

Democracy's Press Must Stand Against Censor's Blue Pencil

"No nation, ancient or modern, ever lost the liberty of freely speaking, writing, or publishing their sentiments, but forthwith lost their liberty in general and became slaves."

—JOHN PETER ZENGER

That declaration is perhaps even more appropriate today than when it was written, well over a 100 years ago. The dark specter of press censorship is moving all over the world in a concerted attempt to shackle and restrict men's thoughts, dreams, and hopes.

The heavy-marking pencil of the censor is by no means confined to the Iron Curtain nations. Here in this country, where Article One of the Bill of Rights specifically provides that there shall be no abridgement of the freedom of speech and press, forces are constantly at work to hamper newsmen as they go about their daily job of gathering facts for the people.

From federal agencies down to local governmental units, barriers to the free dissemination of information are constantly being erected. In one small community, a clerk in the county courthouse, in direct violation of the law, refused to allow a newspaper to publish county marriage license records. The newspaper had to go to court before the clerk changed his mind. Public institutions of all sorts—school boards, city commissions, boards of trustees, etc.—outrageously deny that the public has any right whatsoever to know what is being done with its money.

Contrary to that view, the public does have a right to know what is being done with its money and the nation's newspapers are the best agency to put out that information. The value of television and radio certainly can not be minimized, but their value is more limited, more narrow in scope. National surveys showed, for example, that most of those who either saw or heard our two major party conventions this past summer, turned to their newspapers to get a more comprehensive account of what they had been seeing or hearing.

Henry Ward Beecher once remarked that newspapers are the schoolmaster of the common people. One can easily see then how effortlessly a despot can assure his power by seeing to it that he controls his country's press. Facts are the weapons of freedom, and, without weapons, no army can win many battles.

For the most part barriers to freedom of the press are being attacked and torn down just about as soon as they crop up. However, the fight is an endless one, a fight that requires the support of newspaper readers as well as newspaper workers.

Honorary Seeks Student Authors

This fall, for the third straight year, UK's Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa is seeking an undergraduate who believes he can write. Purpose of the search is to reward and encourage the would-be author by having his work published and distributed to all major libraries in the world.

A three-man committee in charge of choosing a recipient for the award is just a little discouraged about their task. The last two years they've proclaimed the same offer loud and often—in the Kernel, on campus bulletin boards, and through personal letters to every member of the faculty. So far, not one embryo Shakespeare has appeared to even try and claim his rightful prize. It almost looks as if the UK campus is devoid of literates.

The rules of the competition are very simple: Manuscripts should not exceed 50 double-spaced, typewritten pages. Subject matter is left up to the author as is the style or vehicle of expression. The committee has no preference about the type of writing to be submitted—it can be poetry, prose, or even an interesting thesis that has a general appeal. Send your literary gems to either Dr. C. Arnold Anderson, Dr. Herman E. Spivey, or Dr. Lawrence E. Spivey.

Surely somewhere on campus there exists a writer who dreams of the fame and recognition that accompany publication of one's literary attempts. Don't back out, this might be your chance to give the world another Hemingway, Lewis, or Faulkner, or Faulkner.

Music Prof Was A Navigator

By LESLIE MORRIS

This week's sketch is the seventh in a series of "Faculty Profiles." Readers' suggestions for future "Profile" personalities will be welcomed.

"I'd have to be forced into an airplane now at the point of a gun," declared a UK professor in an interview this week. During the last war, however, this same faculty member was decorated for his part in some 21 combat missions over the mainland of Japan.

Prof. Nathaniel M. Patch, an associate professor of music, was based at Tinian in the Marianas for 11 months as a B-29 navigator in the Ninth Bomber Group.

"We participated in low-level night raids on Tokyo, Nagoya, and Koba," he related. "These flights were 'hampan' incendiary bombing missions from 2,000 to 5,000 feet."

Prof. Patch also took part in high-level missions. His crew worked with the Navy on one assignment, dropping mines in the inland seas of Japan.

"I enjoyed flying then," he said assuredly. "The Air Force has a good psychological way of fitting the man to the job. My navigational pursuits were enough to keep my mind from going 'completely stagnant, and I never even touched a piano while in the service.'"

Prof. Patch was drafted into the infantry, but was commissioned a 2nd Lt. in artillery after going to O. C. S. He was transferred to the Air Force as a student officer in 1944.

He flew in the last combat mission over Japan, while the enemy was negotiating for peace. "After the second A-Bomb there was quite a furor," he said, "and all flights were cancelled."

But the Japanese were apparently still not sure they wanted to surrender and Prof. Patch's group took off for an "insurance" run. That was the night before the armistice. He also took part in the "show of force" mission over the "Missouri" while the treaty of peace was being signed.

For his demeanor in combat he received the Presidential Citation, the Air Medal with two oak leaf clusters, and the Pacific Theater ribbon with three battle stars.

Readers' Comment Noticeably Lacking In Students' Paper

No editorial page can really be complete as long as it merely prints the opinions of the editors and columnists. The modern concept of the "think" page is that it's a sort of printed forum—a place where the ideas of editors, pundits, and readers are exchanged, examined, and evaluated.

