Santa Won't Have To Spend Any Money On Us This Year

We're not asking for anything expensive from Santa this year.
We haven't put bombers or battleships on our list because we know that he is giving us every one he can possibly make already.
But we are asking for just a few promises, or a few announcements which won't cost him one cent in cash money. Yet, they are about the most appreciated gifts he could possibly give to any University of Kentucky student.

•FIRST—From the Board of Trustees, acceptance of the student petition for granting of degrees to graduating seniors who have to leave school for military service, and awarding of credit for the semester to all undergraduates who are called—provided, of course, that they are passing all subjects. This would take a great amount of worry off the minds of students, and, in view of the situation, would be a just thing to do. (And incidentally, would probably result in a number of students registering for school who otherwise would stay out for fear of being called and losing the benefits of their fees.)

•SECOND—From the University faculty, acceptance of the proposed amendments to the SGA constitution which would give students a larger voice in direction of their own affairs.

•THIRD, and most important—From the government of the United States some honest statement of war aims. The one note of hesitancy which still echoes in the back of many an undergraduate mind is the fear that, caught up in a post-war spirit of isolationism and vindictiveness and desire to "make-'em-pay," the diplomats of the day will be talked into another Treaty of Versailles. A sincere declaration by the leaders of the Allied powers that they are intending to close the war with a just peace, providing and assuring by promises of aid in the future a democratic system of government for the conquered nations, would completely win over every thinking college student.
If we could see the hope that this war is going to be the last one, we would certainly have a Merry Christmas.

Thanks, But We'll Keep Our Sense Of Humor

Last Friday we printed a letter from a student who was shocked at THE KERNEL'S impudence in wisecracking about certain aspects of the war. Specifically, he objected to our alleged witicism that, no matter how many bombs are falling on the Philippines or how many ships are being sunk, Any Bonds Today is still a corny song.
This attitude is just what we had in mind when we wrote the reputedly humorous piece.
We recognize the seriousness of the situation and the vital need for patriotism, but just the

Keep Calm, Study, And Be Prepared Students Are Advised By Editors

ON THE COLLEGE FRONT BY JIMMY HURT
1. Keep calm.
2. Stick to your studies.
3. Prepare for the future.
These were the keynotes of advice struck in college editorials last week. Immediately upon the declaration of war by Japan, and the American declaration soon following, scholastic editors rallied their schools on the All-Out side. Among the papers received at the Kernel office, not one dissenting voice was heard.
"Why the little yellow men decided to commit national suicide we do not know. Perhaps they do not realize that when they attack America faces a people who have not and will not know defeat. As a self-governing people we have discussed the necessity of punishing the wicked little boys of the old world. Now the decision is made. Nippon will find as one hundred and thirty million individuals thinking and acting with but one purpose—to defend our country."
The Indiana Daily Student cautioned students to remember the future:
"This is definitely no time for 'what's the use of studying' attitude that we have noticed becoming prevalent in the student body. Just as peace we prepared in the past—and war if it comes—so we must prepare for peace in time of war."
There WILL BE A FUTURE, but we have another job on our hands—and it isn't enjoyable.
Now is not the time to adopt a short-care attitude. We cannot afford to rush in our decisions and foolhardy in our actions. We know that when Army and Naval authorities call for the men of Indiana University to go into the armed forces they will respond whole-heartedly. Training received at the University will be of invaluable aid to the United States and will help in a multitude of ways to win the war."
"The Daily Student, by the way, was the first newspaper in its city to hit the streets with the story of the American declaration of war."
WEST VIRGINIA
Down at the University of West Virginia, the Daily Athenaeum emphasized the need for cooperation: "No longer can we depend on the half-hearted cooperation from any citizen. Current and proposed strikes were immediately cancelled when the shocking treachery became known. Labor and capital stand as one—industrious America is here for victory."
Louisiana State University got a taste of war hysteria in the form of the most spirited demonstration recently seen in the South. Starting at a local theater, a small group, singing "God Bless America" some there is no cause yet for giving up one's right to his own opinions just because it may be a little aside from the war. Just because fighting the war deserves the whole-hearted effort of every citizen does not mean that we have to accept unthinkingly every bit of the whole program.

It is not necessary to listen to Any Bonds Today—which even the letter writer admitted was corny—with a long sad face, just because it is connected with national feeling. The British, we are told, still have their jokes and their pint of stout, even though they have been subjected to air raid after air raid.
If it ever really becomes unpatric to have a sense of humor, we guess you'll have to count us in with all the other Benedict Arnolds.

