"All we have of freedom—all we use or know—
This our fathers bought for us, long and long ago."
—Rudyard Kipling

This collage by New York artist Fred Otnes was especially commissioned by Brown & Williamson for its permanent collection of fine art works.

The freedom to choose our livelihood was provided to us long ago. And it was typified by the struggle of immigrants to America in the early 1800's. People like Adam Gimbel, a humble Jewish peddler from Germany, who later founded the country's first department store. And individuals who became industrial giants, like Andrew Carnegie from Scotland, who built one of the largest steel producing businesses in the United States. America had given both of them the freedom. The freedom to choose.

A free individual does not live without choice. A free society does not prosper without it. Consider, if you will, the personal choices we make every day without intervention from others. Now consider how many we take for granted.

The right to choose is the basis of all freedom—political, social, artistic, economic, religious—for all people. But this right must be protected from those who would chip away at it...either deliberately for personal gain, or innocently for the "betterment" of humanity. It must be protected from those who would make their choice, your choice. These personal freedoms are our legacy as well as our responsibility...to protect and to pass on to those who follow.

Freedom. It's a matter of choice.

DR. OTIS A. SINGLETARY

President, University of Kentucky

The University of Kentucky has become one of the major institutions of higher learning in the United States under the leadership of Dr. Otis Singletary, the eighth president of the University.

Dr. Singletary was named president of the University in August, 1969. He had previously served as executive vice-chancellor for academic affairs in the University of Texas System and director of the Job Corps program for the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Dr. Singletary, a native of Gulfport, Miss., holds degrees from Millsaps College and Louisiana State University.

As president of the principal institution of higher learning in the Commonwealth, Dr. Singletary is greatly concerned with the University's role as a land-grant institution, a "people's university" accessible to all who can profit from education.

In the nine years he has been president, the University has grown to where there are now more than 22,000 students on the Lexington campus and more than 17,000 students in UK's 13 community colleges. The University has also become one of the major research institutions in the country.

Recognition of his service to the University was evidenced by the UK Alumni Association, which presented to Dr. Singletary its Alumni Service Award — an honor rarely bestowed upon a non-alumnus of the University.

Dr. Singletary is the author of two books and several monographs.

A Navy veteran of World War II and the Korean Conflict, he is a commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve. He and Mrs. Singletary, the former Gloria Walton, have three children: Bonnie, Scot and Kendall.

The Singletarys live at Maxwell Place, traditional home of UK presidents.

Athletics Director

Expansion of the football training room and addition of a beautiful player's lounge at Shively Sports Center, new carpeting in the stadium football offices, a new basketball office complex in Memorial Coliseum, rearrangement of the baseball fences and a new surface for the running track are just a few of the recent improvements that signify the continuing progress of UK athletics since Cliff Hagan joined the Wildcat Staff eight years ago.

Recognized nationally as a progressive, business-oriented and promotion-minded administrator, Hagan has seen and overseen vast improvements in all phases of an ever-expanding operation that has encompassed 16 sports since the men's and women's programs were merged in July, 1978.

The merger, under Hagan's direction, has been orderly, with office space remodeled, and in some cases created, to make room for the women's coaching and administrative staff.

The introduction of Hagan into the UK athletics administrative structure came in 1972, when he was named assistant to Harry C. Lancaster and given the task of implementing the Blue & White Fund for 57,600-seat Commonwealth Stadium and later for Rupp Arena. The fruits of his labors in this area have provided the additional financial support that has elevated the UK athletics program into a first class operation.

Hagan was named Athletics Director in July 1975 following Lancaster's retirement.

Hagan has also been an advocate of a strong scholar-athlete program, feeling "a genuine commitment to provide all the academic support and encouragement we can to help our athletes leave our campus with a college education and a degree."

On the personal side, Hagan received one of his highest individual honors in 1978 when he became the first University of Kentucky basketball player to be installed in the Naismith Memorial National Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass.

He is married to the former Martha Milton of Owensboro. They have four children: Lisa, Laurie, Amy and Kip.

Larry is entering his fifth year as Assistant Director of Athletics for Finance. Ivy, who came to the University of Kentucky as director of housing in 1969, is involved primarily with the administration and management of the business operations, and helps to develop and initiate policies for accounting procedures and related financial management.

