Phelps Elected President of Pan Hellenic Council

William B. Phelps, Kappa Alpha, was elected president of the Pan Hellenic Council at a meeting of that organization held at the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity house last Thursday night.

Phelps formerly held the position of secretary and treasurer, and he succeeds Malcolm Foster, Pi Kappa Alpha, in the presidency.

New election of officers became necessary when the majority of the Pan Hellenic members elected new delegates to the council at the first of the year.

Faculty Increases Donation to Chest

Almost a 100 per cent contribution by the administrative staff and faculty of the university was shown in a final report on the campus Community Chest drive issued from the office of Pres. F. L. McVey on noon Saturday.

The amount donated by the faculty by university students in 1931-32 this year also outnumbers those of last year.

Visiting Artist Shows Brilliant Piano Technique

Dwight Anderson, Louisville, Presents Program At Sunday Musicales

By MARY ALICE SALVERS

Brilliance of technique featured the piano recital by Dwight Anderson, Louisville, at the regular musical Sunday afternoon in Memorial hall.

In a program divided almost equally between modern music and the accepted classical composers, Mr. Anderson displayed to advantage the ability which has caused him to be widely known and praised.

Mr. Anderson was especially skillful in his rendition of modern music, and it was these modern pieces which seemed to receive the audience. He is a finished pianist and he adds to his musical gifts the delicate touch that is the sum and substance of the true artist.

Mr. Anderson's first selection was the "Organ Concerto in D Minor" by Friedrich Bach, transcribed by Paganini.

As the third group, Mr. Anderson played the "Concerto in B Minor, Op. 58," by Chopin, including the Allegro Maestros, Largo and Finale.

The last group, consisting entirely of the more modern compositions included "Le Vallee des Cloches," an unusual and fascinating composition in which one seemed actually to be in the "Valley of the Chimes"; "Jeux d'Eau," a rippling and sparkling piece; and "Schwatzwalzer" (Gypsy Baron), by Strauss-Dohnanyi.

The visit of the governor was the first since his inauguration last December. He was accompanied by Mrs. Frank L. McVey.

An appreciative first night audience saw John L. Bladerston's "Berkeley Square" at the Guignol theater last night.

In changing places with his ancestor for a visit into the past, Peter Standish, played by Peter Fowler, fully realizes the possibilities of his situation.

As Peter Standish Frank Fowler gives sincere and adequate performance. In the closing scenes of act one his determination to give the audience a strong impression of his own mental unrest becomes a trifle tiresome, but this is due, we believe, as much to the lines themselves as to the manner in which they are spoken.

The regular weekly meeting of Strollers will be held at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the basement of the Alumni gymnasium.

BEAUTY CONTEST PROVED HONEST IN INVESTIGATION

Letter from Bank Employee Spikes Rumor Charging Unfairness

KENTUCKIAN EDITOR IS LAUDED BY BRETTMAN

Belief That Only 20 Photographs Were Submitted Is Discredited

Campus rumors that illegitimate and unethical methods were employed in the selection of beauties for the 1932 Kentuckian were spiked in a letter received recently from F. J. Brettman, employee of Chemical Bank and Trust Company of New York, who acted as referee in the contest.

It had been charged that all of the photographs which were turned in by the contestants were not forwarded to the judge. Support to this belief came when it was learned that the winners of the contest had come from Group 20.

In the investigation, which was instigated by The Kernel after repeated rumors regarding the contest, the President of the bank, George White, who acted as judge for the contest, although Ben F. Holzman, general representative for Mr. White, telegraphed that all inquiries regarding the contest would have to be released by Mr. Stone, the communication from Mr. Stone, however, established the honesty of the selection.

Excerpts from Mr. Brettman's letter: "Last year the President of this bank (Percy H. Johnston) was requested to secure the services of Carl Carroll as judge of your contest, without consulting me. I was delegated me to secure Mr. Carroll... and apparently his decision was arrived at without my knowledge.

"This year... because we are well acquainted with Mr. George White... we were able to secure his services.

