

SCHEDULED FOR THURSDAY NIGHT

Queen of Ball to Be Elected Today. Will Reign at Affairs of Scabbard and Blade

SPONSORS OF UNITS WILL BE PRESENTED

Pledging of Fifteen Men by Scabbard and Blade also to Take Place

The Military Ball, one of the outstanding social events of the spring term, will take place at the customary time, the evening before George Washington's birthday, in the Alumni gymnasium, from 8:30 to 12 o'clock.

Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority had the highest ticket sales of any sorority for the Military Ball and the three Cadet Hops. It was announced yesterday that the Queen of the Military Ball will be selected from that group at a meeting of Scabbard and Blade at 4:30 P. M. today, but will be kept secret until the evening of the Ball.

The ball is sponsored and directed by members of Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity, and the features of the event will include the crowning of the Queen of the Ball, the annual pledging of Scabbard and Blade, and the introduction of the new military sponsors who are being introduced by the members of the R. O. T. C.

The grand march will begin at 9:15 o'clock and will be led by the Queen of the Ball, who will be chosen by the members of the honorary organization. She will be escorted by William Eversole, captain of Scabbard and Blade. Following the queen will be the unit commanders and the drum majors in double formation. The sponsors will form the court for the pledges in columns of two, and the queen.

Captain Eversole will crown the queen, following her ascent to the throne, and with the assistance of cadet officers, will present favors to all the ladies.

A special no-break has been arranged in honor of the new pledges of Scabbard and Blade immediately after their tapping by the queen, which will take place between the fifth and sixth regular no-breaks.

P. H. BENNETT CONTEST OPENS

Prize of Twenty Dollars To Be Awarded Person Writing Best Article on Government Policies

Manuscripts for the annual P. H. Bennett prize, awarded for the best paper on some subject of parliamentary government or history, must be turned in to President McVey's office before May 1, according to Professor Edward Tuttle, head of the department of government and chairman of Philo M. Bennett award committee.

The prize this year will probably amount to twenty dollars, according to Professor Tuttle. The amount of the prize is determined by the interest collected on a fund of five hundred and fifty dollars, four hundred dollars of which was given to the University by Mr. Bennett in 1904, when the first competition for this prize was held. The sum has reached as high as forty dollars.

Government Wins Smashing Victory in Supreme Court Decision On Gold Clauses

Bare Majority of Court Rules in Favor of New Deal in Delayed Decision

VOTE IS 5 TO 4 IN IMPORTANT RULING

Chief Justice Hughes Heads Majority; McReynolds Leads Dissenters

Washington, Feb. 18.—(NS)—The government won a smashing victory today in the long-awaited gold cases in the Supreme Court—but by the narrowest possible margin, 5 to 4.

A bare majority of the court upheld the right of Congress to abrogate the gold clause in $70,000,000 in private bonds, and held that the holders of Liberty bonds and gold certificates having suffered no loss in the devaluation of the dollar, cannot demand payment in gold or its equivalent in the devalued paper dollar, $1.09 to $1.

Chief Justice Hughes read the majority decisions, and was supported by Justices Brandeis, Stone, Roberts and Cardozo.

Associate Justice McReynolds, long noted for his conservatism on the monetary question, dissented, and was supported by Justices VanDevanter, Sutherland and Butler.

Justice Stone differed with the conclusions in one case, but supported the majority in its verdict. This was the case involving John M. Perry, New York lawyer, who had demanded either payment in gold or the devalued paper dollar, at the new rate, for his fourth Liberty bond.

The 5-to-4 division was revealed after the reading of the majority opinions had been concluded. It was a familiar division, 5 to 4, for the court had so divided on a number of important issues, with usually the same justices on the side of the majority.

One striking sentence in Justice McReynolds' dissenting opinion was: "The Constitution, as many of us have known it, is gone."

Kittens To Play Williamson High Netmen Tonight

Freshmen on Two-Game Trip Through Eastern Kentucky

Coch Paul McBrayer and his undefeated freshman basketball team left Monday morning on a two-game trip to the eastern part of the state where they were scheduled to meet the strong Pikeville club five last night. Tonight the Kittens play Ellis Johnson's Williamson High School caters at Williamson, W. Va.