A native of Alabama, Ivy graduated in 1961 from Huntsville High School, where he lettered in four sports. He is a 1967 graduate of the University of Alabama and earned his MBA from Alabama in 1968.

He is married to the former Barbara Foster of Huntsville. They have one daughter, Kim, 10.

Ivy is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack F. Ivy of Huntsville.

Frank Ham became assistant director of athletics soon after Cliff Hagan succeeded Harry C. Lancaster as director of athletics.

A native of Scranton, PA, Ham came to the University in 1969 as administrative assistant to football coach John Ray, and was reassigned to the athletic director's staff in 1972.

Ham graduated from high school at Niles, Michigan and completed his undergraduate work at Olivet College. He did graduate work at Indiana University and coached high school football and track at John Adams High in South Bend. He then returned to Olivet as athletic director and head football and basketball coach.

In 1962, he became assistant to the president at Olivet, with responsibilities in public and alumni relations. He was in private business from 1956 until 1968.

JOE B. HALL

Basketball Coach

Joe B. Hall begins his ninth season as head coach of the Kentucky Wildcats with eight returning lettermen, including three starters, and another banner recruiting class.

For the second consecutive season, the Kentucky freshmen have been tabbed the top group in the country. Last season, Hall led a youth-dominated squad to a 29-6 record and to three championships. The 1979-80 Wildcats won the Southeastern Conference title for the fifth consecutive year and claimed tournament championships in the UKIT and the Great Alaskan Shootout.

While leading the Wildcats to a 29-6 record last year, Hall upped his eight-year UK record to 183-60 (75.3%), an average of 22.9 wins per season, to keep ahead of the pace set by his former coach, Adolph Rupp, who averaged 21.5 victories a season over a 41-season span to become the winningest collegiate basketball coach of all time.

Hall has won such honors as Kellogg's 1978 National "Coach of the Year," three Southeastern Conference "Coach of the Year" awards (1973, '75, and '78) in seven years, and nomination for Kodak's 1975, '76, and '78 (finalist) "Coach of the Year" awards.

In 1978 when Kentucky won its fifth NCAA title, Hall was also presented the Rupp Cup (presented to the SEC Coach of the Year by the Birmingham Tipoff Club) and Hall's most coveted personal award, the Dr. James Naismith "Peachbasket" award, which previously had been awarded to UCLA's John Wooden, Oklahoma State's Hank Iba, Kentucky's Adolph Rupp, and the Boston Celtics' Red Auerbach.

Entering this season, Hall's 14 year career coaching record stands at 259-116, (excluding a 17-2 record on a 1974 Australian tour, a 7-0 record on a 1978 Japan tour, and six pre-season exhibition wins against foreign and domestic teams) and that record was compiled against nationally ranked non-conference teams and teams in a conference that fast is becoming recognized as among the toughest in the nation. Broken down, it shows a 57-50 five-year mark at Regis, a 19-6 record at Central Missouri, and a 183-60 record at UK.

Hall began his tour as UK head coach in rather auspicious fashion, becoming in 1973 the first rookie coach in the SEC to be designated Coach of the Year by his fellow coaches and by Coach and Athlete Magazine.

Gathering such honors has been one of Hall's trademarks during a coaching career that began at Shepherdsville (Ky.) High School in 1956 and continued through Regis College and Central Missouri State College before he returned to UK July 1, 1965, as an assistant to his former coach, Adolph Rupp.

A three-letter winner and team captain in both sports in high school at Cynthiana, Ky., he played freshman basketball and one year of varsity basketball in the "Fabulous Five" era at the University before transferring to the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., where he set a school single game scoring record and was team captain. Coach Lon Varnell, upon retirement, rated Hall as No. 1 of the three best players he ever coached.

After touring Europe with the Globetrotters in 1951, Hall returned to U.K. in 1955 to complete requirements for his B.A. and later (1964) received his M.A. at Colorado State.

Perhaps the best appraisal of the job Hall has been doing at the University came from Rupp, who died in 1977. "A good coach," Rupp said, "is a person who can take good material and win with it. Joe has done that."

