INSIDER'S VIEW

The most controversial issue in intercollegiate athletics today is "gender equity." At the heart of the issue is the question "Do women deserve the same opportunities to participate in intercollegiate athletics as men?"

At the University of Kentucky, the answer is "yes." Our difficulties, however, begin with the definition of "opportunities," the practical implications of "same," and the concomitant effects on our budget, established programs, staff and facilities.

C.M. Newton defines gender equity for us as "fairness," meaning that all athletes at Kentucky will be treated in an honest and even-handed manner. To implement that definition, we are faced with several challenges. He has asked us to examine our assumptions, pro-actively tackle our problems and make some very difficult decisions.

The passage of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 began the process of defining equal opportunity in the area of athletics. Title IX states that institutions must effectively accommodate "the interests and abilities" of their female undergraduate population. As Title IX is a federal statute, enforcement is the responsibility of the Office of Civil Rights.

When making judgements on institutional compliance, federal investigators have applied a three-part test. The first part of the test is proportionality, the second is a demonstrated history of and plan for program expansion for women and the third is evidence that the athletic interests and abilities of the women's undergraduate population are being satisfied. Investigators will start with the proportionality test, which if passed, is prima facie evidence (first sight) of Title IX compliance.

The proportionality test poses the following question, "Does the percentage of women in the undergraduate population match the percentage of women in the athletic program?" If the answer is "yes," the institution has passed the quantity test, and the investigator will move to an analysis of the quality of that participation.

If this test is not passed, the investigation will default to the second part of the test. At Kentucky, 52 percent of the undergraduate student population is female, and 30 percent of our athletes are female. In other words, we do not pass the proportionality test. Our participation ratio, however, is fairly typical for a Division I program which sponsors football.

At this point in time, institutions are moving in two distinct directions in order to meet the proportionality test. The first is to increase significantly the opportunities for women students to participate in intercollegiate athletics. The operative word here is "significantly." UK has more men playing football than total women involved in athletics, even though we sponsor 10 women's sports, more than any other school in the Southeastern Conference. Playing football successfully at the NCAA Division I level has required more than 100 players. Since football has no comparable women's sport in terms of numbers, reaching proportionality in participation would require the addition of four or five women's sports, a significant increase.

At UK, women's soccer was upgraded to the varsity level in 1992. Our plan is to add fast-pitch softball in 1994 or 1995. The addition of programs, while it is the right thing to do, involves significant costs. Coaches must be hired, scholarships funded and facilities built.

For this reason many institutions are trying to reach proportionality by decreasing the number of participation opportunities for men. Men's swimming was dropped by UCLA and Illinois. Baseball has been dropped by Wisconsin and Colorado State. Men's indoor track is being scrutinized at several SEC institutions. In these cases, the choice has been to use the money saved to fund expansion to women's programs.

The dropping of men's sports to achieve proportionality does not fit within C.M. Newton's definition of fairness. He is determined that, through the aggressive pursuit of new sources of revenue and the careful cutting of costs in our current programs, we can serve the athletics interests and abilities of both our men and women undergraduates.

The third part of the Title IX compliance test is that the institution must show that it is effectively accommodating the interests and abilities of its women undergraduates. This parameter has served to protect existing women's programs from being dropped due to budget cuts. That is, the existence of a women's team has been taken by the courts to be prima facie evidence of interest and ability.

Brown University and the University of California at Fullerton were ordered to reinstate their women's volleyball programs after they cut them for budgetary reasons. Colorado State and the University of South Carolina were ordered to reinstate softball after they tried to replace that women's sport with another. Oklahoma and William and Mary were not allowed to cut women's basketball. None of these athletics departments passed the proportionality test when they made their decisions to cut these women's programs, so the courts found the departments in violation of Title IX.

In 1992, C.M. Newton appointed retired Colonel Micki King, a former Olympic diver and experienced athletics administrator, to do a comprehensive study of our athletics department in relation to Title IX. The study is on-going. However, it will have, as a direct result, some pioneer work in the area of athletics interests and abilities assessment.

Proportionality, program expansion, and interest and abilities assessment are the three components of Title IX compliance. However, gender equity, defined by "Newtonian" fairness, goes well beyond the number crunching of participation ratios. 🐾

TONIGHT'S GAME

KENTUCKY
VS FLORIDA

SEPTEMBER 11, 1993

By David Kaplan
Host Communications

It appeared as though it was going to be the same old story: Mid-American Conference team comes to Commonwealth Stadium to kickoff the football season with the Wildcats. Kentucky is heavily favored. UK squeaks by with an unimpressive victory.