The Kernel's editorial pages this year have carried few evidences of reader reaction to what we print. Of course this could be taken as a sign that we're not displeasing anyone since people usually react best when they're being insulted. More likely, however, it means that we're not interesting anyone.

As we've said before the Kernel is printed for its readers. If you disagree with our ideas, tell us about it. If you've got an axe to grind, we'll be glad to lend you a little newsprint to serve as a grindstone. Don't misunderstand, we'd also like to print a few nice things about people and institutions once in a while. If you have a bouquet you want delivered, we'll be glad to handle the job.

Address your comments: The Editor, Kentucky Kernel, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky. Try to keep your letters under 300 words and be sure and sign them. We'll withhold names upon request, but law requires us to print nothing in the way of letters that hasn't been signed originally. Nothing will be edited out of a letter except where it's necessary to cut something down a little to make it fit the paper.

"Guess we can tear her down again, now that rush week is over."

Readers Speak: On Cheering

Dear Editor:

Your editorial about cheer-leading prompts me to get my own opinions off my chest. The cheer-leading at UK, and therefore the cheering, certainly has not progressed with the football team—that's obvious. I believe two things are wrong:

- 1) A lack of know-how and the absence of a desire to learn on the part of the cheerleaders, and,
- 2) The presence of girls on the cheer leading squad.

To improve the situation, I would recommend getting the girls out because it is not natural that girls should lead a football crowd in anything. They simply can't do it. They are nice to look at—and the prettier they are the more looking and less yelling is done by the fans. Very few girls are spontaneous enough for the job.

Then, too, I'd like to see that the boys who want to be cheerleaders really are given an opportunity to learn the tricks. Send them to schools for it. North Carolina University is the best in the South and I'm sure a week-end spent there would be worth while. At that school, the organization of the cheering is perfect and evident in its results. There may be other, closer schools that would help.

At any rate, Suky should either set out to do the job well or drop the effort. At present the results are disgraceful. People want to yell at a game and they will yell for the right leaders.

Attacks Stupidity

Dear Editor:

Over the brief span of my young life I have witnessed sporting events of all natures, on field, gym, and track. I feel that I can truthfully say that never have I seen idiocy displayed to a more polished degree than here at UK. I am referring of course to the actions of spectators when they go mad over the victories and teams of 'Cool id Swank'.

There is some excuse for emotional outlet of this sort if one is of such caliber and intelligence that one must resort to it, but for supposedly mature college students, it seems rather disgraceful. However, after sitting in several classes where truly fine instructors tried to tell 'mama's itty bitty boy' (or girl) that there are some things more in keeping with intelligence than "sis boom bah," and having seen those instructors laughed at after class, I guess the mentality of this University is just about right for athletics after all.

In addition, dear editor, just lounge around the post office after this is printed. The larger amount of the student body will curse at me and this letter because they haven't the vocabulary to express themselves otherwise. That is not too deplorable.

Musings From 'Round Campus

A group of future engineers gave the final tip-off this week that school is actually underway as they sauntered gayly across campus, staggering just a little under the weight of a surveyor's tripod and glass.

Small wonder that UK gets bigger and bigger every year—with such zealous souls resurrecting the campus each semester, how could it be otherwise?

UK football player: "Hello, coach."
Alumnus: "I thought you were told not to drink while in training."
Football player: "What makes you think I've been drinking?"
Alumnus: "I'm not the coach."

A fellow connected with the Student Government Association dropped in on us the other day and remarked that he and the Dean of Students had been chewing over the additional loot it'd take to keep the library open for longer hours. Didn't know any-but the fact that they will not put the clash word on the end of their statements in the good old Samuel Clemens fashion is frightful.

What I'm saying is that a high percentage of the student body on this campus not only make fools of themselves at sporting events, they can't even 'cuss' correctly.

Intelligent

Hits At Greeks

Dear Editor:

Why is it that the University feels it must always be spending its money on the Greek letter groups? Actually far less than half the students on campus belong to any of these snob organizations. The rest of us are entitled to a little consideration too.

I'm referring particularly to the decision by the Board of Trustees to build eight new fraternity houses. Yes, UK needs housing, but we need room for students, not fancy living quarters for a bunch of social butterflies.

Another thing. Doesn't the administration know that it's much cheaper to build a large dormitory that would hold a great many more than it is to build all these little houses for the privileged few?

Most of the members of Greek letter groups don't come to school to work anyway, they come up here to have a good time. It's about time the University started doing a little something for those of us who are serious students.

An Indignant Independent

Wants TV Moved

Dear Editor:

It's really wonderful to have the new television set in the Student Union building, but how about moving it to the Music Room? The Social Room has always been one of the most popular spots at the Union and is the only room large enough for many of the campus organization meetings. Therefore, students expecting to watch a favorite TV program, often have to strain to hear above the noise of general conversation or a card party, and in the case of a meeting, find themselves asked to leave the room.

On the other hand the Music Room has a more quiet atmosphere, more comfortable chairs, and is not in use for as many social purposes. Can't we have the TV set where we can really make good use of it?

Columnist Goes In Finkhouser, Gets Out Alive

By KATHY FRYER

No, canine lovers, the biology department doesn't pick up stray dogs off the Lexington streets for its experiments. Nor does it butcher them indiscriminately without anesthesia.