He is married to the former Katharine Dennis of Harrison County, Ky. They have three children—Mrs. Rick Derrickson and Steve of Lexington, and Mrs. Mike Summers of Greenville, S. C.

LEONARD HAMILTON

Associate Coach

Leonard Hamilton was named the University's first associate basketball coach on Oct. 15.

Hamilton has been a Wildcat assistant coach for six years. He came to Kentucky after spending three years as an assistant coach at Austin Peay.

He has always been noted as an outstanding recruiter and as a defensive specialist. Most remarkable in his coaching career is the fact that in eight of his nine years on the college scene, the team he has been associated with has advanced to post-season play. Only in his first season at Austin Peay has Hamilton not been involved in a post-season tournament.

A native of Gastonia, N.C., Hamilton lettered three years in football and twice in basketball as a prep-ster. He captained his team for two seasons at Gastonia Community College in Dallas, N.C. He also captained his team at Tennessee-Martin, where he graduated in 1970.

The 32 year old Hamilton is married to the former Claudette Hale of McMoresville, Tenn. They have a son, Lenny, 10.

Coaches

JOE DEAN

Assistant Coach

A vital and vibrant member of the Wildcat coaching staff, Joe Dean enters his fourth year at Kentucky.

A native of Baton Rouge, La., he attended Baton Rouge High School where he earned letters in basketball and football.

Dean got an early taste of Kentucky basketball when he played against the Wildcats three years for Mississippi State University. After graduating from State in 1976, he served one year as Bulldog graduate assistant while earning a masters degree in physical education. Outstanding in academics, he was named to the 1976 Academic All-SEC second team.

Putting Dean's youthful enthusiasm to full use, coach Hall has appointed the young coach director of the annual Wildcat Coaching Clinic and the popular Wildcat Summer Basketball Summer Camp in addition to regular duties.

He is married to the former Ellen Elizabeth Anger of Jackson, Mississippi. They have a son, Scott, 1.

The Wildcats are fortunate to have the services of volunteer coach Harry Lancaster and part-time assistant coach Bob Chambers this season.

Both bring to Coach Joe Hall's program many years of basketball experience working with young players.

LANCASTER

Harry Lancaster, former athletics director and assistant basketball coach at the University of Kentucky, came to Kentucky in 1946 and served as an assistant coach under the legendary Adolph Rupp until 1968. In 1968, he was named acting athletics director of Kentucky, and in 1969, he was named athletics director.

CHAMBERS

Bob Chambers has 20 years of high school coaching experience, 13 as a head coach. His overall record is 317-116. For nine years prior to 1979-80, he coached at Tennessee High in Bristol and fashioned a 228-68 mark and made three trips to the state play-offs. Last season, eight of his former players, including Kentucky's Derrick Hord, played college basketball.

Game plan.

Success in basketball requires plenty of training, good coaching and team play. And it requires a game plan.

At McDonald's, our game plan is simple. We have the team to produce winners every season.

Winners like Quarter Pounder,[™] Big Mac,[™] Golden French Fries, and Triple Thick Shakes.

And our game plan includes careful handling. We never drop the ball when it comes to service. Prompt and courteous—whether you're home team or visitor.

So, before or after the next battle on the hardwood, include McDonald's in your game plan.

Master Marksman Stresses Balance

Jim Master is a well-balanced individual.

The prep All-American, Indiana's "Mr. Basketball," is expected to give the Wildcats "instant offense." He's a shooter, a quick draw artist, a man who has seemed in a hurry to fill the Rupp Arena basket with shots from Patterson Street.

Master has seemed like that at times but he knows he has to come to grips with many situations now that he is playing in the Big Time. And he is adjusting.

"The college game itself has been the biggest adjustment for me," Jim was saying last week. "You know, in high school, I just had to concentrate on scoring. Here, I have to work on all aspects of the game."

While Coach Joe B. Hall realizes Master's obvious offensive skills, he's never been one to be content with a one-dimensional player. He's got to be pleased with how the freshman has been playing solid defense and how he has lifted the Cats on several occasions (like the Ohio State game) with his—dare we say it?—boyish enthusiasm.