"You may be interested to know that I, the writer of this letter, was personally present when this year's contest was judged and the winners selected. I personally turned the pictures and Mr. White's letter over to Mr. Frank Stone, Editor of The Kentuckian who is well known and highly regarded by the President of this bank, and am absolutely sure that when the results are published, the winners will be tabulated in strict accordance with Mr. White's selection.

"You must realize, therefore, that our criticisms of the fairness of the contest are based on a reflection on the Bank."

NOTED ENGINEER WILL SPEAK HERE

A. H. Barker, British Authority on Heat Engineering, Will Address Engineers Wednesday Afternoon.

A. H. Barker, past president of the British Association of Heating Engineers, will arrive in Lexington Wednesday morning to address the junior and senior engineers from 1 to 2 o'clock in the afternoon on the general subject of heating engineering.

Mr. Barker will be introduced to the engineering students at the general engineering assembly at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, at which time Dr. W. D. Funkhouser will address the engineering students on "The Kentuckian of Bygone Days."

Mr. Barker came to this country to read a paper before the recent meeting of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers at Cleveland. Before returning to England he decided to visit the University of Illinois and the University of Kentucky, where important work has been done in heating and ventilating.

While in Lexington, Mr. Barker will be the guest of Dean and Mrs. F. Paul Anderson. A dinner party will be given at his home on Wednesday evening.

Pul-eeze!

Fifteen minutes before the big game the student section was crowded to overflowing and an impatient herd was waiting about the passage next to the wall

Hands locked to prevent spectators from bursting through were effective for a short time. The flock strained and suddenly burst through. Steel chairs placed next the passage for the band were thrown into a heap along with 10 or 20 squelching legs. Legs, arms, heads, hats and shoes were scrambled in that melee while students rushed forward.

No one was hurt seriously.

Figures for Second Semester Show Decrease of 197 From February Total Of Last Year

FEB. 15 IS FINAL DATE

A total registration of 2,905 students was recorded in the registrar's office when the office closed further enrollment Monday afternoon. This is 197 less than the total enrolled during the first semester, when 3,102 entered the university, and is 197 under the February total for last year, 3,102.

Registration will continue for the first time through approximately 100, according to figures released. The new students were in the direction of Dean E. Malcher. Complete figures will be released in the near future.

Changes in the schedules may be made every afternoon from 2:30 until 3:30 o'clock.

Five dollars, the maximum fee charged for late registration, must be paid by students who enroll now. Classification is being conducted in the offices of the deans of the various colleges. It is necessary that the student's faculty advisor, his instructor and the dean of his college. Two copies of the schedule must be filed with the dean of his college.

Grehan Appointed Council Chairman

Journalism Head To Succeed Funkhouser as Delegate To Conference

The appointment of Prof. Enoch Grehan as chairman of the athletic council to succeed Dr. W. D. Funkhouser has been announced by Pres. Frank L. McVey. Professor Grehan in this capacity will be Kentucky's representative at the meeting of the Southern conference to be held in Atlanta, February 25 and 26.

Professor Grehan is the head of the department of journalism and has taught at the university for more than 20 years. He has served as a faculty member on the athletic council for the past several years. Professor Funkhouser has been Kentucky's representative for more than five years and has served as secretary of the conference. Because he is to receive his sabbatical leave beginning next September, Doctor Funkhouser resigned his position at the last meeting of the conference held in New Orleans in December.

Preparation for the annual Southern conference basketball tournament is expected to take a large part of the month. This tournament is an annual feature and is given nation-wide publicity. Last year Kentucky was runner-up to the champions, Maryland, who defeated the "Cats" in the finals of the tourney.

COUNCIL TO GIVE SOCIAL

The Baptist Student Council, organization of all Baptist students on the campus, will meet at 7:30 o'clock Friday night in the women's gymnasium. A special program of social features will be presented and all students are cordially invited to be present.

SALE LEADS SCORING; DEMOISEY TALLIES 12

Half Shows Kentucky on Long End of 31-13 Score

By JOHN ST. JOHN

Overcoming one of the greatest attacks ever seen on the local floor, the Kentucky Wildcats ran their consecutive winning streak to 13 by a lop-sided 50-22 victory over the Crimson Tide of Alabama and maintained their Southern Conference leadership.

