

CLEARING HOUSE

Reviving the Dead

I intended to let the matter die as a case of bad reporting. We're referring to the "horror in brick" squall contained in Friday's Clearing House. After talking to members in the class before which the Student Union building was referred to in this manner, we found that we misjudged the professor's statement and also his meaning. However, another professor now writes a note, part of which is printed below, that indicates there are individuals who refer to the building in this manner.

And He Says

"There are others who do not consider that the professor's comment was the feature story in this 'horror in brick' was in bad taste. There are many of the students and faculty members who spent months of hard work to realize the dream of a campus community center, who are disappointed. Why should no faculty and student critics write a clearing house article? It is good to see what is whispered everywhere in the campus. I am glad to see that. But he asked that we omit his initials."

Blonde Peace Pact

In keeping with peace activities was the feature story in yesterday's Courier-Journal concerning the organization of beautiful blondes to end war. The group around the "Little Women's League for Peace," the blonde listed as the national spokeswoman. She explained that she intended to organize thousands of beautiful blondes. "Then, if war comes, we will stand in front of the trenches and not let the enemy see us. How many of us will emerge from the front lines alive is dubious," with an air of confidence.

Power of Woman

That kind of activity is good for publicity, but they certainly are doing an about-face from the attitude of respect to the enemy department according to what we are told. Wonder if they remember the bags of powder they sent to the enemy who were backward about "joining up." People like to see the women who were mighty influential factors in arousing local men to get out and fight. Ah, the power of woman.

Poetry Lovers

A kernel staff member who is a bit shy about divulging his name, which doesn't matter anyway, suggests that the English department should offer a course in poetry appreciation. Save his "Poetry is for the masses" attitude. The student to erase and it could be much easier for him if he could hear it read by some nameless student who should be read. His plan is to offer a course at one hour a week and one credit. Any other suggestions?

Nature Lover's Cry

Comes to us this note headed "To the kids." No kidding, it comes to us on this campus, asserted by "Students" looking into the matter. Who wants to keep off the grass anyway? Just a little bunch of vegetarians and a few kids who are not serious about real nature lovers who appreciate the cool greens and press their heads against the grass in happy anticipation of sun-stroke. -D.C.

"Children's" Pain

Relative to the keep-off-the-grass question, students seemed to be almost content with a fair amount of enthusiasm. However, there are some many individuals who are prone to smile, comradely, at the "children's" idea. Really, after all, they say "I think you should rather ridiculous undertaking for a kid to expect." Frankly, no. We believe that an attractive child is one of the best means to gain favor from a crowd. The child who is who, you know, often "carry tales."

Questioning Taste

In any context where the contributor is given free play, you can expect anything and everything. When we opened the box at noon Saturday, we expected and found only a few "oleans" on the smutty side. Some of these in doubtful good taste were clever, but the majority were representative of the usual type of material which is printed on walls and on rained tiles pieces of paper. That is the work of a child, and not a very bright child at that.

Tutorial Courses

In a faculty meeting yesterday, quite a bit of discussion arose over the question of conducting non-credit tutorial classes for students behind in their studies. The course would be required for those in the category of scholastic deficients. One of the arguments voiced against the tutorial courses was that according to university recommendations, two hours are supposed to be spent in preparation for each one-credit class. If we want to avoid compulsory tutorial courses, we had better start studying. -L.A.M.

Dean Jones Asks Students To Report

Junior and senior students who are citizens of Kentucky and have a physical disability should see the dean of men or women at one of the meetings held yesterday. This action may mean a little less assistance to those persons, the dean further stated.

UK TENNIS TEAM DEFEATS VOLS ON FOREIGN SOIL

Playing Their First Match Away From Home They Defeat Tennessee In 8-1 Rout

CAPTAIN EVANS IS OUTSTANDING PLAYER

Wildcats Victorious In Five Singles And Make Sweep Of Doubles

By ALLEN E. WINNER

Knocking off their first match on foreign soil the University Tennis team routed a weaker University of Tennessee team 8-1 Monday afternoon at Knoxville. The Wildcats took five of the six singles and swept the doubles. Coach Downing's squad exhibited the best performance of the season with each man placing his shot with telling effect. George May, No. 3, took the first set in the only match and then it required three sets before he went down in defeat.