Right now, Master realizes he is in a shooting slump. He knows there are no magic cures for this common malady.

"I've been in shooting slumps before so I'm now thinking about my defense and different things. Once I get relaxed I think my outside shot will come. I think every player has ups and downs as a freshman," Master continues.

Confidence has never been a problem, you see. Master averaged 27.8 ppg his senior year at Harding High School in Ft. Wayne, Ind. and was shooting a fine 52 per cent from the field. Master, along with Kentucky teammate Bret Bearup were two of only three high school juniors to participate in the National Sports Festival in Colorado Springs.

Master might be just as proud of his accomplishments in the classroom. He was selected to the Indiana Academic All-State team by the Indiana Coaches Association. Again, balance. It's all part of Jim's game plan at Kentucky. There are academic goals as well as basketball goals.

"I think many freshmen hope to start out with a "B" average as a goal and I set that goal for myself this semester. I'm glad I succeeded in getting that 3.0 average," he adds.

As for goals on the court, Jim Master doesn't talk about Jim Master.

"Every team I've ever been on, I've just had team goals. It's true what they say, if you establish team goals and reach them, the personal goals will come along and you'll get recognition."

The balance that Jim Master strives for is also evident in one more area. His performance from the free throw line helps him deal with an occasional cold shooting streak.

"I think my strong point so far has been my free throw shooting," he says. (He's shooting 93 per cent!).

Coach Hall continues to show confidence in the freshman guard. Master ranks sixth in minutes played on this Wildcat team so far this season. It shows Hall knew what he was saying when he raved about Master's extraordinary abilities long before the season began.

"Jim is an unusual freshman," Hall had said. "He has the type of ability that makes it possible for him to step in and contribute immediately."

The Man Across the Water:

Joe Hall Spreads the Basketball Gospel

By Barry Bronson

Joe Hall doesn't know exactly where it happened that he became interested in international basketball. He does know about when it happened.

In 1951 the Wildcat head coach, then a young player fresh out of the University of the South, toured Europe as part of the Harlem Globetrotters traveling basketball circus. The tour covered most of Western Europe and North Africa playing in everything from bullrings to soccer fields to temporary "floors" made out of one-inch boards covering two-by-fours.

"We carried our own basketball goals, backboards and standards," Coach Hall recalls with a smile. "We were gone 58 days and we played 56 games.

"And I believe it was that tour, there was no question, that made me want to go back and see other countries. It gave me an interest in international basketball and I've been interested in its progress ever since," he adds.

Since that first trip, Hall has become a world traveler and a much-sought-after figure on the international clinic and speaker circuit. He has taken Kentucky teams on tours of Australia and Japan. One of the major honors he received came when he was named guest lecturer for the World Basketball Coaches Congress where he spoke before some 400 international coaches who had gathered in the Canary Islands. It seemed a natural outgrowth of the teaching commitment that took him to Alaska, West Germany and England to conduct clinics for the U. S. Army in previous years. This past summer he taught a week-long clinic in Santiago, Chile. He was a member of the 1976 Olympic Basketball Committee and in 1972 served under Hank Iba in the Olympic Trials at the Air Force Academy. He has coached U. S. All-Star teams in the World Invitational Tournament championship.

Coaches and sports officials from other nations have been flocking to the bluegrass to learn the "Kentucky Method." Following the 1978 tour of Japan, the Japanese sent two of their coaches to Lexington. Mototaka Kohama in 1979, and Suehiro Nishio this year, took home valuable insights into the American—and the Kentucky—way of basketball.

"The summer before last, the Japanese brought 25 members of their national team and their university team and stayed five weeks. We put them through our conditioning weight-lifting and practice program and worked out with them twice-a-day teaching them the Kentucky System," says Coach Hall.

"They left here and went to Mexico City for the World University Games. They had finished 25th in that tournament and that year, they finished 11th. So they were overjoyed with the improvement shown."

Hall is one of the far-sighted U. S. sportsmen to have seen, early on, the advantage of exposing his players to international competition. He is one who never tires of spreading the basketball gospel, either.

