'FATHER AND THE BOYS' ON THURSDAY, APRIL 13

Observer of Love Scene In Production Becomes
Raving Maniac

ALL IN READINESS

After much delay due to the refusal of the Opera House management to lease their house until after the Ben All was ready for use, the date for "Father and the Boys" has finally been arranged for Thursday, April 13, one week from today, at the Lexington Opera House. The cast is said by old students to be the best that the Strollers have ever selected and with such an excellent play as George Ade's masterpiece it is being predicted that this year's will be the greatest Stroller play of them all.

Plans are being made to make this the one "big college night" with the sky as the limit for enthusiasm, yells, and good times at the Opera House. "Bill" Shinnick and the cast have some surprises in store that will make the students open their eyes and no one should miss this good time. Reserve your seats early when they go on sale Tuesday morning, April 11.

"Father and the Boys" is said by all who have been fortunate enough to witness the rehearsals to be the best play the organization has ever put on, and the consensus of opinion is that it will be nothing less than criminal negligence for an able-bodied person to miss this show.

The cast has been rehearsed, "bawled out" copiously and praised judiciously by the stage manager, "Bill" Shinnick, since early in February until now they move through their lines with the sinuous grace that is characteristic of the Strollers, but with added vim and enthusiasm that is possessed only by this cast.

A prominent student, well known in Y. M. C. A. circles and other college activities, who was allowed to witness a rehearsal last week, grew wild and had to be held down by two stage hands during one of the love scenes in the latter part of the play. As soon as he had been released he begged to be informed when the seats would be on sale, and threatened to shoot the business manager if the information was not slipped to him before the pasteboards were put on the market. After the stage manager and several

CATS ARE READY FOR MICHIGAN GAME

Coach Tuttle Believes Their Chances For Taking Opener Is Excellent

TENTATIVE LINE-UP

"Pety" Moore and a legion of workers are busily engaged now most of the time on the new diamond, getting it in readiness for the Michigan game Saturday afternoon, that is while Curt Park and his frisky bunch of regular Wildcat baseball aspirants are not cavorting around the infield and outfield, themselves getting in readiness for the game.

Coach "Bill" Tuttle, who has been priming the Cats, believes that his men will be in fairly good shape by Saturday afternoon, and although "Bill" is a modest man, confidentially, he is intending to take the opener from the Northerners.

Only a tentative line-up can be given at this time but it will be somewhat like the following: McClellan, a southpaw, who won his spurs last season will more than likely start the game with Senator Crum doing the receiving work. Captain Park will station himself on the initial sack and either Scott or Roark will hold down the keystone position. Waters will be the short stopper and "Dutch" Schrader will attempt to handle the fast ones which are polled down the third-base line. "Red" Spaulding will see that the left garden is properly guarded and the other two outfielders will be chosen from Rodes, Mizrach, McIlvain and Kelley.

This game will mark the opening of baseball this year in Lexington and the hungry fans are licking their lips in anticipation of the first game of the great national pastime in the city this year.

'CHIEF' BLEVINS SPEAKS IN CHAPEL

C. E. (Chief) Blevins, who was graduated from the University in 1914, was a visitor here last week and delivered a very inspiring address in chapel Friday morning. While a student here "Chief" was very popular and much of his time during his short visit was spent in renewing old acquaintances. He was always an ardent Y. M. C. A. worker and took a keen interest in Raymond Robins' campaign.

"G. I. K."

No. this is not another Y. M. C. A. meeting, nor is it a scheme to inveigle unsuspecting folks to chapel. It is to announce that Girls' Issue of the Kernel.

On April 13, the women of the University will issue the Kentucky Kernel without any assistance, or even suggestions from the male contingent. From "kiver to kiver" the paper will be the work of the girls, who will strain every nerve to prove that they could do it better all the time if they had the chance.

Reporting, assignments, copy-reading, head-lining, proof-reading, make-up, it will be the work of the fair sex, while as for the editorials, just wait for that issue.