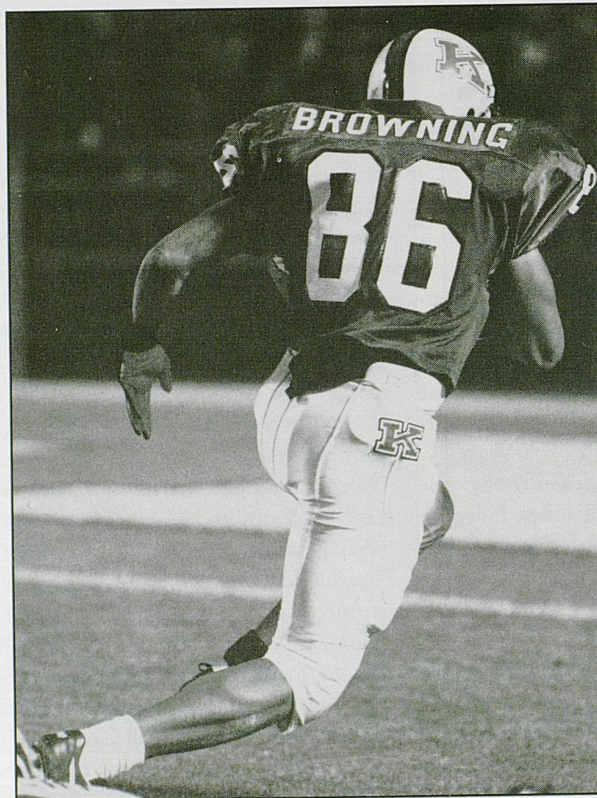

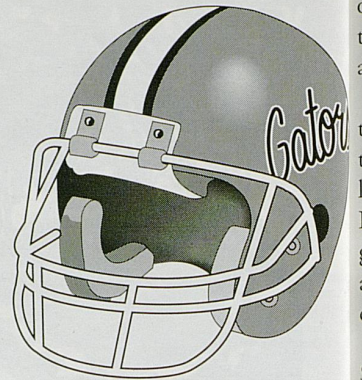

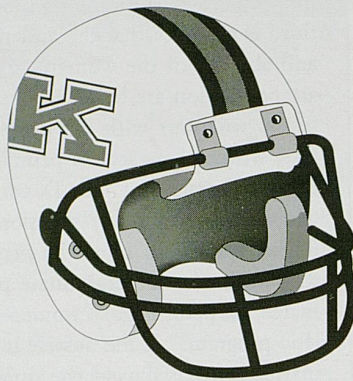

It's happened the past three years. In 1990 it was Central Michigan. Wildcats win, 20-17. In 1991 it was Miami (Ohio). UK wins, 23-20. In 1992 it was Central Michigan once again. This time Kentucky wins 21-14. Uninspired to say the least.

Last week Kent came to town for the opener, a team in a rebuilding mode and devastated by injury to boot. But here we went again. UK's first possession lasted all of four plays and five yards. The Wildcats' second possession went five plays and 20 yards. And the third possession looked to be just as lifeless.

Following four plays which produced two yards and two penalties, the Wildcats faced a third down and 18 and an almost certain third consecutive punting situation. But Pookie Jones hit Tim Calvert over the middle for 20 yards and a first down, finally giving the fans something to cheer about. Then, before the applause had completely died down, from out of nowhere, BANG! Jones found Alfonzo Browning over the middle and the receiver was off to the races. Fifty-six yards later, Kentucky held a 7-0 lead.

Early in the fourth quarter, Kentucky held a 14-0 lead. Victory was an almost certainty because of the stellar performance of the defense; however, the game had once again taken a ho-hum look to it.

But then, on its initial three possessions of the final stanza, UK scored to put the final nails in the coffin. The final:

Alfonzo Browning displayed his blazing speed last week versus Kent with a 56-yard touchdown reception

Kentucky 35, Kent 0.

The Wildcats were able to do something they couldn't do in previous years: put a team away. In doing so, they achieved the ball 13 times in his first game as a Wildcat. After a shaky start, he gained 65 yards, flashing the speed and quickness which had drawn rave reviews during summer work-outs. And Damon Hood pounded his way to 56 yards on nine carries. All in all it was an opening night full of successes.

Tonight the mighty Gators come to town for the first time since 1990, when they defeated Kentucky 47-15. Florida has left victorious six of its past seven visits to Lexington. However, the Wildcats have gone to Gainesville the past two seasons and given the Gators a run for their money, coming up short in each upset bid.

Last week Florida pounded Arkansas State, 44-6, amassing 513 yards in total offense. Quarterback Terry Dean took over the controls from three-year starter and two-time SEC Player of the Year Shane Matthews and didn't miss a beat. Dean completed 16-of-22 passes for 237 yards. Workhorse Errict Rhett appeared to be in mid-season form, gaining 108 yards on 16 rushes. And the Gator defense yielded only 89 yards.

