A STEP FORWARD

The American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism under the leadership of its president, Prof. Grant M. Hyde of the University of Wisconsin, has taken a step which, we believe, will be heartily approved by all editors. It has announced that hereafter the 31 accredited four-year schools which comprise its membership, will issue identification cards to their graduates. These cards will be inscribed with the graduate's name, his signature, the signature of the dean or director of the school where he had his training and an announcement that inquiries concerning the graduate will be answered promptly by mail or telegraph.

This action has been taken to curb the activities of applicants for newspaper jobs who claim to be "journalism school graduates" even though they have taken only the most elementary courses in high schools or small colleges, or as has been reported in some cases, have been dropped from courses in professional schools for unsatisfactory work. In many instances, publishers who have hired these self-styled "graduates" without investigation and found them inefficient have blamed the quality of instruction given in the schools instead of the individual who obtained the job under false pretenses.

Therefore the schools, whose membership in the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism depends upon the professional quality of their work, have devised the identification card as a means of not only safeguarding their own reputations but also of protecting publishers from being imposed upon by fakers. The fact that this credentials plan has the indorsement of a number of newspaper organizations, among them the American Society of Newspaper Editors, the National Editorial Association, the Inland Daily Press Association and the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association, is an encouraging sign of a closer cooperation between the schools and the newspaper profession.

But the plan will work to the best advantage of all concerned only if individual publishers will help make it effective. With college commencements less than two months away, a large number of journalism school students will soon be seeking newspaper jobs. If a publisher hires one who claims to be a graduate (with the amount of training for newspaper work which that term implies), without requiring the applicant to show his identification card, he has only himself to blame if he is disappointed in the result. He cannot justly blame the school whose indorsement is reserved for those students which feel have had adequate training for entrance in the newspaper field and to whom they issue the proper credentials.

The issuing of identification cards to graduates, referred to in the above editorial, does not, as we understand it, mean that publishers should decline to give consideration to applications from journalism school students who have not yet been graduated. Many students will be seeking jobs only for the summer and during the news stories in recent issues of dailies and weeklies in various states, many of these are already capable of doing good work even though they have not completed their four-year course. (Certainly the testimony of a number of publishers in Washington in regard to the ability of students from the university in that state, as reported in this week's issue of The Auxiliary, indicates that they are.) The identification card plan is intended to prevent only those who would sail under false colors from victimizing prospective employers. It should not prevent the honest student, who makes no false claims as to the amount of his training, from getting a job which he is capable of handling.—Publisher's Auxiliary.

CUTTIN' UP THE CAMPUS with "Scoop"

CAMPUSNICKERS:

"Have you ever seen the Guignol garden at night?" (This is usually said by enterprising seniors to young co-eds around this time of the year.)

"We're going to have a little quiz this morning, class." (There is nothing like this for a pleasant surprise which is always sprung by professors on a blue Monday morning.)

"No thanks. I only drink milk." (Ha Ha.) "What a lovely fraternity pin you're wearing!" (And then people wonder how she manages to collect so much jewelry.)

"Come on up to the Commons with us. We'll only stay a minute." (This is the eternal optimist speaking.)

"I thought that this was MY no-break!" (And she laughed and laughed because she knew all the time that she was dancing with the wrong guy.)

"Sure it was in Hoi Pollui, but, honest, it's just an idle rumor!" (Pardon my snicker.) "Let's sit this dance out." (Nuff said.) "Meet me at the Library. We'll do all our studying there." (Again the eternal optimist.)

"Is it hot enough for you." (Famous last words.)

"I've got something for your column, Scoop! Aren't you glad?" (Now I know why murder is sometimes justified.)

DON'T LOOK NOW, BUT—we have about 15 more cramming days until exams, my fine feathered friends!

