March 13 by a panel of Lexington judges and will be the University's representative to the Glamour magazine national contest.

The ten women selected by Glamour will be flown to New York for a two week stay in June.

They will model in Glamour's annual college fashion show and will appear in the August (college) issue of the fashion magazine.

Last year's conclusion to the two weeks of photographic assignments, magazine and newspaper interviews, theatre-going, and partying was a Champagne Cotillion.

The cotillion was preceded by a dinner party given by the staff of the Princeton Tiger.

'Best Dressed' Semifinalists

Comedy Skit To Satirize UK Faculty

A skit to satirize stereotyped students and faculty members will be held at 4 p.m. Monday in the Music Room of the SUB.

The skit includes such characters as Prof. Romeo P. Wolf, Miss R. U. Gushing, and Prof. I. M. Forgetful. They will be played by Phil Cox, Millie Borchevsky, Judy Lounsberry, Dale Loar, and Lucy House.

Jean Riley, SUB Topics committee chairman, said the members of the skit will imitate types of faculty members while members of the faculty will defend themselves with student types.

We hope this will improve faculty-student relations which have been impaired by the holiday issue," Miss Riley said.

The skit was written by Louise Rose, Gloria Paulo, and Pat Jarvis.

Senior Figureheads

The senior class of the College of Arts and Sciences met Tuesday night in what is more than likely its first, last, and only meeting of the semester.

The purpose of this meeting was to choose officers. It might be better to term them conventional figureheads to represent a nonexistent group.

Students in a University have little or no interest in their academic class as a working organization. There are too many other organizations on campus in which they can take a more active and successful role.

This semester's officers have already appointed a committee to evaluate the College of Arts and Sciences. It is truly a worthy ambition, but the time element makes a sufficient evaluation or any other possible program for improvement a near impossibility.

Had these officers been elected early first semester they may have had a chance to get something done—if it is possible with such a large group.

Electing officers with too little time to accomplish anything and too little backing to help them attain their goal seems a comedy worth snide comment.

The officers are merely assuming a title to be cherished in later years for its connotation, but not for its accomplishment.

If the self-improvement and the usefulness of the senior class organization to the University and to itself can be attained, then let the elections go on.

If not, why bother to continue them?

Johnny Marching Away

"And so Johnny came marching home."

The time was the post-war years of World War II, and Johnny not only came home, he came to college. He came to UK and with him came two or three thousand war buddies.

As veterans, Johnny and his buddies seemed thankful to be able to work and plan for a future which had often looked vague and indefinite during the four years they had been fighting a world war.

Many times there were striking differences between the Johnnies on campus and the other students. They shared a certain unity and maturity that fellow classmates didn't have.

They formed various veteran organizations, even a newspaper of their own. The campus scene on a whole was somewhat different from what it had previously been. For emergency quarters, veterans were housed temporarily in the gymnasium.

Two hundred houses were bought by the University from the Federal Housing Administration and moved to UK especially for married veterans.

Fraternity houses which had been forced to close during the war were reopened. On campus one would often spy a pair of army boots here, a combat jacket there. Such things often became trademarks of the veterans.

As a whole they may not have been the best dressed group on campus, but they soon became more renowned in another way—in scholastic achievement and leadership.

Classroom atmosphere was different from what we find today. Lectures were taken more seriously. Tests were scaled to a higher mental level, and necessity for classroom discipline was almost nonexistent.

As the years passed, the number of Johnnies dwindled. Their younger brothers and sisters grew up and came to college and lately, their children.

The college scene again underwent changes, some minor, others quite major ones. The students of the last few years seem younger and understandably more immature than the Johnnies. Discipline has come into its own again.

The campus heyday of Johnny and his buddies is about over. Today there are only about 647 veterans left at UK, in comparison with the 2,000 of yesteryear.

However, their influence on UK's campus was as impressive and rewarding as the one they made when "they came marching home."

We "immature younguns" who are left could benefit from their example.

Wanted: Prompt Action

After heaping lavish praise on Student Congress for its apparently sincere desire to increase its effectiveness through a vigorous self-evaluation and radical new constitution, we have noticed a distressing indication that, as a rose by any other name would smell as sweet, SC may not be changed by merely saying it will be.