Whether or not a paragraph column will be prepared in accordance with the policy of last year's issue, will depend entirely upon the behavior of the men of the University during the next two weeks. A hint to the wise—!

The staff for the Girls' Issue will be as follows:

Editor ..... Anita D. Crabbe
Managing Editor..... Rebecca Smith
Athletics ..... Elsie Heller
Campus ..... Alice Gregory
Society ..... Anna Lewis Whitworth
Home Economics. Julia Van Arsdale

FIRST ISSUE OF RURAL KENTUCKIAN OUT NEXT WEEK

The first issue of the Rural Kentuckian will be out next week. It is a thirty-two-page paper gotten out under the auspices of the Agricultural Society and is devoted to the interest of Agricultural students and farmers at large.

It is through this medium that the Station will publish the results of its experiments and it is hoped it will lead to a closer relationship between the Station and the farmers of the State.

GERMANS DEFEATED IN BLOODY BATTLE

More Than Half a Column of Space Killed in San-guinary Combat

BUMS USED FREELY

The soft April sun shone down on the rolling bluegrass fields of Kentucky. Not many miles from Lexington the blue waters of the lakes of the reservoir were ruffled only by a passing breeze. All was peace and quiet. A few rustics, who had taken a day off from the continuous round of joy rides, theatre parties and champagne suppers to enjoy the recreation of working in the fields, were to be seen occupied with their simple rural tasks. Little did they reckon what fate was to be theirs before set of sun.

Suddenly appeared on the road from Lexington a file of khaki-coated, also panted and hatted, soldiers with meaningful rifles on their shoulders. What could it mean? The Germans had come! In the short space of a day the armies of the Kaiser had been transported to the shores of America. They had swept through New England, had bombarded New York, just like they do in "The Battle Cry of Peace," had levied a toll of countless millions on New York, had captured all the munitions factories in the East and had now arrived in the Blue Grass and were ravishing and ravaging the country. And all in the space of a day! Such is the power of preparedness. The rustics trembled in their boots, not to say patent leather shoes, expecting every moment to be shot at sunrise or at the very least to be bayoneted for they saw the main body of troops coming over the brow of the hill.

But what was this? From the opposite direction was seen coming another and larger body of troops. The Kentucky militia had been assembled and was going to fight off the invader. Quickly the two forces deployed. The Signal Corps rushed out into the hands of the enemy (to certain death) and was captured. Volley after volley of shots rang out on still air of that hot Kentucky afternoon. (It was some hot, too!) and the invading force was soon retreating. The victory was won. The rustic wept for joy; the day was saved!

But this was not the Germans after

APRIL 29 IS DATE OF GEORGETOWN MEET

Director Stack Says That Squad Is In Good Condition

DAILY WORK-OUTS

Physical Director Stack, who is in charge of the track squad said yesterday afternoon that his men were all showing up well and seemed to be taking an unusual amount of interest in the daily work-outs.

The dual meet to be held with Georgetown College this year has been arranged to be held on Stoll Field on April 29. Mr. Stack and his subordinates who will be in charge of the field events are putting forth every effort to have the most successful dual meet held on the University of Kentucky field in many years. Last year, it will be remembered that State suffered defeat by a very narrow margin at the Scott County School and Lightclad, blue-jerseyed warriors are confident of atoning for the defeat.

Grabfelder, in the sprints, will meet his former high school team-mate, Cowles, who was decidedly the class of any Kentucky College, though in days gone by "Grabby" has made him bite the dust and with hard consistent training can duplicate this feat.

Captain Hickerson, who is all to the good with the discus and hammer; Woods, last year's miler, and Hogrefe, Mayhew and Jeff Clark are the other distance men. Mayhew seems to be showing the class at present. Muller and Logan, both little men, but with lots of "stictivity", are battling for the quarter-mile event. This is considered by most track authorities to be the hardest distance of the lot to run.