UK's defense will face a stern test in Florida's "Fun 'N Gun" offense which has broken or tied seven SEC and 26 school records since the arrival of head coach Steve Spurrier. Dean's main targets will be Willie Jackson, who led SEC receivers with 66 catches and eight touchdowns last season, and Harrison Houston.

The Gators' "Stun-Gun" defense was inexperienced last season and as a result, not as fierce as when it led the SEC five of the previous 11 years. This year the squad is still young and highlighted by Ed Robinson and defensive back Larry Kennedy. Still, Florida will be a stern test for Jones and the Wildcat offense which totaled 506 yards against Kent.

Curry is the first to realize it won't be easy to defeat Florida:

"They've established themselves as one of the top programs in the country the last two years," said Curry. "They've always had great players, but now they have a sense of purpose that seems like it's heightened ... They were champions of our division last year when they were supposed to be rebuilding. They're through with the rebuilding and now they have 19 starters back and they've got a great team."

But a win tonight may just be the biggest night in the Curry era of Kentucky football. A win over top-10 Florida would be sweet, as in Sugar. Well, maybe that would be jumping the gun a bit, however, it's not unrealistic to say the Wildcats would be on their way to a winning season, and possibly more. 🐾

Pookie Jones was in complete control of the UK offense last week.

HIS TIME TO SHINE

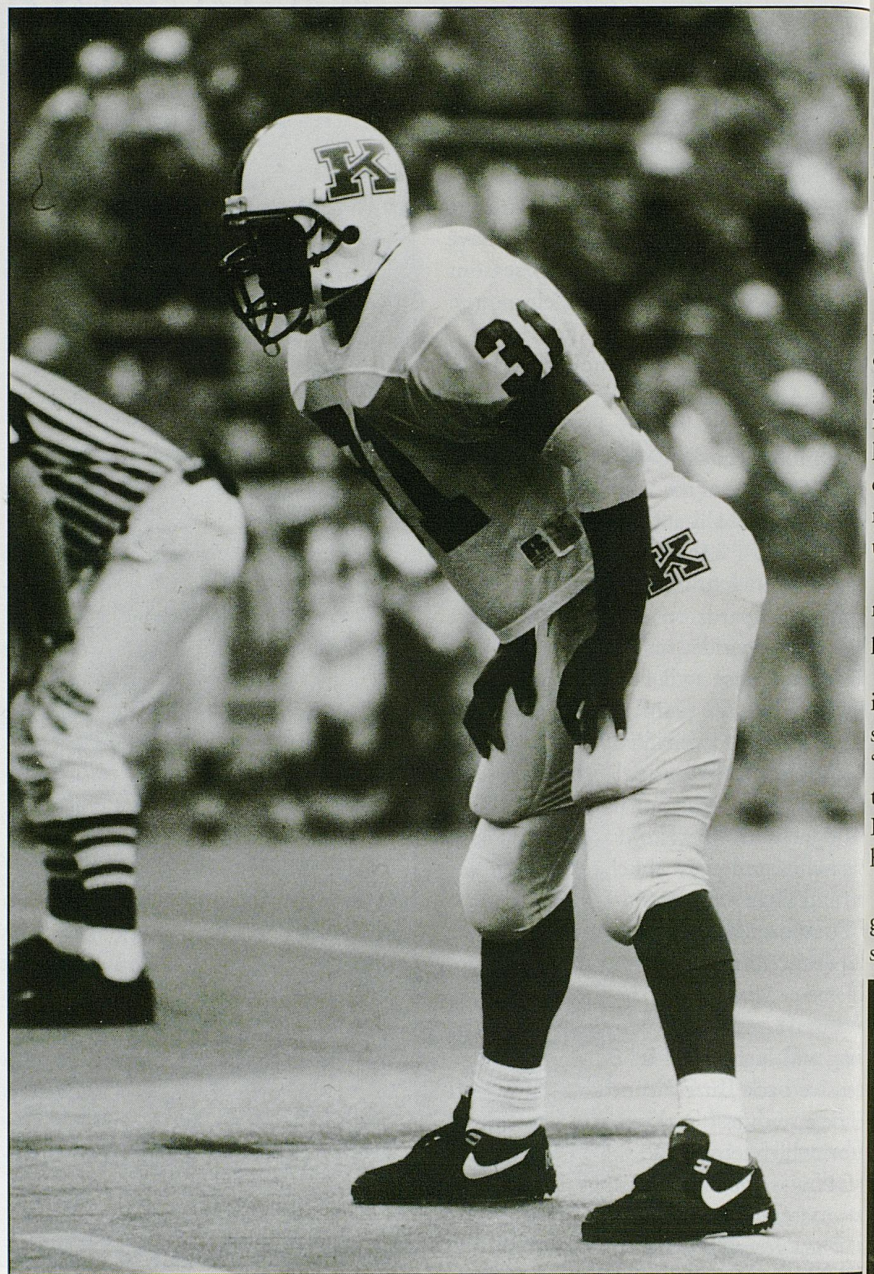

Fullback Damon Hood feels it's time to become a leader and reach his "potential"