Hugh Paul, coach of the Volunteers, had three veterans returning from last year's team. They were short-handed with capable performers. "Biggy" Marshall, his No. 1 man, had last year's championship loss through graduation.

Kernel Aids Plaque Fund To Commemorate M'Vey

As Edgar "Chickie" Penn, business manager of the Kernel, handed a $200 check as that organization's contribution to the McVey Plaque Fund to Berkeley H. Benenson, Jr., president of O. D. K., in the wind ball game recently held for erecting a bronze plaque to help commemorate the President's 21-year service to the University and the state reaches $986 toward the goal of $1,000 set by the committee.

Lance, junior class honorary, the Association of Women Students, and the swimming team are the campus organizations which most recently took advantage of this opportunity to honor Doctor McVey. Many local alumni have contributed to the fund recently.

Alpha Xi Delta Holds First State Day; Part Of Nation-Wide Series Of Meetings

Alumnae, Kentucky Actives Serve As Hostesses For Convention

The first State Day of Alpha Xi Delta sorority was held Saturday at the Lafayette hotel, with the members of the Lexington alumnae chapter and of Xi chapter, University of Kentucky, acting as hostesses.

At 12:30 o'clock, a luncheon given by the Lexington alumnae, was held in the Red room. The society colors of double blue and gold were used in the decoration of spring flowers and gold tapers. Attractive programs in double blue and gold stenciled with an outline of the state of Kentucky, played by a golden quill, designed by Miss Eleanor Davis and Mrs. Robert Watts, were presented.

Miss Glenn C. Shepherd, president of the Lexington alumnae chapter, opened the program with the address of welcome and introduced the following guests: Mrs. Frank L. Huggins, Mrs. P. K. Holmes, Mrs. Will Huggins, housekeeper of the sorority, Miss Margaret Stewart, president of Xi chapter, and Miss Elaine Allison.

Mrs. Robert Watts, member of the Lexington alumnae who was initiated into Alpha Upsilon chapter at Berea College, was the principal speaker at the luncheon, having as her subject, "Aims and Activities of the Lexington Alumnae." Musical selections were sung by Miss Elaine Allison and Miss Ruby Dunn, general supervisor of public school music in Georgetown. They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. W. L. Heizer, Jr.

Immediately following the luncheon, a round table discussion for all members of the active and alumnae chapters was held. Mrs. James Farley of Lexington presided. In the afternoon, pledges of Xi chapter were hostesses for an informal tea at the chapter house, 266 East Maxwell street. The house was beautifully decorated and a delicious salad course was served. The lace-covered tea table had a centerpiece of roses flanked by gold tapers in crystal candelabra. Chamber music was played during the tea hours.

At 6:30 o'clock in the evening, the annual Founders Day banquet was given in the Gold room of the Lafayette hotel, where the society colors were used in the decorations and programs. The centerpiece for the table was a large birthday cake topped with 30 candles, in celebration of the 30th anniversary of the founding of Xi chapter on the University of Kentucky campus.

Miss Margaret Stewart, president of the active chapter, gave the welcoming address and presented the following speakers: Mrs. W. L. Heizer, Jr., who spoke on "Outstanding Alpha Xi Delta's," and Miss Nathalie Dye, who gave a history of the sorority. Short talks were given by various alumnae, and Miss Elaine Allison, accompanied by Miss Margaret Stewart, sang a solo. The highest scholarship making was presented to Miss Emily Clay and Miss

Done At Dunn's By "KIT" The peace and tranquility usually present in the hour before dawn was much perturbed when a group of football boys stormed in. It seemed like a cyclone, but Boston, Hinesboro, Snyder, Davis, and Simpson seemed to be the entire signal. Would you believe it? Even the vicinity of Jean McElroy and Andrew Eckblad could not drown them out.

Three mildly amusing remarks making the rounds will now be disclosed to a waiting world. Instead of being funny and a hot chick, the latest version is "A witch and a hot and a coffee pot." When a campus leader was asked if he was going to see the latest play he said that he would be in the front row, jeez. And last, but not least, is the lad who was going to class to cuss and discuss with Professor So-and-so.

A grand finale comes the news that the boys of Columbia University voted that if they were ever marooned on a desert island they prayed to a merciful Sonoma that Carole Lombard would be there. Oh! the advantages of a college education.