In the hurdles, Stack believes that he has unearthed a find in Thomas Marshall, a freshman, who takes both the low and high hurdles with ease and grace. Britton also looks good on the high hurdles although this event will not be on the program of the Georgetown-State affair. Faulkner and Lancaster, both freshmen, are out for the weights. Charlie Haydon, half-back on the 'Varsity, and anyone who saw him does not question his ability as a speed artist, is loosening up his joints and sinews in an effort to get into condition for some of the mid-distances. He and Rickey are the

An investigation is being made by United States License Inspector Anderson.

The chapel exercises last Tuesday were conducted by the Sophomore class who chose Professor E. F. Farquhar as speaker. Professor Farquhar spoke on the subject of religion and in his characteristic, attractive and convincing manner, drove home many truths which were seriously received by his audience. He said that religion did not consist merely in attending church, but that the only real religion existed in the heart. He also emphasized the fact that religion was held down by dogma and creed and that until it was liberated from these impediments it should never attain its highest standards.

NOTICE!

A contest will be held in the chapel Tuesday evening, April 18th, to select an orator to represent the University of Kentucky in the inter-collegiate oratorical peace contest, which will be held in the University chapel here on April 28th. CRY FOR MORE GIRLS
 ANSWERED ROYALLY

"The All Girl Revue" now running at the Ada Meade, has proved one of the real sensations of the season. Vaudeville audiences have been lamenting the lack of good-looking girls in the numerous big productions now playing the variety houses. It has remained for Dwight Pepple, the famous legitimate director, to answer this cry for "more girls."

In this show not a man appears on the stage from beginning to end, while nineteen rollicking young ladies sing, dance and cut up for seventy-five minutes, by the clock. There are clever comedians, or rather, comedienne, a host of attractive instrumentalists, vocalists and dancers and the much needed "pep" is conspicuous by its omnipotent presence.

Don't miss it boys; nineteen, count 'em, nineteen, and not a man in sight. All seats reserved.

Y. M. C. A.

President W. A. Ganfield, of Centre College, Danville, will speak in the Y. M. C. A. rooms Sunday evening from 6:45 to 7:15 in one of the series of Sunday evening talks being delivered by prominent men to the Y. M. C. A. members. Special music, consisting of Victrola selections and violin music by Edward Cobb will be one of the features. An invitation is extended to all men of the University to attend.

STROLLERS' MEETING

An important meeting of the Strollers will be held in the Strollers' studio at noon today (Thursday). It is imperative that every member of the organization attend, as there is important business which must be transacted before the play can be presented. The meeting will be very short.

 President.

Musicians of Note To Be In Chapel April Fourteenth

MABIE POSTPONED

The fifth number of the Lyceum Course, which was scheduled for tomorrow night has been postponed because Hamilton Wright Mabie who was to fill the program is unable to attend and his wife to that effect was received too late for Professor E. F. Farquhar to make arrangements for another speaker.

On April 14, one of the best attractions of the Lyceum Course will be held in chapel, when Misses Inez Gill, Marguerite Stegemiller and Emile Rose Knox, post-graduates of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and musicians of considerable note, will present a musical program. These singers have acquired considerable reputation during the short time they have been giving concerts and the fact that they have been secured at the University, is due to Professor Farquhar's unceasing efforts to get the best attractions possible. The program that will be rendered follows:

- Ave Marie ("Cross of Fire") ..... Max Bruch
- Miss Marguerite Stegemiller.
- Arabesque, No. 2
- Danse ..... Debussy
- Miss Inez Gill.
- Legende ..... Wienlawsky
- Miss Emile Rose Knox.

- Miss Emile Rose Knox.

KENTUCKY HAS ANOTHER HERO

R. C. Monroe, a member of the University band, played the part of a hero last Friday afternoon when he rescued a small boy from under the wheels of a delivery wagon drawn by a frightened horse. The band was returning from Woodland Park, where they had given a concert, and were playing while coming down East Maxwell Street. A small boy, who was riding a tricycle alongside the band, failed to see an approaching wagon drawn by a horse which had become frightened at the music. Before anyone was able to realize the danger the child was almost under the wheels. Monroe's presence of mind, however, served him well. Dropping his music and band instrument he snatched the child to safety. Monroe exposed himself to no little danger and only by his prompt action was the child saved from serious injury.