By David Kaplan
Host Communications

Potential. The dreaded "P" word. It is defined as an individual's capacity for growth, development or progress. Often, an athlete is stuck with the tag of having unlimited "potential," then spends his career trying to live up to it. But how can something which is unlimited be reached?

Damon Hood came to the University of Kentucky with tons of "potential." And for good reason. He was the reigning Mr. Football from the state of Kentucky. As a senior for Warren Central High School in Bowling Green, Hood racked up 2,515 yards on 485 carries and scored 43 touchdowns. And Warren Central won the 4-A state title, literally on Hood's broad shoulders.

With those high school credentials, schools from around the country would have loved to have Hood and his unlimited potential. Most notably, Penn State's head coach Joe Paterno sought Hood's services. Paterno wanted Hood to become a Nittany Lion so badly, he made an 11th-hour visit to his home as one last effort to persuade the 18-year-old, something he does only for the student-athletes he wants the most.

But it was too late. Hood was sold on Kentucky.

"I think it was the players here when I came on my visit and the coaching staff," said Hood of his decision to attend UK. "With our new facilities, and the fact we graduate all our players, you're going to get a quality education here and you're going to have fun playing football, so I think that's an attractive thing."

So Hood headed to Lexington with tons of "potential" and expectations. He would be more powerful than George Adams. He would be flashier than Mark Higgs. Sonny Collins had best look out, his career rushing record would be in jeopardy.

And most importantly, Hood would help turn around the UK program. But it hasn't turned out as "expected" thus far.

"I came in with a lot of hype and really haven't done anything," admitted Hood. "I've been like a no-show."

Well, not a complete no-show. As a true-freshman, Hood started the first six games at tailback. He struggled initially but then displayed the power and quickness that earned him the status of being a highly-touted recruit. It seemed just a matter of time before he would become comfortable on the collegiate level and explode. That occurred in the sixth game against LSU. Hood gained 87 yards on 15 carries and scored a touchdown. But then, he suffered a sprained ankle that would sideline him for the rest of the game and the remaining five games of the season.

Last season, Hood hit pay-dirt five times, including the go-ahead score in UK's big victory at LSU. But with numerous running backs getting equal opportunity to carry the ball, he never got settled in, switching from tailback to fullback by season's end. He never gained his rhythm. Hood tallied 321 yards on 84 carries to place second on the team in rushing, but there was still a feeling of unfulfillment.

This season, Terry Samuels has been moved to tight end, clearing the fullback position for Hood.

"One thing we want to do with Damon is give him a position and let Damon work," said UK offensive coordinator Daryl Dickey. "Last year he played fullback and he played tailback and the same the year before, and Damon has really never had a place to call home. The fullback position is his."

The move was made in an attempt to get the best 11 players on the field at the same time. Samuels (6-2, 253) is a natural tight end. He has great hands which will allow him to be used as a weapon on short pass routes. And he is a tremendous blocker. Hood (6-2, 230) is a natural fullback.

The move also sent Hood a message.

"That tells me they have a lot of confidence in me," said Hood. "Plus it does put a little pressure on me. With Terry, there was a lot of experience playing between me and him both at fullback. But since I'm the only one experienced now, I kind of have to teach the younger guys about the system and it puts a burden on me as far as being a leader. I haven't been a leader but this spring I became very vocal because I had to for our young fullbacks."