Pikeville college has the best team in the history of the school. They have defeated some of the best junior college teams of Kentucky, Ohio, and West Virginia. Should the Kittens win this game, they will have a good chance of finishing the season undefeated. In Benedict, Pike County, a forward guard, Dick Robinson, stellar guard of the freshman five, will probably be called on to guard McBrayer.

Little is known of the Williamson team. Coach Johnson had one of the best teams in that state last year, and it is reported that the one this year is even better.

Those players making the trip are: Combs, Craig, Davis, Hagan, Lutz, Robinson, Spicer, Voil, Segorin and Walker.

The team is due to arrive back Wednesday afternoon.

According to an announcement from the Registrar's office, there will be no holiday in observance of Washington's birthday. "Hereafter, the Registrar's office has been a holiday, but because there has been another day added to the Christmas vacation, it was deemed unwise to interrupt classes for so short a time. MEDICAL TESTS TO BE CONTINUED

Examination of Students of University for Tuberculosis to Be Continued Under Supervision of KERA

Since the Kentucky Employment Relief association, state branch of the FERA, has taken over the testing of students of tuberculosis as a project, it is definitely known that the survey which was started last fall will be completed soon.

Under the KERA plan, Dr. Chambers will remain in charge of the work. Charles Tucker will act as statistician, and Marvin Dunn will assist in the laboratory.

At present over 1,200 students, about fifty percent of the total enrollment in the University, have been tested and more than 300 X-ray pictures made. All work pertaining to these cases will be completed within the next two weeks and on March 1, the testing of the remainder of the student body will begin.

Tests will be made for a period of twelve weeks and if not completed by then, an option has been secured to extend the time for a second twelve weeks.

There has been some difficulty in contacting a group of about one hundred professional students who will assist one class a week. The department requests that members of the group report at the dispensary for their tests as a one hundred percent survey is desired.

Editor and Publisher of Lexington Herald Died Monday Morning

FUNERAL SERVICES TO BE HELD TODAY

Had Been Ill Since Last September, When He Suffered Paralytic Stroke

Funeral services for Desha Breckinridge, editor and publisher of the Lexington Herald, who died at 4 a. m. yesterday at Hinata, his home on the Russell Cave place, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Church of the Good Shepherd.

Mr. Breckinridge had been ill since last September, when he suffered a stroke of paralysis while in New York City.

A descendant of noted Kentucky families, Mr. Breckinridge was the son of Col William O. P. Breckinridge and Issa Desha Breckinridge. He was born in Lexington Aug. 5, 1867. He attended Lawrenceville Preparatory School, New Jersey, and later Princeton University and the University of Virginia. He first prepared for law, a profession in which many members of his family had been successful, and was admitted to the Kentucky bar in 1893. Until 1900 he was a member of the Lexington law firm of Breckinridge and Gentry, of which his father was senior member.

Mr. Breckinridge first became interested in the editorial work of the Herald during the sound-money controversy in 1896, and became publisher in 1907 and editor in 1904. During the Spanish-American war he served as lieutenant in the Third Kentucky Cavalry and as an aide-camp to Major-General J. C. Breckinridge, his uncle.

Mr. Breckinridge had long been interested in breeding and raising of thoroughbred horses. He was one of the group that gave Kentucky its racing code and was interested in the establishment of the Kentucky state racing commission. He had supported in his editorial columns the part-mutual system of race-track betting at a time when it was under attack in Kentucky. Always a supporter of the cooperative system of marketing barley tobacco, he recently had become interested in the industry.

In the death of Desha Breckinridge, editor and publisher of The Lexington Herald, the students of the University have lost a true friend and an active benefactor.

Mr. Breckinridge bought a small newspaper, and from its nucleus, he built one of the finest newspapers in Kentucky.

He took active interest in the Department of Journalism at the University. The local chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising fraternity, was named the Desha Breckinridge chapter in his honor.

It can truthfully be said that his kindness will be missed, but his memory will remain to serve as an inspiration.

JAPAN AGAIN

In 1915 the Chinese Republic received a secret ultimatum from the Japanese Empire to the following effect: The President of China must accept Japanese protection of China and in return must sign over certain powers to the Emperor of Japan.