Although the provisions of the new constitution were given to the Kernel and published in its news columns more than two weeks ago, the congress has yet to meet to begin ratification of the document. A frequent criticism of the body in the past was its reluctance to act quickly and efficiently.

We hope this malady of the past will not become part of the heritage of the revitalized group. In spite of this inauspicious beginning, we have faith in the congress and want to see it succeed. It would seem, therefore, that prompt action is called for.

Senseless Prejudice

To The Editor:

I would like to commend you on the superior article in the March 2 Kernel entitled "The Dining Denial." However, there are a few things you did not take into consideration. There was not, and in my opinion, will never be a demonstration with such far reaching consequences as this one will have, that has been completely free of violence. The near-sighted public is far too complacent in its beliefs instigated during childhood to let this struggle for equality pass by without any complications. As you have seen in the other "sitdown strikes" that have occurred in the South, the Negro has been prosecuted for the most trivial "offenses," such as blocking of the aisles or refusing to move from the path of a white person. Are the whites so superior that all others should be scorned?

All people, supposedly, are created equal, but there has had to be some minority upon which the majority could vent their wrath throughout the ages. Why, in this present age of atomic power and, in the very near future, the exploration of other worlds, should this stupid persecution go on? This is a question which I cannot answer. Can you?

NAME WITHHELD

(No, sir.—THE EDITOR)

Proud Member

To The Editor:

Recently, there have been some articles appearing in the Kernel concerning the intellect, or lack of it, of football players. Being a member of this group, I became somewhat alarmed and concerned about the justification of these accusations.

I have taken the time to obtain the grades of football players during the past four years. Beginning with the school year of 1955-56 and ending with the school year of 1958-59, the football team has compiled an overall standing of 2.16 as compared to a 2.2 over-all standing of the men on campus. The standing of the upperclassmen of the football team is 2.3, which is equal to the 2.3 of the upperclassmen on campus. On the average, there have been about seven players (15 percent of the team) who have had a 3.0 standing each year. During this four year period, there have been 15 players who have made a 3.6 or better and five who have made a 4.0 standing. I believe that these figures will speak for themselves regarding football players' relative standing.

In reply to the recent article on athletes, the author stated that an "A" student playing football was "as rare as a kitten in a dog kennel." I'll agree with you, but it is just as rare for any student in college today to have an "A" standing. Moreover, the author says that athletes' "stupidity" in class provides him with an abundance of laughs. Really, I wonder who has shown so much ignorance or stupidity in class that you have received such a thrill? Perhaps there might have been just a mild exaggeration in that statement. Personally, I consider it an honor to be a member of the football team.

DON CARSON

No Rearing

To The Editor:

Unpalatable as Webster's definition of "university" may seem to you, Miss Jansen, it is nevertheless authoritative. Do you maintain that one somehow loses face by consulting his dictionary on matters of word definition? By your use of the word "copied," I presume you find the thought of an authority greater than yourself distasteful.

I note that you digress to the area of personalities rather than adhering to the question of athletic contributions to the University. Perhaps you would consent to write another letter setting forth these numerous contributions which are obviously so clear to you. I note that you are very concerned about my extracurricular activities. This is touching, but just what bearing it has on athletic contributions, I am not certain.

Your implication that I am lacking in social graces is deeply resented and totally irrelevant.

Excerpt from a highway conference speech:

"Since man has begun to get about, he has needed a road that is more or less straight, more or less smooth and dry, and more or less safe from footpads. As they have become better and safer, highways have always led toward the better life—toward higher standards of living, toward individual choice and determination, toward the enforcement of justice, and toward self-government."

Now we know the answers to all our problems. Better highways.

Girls Sharpen Claws As Gold Diggers Nears

By ALICE AKIN
Kernel Society Editor
Greetings from the University of Alaska!

It's been a hilarious week with people slipping and sliding all over the place. One of these days we're going to wake up and be able to see the ground again.

Then people will begin having picnics and getting pinned and I'll have something to put in this column. But as for now, I'll just have to work with what I have on hand, so here it goes for the weekend.

Gold Diggers Ball is tonight and you can't say it hasn't been publicized enough. Girls have been sharpening their claws all semester for this evening.

