

City.

March 10/90.

Dearest Gertrude,

I am down at the office this morning feeling much better. Had a good sleep last night ^{and} the only thing I notice this AM is a slight soreness above my eyes, but it does not bother me much. I did not put the window down as promised last night ^{and} I am glad I did not, as I should certainly have smothered.

Hope you will not run around much to day in the snow ^{and} catch cold. You were not feeling very good last night ^{and} as I will not see you to night, you will please sit ^{and} down ^{and} write me a note informing me how you are. Will look for one sure in the