Dr. Otis A. Singletary University of Kentucky President

Now in his ninth year as president of the University of Kentucky, DR. OTIS A. SINGLETARY is a Mississippian whose route to the Bluegrass State curled through Louisiana, Texas, North Carolina and Washington, D. C.

He came to Lexington from a position as University of Texas vice-chancellor for academic affairs. Previously, in Washington, he had been director of the U. S. Job Corps in the early stages of its development before moving to the American Council on Education as vice-president. He had gone to the capital in 1964 after three years as chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

The UNC appointment terminated Dr. Singletary's first association with the University of Texas, this a seven-year stay that saw him, as a young historian, rise rapidly in rank from instructor to full professor and begin the shift to administrative work, first as associate dean and later as assistant to the president.

The Kentucky president, and his wife the former Gloria Walton, met when both were students at Millsaps College. He later earned master's and doctoral degrees at Louisiana State. The Singletarys have two daughters, Bonnie and Kendall, and a son, Scott.

Cliff Hagan Director of Athletics

"I've been preparing for this all my life," CLIFF HAGAN said before taking over as athletics director at the University of Kentucky in 1975. Hagan succeeded Harry Lancaster as director after serving as assistant director for three years.

Hagan's path to the athletics directorship began in Owensboro, Kentucky, where he established a then state high school tournament record of 41 points in leading Owensboro to victory over Lafayette in the championship game of the 1949 high school tournament.

At UK, he played on teams that won 86 of 91 games and an NCAA championship (1951). The 1954 team, undefeated in 25 games, elected not to participate in the national tournament.

Under his leadership, the UK athletics department continues to develop success in all areas of endeavor including a strong dedication to the academic well-being of the athletes.

JOE B. HALL

*Joe B. Hall
University of Kentucky Wildcats
Head Basketball Coach*

JOE B. HALL is beginning his seventh season as mentor of the Wildcats, coming off a year in which his senior dominated team captured the 1978 NCAA Championship. Since becoming head coach in 1972, succeeding the legendary Adolph F. Rupp, Hall has accumulated a record of 135 wins against 42 losses. His eleven year coaching record stands at 211-98. Broken down, it shows a 57-50 five year mark at Regis College, a 19-6 record at Central Missouri, and a 135-42 record at UK.

Hall became Rupp's top assistant in 1969 when Harry C. Lancaster was named athletics director. His record as freshmen coach was 60-15, including an undefeated (22-0) season (1971-72) which resulted in the Kittens being crowned National Freshmen Champions by Basketball News.

A popular personality on the clinic and convention circuits, Hall also has had much international exposure. In addition to the Globetrotters tour in 1951, and the "Down Under" tour in 1974, he has helped conduct basketball clinics for the U. S. Army in Anchorage and Fairbanks, Alaska (1968) and at Ramstein Air Base in Frankfurt, Germany and the RAF Base at Mildenhall, England in 1975. He also was Olympic Trials coach under Hank Iba at the Air Force Academy in July 1972 and was a member of the 1976 Olympic Basketball Committee. In 1978 he coached the U.S.A. team that hosted the first International Invitational Tournament.

LEONARD HAMILTON is beginning his fifth year at Kentucky after serving three years as assistant coach at Austin Peay. An outstanding recruiter with seemingly tireless energy, Hamilton has contributed heavily to maintaining a high level of young talent at UK. Specializing in coaching defense, Hamilton has had a positive impact on Wildcat defensive

C., and at University of Tennessee-Martin. He is married to the former Claudette Hale. They have a son, Lenny, 7.

La., he attended Baton Rouge High School where he earned letters in basketball and football. In addition to regular coaching duties with the Wildcats, Dean's primary responsibilities will be recruiting and scouting. He is married to the former Ellen Elizabeth Anger of Jackson, Miss.

DICK PARSONS

DICK PARSONS, in his seventh year as Joe B. Hall's No. 1 assistant, returned to the University as baseball coach in 1969. Before giving up his position to join the basketball staff on a full time basis, he molded a baseball team (1971) which established or tied 15 school records. He is a graduate of UK where he played guard under former Coach Adolph F. Rupp.

Parsons came to the University in 1958 after an outstanding career as a four-sports star at Harlan High School, where he had a three-year basketball scoring total of 1,276 points.