I checked up on a couple of these rumors while taking a look at the modified zoo on the top floor of the Finkhouser building. With the exception of an occasional unwanted animal donated to the University as a gift, most of the dogs and cats not bred here are shipped in from Maryland, already inoculated. The others are given the usual shots and then are isolated for six weeks.

All of the dogs used for experiments are completely anesthetized beforehand. They usually recover and, unlike paper plates, can be used several times.

The cats are a different story. According to Jack Tischer, our genial guide, they violently resist the ether, and, once frightened, are very hard to handle. Therefore they have to be killed with an injection of a sleep-producing drug before the operations.

One large grey and white tabby is now worth $300 to the University. It was fed meat containing the germs of a non-contagious lung disease and the progress of the experiment makes him very valuable for observation.

Jim, a long-beaked, loud-voiced crow, Joe, Sally, and Junior, the monkey family, and a sleepy Florida alligator are the most unusual tenants in the Finkhouser menagerie. Jim ruffles up his feathers and screams his greetings while Junior grabs his mother when a stranger appears. The alligator pays no attention to anything. He hibernates all winter.

Like most laboratories, the UK lab has a large supply of white mice, rats, rabbits, guinea pigs, hamsters, and turtles. There are special cages for each new litter and the older 'gats and rabbits are kept in marked cages where students check them out just as they do library books.

Mr. Tischer estimates that the Biology Department used between 300 and 400 guinea pigs and some 3500 white mice in one semester.

All the animals are fed a special "chow" in liquid form. The small animals get theirs from a tube attached to an upturned bottle on top of their cages. The diets are sometimes supplemented with meat, carrots, and lettuce from the Student Union cafeteria.

I was told that there's a large collection of snakes in the basement, but I felt I had enough material for a column. Some one else will have to tell their story.

While over there I met Colonel, the tawny, green-eyed Wildcat mascot who, incidentally, is a bobcat, not a wildcat. According to Mr. Tischer, a bobcat is the most ferocious cat in existence. I believe it, too. I went over to Colonel's cage, stooped down, and said "Hi." She sprang toward me, showed her teeth, and answered "Arrrrgh." I thought she hadn't heard of Kentucky hospitality, but Mr. Tischer said she just doesn't like other females. Catty little thing, isn't she?

Of course we "moderns" don't believe in jinx's except the spell those orange shirts cast over the Coats Every Thanksgiving, but I'll make book that Coach Bryant will stick to the old regularly numbered jerseys after comparing scores for the last two Saturdays.

The Party Line by Ann O'Roark

All College Night To Feature Dance

The All-College Night program has been scheduled for this evening to start the week end off with a bang. An annual affair, it is sponsored jointly by the Student Government Association, the Student Union Board, and the YM-YWCA. The time and place are 7:30 p.m., the Student Union Ballroom.

A carnival will start the festivities, followed by a dance. Music will be furnished by the Blue and White orchestra, and best of all, there will be no admission charge.

Jim Harris is master of ceremonies for the floor show to be held during the dance intermission. Ed Faulkner and Barbara Baldwin will present a magic show, Jan Clark and Nancy Shaffer will do a can-can dance, accompanied by the Cosmopolitan Club band, and Nancy Don Creed will do a novelty dance.

The All-College Night committee includes Skippy Youman, Stan Dickson, Pat Moore, Kim Sanford, John Proffitt, Jim Baker, and Ted Darlington.

Congratulations to Gay Hamilton, DDD, for being chosen queen of the Lexington Trots. It must be quite a thrill to be crowned by a movie star like Charles Coburn.

This week's party is just a preview of the gala carnival that's coming up in the near future. On Friday, Oct. 17, Luncheon Carnival will be held on the men's intramural field. The purpose of the show is to raise scholarship money for deserving juniors. One big difference in this year's show is that one can get into all the booths for a mere 15 cents apiece.

Neal Hefti, former trumpet sideman with Stan Kenton, will play for a dance Oct. 17 in the Student Union Ballroom. Frances Waynes will be the featured vocalist. An additional feature of the dance will be the presentation of the Carnival Queen.

Applications Being Accepted For Rotarian Scholarship

Applications are now being accepted for scholarships under the Rotary Foundation Fellowship by Dr. Stephen J. Corey, chairman of the scholarship committee of the Lexington Rotary Club.

Rotary International has been offering these scholarships in advanced study for six years. During this period fellowships have been awarded to 284 graduate students from 42 countries. Each fellowship is for one school year and must be taken in a foreign country.

Dr. Corey listed the following qualifications for applicants: The student must have a capacity for appreciative, educational, cultural, and scientific accomplishments outside his own special field and beyond the boundaries of his country. The scholastic record of an applicant should be excellent with aptitudes for leadership and rendering service.

The applicant must be between the ages of 20 and 25.

The student must have a complete working knowledge of the language of the country in which the study is to be taken.

The fellowships are limited to the following fields of agriculture, education, journalism, law, political science, and social science.

The fellowship provides for travel expenses to the country and return and transportation within the country, health and accident insurance, tuition, living expenses and pocket money.

Students desiring more information may contact Dr. Corey at 330 Cochran Road.