AG STUDENTS IN DEMAND

One of the things that shows that the people of the State are acquiring confidence in the Agricultural College, is the number of calls for students to prune and clean up orchards. During the last month there have been more calls than the students could handle.

Their work is not restricted to the immediate vicinity of Lexington since several orchards about Lawrence, Bardstown and Shakertown have been cleaned up.

of the members of the cast had begged him, with big salt tears streaming down their cheeks, not to divulge to the public what he saw he promised to be good, but said he was going to be at the ticket window the first day before breakfast in order to make sure of choice seats.

The Stroller press agent interviewed this gentleman after the rehearsal and he talked freely, although now and then his mouth watered to such an extent that his diction was interfered with. The more intelligible remarks he enunciated are printed below:

"Say, John," he began, "this 'Father and the Boys' thing is the richest ever. For snappy comedy and clever situations I never saw its equal, and I saw every play that hit Squiresville in the last ten years. Frizzy Frazier, that's playing the old guy, Lem Morewood, is funnier than a devilish deacon at an ice cream supper, and the way he does show up the puny attempts of the youngsters who are trying to be real sports is great—simply great. I used to think Maude Adams and Julia Marlowe were good, too, till I saw Rebecca Smith play Bessie Brayton, and then I knew that the American stage was still in a period of development. Say, do you reckon the hard-looking bird with the club in his hand will let me see another rehearsal?"

"But when it comes to that dashing stuff, commend me to Leonard Taylor and Waverly Briggs, the boys that are putting the 'zing' in the juvenile parts. They've got as much pep as an Irish parade on the 17th of March. They are good, and I envy them, but somehow, I can't see them nearly as well when those two charming ingenues, Emily and Frances, are on the stage. The way little Mary Turner and Alice Gregory are playing those parts certainly makes me feel homesick for that corn-fed girl of mine back in Hicks County. And the way Virginia Stout and Eliza Spurrier throw the cold and haughty stares around the stage makes me want to double my ears down under my vest. Boys, take it from me, and I know they can't be beat. Neither can Johnnie Cramer, who is playing that house-keeper part in her usual dashing way.

"For a regular villain, Jim Farmer certainly looks and acts the part, though of course he doesn't have to act very much—he's a villain by profession, and Willie Lee Smith does tear off that rough-neck stuff. When it come to pulling that race horse coaching in the third act he and Lem and Bessie make real touts look like jitney pickers. Herbert Graham, of course, is dignified and sweet, and his part fits him like the paper on the wall. I could go on with stuff all night, and I'd like to tell you what I think about Tate Bird and Preston Cherry and the other boys and the fine work they are doing, but I need air. Please take me out; that scene where the big league stunt was pulled has put me down for the count."

He fell exhausted after this, but kind hands ministered to him and he was revived sufficiently with smelling salts to go to his downy couch in his sumptuous dormitory apartments. He was a raving maniac, however, until he fell into slumber, repeating over and over: "I've got to have two tickets."

BIBLE STUDY CLASSES WILL BE ORGANIZED

Bible study classes for the men who signed pledge cards during the Raymond Robins campaign will soon be organized by the Y. M. C. A. There will be two classes formed for Agricultural students, two for Arts students, one for the students of the College of Civil Engineering and Mining, one for the students of the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering, and one for the students of the College of Law.

These classes will be led by different professors of the University. Books following out Raymond Robins' talks have been ordered and will be used in this work.

Raymond Robins.

Raymond Robins has come and gone.

Advertising is, for the most part, idealistic and exaggerative to a certain extent. The advertised article rarely possesses in full the virtues which are claimed for it. If the worth of the thing advertised were always commensurate with its value there would be a panacea for every ill and before many years we would be living in Arcadia.