Upon receiving this dispatch Secretary of State, William Jennings Bryan, along with the General Manager of the Associated Press, Melville Stone, went to the Japanese Embassy.

It was later found out that the Japanese regard collectivism as the ultimatum was authentic.

Last week the Japanese Empire repeated these "21 demands," to a certain extent, and again officials were instructed to deny their authenticity.

They denied that Japan is pressing fresh demands upon China's wamp-wanted Dictator, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

According to Mr. Koki Hirota, whose father wrote the "21 demands" in 1915, Japan is willing to do the following if Chiang accepts the tutelage of Tokyo: (1) Assist China to withdraw from the League of Nations; (2) Furnish with military advisers; (3) Conclude a separate pact with China nullifying the Washington Nine-Power Treaty.

Now China comes to the board and blames all its troubles on President Roosevelt's policy concerning silver, saying that "Roosevelt is driving our Government into bankruptcy."

WHERE'S JOE COLLEGE?

In years past there has been a tendency on the part of the public to regard college as more of a playground for youth than an institution of learning.

The movies also have come in for a fair share of criticism along this line. They do not give us pictures of college which show the struggle made for learning by the majority of the students.

Such polls do reflect the true spirit of the college student of today. The large number of students who are working all or part of their way through college tend to substantiate this statement.

College professor declares there are five kinds of dumbness, says a news item. He must be a conservative sort of a chap.

Hoi Polloi

We have recovered from the swank Phi Tau level sufficient to dig a little dirt. Also we trust you got over it enough to listen while we whiz relate the latest occurrences in sinister fashion.

What was the reason for the extreme wretchedness of Delton John Staples at Saturday night's festivities? And who was the dark little blue-eyed girl to whom he turned for consolation? We saw them sitting along the sidelines; she had a brilliant little hat on, and seemed to be doing her best to help Staples out. What was it all about?

You wouldn't think that Uncle Enoch could be a stooge; neither would you think that Delmar did him have Delmar in class once, and here's the tale: Delmar didn't seem to get his lessons, didn't seem to pay attention in class, and had a perpetual case of jitters, so Prof. Grehan asked him what the matter was. Delmar said he couldn't see out the window, "I don't know," he said pensively. "I guess I must be girl crazy."

Can we not then safely say that the attitude with which some persons regard collectivism is not one from unbiased opinion, but rather the result of prejudices gained from warped or otherwise distorted information passed on to them by certain well-known college agencies, and that the college student of today is just a practical joke, no more so, than the student of the past decades?

MUSICAL RESPECT

With an ear to the music and an eye to the future of his organization, Director John Lewis maintains one of the greatest assets to the University—the University of Kentucky Band, well known as the "Best Band in Dixie".

A sports writer on one of the State's larger newspapers gave the group of student musicians this illustrious title when writing his account of a football game between Kentucky and Georgia Tech, the contest resulting in a 3-3 dead-tie. Throughout the entire game, the Kentucky eleven had shown a spirit not to be outshone until the end of the fray when the band played "My Old Kentucky Home" with musical interpretation that prompted the distinguished title.

Just in case there should be any slippage or misinformation of any kind, be informed, you mugs, that Kappa Sig Charlie Stephenson went to Urbana, Ohio, with Kaydee Beldy Earle. Also that they went to see their father. But, said friend E. I. B., therein lies the reason for the visit. Repent, you sinners, and be ashamed for having thought such mean ugly things.

What's the dope on this McKur-Perkins combination? It seems to have gone on for a long time.

OBSERVATIONS: That Kappa Sig Davis Sellers doesn't seem to be with Virginia Robinson, the Independent whiz, so much any more. That Delton Morton Potter has strayed away from the "Tri-Delt" tables. That Tommie Walker is the cause of it. That Alpha Gam Mildred Martin has a good time on how she got her date for the Military Ball "Finkler" Dean, not Dizzy by name but should be so called, went "high falutin" on us and appeared at the "wax" party on Friday night in his "work clothes".

That the minute Woody Holbrook got his hands on the "wax" party other night he had a very fancy remark to make to O. P. Reuter, one of the "wax" judges. "I'm Jimmy Alrutz, thinks there's nothing so lovely as a Sunny Day. Nobody can keep up with the many who court Kappa Sig. Bobby Smith. Nor can we find out who has the inside trail now. In a certain Marjorie is her name reads, "Jones Jerked to Jesus".