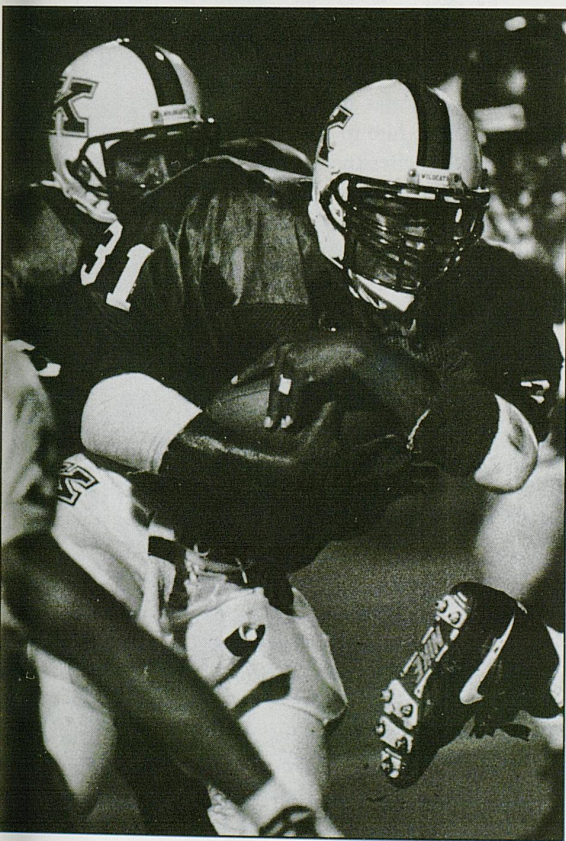

Comfortable with the position change and his new role as a leader, Hood knows he must begin to reach his "potential."

"This year I just want to produce in some way or somehow. I really just want to step my game up. I've played kind of lackadaisically in the past, but now I want to do something and contribute so much. I really want to make some things happen — big plays."

But Hood understands football is more than an individual sport. He will need help from his teammates.

"I'm very confident I'll be able to get the job done," said Hood. "But I've got a whole group and a lot of great players behind me. They're going to push me and I'm going to push them, but I'm ready."

For the UK program to succeed, it is crucial for players like Hood, the best in the state of Kentucky, to stay home and attend Kentucky. Hood was the second Mr. Football from Kentucky to select UK. The first was Pookie Jones. And last year's top player from the state, Billy Jack Haskins, chose the Wildcats as well. Why is UK able to land the best of the home grown talent now? Hood lends his insight:

"I think Pookie set it off when he first signed here and then I signed here. It (top players attending UK) gives players confidence that something is going on in Kentucky because most of the time we lose the Mr. Football (from Kentucky) that goes somewhere else. That tells kids around here that something is going on here at Kentucky and they ought to come check it out."

Even with all the hype Hood received before coming to UK, he thinks of himself as just another Wildcat.

"I'm just plain Damon Hood, UK football player. I don't feel any pressure being a former Mr. Football from Kentucky."

The clock is ticking. Time is running out for Hood to reach his unlimited "potential" and make his mark at UK. It is his time to shine:

"This is my third year. I have two more years to play football in my life and I'm going to make it the best two years it can be." 🐾

COMMITTED TO EXCELLENCE

Defensive end Zane Beehn strives to be the best he can be, on and off the field

By Brant Welch
Host Communications

Life is full of obstacles for everyone. For a defensive end, obstacles are usually burly offensive linemen whom they butt heads with on Saturday afternoons.

Zane Beehn, a UK senior defensive end, has faced and conquered an obstacle that is even bigger than a 6-6, 275-pound adversary in the trenches. Beehn stared the learning disability dyslexia in the face and came away victorious.

"When he was five I was told he would never learn," said Beehn's mother, Kay Curcio. "I told the doctors 'never' is not in our vocabulary."

And it wasn't.

Beehn is on schedule to graduate from UK in May with a degree in Communications, in which he currently sports a grade point average of better than 3.0.

"He really had to work hard," she said. "In high school he would come home and study after football games until one or two o'clock in the morning. Then he would get up early the next morning and go at it again. He was very dedicated."

Curcio, who is not a bad athlete in her own right, winning an Olympic medal winner in the long jump for Great Britain in 1952, said her son was a born football player.

"He was an 11-pound baby and the doctor kid-dingly said that he was going to be a seven-footer," she said. "The day he came back from the hospital we set him down in front of the television and he watched the Pittsburgh Steelers. His favorite player was Mean Joe Greene. He was about nine when Joe Greene retired and I remember he cried."

Now Beehn wants to make the opposition cry.

He will have experience on his side this year with 32 games under his belt, 10 as a defensive end.

"I try to be a leader on the field since I am a fourth-year player," said the 6-4, 260-pound Owensboro native. "I could see a big difference in my game this spring so I'm looking forward to this season." He played well enough to earn UK's defensive Make A Difference Award during the 1993 spring drills.