Raymond Robins is a notable exception to this statement. Robins was widely and thoroughly advertised. Not only did he measure up to the standards set for him but he so far excelled them that they were insufficient in comparison with the man himself.

A man of action as well as theory, a man who has lived and learned to tell others how to live, a man who has seen the seamy side of life, Robins is the type of man which appeals to college men and women. Instead of preaching merely goodness and piety and inspiration he based his appeal on the practical grounds of efficiency and ability and showed conclusively that "wild oats" is not only a tainted crop but a crop that does not pay. And after all has been said the only vulnerable approach to the average college student is through the avenue of efficiency. When you say to him that this or that is not right and give him no logical reason he will very likely smile; but when you tell him that a thing will interfere with his success in life you will get his attention and get it quick.

Three of the principles which Robins emphasized throughout his series of talks might well be adopted by any student, no matter what his calling may be. "First, master your calling," said Robins. "Second, be a lawyer, engineer, chemist, physician PLUS. Third, be true to yourself, and it will follow that you can be false to no man."

Bulletin Boards.

The bulletin boards on the campus of the University look very much like crazy quilts. A stranger on our grounds would be filled with curiosity and amazement at the hieroglyphics and out-of-date notices which many of these boards present to view.

Since it is nobody's business to look after the bulletin boards it should be everybody's business. Any student who sees an out-of-date announcement should tear it down.

Care should be taken, however, that no sign or notice be removed until its usefulness has been outlived.

The Play.

"The Birth of a Nation," the greatest modern picture production, was recently shown in Lexington to the largest number of spectators that ever beheld an offering in a local playhouse. It is estimated that during the week 15,000 persons attended. At each of the twelve performances the house was filled to its capacity, and during the week hundreds of persons were turned away. Almost every town in the State sent its quota of spectators. Not only was the attendance greater, but seats sold at a higher price than at any moving picture show ever given in Lexington.

These facts are significant. "Why," we may ask, "was this show so extremely popular? Was its popularity the result of extensive advertising? Was it the result of the novelty of the production? Or did it result from the fact that the show was one of merit and well worth seeing?"

A discussion of the merits of the show in question is out of order here, but the Kernel believes that the solution lies in the last suggestion. In other words, "The Birth of a Nation," or any other show, in the final analysis, owes its bid for popularity not to any outside considerations, but to its own merit.

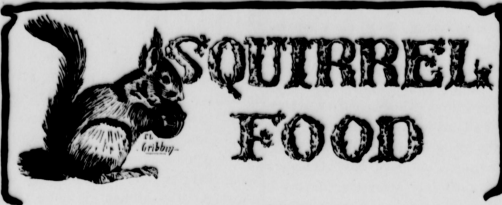

Every University organization should receive the support of the student body. Football, debating, Y. M. C. A., or any other student activity can never be successful without the active support of the undergraduates. The student owes his aid to every University organization, whether or not he is interested in that particular branch of endeavor.

But it is not on grounds of loyalty or fidelity that the Kernel desires to boost "Father and the Boys." It is on the cold, hard grounds of reason.

"Father and the Boys" will be the most finished production ever offered by the Strollers. The cast is well balanced and the players have been selected from the very best material in the University. The play itself is all that can be desired. When the name, "George Ade," the author of this story, is spoken, no further description is necessary.

If you don't see this play you will be sorry the next morning when you hear your wiser friends talk about it.

You can't afford to miss the big annual Stroller entertainment.

Strike at Indiana.

Modest males and timid teachers have been "inexpressibly shocked" in the language of the college authorities, by dancing frocks of the Indiana University co-eds this season. They have been cut entirely too low from the chin and too high from the ground, the Dean of Women says.

Girl students' dresses must come up to the mark, the dean declares. "The mark" appears to be an imaginary line a few inches above the shoe tops, but not too many inches. Its exact latitude and longitude have not been given out for publication.

A strike threatens among the male students, it is understood, especially the taller ones.