The largest crowd, estimated at 4,500, that ever saw a Wildcat basketball game at home was constantly on its feet by the brilliant play of both teams. About 2,000 spectators were turned from the door.

"Angie" Sale, shifted back to his old position at center, continued to lead the Wildcat scorers by racking up 17 points. The tall Wildcat star was always getting the tip-off from Stanley Alabama center and batting it into the waiting hands of a Kentucky player.

DeMoisey Important The Wildcat's "floating power," John DeMoisey, started the game in Sale's position and his defense was more than any fan hoped to see. The score was no indication of the type of game that the "Bama" showed. They were continually in the Kentucky territory.

The presentation of the Gamagrone trophy to the member of the football squad having the highest score in the game was more than any fan hoped to see. The score was no indication of the type of game that the "Bama" showed. They were continually in the Kentucky territory.

Sale took the coming tip-off and set-up. DeMoisey, who was worth nothing on the floor, within the set-up. While shooting he was fouled and made his free-throw good and made his free-throw with a lead of 3-0. Alken, Alabama forward, followed with a beauty from the middle of the floor. Within the next three minutes Kentucky ran the score up to 9-2 on baskets by DeMoisey and Sale.

It was apparent then that the Kentucky machine had started to function. The Wildcat's lead was maintained during the Duke game was only a temporary handicap.

Bauman of Alabama, substitute forward, after a short shot by Sale, sank one from the middle of the floor. Kimbrough followed with a shot to bring the Alabama team back into play, with the score 10 to 6 after the first five minutes.

Darby followed with two more of the long shots that made him an instant star. DeMoisey, who apparently had been bottled up during the Duke game, got loose with the "floating power" of the Wildcat, and scored five of the ten points each.

The half ended with the score 31 to 13 in favor of Kentucky. When the Crimson Tide came from the showers, the shouting fans didn't know whether to expect an instant comeback or to expect a rout. They had seen two days before during the Duke game or a rally by the Tide.

There was hardly a hero for the Tide. No one man on their team accounted for more than five points. In perfect team cooperation, if any man could be picked as the star of the game and Little went in for Worthington, who was sent to the showers. The Alabama players were responsible for their entire score.

Only two substitutes were used for Kentucky. Kreuter took the place of Sale with only three minutes to play. At the end of the game and Little went in for Worthington, who was sent to the showers. The Alabama players were responsible for their entire score.

SMOKING SPECTATORS

Saturday night Coach Rupp's Wildcats came out of the haze of a hard fought game long enough to achieve victory over the well-begotten Duke Blue Devils. However, much of the "smoking up" of the Alumni gym was contributed not by the contesting teams but by the spectators. At the beginning of the second half of play the gym was so clouded with smoke the Blue Devil coach, protesting that the acrid haze was slowing up the play, asked the referee whether something could be done about it. Evidently nothing could at the time, and the same was resumed.

Just why such a condition should exist is inexplicable. Viewing coaches deplore it; game officials condemn it, and university authorities have posted conspicuous signs in the gym prohibiting smoking in the building. Nevertheless, students and the visiting public continue to violate this ruling.

The practice of smoking in the gym during a basketball contest is doubly undesirable. Although the structure is mainly of fireproof construction the floor is wooden and the fire hazard is always imminent. Again, in such a swiftly moving game the smoke-dog is so well defined that even the public begins to complain, and the hampered players can not put their best efforts into the game.

All of the smoking done by spectators is not that of students. The townspeople do their share of it. But the townspeople, not an intrinsic part of the university, have excuse for smoking. They do not realize that the practice is prohibited, do not consider its undesirability, and especially, since they are guided by student precedent, they smoke freely, intending to enjoy themselves to the utmost. Smoking students, on the other hand, have no excuse; they realize that the practice is prohibited. Any abstinence from smoking on their part would not only put an end to much of the public's smoking—it would also further qualify their sportsmanship.