UNIVERSITYTYPES:

The Campus Grade-Hound—He's the kind of a lad who bought apples to teach in grade school, and spends his four years in college polishing them. . . He sits in the first row of every class. . . and is absent only in mind, never in body. . . Either he has a terrible sense of humor, or he's just a glutton for punishment, but he encourages his profs by always guffawing at their pleasantries. . . much to the distress of his fellow students. . . He's the original campusgusto. . . always there with an answer. . . and always wrong. . . The last weeks of school are terribly exhausting for him. . . he has to cover so much territory running to the offices of all his profs. . . and telling them how much he enjoyed their too too divine courses. . . He's never girl conscious. . . just grade-conscious. . . and maybe he's better off, at that!

Hoi Pollui

Due to the fact that Kerler had to go on a trip with the tennis team, it was left up to me to run this swell old column of Hoi Pollui twice this week. However, I am not mad because it gives me the opportunity to ask for ideas for a well thought out piece for those personages who invariably come up and say that they know something but cannot tell anyone, especially me. Getting mighty tired of having all the torture land on one side.

What a gall! Pikap Dan Ewing had his pin returned by "Tridelt" "Porgie" Young, stipulated, however, that if it were reset in diamonds she will probably put it back on. So-o-o-o if you see a glitter running around the campus, you will know that it's "Porgie" and her "rocks."

Alphabetatheta June Hunger has a great longing in her heart for the affections of a certain football player and doesn't mind everyone knowing it. That's what I call real love.

Who is that in the "tops" in Sue Coover's life and future years when Brother Bob Hess leaves after graduation?

Hats like the kind that Emmy "Gutsie" Haggin wears are often worn by babies. (But not as hats.)

We see that Miss Margie's freshman class is still the scene of varied activities. Gene Bryant and Midgy-widgy Wheeler were proudly displaying a crossword puzzle they had constructed in her class.

Could it be true that Lucy Hogg hasn't been kissed in two years as she swears to Eldon Foy? We will have to get an immediate statement from George Ochs to straighten this out.

It is noticed that Chio Betty Jackson is quite chafed over the Thornton-Walker pinning episode. Now she can be sure of one place that Gamble Dick won't be when he hasn't a date with her.

FLASH!! The tree study class was rudely interrupted and finally broken up by Ben Rose's dog, Amos, yesterday morning. Ben said the prof shouldn't have gotten mad for the dog was just investigating as dogs will do dogs.

Incidentally, we notice that Ben is seen gracing the company of "Queen" Frances Woods quite a bit lately. But with a Hillelmeyster at every turn, I don't see how he has time to himself a minute, but anyway his persistence is admirable.

Sweet K. D. Virginia Batterton has accepted the pin of Jess Wilmot and is now one of that vast army of waiters-for-their-loves-in-return. He is supposed to leave this morning to hitch-hike to Europe to seek his fortune, we suppose. Now all Virginia has to do is keep from pining away for him.

June Curd, one of last year's campus favorites, is back in our fair metropolis on an extended visit. Bill Courtney is doing the entertaining and some dirty nosing we imagine on account of June and Virginia Hendricks being cousins.

Colonel Dick Robinson is devoting his time in making Reids oleal. Helen Lloyd Young, happy these days, Reids says that he has warned Dick twice but he guesses that force would finally have to be resorted to if there continued to be no change of attention.

SHORT STORY: Elvis Jacob Starb Jr. had the fourth no-break with Kappa Mary Eleanor Gray (new love). M. Eleanor couldn't find him. Mainly because Jake was sitting in the bleachers with Virginia Alsop (old love). Explanation offered by Rhodes Scholar possible this: "She knew I had this with you—and wouldn't let me come down to the dance floor."

Ole "aide to scandal columners" George Turnipseed is to arrive in Lexington at an early date in connection to Halbutt Tanner. She has been working in a bank in Virginia and she goes on to say that she would have been here already except for the fact she has been having some very important conference with various bank presidents throughout the seacoast.