"I see that the world is growing smaller and smaller and these countries are making great progress in basketball. The pro leagues that have started up . . . you know, we have Kentucky players who are playing all over. LaVon Williams and Jack Givens are in Italy, James

"I see the world as growing smaller and smaller and these countries are making great progress in basketball."

Lee, Mike Phillips and Bob Guyette played in Spain, Larry Johnson played in Japan. So, we are interested in international relations, we want to further the image of basketball as it grows in those countries."

Joe Hall has never stopped learning from the way other international teams play the game, either. That's why, year after year, he schedules opponents like the Russians, Polish Coach Hall put the Japanese team through the UK conditioning program.

National Team, Yugoslavia National Team and South Korean Team as pre-season competition.

"The international game does teach you some things," he explains. "Of course, it's a little rough, it's a faster pace. There's a lot of difference in the way the game of basketball is looked at. Innovations are evolving (on the international scene) and that's interesting and good to learn."

For someone who has had much success against international competition, Hall sees areas for improvement. The recent game against South Koreans is a good example. The Wildcats beat up on the shorter, less experienced Koreans 107-59. Still, there were words of praise for the visitors from Hall who says he learned much from that squad and its coaches.

"They force you to make the defensive adjustment. Other parts of their game that were impressive were their passing lanes, their movement without the ball, they screened on the move a lot. And their training methods were interesting—the way they warmed up and ran their drills, their methods of stretching. They hadn't copied that from America."

The one-on-one contacts and friendships from the international experience are what Coach Hall will also remember.

"It has helped me professionally, spiritually and friendship-wise as well as having extended my knowledge of the game. This kind of contact hastens the understanding of different cultures and speeds up mutual understanding a lot more than if you toured as a tourist."

It is because Hall was treated so well overseas that he has always been anxious to repay that kindness.

"When coaches and officials come to visit us here, many times they are guests in my house. And it's funny, I've found the place they enjoy the most is the basement or the clutter area where the most treasured items and mementos are. And they also like to see my fishing room," Hall the sportsman is quick to point out.

The future is going to bring more guests into the Joe Hall home. Two Chilean coaches and one from Peru will be in Lexington this winter. The Wildcat coach and his team will be making, by popular request, a return tour of Japan in 1982.

It's a two-way highway to the rest of the world.

UK Professor's Passion Is Life

By Betty Tevis
UK Information Services

Most UK students have heard of the dazzling teacher whose twice-a-week lectures year after year pack the Morgan Building's biggest lecture hall to its rafters, and turn away hundreds for the 800 who get in.

Nicholas J. Pisacano, M.D., is a sensitive man whose passion is life. He's a born actor who's never set foot on a conventional stage. He's a jet-traveling, coast-to-coast executive with a computer terminal at his desk and a library of classics and first editions at home. He loves good food, music, people, conversation. At the same time his idol is the Yankee spinster and recluse, Emily Dickinson.

Pisacano's talents, like his name, are legend.

Some UK folk know the creative organizer who, as Professor Constance Wilson puts it, "almost single-handedly developed the American Board of Family Practice" which is today's strong professional society of 24,000 members. Others know and love the "brilliant guy . . . who's . . . fun to be around" in Fran Curci's words.

Others like the doctor's business friend/associate I. G. Manis, note Pisacano's devotion to his family and friends and the fact "he cares about people."

Pisacano is nothing if not articulate.

To students in his "Introduction to Human Biology:"

"Try to have a little patience with your mother" and "I won't put up with any nonsense from 18-year-olds; I don't at home and I won't here." (He has five grown children.)

Of the specialty in family practice: "There used to be a void in health care delivery. We try to take care of the whole man. We want to encourage the doctor who knows, and also cares. It's not old wine in new bottles. . . ."

Of medicine: "I never wanted to do anything else. But someday when the board (of family practice) is going well, I'd like to help rebuild the image of the physician.

I'd like to see him study Shakespeare and the Bible. Medicine is a scientific discipline based on humanism. A liberal education frees a man. . . ."

Pisacano spends "ninety-nine per cent of my waking time working" with the gusto that, as Professor Wilson says, "makes all life exciting" for him.

To travel, playing the piano, attending theater and opera, he brings the same enthusiasm.