INTRAMURAL ATHLETICS

In recent months much has been said and written concerning the over-emphasis which has been placed on football. It has been the opinion of many persons that there is a tendency toward a diversification of athletics and that this movement is evidenced in the increasing popularity of intramural sports.

At the University of Kentucky an ideal balance between major sports and intramural athletics is maintained. Football, basketball, baseball, and track offer ample opportunity to the athlete who is good in some particular field and who seeks competition commensurate with his ability. Large crowds attend the basketball and basketball games which are held at the university and an active interest in these sports is taken by the student body.

Intramural sports, however, do not suffer from this interest in the major sport teams of the institution. While the student body as a whole may attend the football and basketball games, the major portion of the men students have their own field of athletic endeavor in the intramural department. Almost all sports are open to them, and no matter how great or how little the skill of the undergraduate, he is unable to find an opponent of equal ability among those who engage in intramural sports.

We believe that interest and participation in athletics generally by the student body is one of the finest factors in university life. Kentucky can be particularly commended on the popularity of both major and intramural sports.

CUTTING CLASSES

The close of last semester found another group of students flunking out. They failed to make standings. Some of them did not render the university; others, having wasted one college year, are again matriculating only to repeat their failure; some few will have reformed.

The majority of scholastic failures come under the freshman classification. They can explain their inability to make a standing. They have an ability ready-made one semester, fail to make them the next. What is it, then, that has happened? Is it lack of study that makes college men and women so inconsistent? At least one university professor declares that it is not. Further, he has found that the majority of class attendance has a high correlation with the better grades; that is, if students attend classes, do not take too many "cuts," they are more certain of maintaining the required scholastic rating than if they continually miss classes.

Whether this is true in all instances we do not know. Of course the safest principle is to both attend classes and prepare for them. On the other hand, if students discontinue demanding their "allowed cuts" they may find at the end of the semester that they have achieved a better standing.

Many a "study in brown" co-ed has a Dad who is in a brown study about the bills.

Jest Among Us

Students no longer sing their love to dance dates—the orchestra leader does it for them.

Some English profs give one the jitters. They tell us that grades mean nothing, but did you ever try to get 'em to change one to keep you in school?

It seems as though we will have a Kentucky for the graduating class, but we do not think the class of '33 will appreciate it.

The mayor of Milwaukee tells us they have more'n $2,000,000 surplus cash. We wonder if Pres'y 'n Gov'nory Latfoom 'n the Mayor couldn't get 'em together.

BOOK REVIEWS

DR. MARION MILLER WRITES
DRAMATIZATION OF THE PICTURE OF DORIAN GRAY.
Dr. Marion Miller, Henry Harrison, New York, 1931, $2.00.

Dr. Miller, best known by his "The Songs of Sappho," a restoration in English verse of the broken fragments of the great Greek lyric poetess, has again exercised his talent for literary reconstruction by casting Wilde's masterpiece of fiction into a play, the first three acts of which preserve the brilliant wit of the original story and its tender love-romance and ensuing tragedy, while the fourth act changes the fantastic finale of Wilde into a modern melodrama of crime, its detection, and its punishment. Henry Harrison, New York, has published the book in a style worthy of its aesthetic content.

Several of the reviewers link Dr. Miller's name with that of Eugene O'Neill. One of them, Stewart Atkins, says of the book: "It is a brilliant dramatization reminiscent of the sparkling plays of Oscar Wilde. But besides this characteristic brilliance it has a dark and sombre power that, hardly noticeable in the first act, grows steadily and surges to the surface toward the last scene of the third. The fourth and final act is stark tragedy and terror, done so skillfully as to leave an indelible impression on the reader's mind."

"The play deals with a portrait whose diabolical influence finally destroys everyone connected with it. The characters are so well handled that at times they almost seem to live and breathe.

"There have been few plays of a deeper nature (except of course the works of Eugene O'Neill) published in the last ten years. Perhaps this is the beginning of a new dramatic trend in the world of letters. However that may be, Marion Miller has done a beautiful piece of work. I should like to see it capably produced on the stage."