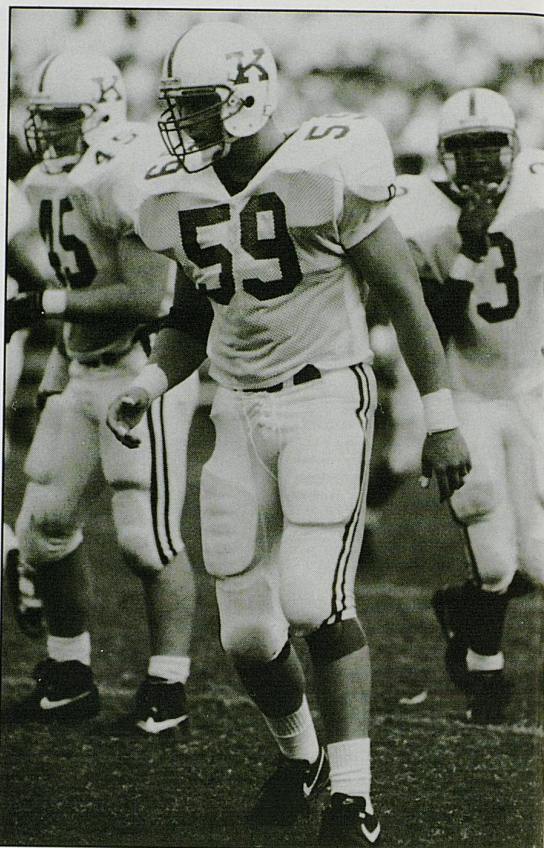

Beehn, who also played baseball and basketball at Owensboro Apollo H.S., hopes to improve a defense that has statistically finished last in the Southeastern Conference the past two seasons. He feels this is the year that UK elevates from the cellar.

"We have a lot of seniors on defense, so this is the year," he said. "We will be much more aggressive going for the ball but at the same time we won't gamble nearly as much."

Beehn arrived at UK in the fall of 1990 as a consensus first-team all-state selection. He was good enough that he wasn't red-shirted and got to play in all 11 games as a strike linebacker. He got his first start in the season-finale against Tennessee.

Beehn started four games during his sophomore season, amassing 46 tackles, six of which were for losses, and recording three sacks.

Injuries hampered Beehn throughout the 1992 season. He was unable to compete in spring drills prior to his junior campaign due to rotator cuff surgery on his right shoulder. The injury bug continued to hamper Beehn last fall, his initial year at the defensive end position, limiting him to 25 tackles and zero sacks. However, Beehn is happy to report a clean bill of health entering this season.

Beehn is also excited to have new defensive coordinator Mike Archer on the sidelines instructing the UK defense.

"Confidence is one thing Archer brings back to our defense," Beehn said. "We go out there and have a lot of fun. He loves coaching us and he never gets down."

Although Archer may be tough on Beehn and his teammates, he isn't the harshest critic.

"My mom's my biggest critic," he said. "After games she'll tell me what I did or didn't do."

But Beehn's mother was always behind her youngest son to take his part on the gridiron.

"I've always loved football," Curcio said. "I always backed Zane in his decisions. I am very proud of what he has accomplished." 🐾

Opponents will find it difficult to get past Zane Beehn

SCOUTING THE FLORIDA GATORS

By Jon Vaden
Host Communications

Historically, the Kentucky gameplan when facing the University of Florida in Lexington was to try to catch the warm-weather Gators hibernating on a late November day. Welcome to September and welcome to reality: If the Wildcats are to tame this mighty team, they'll have to do it on even terms. There'll be no snow or harsh winter winds to help them along.

Kentucky holds a 10-8 series edge at home, but the Gators are bringing a potent squad to town with an eye on narrowing that gap and galloping off to a good start in the Southeastern Conference race.

Florida is fresh off a powerful 44-6 victory over Division I-A doormat Arkansas State in Gainesville last weekend. That contest marked the debut of junior quarterback Terry Dean as a starter — significant because he's now the man at the only offensive position left open entering the 1993 season. The 10 other spots are ably filled by returning starters.

But there is a fair amount of pressure on Dean to produce at the same clip as his predecessor — SEC career passing leader and two-time SEC player of the year Shane Matthews.

"We believe Terry

Dean is ready to take over the starting position and be an outstanding quarterback," said head coach Steve Spurrier. "He has been in our system three years, understands the offense and can make all the throws."

Dean will have the advantage of working with a great bunch of receivers, one which Spurrier wouldn't trade with anybody.

"This is an exceptional group," Spurrier said. "This might be the best group in college football."

Heading the list are Harrison Houston, Aubrey Hill, Jack Jackson and 1992 SEC receiving leader Willie Jackson.

At tight end, 6-5 senior Greg Keller complements the speedy wide receivers with solid blocking and an occasional key catch.