Intramural Play Opens Monday For Greeks

Independents Need Two Teams Before Play Can Begin

The new $7500 intramural program gets under way Monday with football, tennis and golf play.

In the football play, four games will be played each day on the intramural field. The independent league deadline has been extended to Tuesday due to lack of a sufficient number of entries as the Kernel goes to press.

Thus far, only three teams, B.S.U., Men's Dorms, independent change of last year, and The Rebels have signed. At least five teams are expected to make up the independent division by the new deadline.

Eighteen teams in the fraternity division signed up before the deadline, last Wednesday. The Monday schedule for these teams has been posted on the Alumni Gym bulletin board, the time schedule calling for games at 4 p.m., 9 p.m., 6 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Three Officials Named

The three officials for the league play are: Dan Sullivan, umpire; Norm Miller, headlinesman; and Bill Cruse, referee. These three boys will handle the officiating at every game played in the league.

Four tentative rules governing eligibility of athletes and regular students have been handed out by the Athletic Board. They will make ineligible: 1. All men on athletic scholarships. 2. All lettermen in interscholastic sports in their individual sports. 3. All professional athletes in any sports. 4. And the usual rulings, all men on probation in school.

Pledges Are Eligible

Pledges who have pledged before the deadline date of each sport will be accepted as eligible.

Twenty-nine men have entered the golf doubles and sixty-six have signed in the tennis singles, both of which begin Monday.

Entries in these two leagues will be posted on the bulletin board with the telephone numbers of each contestant. It is up to the opponents to contact each other for play.

Player of the Week

Four Players Starred Against Mississippi

By Stan Pertmann

The sun shone brightly on a rejuvenated Kentucky team last Saturday, as the underdog Wildcats outgained a highly favored Mississippi eleven to a 13-13 tie.

It was defensive strength that held the Rebels, who were third in the nation last season in total offense with virtually the same team to 13 points and set up the first Kentucky TD with a recovered fumble.

The greatly improved offense kept the pressure on the Mississippi defense for 60 minutes of red-hot football. Something had to crack and it was the pass and run good for 62 yards from L. Jones to S. Mellinger that cracked the backs of the Mississippians.

This week the Kernel is using a new rating system to assist in selecting the Player of the Week. Each time a player made an outstanding play a point was earned towards his selection. The charts rated four players as outstanding in what would be a great team performance. For this reason the Kernel is upsetting the status quo and naming four players for the honors.

Tommy Adkins

1. Tommy Adkins, the 188-pound junior from Corbin, Ky., was such a stand-out defensively that he rated 14 points under the new scoring system. The Rebel backs were well introduced to Adkins and were probably getting tired of receiving his bone shattering tackles.

Tommy was breaking through the Mississippi line from his line-backer slot and smearing Rebel plays before they could get started. If not charging through, he seemed to be all over the field making key tackles on the hard running enemy backs. Last year Adkins was a top sophomore performer and played the entire season as a starting line-backer.

Steve Mellinger

2. In applauding the play of Steve Mellinger, Coach Bryant noted that Steve did everything but sell tickets. He was mistaken, play like Steve's will sell lots of tickets to future encounters. Big Steve, 6 feet 2 inches, 212 pounds, played almost 60 minutes of superior football at such positions as a passing and running halfback, safety, offensive and defensive left end, and took care of the Wildcat punting chores. He topped the afternoon off by grabbing Larry Jones' forty-yard pass on the Mississippi score against T.C.U. Last Saturday he scored the tying touchdown. Steve was an All-Conference flankman as a sophomore and is recognized as an All-American prospect in pre-season polls conducted by national magazines.

Ray Correll

3. Ray Correll, then a sophomore, was named to the All-Time Cotton Bowl team for his stellar performance against T.C.U. last January. He continued his starring ways Saturday by recovering a Rebel fumble on the 1 foot line to set up the first Kentucky score in that hectic fourth quarter. Several plays before he had whipped into the Mississippi backfield and calmly steered the ball from Jimmy Lear, their ace quarterback. After failing to gain in three downs the Rebels turned the ball over to Correll, who pounced on the fumble to give Kentucky their much needed TD. Ray's outstanding play Saturday helped to bolster the defense, which was questionable in the Villanova game the previous weekend.

Harry Jones

4. Kentucky scored with but a few minutes remaining in the game. The score was Mississippi 12, Kentucky 12. Harry Jones, who hasn't been specializing in extra point placements this season, tied the line. The crowd sensed that this could mean a tie or a defeat. The center snapped the ball low, Herb "the finger" Hunt took it on the bounce, placed it on the tee, and Jones calmly booted between the uprights to give Kentucky the tie. This alone was enough, but Jones contributed a lot more to the Wildcat cause. He returned three punts for 47 yards and came close to duplicating his long TD run of the week before with a 52 yard scamper. He added 66 yards to the cause in 13 rushes for an average of better than five yards.

While the performances of these four men stood out, it was definitely a team victory for the Wildcats, who looked like a different team from the previous week. Their fourth quarter come-back showed they have the stamina and the spirit to come out with a winning season.