He was a two-time (1960-61) recipient of the coveted A. B. Chandler award, given annually for the player best exemplifying the qualities of leadership, scholarship, character and ability. Only four other Wildcats have twice been so honored since the award was originated in 1951.

He is married to the former Celia Cawood of Harlan. They have a daughter, Kathy, and a son, Ed.

A native of Scranton, Pa., Ham came to the University in 1969 as Administrative Assistant to football coach John Ray, and was reassigned to the Athletic Director's staff in 1972 when Ray resigned.

Ham graduated from high school at Niles, Michigan, and completed his undergraduate work at Olivet College. He did graduate work at Indiana University and coached high school football and track at John Adams High in South Bend in 1944-46 and then returned to Olivet as athletic director and head football and basketball coach.

A native of Frankfort, she came to the University as a graduate student in 1970, was named assistant director of campus recreation in 1972 and director of women's athletics in 1974.

Feamster graduated from Franklin County High School where she was an outstanding tennis player and athlete. While in college she earned letters in tennis, field hockey, basketball and track from Indiana University and Kentucky State University, where she earned her B.S. degree and graduated with honors.

LARRY IVY
Assistant Director of Athletics For Finance

Adding a new dimension to UK athletics was the appointment two years ago of LARRY IVY as Assistant Director of

1978 NCAA CHAMPIONS

Will Denote Rupp, UK Basketball

Public Donations To Build Museum To House Memorabilia

Adjacent to the entrance to Rupp Arena in the Lexington Center will be located the Adolph F. Rupp-UK Basketball Museum.

The purpose of the museum is to relive some of the past Wildcat teams' exploits and those of its great players. Included in the museum will be photographs, trophies, tape recordings, films and other memorabilia reflecting on past Kentucky teams.

"We have a unique opportunity to perpetuate the legend of the late Adolph Rupp and the rich basketball tradition that has been established by the University of Kentucky," commented DeWitt Hisle, chairman of the museum. "The museum will give basketball fans everywhere a fascinating insight into what this game has meant to followers of the UK Wildcats."

Rupp coached teams compiled an 880-190 record. He guided the Wildcats to four NCAA titles, an NIT championship and 27 SEC crowns.

The museum will cover Kentucky basketball teams from the first season in 1903, when the team recorded a 1-2 record, through the most recently completed season.

A small theatre area will be located in the museum and used to show films on the changing style of basketball over the past 75 years.

The material found in the museum is coming from the official archives of UK, Memorial Coliseum, the family of the late Adolph Rupp and from the public.

"Obviously one of the major advantages we have in establishing this museam is the fact that we can build it around a central figure, the late Adolph Rupp, whose 41 seasons as UK head coach resulted in some of the greatest accomplishments in the history of collegiate basketball," said Charles Atcher, archivist of the University of Kentucky.

Atcher says one of the guiding principles in planning for the Rupp-UK Basketball Museum is that the museum will show the continuing history of basketball at UK, which means the museum will be capable of expanding to display accomplishments of future teams.

The UK tradition is being continued by Joe B. Hall who replaced Rupp as head coach beginning with the 1972-73 season. In six years, Hall has led the Cats to four SEC championships, an NIT championship, the 1978 NCAA title and an overall 135-42 record.

Costing an approximate $200,000, the projects' funding will come from tax-deductible donations from the public. Operation of the museum will be funded by a small admission charge, "not to exceed $1," according to Hisle.

Donations to help establish the museum may be mailed to: Rupp-UK Museum, P. O. Box RUPP, Lexington, Ky. 40512.

UK Cheerleaders Work Hard To Give Quality Performances

"The cheerleaders are part of the entire entertainment package." That is how Lynn Williams, cheerleading advisor and an Associate Dean of Students at UK, describes the purpose of cheerleaders.

"At a UK basketball game," he continues, "there are the teams involved, Big Blue, Boo Blue, the band, the announcer, and the whole array of activities that mold into a game experience."

The cheerleaders are partly responsible for the emotional involvement of the fans. They chose their routines according to game's situation and the crowd's disposition in an effort to create as much support for the Wildcats as possible.