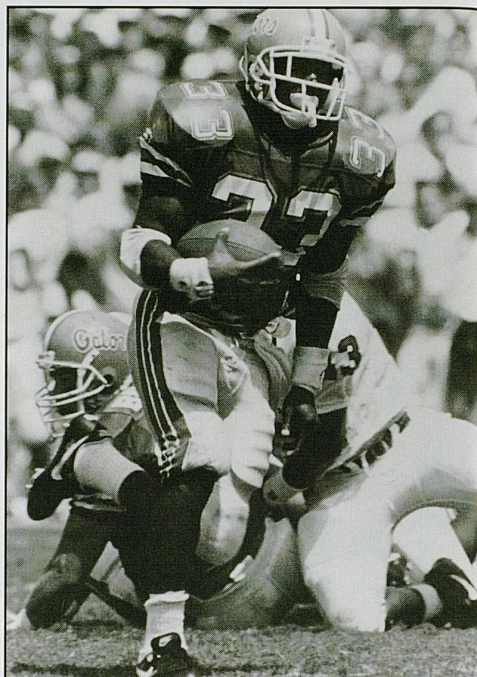

The offensive line was good but green last year. This year it is better seasoned and still plenty good. Reggie Green (6-7, 296) and Jason Odom (6-5, 288) will normally man the tackle slots, although Odom has been battling a back injury.

The 6-6, 278-pound Dean Golden lines up at left guard and is matched on the right side by Jim Watson (6-3, 289). Junior David Swain (6-3, 275) and senior Gantt Crouch (6-3, 263) are battling for time at center.

All that bulk provides a solid wall for senior running back Errict Rhett, who will be attempting to break Emmitt Smith's Florida career rushing record this season. Rhett entered the season needing 1,054 yards to catch Smith.

Some suggest Rhett had an off-year in 1992 when he rushed for "only" 903 yards, but the bruising 5-11, 214-pound back also hauled in 55 passes for 400 yards to more than compensate.

The Gators, as always under Spurrier's direction, are going to score a ton of points.

The key to their success will be preventing opponents from doing the same.

Senior running back Errict Rhett has his eyes set on Florida's career rushing record.

The defensive unit is young again this year and Spurrier knows the Gators need to improve on their 1992 ninth-place ranking in SEC defense if they are going to contend for the national title.

Entering the Arkansas State game, Florida listed 12 freshmen and sophomores on the two-deep defensive chart. The defensive backs are the least experienced group, but junior cornerback Larry Kennedy rates as a legitimate all-star candidate. The other players in the secondary are quick and talented but haven't proved themselves under pressure.

The linebackers look solid, with senior captain Ed Robinson garnering the most notice.

The defensive line is probably Florida's strong suit, where there are at least eight players competing for the four starting spots. Kevin Carter and Mark Campbell will probably start at the ends while Elliott Johnson and 6-5, 293-pound William Gaines likely will man the tackle spots.

WILDCATS GETTING DEFENSIVE

The UK coaches are adamant about improving the Wildcat defense

By Greg Herriford
Host Communications

Before we look at the present, let's take a quick look at the not-so-distant past and to Jerry Claiborne's football teams at the University of Kentucky during the better part of the 1980s. It won't be remembered as the greatest era of Kentucky football, but it was memorable nonetheless.

During Claiborne's eight seasons as Kentucky coach (1982-89), the Wildcats compiled a 41-46-3 record and made back-to-back Hall of Fame Bowl appearances in 1983 and 1984.

But the Ol' Iffin' Gang, named after that ol' Iffin' game that Claiborne always referred to, always had the knack of building your hopes, apparently being on the threshold of an upset victory, only to lose in the games' closing seconds and break your heart once again.

You remember the ol' Iffin' game. What if two Wildcat defenders hadn't collided in the end zone, preventing an interception and an upset over a powerful Florida team in Gainesville in 1985. What if Kentucky running back Mark Higgs could have broken the plane of the end zone in one of his four runs up the middle, trailing arch-rival Tennessee 24-20 with less than two minutes remaining in the 1987 Battle for the Beer Barrel. What if Kentucky could have stopped an Alabama touchdown in the final seconds of a 31-27 loss to a Bill Curry-coached Crimson Tide in 1988, a game UK led 20-7 during the fourth quarter. You get the picture, it goes on and on.

Along with the heartbreaks, the Ol' Iffin' Gang forged another lasting memory — a tenacious, hard-hitting defense.

Men like Oliver Barnett, Chris Chenault, Tony Massey, David Johnson, Tony Mayes, Ron Robinson, Brian Williams, Jerry Reese and Jay Dortch played on an often undersized and what some thought to be an out-of-date defense, the wide-tackle six. But they earned the respect of fans and opponents with their brand of defensive football.