Let's Not Lose Our Heads Again, Folks
Last week someone chucked down several of the cherry trees along the Tidal Basin in Washington D. C.
And not long afterwards, our barber, in all seriousness, asked us, "Have you heard the latest that the Japanese are doing? They are taking all the old women who are not able to have children and are using them for living layonnet targets."
And so it was that the first signs of those two most deplorable phenomena of wartime—hysteria and "atrocity" propaganda made their appearance.
It's enough to make anyone look darkly to the future to observe how little the people apparently have learned from the first World War. The same vindictiveness and intolerance which led to brutality toward dachshund dogs in 1918 is appearing again, and we're afraid may have the same effect on the peace.
The same type of "atrocity" stories, spread through ignorance and hatred, fooled the people in 1918. It is ironic to realize that there will be books on "Propaganda Techniques in World War II" which will use as examples the same stories circulating now.
There is the same hatred and bitterness toward the people of Japan and Germany which led post-war patriots to demand that they be "crushed until they can't cause any more trouble, again," and blinded them to the fact that the dishonest and perfidious governments came about in the countries because they could promise the people a measure of prosperity and happiness unattainable through peaceful means.
Citizens of the United States must not allow themselves to be carried away by the war spirit so far that they hold bitterness to the people of the enemy countries, odious as may be the governments with which they are afflicted. This must realize that the people of those countries, if released from their totalitarian governments, helped into democracy and given an even break, can eventually make as good world citizens as they themselves.

A Short Letter On Christmas Eve

Dear Jim,
I may be crazy for me to be writing you a letter when I could step into the next room and see you sleeping peacefully, there, dark hair curling softly around your face and your story books, "The Night Before Christmas" and the story of the Christ Child, lying on the table beside your bed. But the whole world has gone crazy, Jim.
It is Christmas Eve, 1941, the anniversary of the Savior's birth. All over the world tonight, millions of men are war—going for greed and selfishness and hate, and for the right to live and let live, that the promise of the Christ might be fulfilled. Tonight millions of little children like you will ask the same question you asked before you went to sleep. "Why can't Daddy be here?"
I'll tell you why. You will never read this, if you did you wouldn't understand. You are only six, and children of six can't understand such things.
As I have said before, we are at war. You don't know what war is. I've never seen one either. I'm what they call a war baby; a member of the What the Hell generation.

Daddy can't be with you because he has to fight for you. He is fighting so that you can have your Christmas tree with its bright lights and shiny ornaments; that you can take your new sled and coast down the same hill where he coasted when he was a little boy; that you can "camp out" in your tent under the cherry tree in the back yard; that you can play cowboys and Indians with all the kids in the neighborhood and make so much noise that your elders are tempted to send Buffalo Bill and Sitting Bull back to the west; that you make clover chain to hang around your neck and put flowers in your hair and pretend you are Hawaiian; that you may play with your kitties and fall asleep before the fire, your head pillowed on your puppy's soft flank; that you may go on Sunday to the little church where your parents, grandparents, and great-grandparents, went, to sing their songs, read their Bible and pray to their God.
I don't know how it will end.

What We Need Is A Big 'Give-mas' Instead Of The Traditional Holiday

BY WITNESS BY BOB BAKER

Christmas is in the air again which is all well and good but for its own good Christmas can do with a little criticism. Now we personally are in favor of Christmas. It's a great thing for business and promotes a lot of happiness in the majority of cases but we sometimes wonder if it hasn't become too much a celebration of the season of Acquisitiveness.
It seems to have turned into a pastime of Want and Get and the idea that Christmas might be one of the things fundamentally wrong with the world which can stand looking into. Undoubtedly Christmas, as we know it today, encourages a love of getting in the juvenile mind and might in time amount to a very selfish, money-grabbing adult state of mind. It has been said many times before that people who get too much are one of the causes of our modern difficulties. Certainly, all the wars of late have been the direct result of too much getting on the part of some and too much not-having on the side of the other.
Perhaps it isn't at all wise to believe too thoroughly in Old Saint Nick and go too bed each night with visions of sugar-plums running through our heads, we're likely to get to the point where nothing but sugar-plums every morning would satisfy us. We believe that is Hitler's love and the spirit of sacrifice are true Christmas-mas principles so why not?