Lots and lots of plans have been made in connection with the event. The Kappas are really going all out for tonight. They've chartered a bus to pick up their dates. Social Chairman Sue McCauley says there will be a buffet dinner at the house after all the "pick-ups" are gathered in one lump sum.

Sorority row is also playing the hostess bit tonight with suppers at the respective houses. This really makes it nice for the girl who just wants to pay a dollar for dinner. (Have to be economical about these matters even if it is a good investment.)

Then there are the rich young-know-whatches who are really putting on the dog and taking the boys out to the local clubs.

Most people are attending the dance where the House Rockers will be blasting forth with their spastic music. Here also the King of Gold Diggers will be crowned.

What exactly this title represents I don't know, but I guess on a campus where there are queens, there'll also be kings. (We've got more royal blood around here than they do in London.)

Too bad I can't say much about tomorrow night. Just another ballgame. I don't know what fraternities are having open houses after the game but I could name eleven that aren't.

Well, I guess I'll turn this thing in now and wait to see who writes another nasty letter about me next week.

Just Lonely, He Says
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Why do people turn to acting? Fame? Fortune? Loneliness, says 23-year-old Dennis Hopper.

This feeling should abate for a while. The talented newcomer has a recently signed, five-year contract in his pocket.

"As a youth I was very lonely," explains Hopper. "When you don't receive the type of love you want from the world, you look someplace else for it."

"For me, acting was a way to get the other things," he says. "I'm still lonely," Hopper adds. "But now I can accept it and use it. I'm not afraid of the rejection anymore."

Irish Want Snakes Back

WASHINGTON (AP)—St. Patrick drove the snakes out of Ireland 15 centuries ago and now the Irish want some back.

For the zoo, that is. The Irish still aren't taking any chances on having them crawling around the countryside.

Ever since St. Patrick's Day, snakes have been scarce in Ireland. They just don't thrive on the auld sod and have to be imported.

An Irishman who has never been to the zoo may never have seen a snake.

So a gift box of native U.S. snakes from the Washington Zoo will be mighty welcome when it checks in at Dublin by St. Patrick's Day.

The contents, some 21 snakes, will more than double the snake count at the Dublin Zoo—a meager 16.

The gift of snakes originated on a trip to Europe last summer by the Washington Zoo director, Theodore Reed. Terence Murphy, boss of the Dublin Zoo, showed Reed around his layout and commented sadly on its shortage of snakes.

Reed, whose zoo has over 1,600 reptiles, made his offer and Murphy readily accepted.

Fitz's Facts

By John Fitzwater

When the Wildcats close out their cage season tomorrow against Pittsburgh, the players can take a rest, but coaches and scouts will be just beginning.

With district, regional, and state tournaments slated around the country for high school lads, Adolph Rupp, Harry Lancaster, and company will go to work as salesmen and try to recruit talented Wildcats of the future.

Such boys as Jeff Mullins of Lafayette and Don Frye and Gene Pendleton, both of Monticello, have already been lured to other schools and the Kentuckians will have their work cut out for them.

The day when great basketball players come to us is long gone—we have to go after them. Too many great boys from our own state have gone north and south to play ball, and then returned to the commonwealth to haunt the University.

The football coaches took to the road in November and it appears that they have signed a real crop of gridders.

Now the cage coaches will tour the states. Here's hoping they return with a few Cliff Hagans, Frank Ramseys, and Johnny Coxes.

With one game remaining, four Kentucky boys are averaging in the double figures. Billy Lickert leads the Cats with a 14.0 average, Don Mills is in second place with 12.9, Sid Cohen has 10.6, and Benny Coffman, 10.3.

The Kentucky team as a whole, has scored 1,765 points for an average of 73.5 points a game. The opponents are averaging 65.6.

Benny Coffman is again leading the squad in point proficiency among the regulars. "Bouncing Benny" is scoring a point every 126 seconds he is in action.

Sid Cohen is in second place in this department with a point every 135 seconds.

Actually Eddie Mason leads all Kentucky players with a point every 55 seconds of action, but he has seen only 3 minutes and 6 seconds of play.

Herky Rupp leads the team in shooting with two of three field goal attempts being good. Larry Pursiful leads the regulars in this department with 23 of 46 for a .500 average.