Algie Reece Issues Call For Swimmers

All candidates for this year's University of Kentucky swimming team are asked to see Coach Algie Reece sometime this week. Preparations for the coming season are now underway and tryouts are to be held Oct. 6.

Every member of last year's team is returning this year with the exception of Harold Eaton, who was western of the outstanding swimmers last year and is now in service. Coach Reece said that the prospects for the coming year are very promising because of the added depth on this year's team and the fact that the squad will be much more experienced this season.

Returning lettermen include: Jack McDonald, who didn't swim last year, Charlie Jett, Lee Shine, Jim McCutchie, Jack Taylor, Dan Johnson, Jack Cross, John Burke, and Sam Blithe, swimmers. Bruce Kunkle and Louis Karcho, divers.

In addition to the lettermen Coach Reece has George King, a transfer from Transylvania College, who was held out last year to insure his eligibility, and several promising freshmen including Charles Mulfinger, Bill Kissel, and Roger Messick, who attended Augusta Military Academy and was selected as an All-American prep school swimmer last year.

Wildcats To Wear Blue Coats Again

The UK football team will once again be one of the best dressed teams in the country.

Last year people who saw the Wildcat team when they were on the road jaded in awe at the attire of the players.

Each member of the traveling squad is issued a blue coat with the letters UK embroidered on the pockets. The boys all wear gray slacks to conform to a neat appearing group.

Wildcats To Meet Cadets Saturday Night In Texas

Cadets Undefeated In Two Contests This Season

The Aggies' fighting Wildcats will try to break even with the Southwestern Conference Saturday night when they make their fourth venture into that football-conscious southwest to play Texas A&M.

The Kentuckians, rejuvenated by the unexpected tie with Ole Miss last week, have a 1-2 record with the Lone Star state. The Wildcats have lost just previously to the SMU Mustangs and the Texas Longhorns. Their only victory was over Texas Christian in the Cotton Bowl last New Year's day in Dallas.

The Aggies, who like Kentucky are rebuilding this year, are undefeated in two games this season. Two weeks ago Texas A&M defeated the Houston Cougars 21-13 and last week the Cougars dropped Oklahoma A&M 14-7.

Little Leads Cadets

All-American tackle candidate Jack Little will lead the Cadets against UK. His presence has proved to be a rallying point for the enthusiastic "Greenhorns" who are unexperienced save for their lone two games this fall.

Extra punch in the backfield for the Aggies is expected since Coach Ray George announced that Don Kaehlich will be in the starting lineup against the Cats. Kaehlich proved a power on offense in the Oklahoma game in addition to bulling over for the winning touchdown. Connie Magounik, starting fullback, has also expected to be in top condition by game time although spectator Miles Willard is not expected to see any service.

Kentucky again has the misfortune to play a team with one of the better quarterbacks in the nation. In senior Ray Graves the Aggies have a skilled workman who can run or pass with any quarterback in the country.

Two Passers To Watch

Don Ellis helps Graves out with the passing and is quite well-versed in the art of open field running. Favorite target for the Cadet passer is halfback Raymond Haas.

Kentucky's undeveloped pass defense can expect a difficult night for the Cadets believe in tossing the ball around. In two games the Aggies have thrown 29 times and completed 16. Only three were intercepted.

Both squads are reported to be in good condition with Kentucky expected to regain the services of Ralph Pachone, hard-hitting fullback, who missed last week's game due to an injury. Bunky Gruner is also expected to be in top condition by game time although spectator Miles Willard is not expected to see any service.

Bell Is Likely Starter

Coach Paul Bryant served notice that there would be a new face in the Wildcat lineup Saturday. Bryant was disappointed in the play of halfback Tom Pillion and indicated that freshman Charley Bell of Pineville may be in the halfback slot in the Aggie game.

The rapidly improving forward wall of the Wildcats, backed by dependable Tom Adkins and Captain John Griggs, will get another test to see how much they have seasoned in the short time this football season has been in progress.

Ken Kalkun, UK publicity director, has announced that the Wildcats will be quartered in the LaSalle Hotel in Bryan, Texas this weekend.

So round, so firm, so fully packed. So free and easy on the draw. Buy Luckies by the carton. Luckies give you deep-down smoking enjoyment

Kentucky Ties Rebels 13-13 With Two Last Period Scores

Kentucky's dormant Wildcats showed their claws twice within a period of six minutes in the fourth quarter to score two quick touchdowns and gain an upset 13-13 tie with the Ole Miss Rebels.

Coach Johnny Vaughn's Rebels were not content to settle for the tie. In the closing seconds Cat halfback Joe Platt stole a desperation pass thrown by Jim Lear to the Kentucky 30 and wiggled and squirmed his way to the Ole Miss 20 before he was blocked out of bounds.

The Rebs had scored touchdowns in the second and third quarters and had a safe 13-0 lead when the first of two lightning-like Kentucky scores came.

With eight minutes gone in the final quarter, guard Ray Correll hit Lear hard and recovered his fumble on the Ole Miss 46. Kentucky threw three quick passes, two by Dick Shatto and one by Harry Jones, to no avail.

Correll Recovers Fumble Steve Mellinger lifted a high lefty punt to Reb safety Jack Reed on his seven. With Harry Jones and Ray Correll bearing down on him, Reed bobbed the oval and Correll recovered for the Cats on the Ole Miss one foot line.