DR. DABNEY TO ADDRESS STUDENTS

On next Monday and Tuesday Dr. Charles William Dabney, president of the University of Cincinnati, will visit the University of Kentucky. He will deliver two addresses while here, one on Monday night at 8 o'clock to the members of the Premedical Society. This address will be delivered in Doctor Pryor's lecture rooms in the Science Building and all students are invited to attend.

On the following Tuesday morning, Dr. Dabney will address the entire student body in chapel. All students are urged to avail themselves of these opportunities to hear him.

TENNIS COURTS ARE ASSURED FOR STATE

Another echo from the prospects of some tennis courts on the campus was heard the early part of this week when Judge Lafferty, who is chairman of the Athletic Committee, remarked that he was going to see that this branch of athletics will be provided for in the very near future.

Many of the first-year students, as well as a good many of the upperclassmen, are anxious that such a move be taken. The athletic editor of the Kernel remembers that during the spring of last year a Tennis Club was formed, but if it is still in existence it certainly has not made much noise this year, and he would like to suggest that the members of this club arrange a meeting at an early date for the purpose of furthering the tennis interests in the University.

MOTION PICTURES FOR MECHANICAL ENGINEERS

New Method of Instruction Is Introduced In Engineering College

VARIETY OF SUBJECTS

The use of motion pictures for the study of industrial processes was started in the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering this week. The first lecture was scheduled for Wednesday at 9:00 a. m., when a representative of the National Steel Pipe Company of Pittsburg, lectured on the subject "From Ore to Finished Pipe." This lecture, given to the upper-classes in Mechanical and Electrical Engineering, was illustrated by lantern slides showing microphotographs of steel and iron used in pipe making, and three standard moving picture reels showing the processes necessary for making pipe, beginning at the mining of the raw iron ore and following on through to the finished steel products.

The College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering has secured a portable moving picture projector for use in class rooms, so that films applicable to the engineering subject may be shown in conjunction with the lecture or recitation. At regular intervals, popular educational or scientific films will be shown to an assembly of all the students in Mechanical and Electrical Engineering.

Large engineering companies like the General Electric Company, Schenectady, the Westinghouse Machine Company, Pittsburg, the Western Electric Company, Chicago, and many others, issue moving pictures showing the industrial processes in the factories, mills, foundries, mines, and laboratories. These films are distributed for use in technical colleges and engineering societies. The study of these is of great assistance to engineering students in learning the actual practice of engineering processes that would otherwise cause a great deal of travel and expense prohibitive to most students.

The schedule of motion pictures to be used during the remainder of the school year is not yet completed, but some of the subjects to be shown are as follows:

- The Making of National Steel Pipe. Three reels.
- The Natural Resources of the Canadian Rocky Mountains. Two reels.
- The Construction and Operation of the Panama Canal. Two reels.
- Electrification of the Butte, Anaconda and Pacific Railroad. One reel.
- Panama Canal Lock Control Board. One reel.
- Panama Canal lock control switchboard showing construction and operation.
- Motor Construction and Direct Motor Drive. Two reels.
- Schenectady Works of the General Electric Company. Two reels.
- Incandescent Lamp Manufacture. One reel.
- Pittsfield Works of the General Electric Company. Two reels.
- Manufacture of Curtis Steam Turbines. One reel.

Welfare Series.

- America in the Making.
- Play Ground and Welfare Work Carnegie Steel Company.

Welfare Work, Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company.

Welfare Work, National Tube Company.

Welfare Work in Mining Districts; First Aid Work, etc.

Any Lexington person interested in any of these subjects will be given a cordial invitation to come and see the pictures when shown at Mechanical Hall. The date at which these pictures are to be shown will be announced in the Herald.