Of Emily Dickinson: "Yes, I went to Amherst. I wanted to see her home. . . . 'as imperceptibly as grief, the summer lapsed away.' If I could write something like that, I wouldn't be here!"

"Here" is his comfortable executive director's office on the second floor of a building owned by the American Board of Family Practice. Downstairs is rented to The Jockey Club—"very interesting fellows" An oil painting of Venice hangs prominently on one paneled wall. "A wedding gift to my mother, 61 years ago," he beams. Pisacano has traveled Italy, and "I'm an Anglophile, too." In England he visited Keats' grave—"you know, he was a doctor"—and Shelley's and Byron's graves in Italy.

This Philadelphia native arrived at UK in 1962, already an experienced general practitioner (of medicine) in Philadelphia and in rural Vermont and beginning to lead his profession. He came to UK as assistant professor of medicine and director of continuing education in the College of Medicine. After that he chaired colleges and departments, served as dean and director in Allied Health, Arts and Sciences, and Medicine. He's also a member of the UK Athletic Association board of directors.

And always he has taught his biology class, arranging an executive's schedule around that center. "I can be exhausted," he says, "but after 10 minutes in that classroom I feel wonderful.

"Ego? I suppose so. But more than that. It's good for my soul. In fact, the class feeds me hyacinths for my soul."

Students return the bouquets: Most Popular Professor (1965), Distinguished Teaching award (1967), Teaching Award from Panhellenic and Interfraternity Council, and like honors from the Student American Medical Association and the Kentucky Academy of General Practice.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, PROTECT YOUR ENGINES.

Everyday, you put your car to a driving test as grueling as an afternoon at Indy. Through stop and go traffic. Sustained speeds on the highway. Things that can really put the heat on your engine.

That's why you need a motor oil like Valvoline®... tough enough to take that kind of punishment. Valvoline, the name more racers depend on than any other brand.

And while you're saving your engine, think about saving money, too. Change the oil yourself. It saves time, and it's easier than you might think.

Do-it-yourself with the motor oil that makes the difference. Valvoline. It's not just for winning races.

Valvoline®
IT'S NOT JUST FOR WINNING RACES,
IT'S FOR SAVING MONEY, TOO.

1957: UK vs. Temple

The headline in the Lexington Herald-Leader Dec. 7, 1957 read, "Temple Stern Threat to UK's Unbeaten Mark Tonight."

That might have been the understatement of the year. Coming into the early season test, Kentucky had beaten nationally ranked Duke and Ohio State. But could anyone have guessed it would take three overtimes to defeat the Owls?

Twice in the first half, Temple held eight-point leads. Kentucky fought back, however, to take a 27-26 lead into the locker room. Kentucky could have been excused for being frustrated after the game was sent to overtime.

But All-American guard Vernon Hatton, after being ineffective in regulation, redeemed himself in the extra periods. Hatton hit a 47-foot set shot with one second remaining in the first OT to knot the game. He also scored the Cat's final six points to assure the victory.

The final OT was capped off with Hatton connecting on a 20-foot shot with 1:40 to play and then adding a pair of free throws a few seconds later following a steal.

Temple standout Guy Rodgers and Mel Brodsky led the Owls with 24 points each. Jay Norman had 23 rebounds.

Johnny Cox paced Kentucky with 22 points and 16 rebounds. UK's Ed Beck hit only two of 17 from the floor but hauled in 20 rebounds.

Talented Bulldogs Feature Fine Defense

"How 'bout them hairy 'Dawgs' ". That was the cheer heard throughout the college football season as Georgia became the SEC Champions and drove for a National Championship. But the enthusiasm is sure to continue this basketball season.

Georgia was considered a push-over in the past in basketball but, despite having a team of four freshmen, six sophomores and three juniors, the Bulldogs are one of the veteran teams of the conference. The addition of head coach Hugh Durham three years ago has helped. Since coming to Athens, Durham has led the Dogs to a 28-27 record (14-13 last season).