Larry Jones sneaked over for the score behind powerful blocking of the Cat forward wall. Freshman Bob Bassett's attempt for the extra point was wide and Kentucky trailed 13-4.

Following the kickoff the Rebels worked their way to the Cat 44 before the Kentucky defense rallied and forced Lear to punt. His kick rolled dead on the Cat 12.

Larry Jones then began to mastermind an 86 yard touchdown drive which he climaxed with a 64 yard pass to Mellinger for the score.

First he lateraled to Tom Fillion who picked up two yards to the 14.

Fullback Allen Felch went off tackle for eight yards, on his only running play of the afternoon. Murray Jones made a first down on the 25 at the other tackle.

Harry Jones hit Mellinger with a spot pass good for seven yards to the 32. Jones slipped through the wide hole made by the right side of the Wildcat line on a fake pass for a first down on the 36.

Wildcats Scores On Pass Then came the payoff pitch. Kentucky lined up in its regular split-T formation. Larry Jones took the snap from center, dropped back to his 20 behind excellent blocking and rifled a pass to Mellinger who had slipped in behind freshman defensive back Billy Kinard. The big end from Bethlehem, Pa. gained the fatal half-step on Kinard and took the pass on the Rebel 40 without breaking stride. He outdistanced the remaining Ole Miss defenders to score standing up.

On the extra point attempt, alert Herb Hunt quickly led a low pass from center for Harry Jones, Jones kick tied the score at 13-13.

That was the ball game as far as scoring was concerned, but both teams put on scoring thrills before the final gun sounded.

Matthew's running and Lear's running and passing carried the Rebels to the Kentucky 14 where they finally ran out of gas against the tough Kentucky defense led by such stalwarts as Ray Correll, Joe Koeh, Tommy Adkins, and Frank Puller.

Rebels Attempt Field Goal Mississ's Jim Matthews attempted a field goal on fourth down from the 20 with three minutes left. The kick was wide and low and Kentucky took over on the 20.

The Cats drove to the Ole Miss 44 before giving up the ball with 13 seconds remaining.

Ole Miss tried one final futile attempt to pull the game out of the net.

SEC Leaders After Scares Win Openers

By Larry Meyer From all appearances of the opening games in the fight for supremacy in the SEC, the windup should be just what the experts predicted, TIGHT.

The three teams picked by the crystal ball gazers to finish at the top in the country, ran into a fighting bunch of alligators from Florida. When the muck had cleared in the swamps, the neck had barely pulled away from the gaping jaws thanks to the toe of a sophomore quarterback named "Pepper" Rodgers. Rodgers kicked a field goal in the closing seconds to give Tech a 17-14 win over the University of Florida.

Highly-favored Tennessee, which needs no introduction around these parts, pushed across the winning touchdown in the final period to down a fighting and determined Mississippi State eleven, 14-7.

A boy who caused Kentucky considerable trouble last Thanksgiving, Andy Koor, bulled over from the two line to head the Vols' territory.

Maryland Edges Auburn Auburn, taking up where they left off last season, had victory snatched from them in the last quarter by mighty Maryland. The Terps, pre-arranged on the top three teams in the country, must have been basking in this honor for they didn't wake up until the fourth quarter when they found themselves trailing the Tigers of Coach Ralph Jordan. Jack Scarbath then passed his way to a 14-7 win.

Alabama and Louisiana State bucked heads in another SEC conference game with Alabama edged by the Bengals, 21-20, in a wide open game at Baton Rouge, La., Saturday night.

Bobby Luna, Bama ace halfback, scored the winning touchdown with a three yard plunge in another fourth quarter SEC win and then proceeded to kick the tie breaking extra point which gave the Tide the victory.

Georgia turned a Tulane comeback into a touchdown as they turned back the Georgia Bulldogs, 21-16.

Georgia's Zeke Brankowski took over from the fumble and passed a fifteen yard pass to Conrad Matersa to score with less than three minutes remaining in the game.

Experience Beats Youth Vanderbilt had one bright spot to make, after their 27-0 loss at the hands of an experienced Virginia team. That was the showing of the defensive line during the first half.

The loss of Bill Wylie, star quarterback, due to graduation showed the need for the developing of an offense.

Sports Sidelights

By TOM EASTERLING

Once again Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant has proved that he is a master at getting his team ready for a football game. The performance turned in by the Wildcats against Ole Miss Saturday in no way resembled the poor showing made by the same team against Villanova in the opening game.

While not trying to detract from the courageous play of the "Thin-30," we think the UK coach staff was responsible for the showing made by the Wildcats last Saturday. In one short week Coach Bryant and his assistants worked the team on the fundamentals of blocking and tackling until they mastered each phase of it.

Bernie Shively has announced that the UK freshman footballers will play two games this fall. The Kittens will meet the Vanderbilt freshmen Oct. 19 in Lexington. The following week, Oct. 25, the University of Tennessee freshmen will come to Lexington for a night game. Last year the Kittens dropped both of their games against these two teams.