College Students Least Worry To Cops, Is Asserted

BY ODIE LEE HARRIS

Kernel Features Editor

If you think you're having a tough time going to college, then don't ever attain the desire to become a policeman. Another thing, don't ever tell a cop that he is dumb. He's not dumb in the first place; and in the second place—especially if you're being pinched—it's not a good policy in the first place.

Those who have listened in on the present "cop" school in room 111 of McVey hall realize that a cop never being a lack of all trades, he is trained in first aid, and fire and accident prevention, in short, he is the legal guardian of all life and property. And besides this he is expected to be an encyclopedia of information. If one wants to know anything all he has to do is "just ask the cop."

Contrary to the popular belief, the college student is one of the law's least worried. To be sure they are represented but in this representation the spirit of college friendship—for the fellow with the car—s horns out. Cops are still annoyed at seeing from ten to fifteen intelligent students packed in one auto.

Cop seems to be the only one troubled with the differences between blondes and brunettes. According to the trouble afforded the cops by the two, it seems as if an even break.

Your reporter, asking a big blue cop, how it felt to be shot at, received the simple but very effective reply, "very peculiar," a feeling we imagine to be a concentrated form of that feeling one gets when being "half-shot."

Sport Sketches

Benjamin C. Willis, one of Kentucky's outstanding track men, crossed the toll bridge from Cincinnati to come down here and eat the famous Blue Grass vegetation that he might become a real thoroughbred trackster. Ben is the most versatile track performer that Kentucky has had since "Shipwreck" Kelley called it quits and it is not only possible but highly probable that he will even surpass Kelley with record-breaking performances before collegiate career is ended.

Last week in an exhibition run at Louisville, the Wildcat ran the century dash in 9.6 seconds, the fastest time ever turned in by a Kentucky sprinter. Willis has been high point man for Kentucky in every meet in which he has participated in the past two years. In addition to the 100, Ben runs the 220, and high and low hurdles. Ben may start at Birmingham today as just another entry but don't be in the least surprised if he gives a lot of the spectators plenty of thrills before the meet closes tomorrow.

Ben is a junior in the College of Commerce and is 29 years old. He is 5 feet, 10 inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. . . . He is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity. . . . Lance Scabbard and Blaine.

Realizing the importance of strict training, Ben does nothing which might injure his health. His roomie, Gamble Dick, sees to it that Ben stays in training by closing all his desserters.

After questioning, the Wildcat sprinter admitted that he believed Benny Goodman's orchestra to be the most entertaining on the air. . . . His favorite song is "Walking Through Heaven" which he chooses blonder and is partly in green. . . . His ideal girl must be a good sport but not necessarily beautiful. . . . However, Ben has one more thing to say: says that he has a hard time collecting his laundry bill from him.

Wildcat Track Performers To Compete In Birmingham

By JOE QUINN
Kernel Sports Editor

For the first time in many years the spring sports picture at the University is a brightly-hued one, with the varsity tennis team bowing over opponents with seeming ease and Kentucky's track and field representatives conceded a fine chance to come away with a share in the Conference honors tomorrow at Birmingham.

It is self-evident that both the tennis and track teams are definitely superior to teams of other years. Formerly these two sports merely furnished recreation, more or less, for the competitors, but this season, the racket-wielders, especially, have established themselves as a classy combination with their imposing row of consecutive wins.

And the track squad, tremendously handicapped with no track on which to practice, has done remarkably well, losing only to Tennessee on the latter's cinders.

Several of the more proficient of Coach Bernie Shively's pupils embarked with their mentor yesterday morning for Birmingham, Alabama where the annual Southeastern conference track and field carnival holds sway at Legion Field today and tomorrow.

On the same field that Kentucky has been turned back so often by Alabama's football forces, the Wildcat runners will make an effort at mass scoring in contrast to their past performances, when they were lucky to have two entrants in the meet.

Two of Shively's starters seem certain to be winners in their favorite events while each of the competitors have an excellent chance to finish in the money.

Ben Willis and Dave Rogan, the main point-getters for the Blue during the season will each be entered in two events and judging from past performances, should be well up in the pack when the meet is ended.