Dominique Wilkins and Terry Fair head the list of returnees. Wilkins was hampered last season with an injury in the 14th game but still averaged 18.6 points and 6.5 rebounds. Many consider him the most exciting player in the SEC. Fair earned the SEC Rookie of the Year in 1979 while averaging 13.6 points and 10.0 rebounds. Both players were consensus All-SEC Freshman Team selections and are expected to pick up where they left off.

Lamar Heard and Derrick Floyd, another pair of sophomores, were in the Georgia starting lineup at one time or another. Bobby Miles and Mike Morris will play in the talented front line for Durham.

Eric Marbury will be one starting guard after seeing much action the past two seasons. He averaged 12.5 points and dished out 60 assists, second on the team. Transfer guard Wilmore Fowler is the other experienced player in the backcourt. If the name sounds familiar, Fowler was a starting guard at the University of Kansas.

Not to be outdone by last year's great freshmen, Durham has once again come up with a new crop of youngsters led by All-Americans Vern Fleming and James Banks. The duo averaged 26.5 and 24.7 points respectively. Phil Wallace (6-4, 175) and Sid Truesdale (6-5, 185) were All-State selections in Georgia and North Carolina and should provide immediate help for the Bulldogs.

This season, the Bulldogs got out of the blocks fast. As they broke for exams, Georgia stood 4-0 and boasted one of the best defensive teams in the country. Through four games, the 'Dogs were giving up a paltry average of 58 points per game.

FRED C. DAVISON
University President

Dr. Fred C. Davison is the seventeenth president of the University of Georgia, the nation's oldest chartered state university.

Dr. Davison was born in Atlanta and grew up in Marietta. He holds the D.V.M. degree from the University of Georgia (1952) and the Ph.D. degree from Iowa State University as Research Associate. At ISU he was appointed assistant professor on the department teaching staff and an Associate of the Institute for Atomic Research.

Dr. Davison left Iowa State in 1963 to become Assistant Director of the Department of Scientific Activities of the American Veterinary Medical Association in Chicago, a position he held until he became Dean of the University of Georgia School of Veterinary Medicine in 1964.

After two years, he was appointed Vice Chancellor of the University System of Georgia.

HUGH DURHAM
Head Coach

Hugh Durham enters his third campaign as head of the Bulldogs. His first Georgia team posted a 14-14 record and last year's squad finished 14-13, the Bulldog's first winning season in 8 years.

Durham came to Georgia after 12 years at the helm of Florida State. The Seminoles had an outstanding 230-95 record (70.8%) including 11 straight winning seasons. FSU went all the way to the NCAA finals in 1972 and in 1977-78, won the Metro 7 regular season title. Durham was tabbed Metro Coach of the Year that season.

The 42-year-old Louisville native was a standout guard at FSU from 1956-59. He received his Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration from FSU and later earned his Master's in the same field. He served as an assistant coach at his alma mater before taking over the head coaching job in 1966.

University of Kentucky: Great and Growing

Truly one of the leading land grant institutions in the nation, the University of Kentucky has a national and international reputation in such diverse fields as medicine, business, engineering, law and agriculture.

More than 22,000 students are enrolled on the main campus in Lexington. Another 17,000 students are enrolled at the 13 community colleges operated by UK across the state at Ashland, Henderson, Cumberland, Elizabethtown, Prestonsburg, Hopkinsville, Somerset, Louisville, Paducah, Hazard, Maysville, Madisonville and Lexington.

UK has a graduate school and 17 academic colleges . . . Arts and Sciences, Agriculture, Engineering, Business and Economics, Education, Home Economics, Library Science, Social Work, Architecture, Communications, Fine Arts, Law, Medicine, Dentistry, Nursing, Allied Health Professions and Pharmacy.

Kentucky is noted for its research efforts, especially in the fields of energy, tobacco and cancer.

UK's Institute for Mining and Minerals Research is a national leader in energy-related research, especially in the areas of coal liquefaction and gasification.

Kentucky's Tobacco and Health Research Institute is a world-wide leader in research on the problems of tobacco and health.

The UK College of Agriculture has been responsible over the years for the development of 80 percent of the burley tobacco varieties grown anywhere in the world, and its research on tobacco diseases has saved farmers millions of dollars.