To be able to perform their routines expertly and to effectively orchestrate the excitement, the cheerleaders spend countless hours in physical conditioning and rehearsals.

Ten days prior to a collegiate cheerleading camp that they attend in August, they begin three sessions of practice per day. Each session lasts 2½ hours. They go to camp for a week and return to more three-a-day workouts, trying to perfect the timing and appearance of their routines. After classes begin, the practices change to one 2½ hour session per day until after the second home football game. For the remainder of the year, they practice two nights per week.

There are 12 cheerleaders that comprise the squad, six men and six women and the Wildcat. To be eligible, a student must have completed 12 hours of study with a C average, however, it is rare that a cheerleader has less than a B average because there is so much time involved that those that tryout are usually excellent students.

Tryouts are held in the spring after three nightly clinics taught by senior cheerleaders. A participant must attend two nights of clinics in order to tryout. Two nights are then used for tryouts with ten men and ten girls chosen to be finalists.

The finalists are judged on a 100 point system involving six categories—appearance, personal interview with each judge, a pompon routine, an original cheer, three basic double stunts where each contestant teams with a boy, and three basic jumps. The men are judged on appearance, gymnastics, double stunts, an interview, and physical coordination, strength and ability. The Wildcat is chosen in separate competition. The Wildcat officially is a cheerleader and attends all the rehearsals and must be able to substitute in routines such as pyramids.

The physical conditioning required is tremendous. Personal weight is checked every two weeks and all is done that is possible to keep the students able to perform the difficult tumblers, leaps, summersaults, and flips that are used. For example, at practice when the Wildcat is not participating, he runs 5-10 miles. The others run and lift weights throughout the year to stay in shape.

Having been on the squad does not guarantee that a cheerleader will repeat however, experience makes the veterans more skillful. Everyone must tryout annually. There are nine new members on this year's squad. All but three are new. Seven of the members taught in clinics sponsored by one of three national cheerleading associations and gained a large amount of experience during the summer.

One of the associations, the International Cheerleading Foundation, sponsors an annual competition for the 151 Division I colleges in the NCAA with the top five finalists competing for the best in the nation on national television. Kentucky and four other Southeastern Conference schools finished in this year's top ten. The Wildcat cheerleaders finished eighth.

Scholarships are not available for cheerleaders and part of their adult supervision is voluntarily contributed. Sandy Rice, a Lexington resident, with years of experience in cheerleading, choreographs the dance routines as well as contributes creative ideas and practical suggestions.

New routines require about two weeks to perfect and are practiced on gymnastics mats and with numerous spotters (catchers) available for safety. Besides the construction of a routine, the cheerleaders must consider the time it takes to perform it since timeouts are 60 seconds in length.

The cheerleaders often rehearse with the drum section of the band so that the cheers and the music are coordinated. During a basketball game, whether the activity for the timeout is to be a cheer or a routine such as a pyramid is determined by the cheerleader captains. If they feel a pyramid is needed, they point to the band and it will play the fight song while the pyramid is constructed. If a cheer is needed, they don't point at the band and they do the cheer without music.

While the UK band plays the fight song, the cheerleaders entertain the fans with a pyramid. Such formations take two weeks or more practice to perfect in order that they can be constructed safely.

The records at both Wyoming and VPI total to 117 victories against 70 losses, a winning percentage of .626.

DeVoe is known in the coaching profession for his devotion to a sticky man-to-man defense. His training under Taylor and Knight prepared him well to adopt that type of defense.

DON DeVOE
Head Coach

Don DeVoe, who has coached at Virginia Tech and Wyoming, became the 12th basketball coach in the history of the University of Tennessee, replacing Ray Mears.

In the 1971-72 season, DeVoe led the VPI Gobblers to a 16-10 record. The following year (22-5) DeVoe's team won the National Invitation Tournament in New York.

DeVoe's five seasons at Tech produced an 88-45 record and, along with an NIT title, the Gobblers earned a bid to the NCAA in 1975-76, DeVoe's last year.

At Wyoming, DeVoe took a team that had won only five WAC games in three previous years, and led the Buffaloes to a 17-10 record. His 1977-78 club, troubled by ineligibilities and injuries, fell to 12-15.