Willis, holder of the Kentucky 100-yard dash record of 19.6, will find most of his opposition in Anderson of Tennessee, the only competitor to defeat him in two seasons of dual meetings.

Another Kentuckian upon whom Shively is counting heavily is Dave Rogan. The Middleboro lad, only a sophomore, can run any distance from the quarter to the two-mile and really like it.

Coach Shively also decided to carry his relay quartet consisting of Captain Jack Crain, Bill Miller, and Charley Gates, as well as Rogan, Cecil Hillard, another good middle distance man, will take part in the half and mile runs.

The Wildcat tennis team partly averted the humiliating defeat handed out to the Cat basketball team by the Notre Dame basket-ballers, by defeating their raucous wielders in a one sided match, seven to two.

For Digestion's sake... SMOKE CAMELS

Smoking Camels stimulates the natural flow of digestive fluids... increases alkalinity

PROMS AND EXAMS. Constant rushing about and mental strain put you on your mettle. Camels set you right with their aid to digestion—their cheering "lift"—their costlier tobaccos.

Life sometimes pushes us so hard that we feel too worn-down really to enjoy eating. Science explains that hurry, mental strain, and constant tension reduce the flow of the digestive fluids. Scientific studies definitely show that smoking Camels increases the flow of digestive fluids... alkaline digestive fluids... so vital to the enjoyment of food and to good digestion.

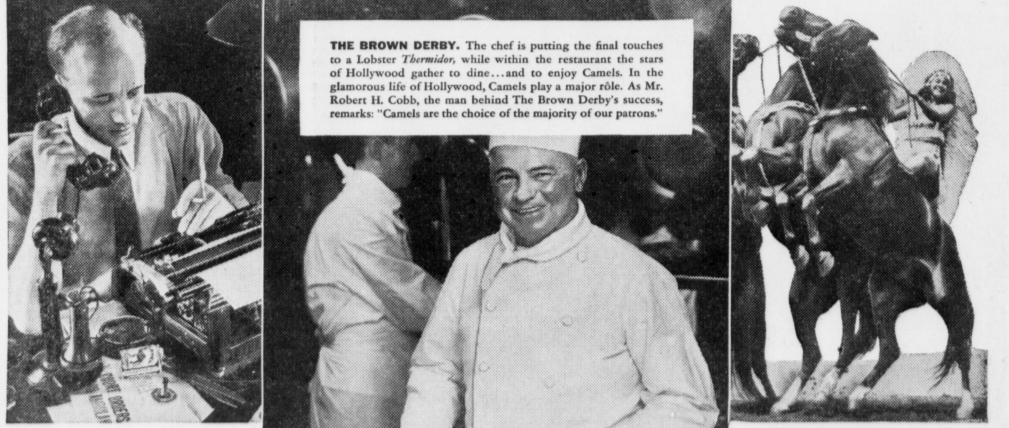

Camel's rich and costly tobaccos are mild beyond words. Enjoy Camels as often as you like—with meals—any time—for their cheering "lift"... for their aid to digestion—for the pleasure they bring. Camels set you right! And never jangle your nerves or tire your taste. Make it Camels today.

THE BROWN DERBY. The chef is putting the final touches to a Lobster Thermidor, while within the restaurant the stars of Hollywood gather to dine... and to enjoy Camels. In the glamorous life of Hollywood, Camels play a major role. As Mr. Robert H. Cobb, the man behind The Brown Derby's success, remarks: "Camels are the choice of the majority of our patrons."

UNDER THE BIG TOP. Watching Miss Dorothy Herbert of Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey, you marvel at her poise. She says: "I smoke all I want—eat anything I care for. Camels make food taste better and digest easier."

CROWDED MINUTES as the reporter works to beat the deadline. "It's a life of hurry, hurry, hurry," says Peter Dahlen, newspaper man, "and a life of irregular hours and meals. It's well the way Camels make food taste better and set better."