It's an old idea but why not have an annual Give-mas on which little children and adults would really give instead of get. Nothing new would be bought, the whole idea would be to give up something you already own and regard with a little endowment. After all, brotherly love and the spirit of sacrifice are true Christmas-mas principles so why not?
Somebody suggested the Give-mas might work if it could be decided who would receive the gifts. One solution would be to have two Give-mas per year and democracy of our own as well as the people's a different half of the people

Sees Disrespect To Anthem

To the Editor of The Kernel:
I am writing this letter to call attention to something which may well be an oversight, but which gives a decidedly bad impression of our youth at this university. In this hour when we are uniting to fight for the principles of democracy our citizenship in this country is something we should hold sacred.
The Star Spangled Banner has been officially designated by act of Congress as our national anthem. In tribute, all officers, enlisted men, and civilians should rise and stand at attention facing the music when it is played in theaters, stadiums, etc.
In the Blue Grass ballroom of the University last Saturday night, women

Students Prefer War To Victory By Germany

Seventy per cent of the students in the United States—not 28 percent, as reported in last Friday's Kernel—consider it more important that Germany be defeated than that America stay out of war.
This correction was made by telegram from the Nassau Sovereign, compiler of the national percentages. Friday, after The Kernel had gone to press.
The percentages now stand: that Germany be defeated—UK, 80 percent; all students, 70 percent; that America stay out of war—UK, 17 percent; all students, 28 percent.

Now Is The Time For Building Up Student Morale

To the Editor of The Kernel:
In the opening paragraph of the Infantry Field Manual 7-4, better known as the Infantry Bible, we find the following:
"Man is the decisive element of war. Combat is a moral struggle, and victory goes to the side which refuses to be discouraged. Nurture as high morale as possible, and technical training affect morale but at the same time derive their full value from the moral qualities."
This paragraph sets forth all of the main statements concerning morale. All of us do our part in upholding the high morale which is naturally found in all Americans.
We can do this by realizing all of the tasks which must be done by Americans and their Allies in this conflict, and by "taking all of our setbacks on the chin" and by always coming back going out more than we receive.
SO LET'S ALL PITCH IN AND DO OUR JOB TOWARD NATIONAL DEFENSE IN EVERY WAY THAT WE CAN

lunch—anyway the doctor had already ducked out himself.
Time passes . . . I return to said dispensary under the impression that the office hours were from 1 to 3 p. m. I arrive at approximately 2:30 p. m. and what do you think? The doctor wasn't in and I'd have to wait.
So waiting for him to show up I light up a cigarette and about two-thirds through, one of the young ladies there comes out of an office and tells me I must throw away the cigarette—"No smoking in the bldg,"—says she as two of the staff in white uniforms walk by peacefully smoking away. (Morale—do as we say and not as we do.)
Well to cut it short another doctor steps into the breach and offers to look at my x-ray and prescribe. I think I am going to be grateful for anything. So we march to the x-ray room and what do you think? The print isn't dry and I'll have to "come back tomorrow."
So what the heck?—I'll probably be well before I am given any medical aid. Anyway one of the gals down at Dunn's Drug Store advised me to rub my chest with 10 cents worth of camphorated oil and forget about the whole thing. Which isn't such a bad idea at that.

KERNEL SOCIETY

The Party Line

BY MARGARET CANTRILL

Hello there Helen! A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to you if I don't see you any more before school is out. My dear, I don't see how anyone is going to get through all their school work with so many parties going on.

Last Friday night the Phi Tau pledges had a dinner dance for the KD pledges at the fraternity house. All the decorations were carried out in the colors of both Greek organizations, and the housemothers of both chapters were the chaperons. And oh yes, the Alpha Gams held an open house for band members Friday.

Sunday there were two organizations that felt in the Christmas mood. The Alpha Xi Deltas entertained a group of the children in the Shrine.

Very hospital. Games were played, children The Delta Chi party was and refreshments were served to the held at the chapter house, which was gaily decorated with Christmas greens and wreaths. Howard Price made the plans for the party.

The Delta Zeta annual Christmas party Monday night at the chapter house was followed by a shower for Gene Jones, vice president of the society, who is to be married Thursday.

Wednesday practically everyone is partying. The Phi Delta Theta dinner for the actives and pledges will be followed by a house dance for their dates. Arrangements for this occasion are being handled by Mrs. Walter Reid, housemother, and Bill Penick, social chairman. There is also the Pi Kapp dance.

The actives and pledges of Omega chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha will entertain with their annual dinner dance from 6:30 to 11 o'clock Wednesday night at the Wellington Arms.