From the record books—The highest scoring average by a UK team was the 87.5 average by the 1953-54 team. The same team averaged 94.2 in the SEC.

The longest winning streak for the home floor is held by UK. From Dec. 1, 1950, to Jan. 8, 1955, the Wildcats won 45 games in Memorial Coliseum and had won 84 straight games in Alumni Gym earlier for a national record of 129 in a row at home.

Cage Season Ends Tomorrow As Pittsburgh Comes To Town

The Wildcats will close their 1959-60 basketball season tomorrow night as they meet the University of Pittsburgh in the Coliseum.

A team originally scheduled to give the Kentucky squad a "warm up" for NCAA tournament play may supply enough heat to give the UK team its worst record since 1940-41.

Last season the Wildcats had a two-week layoff before meeting Louisville in Evanston in NCAA competition. The Cats were off-pace and lost, 76-61. This season the Athletic Department hoped a later game would keep the boys sharp for post season games. As it has turned out, the Pittsburgh club will close the door on one of the most hap-hazard years of the Adolph Rupp era.

The Panthers are considered a weak, but potentially good team. The absence of last season's 5-8 All-American, Don Hennon, will be the main difference in the two clubs.

John Fridley, 6-5, last year's second leading scorer and top rebounder, and rugged John Mills will be the strongmen in the attack of Coach Bob Timmons' lads.

Coach Adolph Rupp is expected to stick with Sid Cohen, Larry Pursiful, Don Mills, and Billy Lickert. Dick Parsons and Ned Jennings may be in the lineup if their ankles have healed. Carroll Burchett, Allen (Horse) Feldhaus, and Jimmy McDonald will battle for the other nod.

Pitt has met the Wildcats on three previous occasions, two of the games coming in tournament play, and lost each time. The first meeting was a 35-17 victory for UK in 1936. In 1937, the Cats picked up a 40-29 win in the Sugar Bowl championship.

Three years ago the Cats had to battle to get past Pitt, 98-92, in the NCAA Regional here.

The opening lineup for the Panthers will average 6-2. With Mills in the pivot, Fridley and 6-4 Bill Mauro at the forwards, the two teams will be about even under the boards. Dick Falenski, 6-1, and Bill Mauro, 5-9, will handle the guard duties for Pitt.

Mills, Cohen, Coffman Close Careers Saturday

By JOHNNY FITZWATER
Don Mills, Sid Cohen, and Benny Coffman will wind up their college basketball careers here tomorrow night when they lead Kentucky against Pittsburgh.

The three, two guards and a center, have all been starters for Adolph Rupp at one time.

Sid Cohen will be starting his last game for the Wildcats with the opening tip against Pittsburgh tomorrow.

Volleyball Race Could Be Close

Delta Tau Delta, Kappa Sigma, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon may break into a do-or-die race for the volleyball championship of the Fraternity I-M Division.

The fraternity victor could get 38 points and a solid boost in total point ratings.

Earlier this week the Deltas beat Sigma Chi, 2-1; SAE topped ZBT, 2-0; the Kappa Sigs whipped PIKA, 2-0; Phi Delt beat, KA 2-0; Triangle clipped Lambda Chi, 2-0; Sigma Nu beat Farmhouse, 2-0; and PIKA downed, ATO 2-1. Phi Gam won a match by forfeit.

In the independent division the Swamp Rats beat Dorm 7, 2-0, and BSU stopped the Mechanical Engineers, 2-0.

Today is the deadline for teams to sign up for badminton doubles. Entries must be delivered to the I-M office by 5 p.m.

A single elimination tournament is slated for volleyball March 8. Bowling tournaments will start on March 9. Pairings will be announced today.

Something To Talk About

NORWICH, Conn. (AP)—Two cars collided in front of a restaurant. One of the drivers arriving to attend a meeting of safety supervisors.

was an All-State choice while playing high school ball at Berea High School. Playing behind Ed Beck as a sophomore he got his big break—in all times—in the finals of the NCAA tournament in Louisville.

The 6-7 Mills turned in a fine performance, scoring nine points and effectively guarding All-America Elgin Baylor.