Vet of Year Award Goes to UK Doctor

It may come as a shock to many Kentuckians who believe theirs is the garden spot of the world and that a fellow tasting the waters of Boone Creek would never want to live anywhere else, but there's a University of Kentucky professor in veterinary science who misses "more than anything" the corn country and flatlands of his native Nebraska.

Let it be said, though, that Dr. T. W. Swerczek's abiding love for his native state doesn't mean he has no affection for the Bluegrass of Kentucky. And the University and the Kentucky horse industry are enriched because he and his colleagues were alert in the laboratory working one late winter's day.

It was Swerczek's vigilance that earlier this year led to the detection and isolation of a strain of contagious equine metritis (CEM) in horses that resulted in the quarantine of five stallions and 22 mares on 14 Bluegrass horse farms, keeping the disease from spreading and possibly saving the industry.

For his contributions, Swerczek was given the Veterinarian of the Year Award for 1978.

CEM had been reported for the first time last year in thoroughbred horses in England and later in France, Ireland and Australia.

Swerczek was familiar with the disease, but there was an unfamiliar strain that had to be isolated and identified before efforts could be made to treat it and a test created to readily detect it. He and his colleagues then developed a blood test that was accepted by the state and the industry that saved valuable time and went a long way toward what will be an eventual lifting of the ban on the shipment of thoroughbred breeding stock out of Kentucky.

In addition to his duties as a researcher, he's a full professor working with graduate students who are dedicated to the same goals.

Until the recent past, Tom Swerczek spent his vacations on the family farm near Cedar Rapids, Nebraska, helping bring in the corn crop. His parents still live on the place, and a younger brother is coming along who eventually will take over the farm's operation so that the land will be in the family for some time yet.

Swerczek, wife Mary Ann and their three children live in the Mt. Vernon subdivision, only a shadow's cast from the UK campus. Come another winter of discontent similar to the two previous performances, he can trudge within minutes to his office laboratory in the Animal Pathology Building near the Albert B. Chandler Medical Center.

Sports has always been a big thing in Swerczek's life—he got through college partly on athletic scholarships—and he figures there's no better place than Kentucky to follow his favorites, the Kentucky Wildcats and the Cincinnati Reds.

Swerczek has on display a number of pathologic specimens in his office, all firmly encased, and he hopes someday to have a Museum of Pathologic Specimens at the University. As a veterinarian (D.V.M., Kansas State, 1964; Ph.D., Connecticut, 1969), he could go the route of private practice, and very likely make more money, but he wouldn't have as much fun, and there wouldn't be the elation of discovery, as in the CEM triumph.

THE LAST TIME

In a rivalry that dates back to 1910, Kentucky leads Tennessee in wins 98-44.

The last meeting between Kentucky and Tennessee saw the Wildcats win 68-57 in Knoxville and clinch the Southeastern Conference title.

The Cats had dropped five games in a row to UT before gaining two consecutive wins over the Volunteers.

"This is a first for us," said James Lee after the game. "Beating them on their home court. It's been frustrating to come down here the last couple of years and lose by one or two points."

Weakened by the flu, but now down-and-out, Kentucky built a slim 31-25 intermission lead.

Kentucky was led by Jack Givens' 18 points and Phillips' 13. Center Rick Robey had 10 points.

"I am really pleased to sew up the championship this early (in the year)," commented a smiling Joe B. Hall.

A Year At The Top

A Year
At The Top
Kentucky Wildcats '77-'78

by John McGill and Walt Johnson, photography by Walt Johnson

This book is not just about basketball nor just about Kentucky basketball. In 144 pages, including 45 color and 170 black and white photographs, you can follow the Kentucky Wildcats from the beginning of the 1977-78 season to the finals of the NCAA Basketball Championship in St. Louis. Many inside stories reveal the pressures associated with being the nation's #1 college team from the start of the season to the end. Only once in the weekly polls was Kentucky ranked below #1 and proved in March that they deserved this ranking by winning the National Championship. It was truly a great year for the players, coaches and fans. You can relive these exciting moments in "A Year at the Top." Also available, our new 33 1/3 LP album, "Wildcat Basketball '77-'78". The highlights of the '77-'78 basketball season are recalled with exciting play-by-play excerpts from Cawood Ledford's game broadcasts and comments by Coach Joe Hall.