Scientists at UK did much to save Kentucky's thoroughbred horse industry a few years ago when a dreaded disease, called contagious equine metritis (CEM), struck the industry. Horse vaccines developed at Kentucky for horses are being used all over the world.

UK has an outstanding faculty with some of the top teachers and researchers in the nation. The Kentucky mathematics department has seven faculty members who have been awarded the prestigious Sloan Fellowship, and the Political Science department consistently ranks among the top such departments in the nation in the number of scholarly papers published.

In the arts, close to 100,000 people attend the many art, music and theatre productions at UK. The Kentucky Marching Band is one of the best collegiate contingents in the country, and the UK orchestra, chorus, theatre and opera offer sterling performances throughout the year.

A real boon to the arts at Kentucky was the opening of UK's new Center for the Arts. The building contains a 400-seat recital hall, a 1,500-seat concert hall and the 20,000 square foot University of Kentucky Art Museum.

UK's Albert B. Chandler Medical Center has a wide range of programs in education and research. In addition to its 20-year mission as a major teaching and research center, the facility serves as a medical complex for the Lexington community and a regional center for the Commonwealth.

The Medical Center offers, through direct patient care or referral, more than 40 services ranging from primary care and family practice to highly specialized areas such as open heart surgery, renal transplants and cancer treatment.

The five colleges of the Medical Center—Medicine, Dentistry, Nursing, Pharmacy and Allied Health — have more than 2,000 students pursuing bachelor, masters and doctoral degrees in health-related fields. Extramural funding in support of teaching, research and public service has more than doubled in the past 10 years to some $11.4 million in 1979.

Of major significance in the area of medical research is the recent opening of the Sanders-Brown Research Center on Aging, one of the first facilities of its kind in the nation. The building, made possible by a matching grant from the John Y. Brown, Jr. Foundation, will enable UK scientists and researchers to study the biological aspects of aging with the ultimate goal of improving the quality of life for the elderly.

School spirit is on a continuous high at UK. The 1979-80 cheerleading squad was judged the second best collegiate cheerleader in the nation. The Kentucky band receives standing ovations wherever it appears.

The University has had only eight presidents since its founding in 1865. Dr. Otis Singletary, now in his 12th year as UK president, is a history scholar and nationally-recognized university administrator. He came to Kentucky from Texas where he served as executive vice chancellor for academic affairs of the University of Texas system.

TERRY HALL

Head Basketball Coach

Arriving at the University of Kentucky after an impressive five-year stint at the University of Louisville, Terry Hall looks forward to the challenge of becoming women's basketball coach at UK. She brings with her substantial experience in various levels of women's sports.

Hall, the Cardinals' first full-time women's basketball coach, compiled a 79-53 record at U of L. She directed all aspects of the Louisville program, including scheduling, recruiting, preparing the budget and supervising the athletes' housing. Last season she guided the Cardinals to their first Metro Conference championship and a 17-17 record, defeating highly respected Memphis State in the pre-season tournament finals.

Her 11-year coaching career began at Butler High School in Louisville. Her first coaching assignment at the collegiate level was at Eastern Kentucky University. In addition to her coaching duties, Hall is the chairperson of both the Southern Region II Sports Committee and the KWIC Division Basketball Committee. Earlier this year she was nominated to the National Basketball Committee and the Outstanding Young Women of America. Hall graduated from Indiana State University in 1966 with a degree in Health and Physical Education. She earned a Master's degree in P. E. from Eastern in 1974.

UK Cheerleaders

What's Number Two in the nation and Number One in the hearts of all Kentucky Wildcat fans? The unanimous choice is the University of Kentucky Wildcat cheerleaders!

The 1979-80 squad finished second behind Indiana State in the National College Cheerleading Championship held in Los Angeles.

The competition was broadcast nationwide last spring on network television.

The UK cheerleaders are practicing a "new look" for the 1980 basketball season. Because of Southeastern Conference regulations restricting cheerleader routines, the Wildcats will be building smaller pyramids but creating more entertaining and crowd-pleasing routines.

New this year to the squad is the UK Wildcat, Ralph McBarron, a senior majoring in marketing from Louisville.

This season's spirited squad includes eight persons from last year's championship team, plus six newcomers.