JUNIOR TRIP

The Junior Mechanical students started on the annual inspection trip last Tuesday afternoon at 2:55 p. m. and were to arrive in Cincinnati at 5:54 p. m. They will visit the plants of the American Tool Works, Cincinnati Milling Machine Co., Bickford Tool Co., and Cincinnati Planer Co., in Cincinnati and go from there to Hamilton, Ohio on Thursday where the plants of the Niles Tool Works, Long & Alstatter Co., Beckett Paper Co., and Hoovens, Owens, Reuschler Co., will be visited during that day; from Hamilton they will go to Dayton, Ohio and spend Friday in going through the manufacturing establishments of the National Cash Register Co., the Dayton Motor Car Co., the Platt Iron Works, and Barney & Smith Car Works, and return to Cincinnati Friday evening to visit the Triumph Electric Co., and the Union Gas & Electric Company.

The party will start on the homeward journey Saturday evening, leaving Cincinnati at 6:35 p. m. and arriving in Lexington at 9:10 p. m. Each member of the party will be required to hand in a complete report of the trip within a short time after their return.

Those taking the trip are: E. S. Penn, J. G. Scott, D. S. Springer, T. G. Rice, J. H. Evans, W. T. Radford, M. T. Crutcher, W. S. Moore, E. E. Drake, H. P. Horine, C. F. Lee, L. E. McClanahan, J. M. Waters, A. W. Davies, G. B. Arnold, F. Y. Hutchison, Thomas Robinson, McNamara, J. E.

PERRY A. CASSIDY APPOINTED CLERK

This appointment is quite an honor, as it evidences Governor Stanley's appreciation of Colonel Cassidy's faithful work.

S. J. Caudill, senior in the College of Mining and Metallurgy, has been appointed teaching fellow in geology in the School of Mines at Pennsylvania State College. Mr. Caudill's appointment comes as the result of the recommendation of W. R. Crane, Dean of the School of Mines, and is made by the president of the college. It is the only such appointment made in the United States and was consequently hotly contested for. Mr. Caudill is a member of the Tau Beta Pi honorary fraternity and mining representative on the Transit staff, besides having held other responsible positions during his career at State. The position carries with it a substantial salary and the further advantage of being placed in a college of such note as Pennsylvania State. Mr. Caudill expects to take up the duties of his new position next fall.

KENTUCKY Y. W. C. A. COUNCIL ADJOURNS

Prominent Speakers From Ky. Institutions Make Interesting Addresses

MEETING A SUCCESS

The Y. W. C. A. cabinet council for Kentucky closed its annual session Sunday, April 2, with a lecture on Missions by Mr. E. McNeil Potat of Louisville.

The convention was a success and its effectiveness was largely due to the combined efforts of the members of the local association and of the advisory board of the Y. W. C. A. A commendable feature of the meeting was the selection of the speakers, among whom were Miss Jennie M. Strevig, Danville; Miss Juliet J.

Poynter, Shelbyville, Miss Ina Scherbeck, St. Louis, Miss Marguerite C. Hearsay, Georgetown, Dean Anna J. Hamilton, Lexington, Miss Frances Jewell, Lexington, and Mr. E. M. McNeill Potat, Louisville.

Reception.

The University of Kentucky Y. W. C. A. was hostess at a reception given at Patterson Hall Saturday evening in honor of the Cabinet Council, which held its meetings in Lexington during the week-end.

Mrs. Ida W. Harrison, the well-known worker in Christian organizations, spoke to the guests for a short while on her recent visit to the Panama Conference for Christian Workers.

During the social hour which followed, Misses Helen Burkholder and Suzanne Beltz sang, and refreshments were served.

Misses Elsie Heller and Emma Holton were in charge of the arrangements for the reception, and were assisted by the two cabinets, old and new, in receiving the guests.

PHILOSOPHIAN.

The Philosopher Literary Society held a very interesting meeting in the recreation room at Patterson Hall Wednesday evening, April 5.

The program was as follows: Life and Works of Percy Mackaye, Maud Harmon.

Instrumental Duet, Misses Cregor and Clem.

Life of Beethoven, Miss Ruby Asher.

Dances.