Last season Mills started 24 games, missing only the opening game of the UK Invitational Tournament. He came back the next night, still bothered by a virus infection, to score 17 points as UK beat West Virginia for the championship.

This season Mills has recovered 310 rebounds to lead the team and is averaging 12.9 per game. He is one of only two Cats to play in every game.

Sid Cohen, the "Brooklyn Bombshell," has come into his own as a Kentucky star this season. In the first 11 games of the year, as a spot performer and reserve, Cohen scored 65 points for a 5.9 average.

After scoring 13 points as a sub against LSU, he gained a starting berth and picked up 24 points two days later against Tulane.

In the last 13 games, Cohen has racked up 199 points for a 14.5 average and brought his season mark up to 10.6.

Sid is a junior college transfer from Kilgore, Texas. Last season, he played in 25 of 27 games and started 11. He was the sixth leading scorer on the 1958-59 team with an 8.1 average.

The highlight of Sid's two-year career was his 23-point performance against West Virginia last year. By directing the UK attack, he was named with All-America Jerry West as "Most Valuable Player of the UKIT."

A regular starter during the last half the 1958-59 season, Benny Coffman lost his position to Cohen this season. A 6-1 junior college

Don Mills and Benny Coffman will end their college careers tomorrow night when the Cats play Pittsburgh. Mills is expected to start the game at center, and Coffman may get the nod as a starting guard.

Baseballers Still Practice Indoors

Another Wildcat athletic team seems to be getting the jinx that has haunted Kentucky during the 1959-60 seasons. Their jinx is weather.

A south Broadway warehouse is still the practice grounds of the UK baseball squad, now 17 strong with three more expected when basketball ends tomorrow.

The team is working out under Coach Abe Shannon, and has not yet been permitted to work outside because of snow and cold weather.

Nine of the 17 squad members are pitchers, with junior college transfers Charlie Lloyd and south-paw Lonnie Haley heading the list.

The Wildcats are scheduled to open the campaign in only 26 days when the Maroons of Eastern Kentucky play here. Tennessee meets Kentucky on April 1 and 2; Centre of Danville April 4, and Georgetown April 6, all here.

After the initial five-game home stand, the Cats go South for eight games in 10 days.

transfer from Lindsey Wilson of Columbia, Kentucky, Benny set a UK record last year for one season with a 50.9 field goal percentage in 27 games.

Coffman got his break with the Cats last season when he pulled out three clutch points in the last seconds to enable Kentucky to beat Maryland in an overtime.

He showed his potential once again in the NCAA Mideast Regional consolation game as he scored 28 points against Marquette. This was the highest single game total of the season.

This year Coffman is leading in point proficiency among the regular players, scoring at the rate of one point every 126 seconds.

His top performance this season was his 26 points against Ohio State.

The club is comprised of high school students, University students, University professors, and townspeople.

Sarah Baird Fouse has been the promoter of this organization since it was organized in the fall of 1958. Mrs. Fouse is known for her flute playing in many recitals in Lexington. She is a graduate of the University of Michigan and is now a graduate student at UK.

The program will include selections by Handel, Telemann, Debussy, Ganne, Gaubert, and Berlioz.

State Bar Examination Begins For Law Grads

Five UK graduates are taking the Kentucky State Bar Examination, which began yesterday, according to Dr. W. L. Matthews, dean of the University School of Law.

Those taking the exam are Thomas C. Brabant, Henderson; James M. Deacon Jr., Lexington; Charles E. English, Bowling Green; Thomas E. Neal, Owensboro; and William H. Priest, Mt. Sterling.

The exam, which is given alternately at UK and the University of Louisville when the state legislature is in session, will be given at the University of Louisville School of Law this spring.

Dean Matthews said applicants must have had two to three years of prelaw college, must be 21, of good moral character, and be a graduate of an approved law school.

Ten days prior to the bar exam a certification of continuous good moral character executed by the dean of the law school must be filed with the clerk of the Court of Appeals, Dean Matthews said.

worth repeating

If you know someone about to select a diamond, here's something they should know. The best way to find true diamond value is to select a reliable jeweler first. Because unless you know diamonds, you have no way of telling if you're getting true value or just an inferior stone. Choose a reliable jeweler first and be certain of full diamond value—no matter what amount you have to spend.