The Sigma Nus will entertain a group of underprivileged children at the chapter house. Games will be played and supper will be served. The Kappa Deltas and Phi Taus will do somewhat the same thing. This joint party for the children will be held at the Phi Tau house. About 20 needy children will be special guests and they will be entertained by the members of both organizations.

The Delta Delta Delta party will be this afternoon and it is for a group of Lincoln school children. My pet, I hope the Santa is good to you and brings you everything you want. I'll be seeing you, but not until 1942.

Cats Are Nipped By Bucks, 43-41

Tico Vans Scorers With Nine Points; Rupp Praises UK

By JIMMY BROWN

In a nip and tuck affair that saw victory almost handed to Kentucky in the closing seconds, Ohio State, with their best team since 1924, handed the Cats their first defeat of the season Saturday night at Columbus, 43-41.

The difference between what was and what might have been was Mill Tico's muffed crisp shot with less than 10 seconds left in the game and the Cats behind by a lone point. Otherwise the big Jenkins junior was the big noise in the scoring parade, racking up nine points on four fields goals and on free shot.

Cochs Harold Olsen declared that it was one of the best games played on the Ohio court in the last 10 years. According to reports, fans in the Ohio city expected the Bucks to have a comparatively easy time in disposing of the Wildcats.

WHAT RUPP SAID

Cochs Rupp said that he was well satisfied with the Cats performance, and that they played a "really swell" game.

Ohio State took the lead on a free toss by Fisher, but Mel Brewer immediately sent the Cats to the fore with a crisp. From then until the end of the first half the score was knotted seven times, although at one time the Bucks took their longest lead of the entire fray, 17-11. However, England and Theo closed the gap and tied the count at 17-all.

At the end of the first half the score stood 24-24, only a long and vigorous argument with the officials. Press books showed the Bucks in the lead 26-24, but the official score, being kept by Bill Evans, Kentucky student manager, and the Ohio State manager, showed the count deadlocked.

SECOND HALF

The second half was just as close as the first, with Cats pulling ahead 31-28 after about six minutes. Ohio State regained the lead, however, and never were headed, although the Cats drew even twice.

Aside from Tico, other Cat battlers who turned in bright performances were Captain Carl Staker, Ken England, and Mel Brewer. Staker's play, which hasn't been up to standard, showed marked improvement in the Columbus encounter. The only disappointing performance was turned in by Walter White. After leading Cat scorers with ten points in their opening triumph over Miami, he failed to count against the Bucks.

Sporting Way

—BY JOHNNY CARRICO

Dear Santa,

Since Christmas comes but once a year (and conference victories for Kentucky football teams even less often), I think that you should give this letter a little consideration. This has been a long hard year and my locks are assuming the snowy hue that doesn't come from a happy, contented old age.

I've tried hard to be a good boy this year. No one can say that I haven't been generous to and thoughtful of my Big 12 friends. (I've tried to be cordial and friendly even in the darkest moments, and sometimes it seemed that the dark would put the Arctic night to shame in its length). I've ignored the unkind remarks made about my team and its efforts and put it down to misplaced enthusiasm.

So on Christmas morning, dear old Kris, can't you find it in your old jolly heart to leave me all those little goodies that coaches love so much? Some of the larger items include another halfback like Emani, a couple of guards (the Suffridge type, if you please), some ends (the Don Huston variety), and any other all-American bric-a-brac your little brownies may have on the fire.

HE WANTS THESE, TOO

I am also requesting some smaller gifts which I found that I needed this year and expect to find useful in the coming season. Please bring me:

A quarterback's manual; A football with a rubber and attached that automatically returns to the center when the backfield has left for parts unknown; A book on psychology; Some barbed wire (I'm experimenting with a new type of defense);

A Lynx-trap, for a particularly pecky animal that caused us a lot of trouble this year (if no traps are in stock, just send me the animal. He can be found in his native habitat at Southwestern college).

FORGET THE SOUTH

Incidentally, I see no reason why you should go south of Lexington on this trip. Those boys down there—Frank Thomas, Red Saunders, Bill Alexander, and John Barnhill—have already had their Christmas. You might bring a little patriotism to their squads and suggest that they leave immediately to combat the Yellow Peril. Every little thing helps.

I trust you do not find me greedy. Mr. Kringle, but it is a well-known fact that we are underprivileged from a winning point of view. Thanking you in advance for a