College professor declares there are five kinds of dumbness, says a news item. He must be a conservative sort of a chap.

JEST AMONG US

One thing that most people have overlooked is this advertising fight between the radio and the newspaper is that you can't turn off a newspaper.

If, as some persons believe, college is nothing in the world but a marriage bureau on a large scale, then it must be admitted that a lot of gals are successful in getting their degree.

After reading that the convicted booper Hauptmann when he went to prison, we are beginning to believe that they are a more intelligent group than they have been given credit for.

Now that students have expressed themselves in favor of peace, we bet that among the more surprised are the night club operators.

You perhaps remember "Boone Moves On," which he wrote. It has been given by the American Order of Pioneers three times. Other plays he has had produced are two one-act plays, a full length mystery which won second in the Guignol contest, and a full length play, "My Buddy" boys in the song of that name. He has written several short stories and a feature which he sold.

John hopes to continue as a playwright and also in the production end of the game, but even if successful he intends to remain serene, as he believes temperament to be an affliction.

When it comes to food, John doesn't care so much what it is—just so there's plenty of it. Eddie Duchin and "Starch" he considers to be an unbeatable combination. He says that he has been in at least twelve wrecks, but has always come through without a scratch. In one of these the car struck a lamp post, a telephone pole, and a fire plug, and though the other two occupants of the machine were injured, John's luck held and he came through unscathed.

Although he considers women a necessary and pleasant evil, he prefers clever blonds.

John says the girl he loves hasn't as yet been born, and her mother is dead. Looks like a perpetual bachelorhood to me—can you figure it out any other way?

Seeing the thing from an entirely feminine point of view, I should say that Dean Jones did the wise thing when he asked for no "Hell-week" outside of fraternity houses. The poor kids get enough of it while they're inside their own territory. I've heard nine out of every ten freshmen come out of it with a firm resolution to get even; thereby taking out on somebody else what he himself has been subjected to. And the maxims of "taking it" used by fraternity members is so ridiculous as to be altogether useless. There's nothing worth while in learning to take a beating, not the physical kind, at least.

I dislike Dunn's for various and sundry reasons. But it's the only sort of general meeting and gathering place known to this Student Union campus. Accordingly, I met a little, very little, snubish person who seemed disillusioned with life in general. Dark, she was, and seemed to look deep into herself instead of out into the world.

After a preliminary discussion of things unimportant, we launched into the why of her attitude. "I'm ready to jump off the bridge or anything like that," she said; "but although I still feel I had rather live than suddenly cease to be, somehow I can't help but feel bewildered about so many things that I am inarguable and dull."

She doesn't like school. She thinks she'd be better off doing something practical, something with her hands. Something tangible, and real. But there are guardians, and they have disposed of her in the easiest manner.

LUCKIES USE ONLY CENTER LEAVES
CENTER LEAVES GIVE YOU THE MILDEST SMOKE

I give you the mildest smoke, the best-tasting smoke. You wonder what makes me different. I'll tell you. It's center leaves. I spurn the little, sticky, top leaves . . . so bitter to the taste. I scorn the coarse bottom leaves, so harsh and unappetizing. I am careful of your friendship, for I am made only of the mild, fragrant, expensive center leaves.

Grayson High Is Easy for Kittens

DeMoisey Five Outclassed by McBrayer's Flashy Kavanaugh Quintet

Two former Wildcat basketball captains and All-Southern players pitted their teams against each other in the Alumni gym Friday night and Coach Paul McBrayer's Kentucky Kittens defeated the Pritchard High school of Grayson, coached by "Frenchy" DeMoisey, by a score of 43 to 12.

Coach McBrayer used 17 men, letting his first five play but the first and third quarters. During the first quarter, Spicer, Davis, Walker, Craig, and Robinson ran up a score of 16 points to two for the visitors. With the second team in the game during the next quarter, the Grayson boys failed to score but held their opponents to two points, trailing by 18 to 2 at half time.

The freshmen had the advantage of height and experience over the high school boys and these factors proved too much for the losers.