Teams entered in this year's intramural program will be more evenly matched than they were previously. None of the boys receiving athletic scholarships will be allowed to participate in the program. In the past, these boys were allowed to enter any event in which they were not a member of the varsity team.

The Rebels were not prepared for the onslaught of Steve Mellinger last Saturday. Steve gave the spectators one of the greatest offensive performances ever seen on Stoll Field. Not only did he prove to be a quadruple threat (passing, running, punting and pass-receiving) on offense, but he also turned in a sterling performance at the safety position on defense.

The latest release of UK football statistics show that Harry Jones, senior halfback, is leading the Cats in the running department. Jones has carried the ball 21 times for a net gain of 126 yards, an average of six yards a try. Jones is also leading in punt returns; he has returned five punts for a net total of 136 yards for an average of 27.2 yards.

Coach Paul Bryant appears weekly during the football season on his own television show and two radio programs. WHAY-TV telecasts Bryant's commentary on game movies each Sunday afternoon and two Lexington radio stations, WLAP and WWLK, broadcast a "Bryant Speaks" program Monday and Friday evenings to a special Kentucky radio network.

Now that the World Series is being played, how's this for instructions for pinning a diaper on a baby? Fred Russell of the Nashville Banner says: "First place the diaper in position of a baseball diamond, with you at bat. Fold second base over home plate and place baby on the pitcher's mound. Then pin first base and third base to home plate." Maybe expectant fathers will appreciate this clever bit of information.

Players who made the trip to Texas last year are wondering if the transportation will be any better this year. A scheduled two and a half hour flight from Lexington to Little Rock developed into a three and a half hour flight to Memphis. A 40-minute stop for gas grew into an hour and 40-minute layover.

The flight to Austin was way behind schedule. Coach Bryant had planned a workout on the Texas turf for 4:30 p.m. but the team did not reach the stadium until after 7 p.m. It was dark at that time and the workout was limited to light calisthenics.

As a result of the long trip, the team did not eat until 9 p.m. The team went from the stadium to the airport after the game for the return trip, but the number two engine refused to start and the departure was delayed three hours. The plane arrived at Blue Grass Airfield at 2:30 Sunday morning.

Net Tryouts To Be Held This Week

Dr. H. H. Downing, UK tennis coach, announced that tryouts for the tennis team will begin the last part of this week on the varsity tennis courts behind the Coliseum, and will continue until about October 1st.

The tryouts will consist of round robin tournament. Dr. Downing said that the team will not be chosen entirely from the tryouts, but that it will merely give the candidates practice and will help him to get an idea of each candidate's ability.

Billy Evans will succeed Monty Price as captain of this year's team. Other holdovers from last year besides Evans and Price are George Koper, who is out of action at present with a broken ankle, Ed Redmond, Joe Taylor, and Harry Alexander. The new candidates for places on the team are Ben Bonnell, Harry Landrum, Glen Dorroh, George Carey, and Davis.

No schedule has been announced as yet, but matches will begin in the spring.

Care Managers Wanted

Mike Dolan, head basketball manager, announced that tryouts for assistant basketball managers will be conducted at 3 p.m. Monday in Memorial Coliseum. Dolan said that he would need two assistants this season, preferably freshmen.

Fall Baseball Practice Ends With Squad Game

Lancaster Pleased With Freshmen's Pitching Efforts

Fall baseball practice ended Wednesday with an intra-squad game which saw the Whites beating the Blues 7-2 in an abbreviated five inning contest at Legion Park.

Baseball Coach Harry Lancaster termed the newly introduced fall practice and tryouts a success, although he commented that the game wasn't too well played. Coach Lancaster said that he was pleased with the pitching efforts turned in by two freshmen hurlers.

Phil Graymeyer, standout pitcher for Louisville Manual, was credited with the White victory. He allowed no hits in two innings and gave up one of the Blue's two runs in a wild pitch.

Wayne Craft, Flemingsburg, relieved Graymeyer and retired six straight batters in the third and fourth innings.

Leo Cooper, freshman shortstop from Powell, Tenn., led the White, hitting with two for three at the plate. He bounced a triple off the right field wall for the longest hit of the game. Doug Lashburn, Paris, also connected with two for three to aid the White cause.

Pete Grigsby, Blue shortstop, slamed med out a double and a single in two attempts for the loser's cause.

Bill Evans, Berea Junior, turned in a good defensive game, alternating between shortstop and first base. He was the key figure in several pick-off plays.

Coach Lancaster has introduced fall practice to replace spring tryouts, and only boys who are not out now will be on the team next spring. The fall season is open primarily to freshmen and non-lettermen.

Eight AF Graduates Finish Basic Study

Col. Edward G. Davis, professor of Air Science and Tactics, has announced that eight of the 1952 Air Force ROTC graduates from UK have recently completed six weeks of study at the Air Research and Development Command indoctrination school at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

These graduates include George K. Fischer, Jr., Eugene Brashear, William D. Burkhan, William V. Fobbeck, Frank E. Barrett, Robert W. Calvert, Harold H. Buckles, and Kenneth L. James.

These officers, all second lieutenants, are now assigned to duties within the Research and Development Command.

The program can also be heard over WBKY at 9 p.m. Monday on the FM channel.