Dr. Miller, who lives in Maxwellton, Lexington, the home of his brother, the late Arthur Miller, professor of geology for many years in the university, left for Florida last week to give lecture-readings from his book to several southern colleges. We are hoping that Kentucky students may some day hear his renditions.

All De-Pins

Whether or not the current leap year brings an onrush of co-eds to grab off the yet ungrabbed fraternity pins, reluctant males at Ohio universities will have one recourse more than 30 days, or both.

Under this official act, the legislators decided that "whoever wears the badge or button of a society or organization of 10 years standing in this state shall be fined not more than $20 or imprisoned not more than 30 days, or both."

Therefore co-eds may be threatened with a ride in the "Black Maria" and a chat with the turkey should the boys so desire. On the other hand, the law might create havoc with the earnest finances and finances. The situation has possibilities.

FRESHMEN WHIP

LEE'S COLLEGE

49 TO 10

By SUNNY DAY

Continuing their triumphal march, Coach Elmer "Buddy" Gibb's Kittens swamped the basketballers of Lee's College, 49 to 10, last Friday night in the Euclid Avenue gym. For their seventh consecutive victory, The Kentucky Frosh will meet the Georgetown freshmen Wednesday night, February 10, in the Georgetown gymnasium.

As in the previous games, speed, stamina, fast play, and the ability to hit the basket featured the Kittens' tilt. The visitors, smaller in size but displaying plenty of fight, were hopelessly outclassed. They could not halt the barrage of field goals sent out by the Kentucky Frosh. Eleven minutes of the first half had elapsed before Shelby Stamper, All-American on the famous Carr Creek team of 1928, dropped in a free throw for Lee's College's first marker. The visitors were able to score only two field goals during the first period, and the half ended with the Kittens leading by a score of 23 to 6.

When play was resumed, the Frosh soon led the score up to 33 to 7. At this point Coach Gibb introduced a new team, but even then Lee's College could not stop the victorious march of the Freshmen. Tucker took high scoring honors with 13 points.

Inasmuch as the Kittens met and defeated the Georgetown Freshmen, 38 to 17, in the first game of the season, they will enter the tilt at Georgetown Wednesday night as favorites. A game was previously scheduled for Friday night, February 12, with Kentucky Wesleyan, but this game has been canceled.

BLOCK AND BRIDLE TO MEET
There will be a meeting of Block and Bridle at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night in the Agriculture building. Orders will be taken for a new sign that has been received from a manufacturing jeweler.

It is not known whether the former managers were fired or what happened to them. They were not contacted from overwork.

In answer to the request of R. F. M., this column does realize that there was such a thing as a fencing tournament held at the university, and wishes to inform the public that the sports department of the Kernel has the results. Here they are: winner, Sam Kennedy, from Chicago; runner-up, C. Hoover, G. Vancey, independent, and H. Miner, Delta Tau Delta, tied for third place. These men will receive credit for their efforts, however, noble they were.

The Duke team has been the best Southern conference team to appear on the home floor this season. Kentucky's DeMosey, although apparently bottled-up, led the Wildcat scoring with 10 points.

College Newspapers Admitted to K. P. A.

Joe Lovett, President of Body, Praises Department of Journalism

At the regular midwinter meeting of the Kentucky Press association the president of the association, Joe Lovett, editor of the Murray Times-Leader, not only paid the department of journalism a high compliment for the work it was doing in training young men in the field of journalism, but recommended that a resolution be adopted making all college newspapers in the state associate members of the Kentucky Press association with-out the right to vote.

Mr. Lovett said that he believed it would be beneficial to them to be present at the councils of the association and take note of the practical procedure that exists in the regular newspaper offices.

The Kentucky Kernel enjoys the unique distinction, however, of being a member of the association in full standing.

Lovett is one of the three presidents serving the association with-out in last several years, who were trained in the department of journalism, and were during their student days editors of The Kernel.

The other two are Keen Johnson, editor of the Richmond Daily Register, and Herndon Evans, editor and owner of the Pineville Sun.