After a slight cessation for the last two weeks in the social activities along the University of Kentucky front, operations will be resumed immediately.

The Keys and Thirteen's will open the attack with a dance Friday evening, April 14, and the sophomores will support the movement in force with an entertainment on April 21 at the Armory.

The heaviest forces will be massed for the junior prom, which will besiege the Phoenix April 28. Formidable bombardments of flowers, food and cabs will probably render this the most serious engagement of the year.

The culmination of all operations will be reached on May 5, when after the preliminary skirmishes of Arbor Day, the Lamp and Cross brigade will fortify itself in the Armory behind booths and elaborate decorations. A special battery of musicians will lead the charge.

History Club.

The History Club of the University met Monday evening at the Education Building. Reports were made by the seniors of the department on the progress of their theses. There are seven major history students who will receive their degrees in June.

College Club.

Professor E. F. Farquhar lectured to the College Club at the Phoenix Thursday afternoon on "Tagore." He will continue the series today with an address on "The Arthurian Romance."

Alumnae Club.

The Alumnae Club will hold its monthly meeting at the Phoenix Hotel Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Plans will be completed for the annual party given by the club to the senior girls of the University during commencement week.

Hall—Rainey.

The wedding of Miss Pansy Hall, of Lexington, to Charles S. Rainey, University of Kentucky, '15, was made known last week. They will make their home in Norwood, near Philadelphia.

Mr. Rainey's home was formerly in Mt. Sterling, and he is now superintendent of one of the departments of the Remington Arms Company.

PATTERSON HALL NEWS.

Mr. Herbert Graham was the guest of Mr. Smith Hays in Winchester last week-end.

BETTER READ THIS.

"Why should every student in the University buy a 1916 Kentuckian?" is the difficult question that was propounded to the Kernel representative, and immediately he set out to find the answer. After interviewing the Editor-in-Chief for authentic information, and some seniors and faculty for good, sound judgment, he got certain results:

The Wildcats finished the most successful season in football in the history of athletics in the University, a good account of which, with good snapshots of plays throughout the season and members of the team and squad will be found in the Kentuckian only. Good work was done in basketball, and will be done in baseball and track. This will be featured in the 1916 book.

There will be snapshots of friends of every man on the campus. Also there will be some photographs that can not be reproduced for several times the cost of the book. An assembly of cartoons and good humor, superior to anything that has ever appeared in life or similar publications is another drawing card of the book.

Freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes will be fairly represented. Every club, group, association and society of students will be represented. Information about fraternities and sororities, that can not be reproduced or found elsewhere makes the book attractive.

"I would not sell one of my old annuals for twice the cost price," is the remark of an upper-classman. The book this year is put up in a more attractive and expensive binding and cover, and generally costing the management more than any book put out from the University in previous years.

SENIORS, ATTENTION!

Invitations and caps and gowns must be ordered before Saturday, April 8.

This is positively the last opportunity.

UNION

The Union Literary Society held its weekly meeting Saturday evening at the usual hour. The date for the oratorical contest was set for the evening of April 12. Several contestants handed in their names, among whom were Messrs. T. L. Creekmore, J. H. Coleman, J. J. McBrayer, J. M. Robinson and Ricketson.

The declamatory contest will be held in the society hall on April 21. No participant, in the debating contest or the oratorical contest will be eligible to participate.

The society passed a resolution to co-operate with the other literary societies of the University in a grand get-together meeting to be held at Patterson Hall in the near future.

H. MARXMILLER VISITS STATE

Herbert Marxmiller, formerly a student at State University, and a graduate of the University of California, visited this University Monday to renew old acquaintances among the faculty members.

Early Monday morning Mr. Marxmiller went into the Business Agent's office and asked for some late copies of the Kernel. Mr. Marxmiller said: "It does me more good to read over one of these old friends than to read the New York World."

Mr. Marxmiller left the University in 1912. He completed his college education at the University of California. He is now traveling the country studying the psychology of salesmanship. His home is at Los Angeles, California.