Scholarships Are Awarded To Engineers

Daniel V. Turrell, dean of the College of Engineering, recently announced that scholarships have been awarded to eight Kentucky students who are studying engineering at UK by the Princess Ekilhorn Co. Company of David, Ky.

The coal firm annually awards several scholarships to sons and daughters of company employees, and at least one optional scholarship to other students in Floyd or Johnson County.

The value of the scholarships is approximately $400 a year.

The winners for this year are Billy Perry Hall, Alvin Akers, Arnold Leo Horn, Jack Crawford, Paul Hall, Richard Bee Johnson, John Vaughn, and James Wesley.

Two of the winners are majoring in mechanical engineering and all others are in mining engineering. The scholarships were awarded on the basis of competitive tests and overall high school records of the candidates.

Final Figures Show 5,562 Enrollment For Fall Semester

Final figures released this week by Registrar Richard L. Tutthill showed that the University's official fall enrollment is 5,562.

The final enrollment figure includes 5,148 students who registered for classes on the Lexington campus, 118 who will study at the UK College of Pharmacy in Louisville, and 296 who are taking work at the University's Northern Extension Center at Covington.

In addition to the 5,148 persons who enrolled here and at Louisville and Covington, 241 students registered to take off-campus classes being conducted at other towns in Kentucky.

Dr. Tutthill said that approximately 1,500 of those students who have enrolled at UK are freshmen and others who are attending the school for the first time.

The following business will be discussed at the meeting plans for this year's monthly program, such as addresses given by men in the field of medical science; plans for the annual banquet; and election of a treasurer.

The meeting will be held in Room 312 of the Pumphouse building.

Honorary Has First Meeting
Phi Delta Kappa, professional fraternity for men, will hold its first college education, held its first luncheon meeting of the semester Wednesday.

Clarence E. Underwood, assistant Wildcat coach, spoke on plans for the football team this week. The group plans to meet the first Wednesday in each month for the rest of the year.

Tau Sigma To Have Tryouts
Tau Sigma, campus modern dance group, will hold its preliminary lessons for tryouts from 6:15 to 7:15 Oct. 6, 9, and 13 in the Euclid Avenue building.

Mr. Janice Stille, faculty advisor for the group, stressed that no previous experience in modern dance was necessary for the tryouts which will be based on potentiality.

Officers of the group are Nancy Clark, president; Beth Deen, secretary; Martha Milburn, treasurer; and Judy Henry, business manager.

Political Science Club Meets
An organizational meeting for a Political Science Club was held Wednesday during the lunch hour in the Student Union cafeteria. The club will be composed chiefly of political science majors. A committee was appointed at the meeting to select a time for the next meeting, to draft a constitution and plan a program for the next meeting of the group.

Dr. Amy Vandenhoeck, head of the Department of Political Science, will serve as advisor for the club.

Democrats Club Meets
The Young Democratic Club held its first meeting last Tuesday. Ray Robinson, president of the club, introduced old members to new initiates, and Paul Oberst, professor of law, explained the purposes of the partisan organization.

Chemical Society To Meet
The American Chemical Society will hold its weekly meetings at 5 p.m. each Tuesday in Room 111 of Kasler Hall.

Jim Bradbury, president of the Society, has announced that two new officers, secretary and treasurer, will be elected at the meeting Tuesday.

Mrs. Boston clearly did not approve of Chicago society. "In Boston," she emphasized, "we place all our emphasis on breeding."

To which Mrs. Chicago sweetly replied, "In Chicago we devote none of our time to other activities."

Building Being Renovated For Fall Hereford Show
The old yellow combination show building on the southeast corner of the campus is undergoing a "face-lifting" in anticipation of the Blue Grass Hereford show, Nov. 12 and 13, according to Dr. W. P. Garrigus of the College of Agriculture.

The show is expected to attract stock men from all over the United States with over two thousand head of the finest Hereford cattle, Dr. Garrigus said.

Cheerleader Tryouts Scheduled Thursday
Cheerleader tryouts will be held at 7:30 Thursday night in Memorial Hall. The cheerleaders will be selected by popular vote of the students.

A preliminary tryout meeting will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. next Wednesday in the Student Union ballroom. Suky members will judge those competing in order to decrease the number of tryouts before the finals Thursday.

CHESTERFIELD

FIRST PREMIUM QUALITY CIGARETTE

TO OFFER BOTH REGULAR & KING-SIZE

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR CHESTERFIELD—EITHER WAY YOU LIKE 'EM

CONTAINS TOBACCO'S OF BETTER QUALITY AND HIGHER PRICE THAN ANY OTHER KING-SIZE CIGARETTE

BOTH regular and king-size Chesterfields are premium quality cigarettes and come in the smart white pack.

BOTH contain only those proven ingredients that make Chesterfields the best possible smoke: the world's best tobaccos, pure, more costly moistening agents (to keep them tasty and fresh), the best cigarette paper that money can buy—nothing else.

BOTH are much milder with an extraordinarily good taste and, from the report of a well-known research organization—no unpleasant after-taste.

BOTH are exactly the same in all respects. There is absolutely no difference except that king-size Chesterfield is larger—contains considerably more of the same tobaccos—enough more to give you a 21% longer smoke, yet costs very little more.