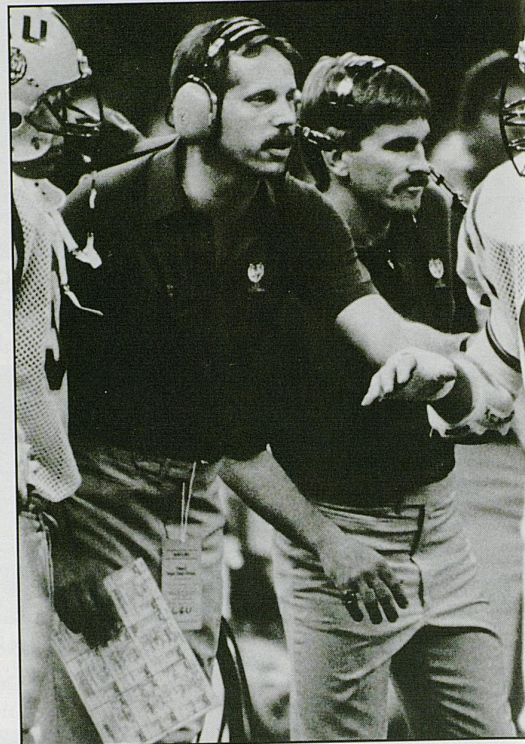

A man that can testify about the determination of the Ol' Iffin' Gang is Mike Archer. He faced Kentucky as head coach at LSU from 1987-90.

"We used to dread playing Kentucky because I always thought they were one of the more physical defenses in the Southeastern Conference. They blitzed a lot and every year we played them we always played poorly the next week because we were so physically beat up."

Now Archer, 39, finds himself on the Kentucky sidelines as the Wildcat defensive coordinator. His task will be turning around a defense that has been anything but stingy during the Bill Curry era. Last season, Kentucky finished last in the SEC in total defense, allowing 381.9 yards per game and last in scoring defense, yielding 25.4 points per game.

For Archer, a return to the playing style of the Ol' Iffin' Gang is in order. "They ran to the football and had a lot of pride," Archer said. "That's the thing we're trying to get back."

Confidence is another thing that Archer is trying to get back.

"The biggest thing we've been working on since the first day we got here is building our players' confidence that they're really better than what they think and believe or whatever has been said about them."

And Archer brings a new defensive system with him in his attempt to change the Kentucky attitude. UK will deep the multiple fronts used over the past three years and take on a 4-3 defensive alignment.

"What I'm sold on in the 4-3 defense is the multiplicity you can have out of it, yet it also simplifies it," Archer explains. "It's an easier defense to coach, yet it's also extremely multiple from an overall defensive concept."

Surprisingly, the new look will somewhat mirror the old.

"Some of the fronts we're going to use will look very similar to the wide-tackle six," Archer said.

For Archer, keeping football simple also means making it fun.

"I want football to be fun. I think players have to enjoy coming to practice, going to the Nutter Center and going to the meetings everyday. So I don't want it to be boring. I want them to be loose and confident, and I think that starts with me because that's how I am. If I don't point the confidence to them, then I can't expect them to go out and be the same way."

Along with confidence, Archer brings an impressive coaching background to Lexington.

After finishing his playing career as a three-year letterman at Miami (Fla.), Archer remained as a Hurricane assistant coach for eight years (1976-83). He coached the defensive backs for coach Howard Schnellenberger's 1983 Hurricane team that won the national championship.

In 1984, Archer joined Bill Arnsparger's staff at LSU, serving as defensive coordinator for two seasons (1985-86).

Archer got his first head coaching job when he took over the LSU program in 1987. In his four seasons at LSU, Archer went 27-18-1, leading the Tigers to a pair of bowl games and one SEC championship.

Being a head coach in the football-crazy SEC made Archer understand his profession better. "It helps you keep things in perspective. This is my job and it's very important. I want to win, but life goes on."

Over the past two seasons, Archer has coached the linebackers at Virginia. But Archer knows his impressive coaching résumé won't win one football game at Kentucky.

"I have very little to do with it. We will improve as a defense here, and we will become great on defense because of the attitude of the players."

Joining Archer in the revival of the Kentucky defense is a very capable staff.

Veteran Bill Glaser will coach the defensive line. Glaser, in his 17th season as a Kentucky assistant, has worked under three different Kentucky coaches — Fran Curci, Claiborne and Curry.

The defensive backs are coached by Rick Smith. Smith, who coached under Curry at Georgia Tech (1982-85), came to the Kentucky staff four years ago after coaching the defensive backs at Baylor.

The newcomer on the defensive staff is David Turner. The 30-year-old joins the Kentucky staff this year to coach the defensive ends.

Turner has spent the last two seasons as an assistant coach at James Madison.

Archer is quick to point out that the defensive staff will not be an Archer dictatorship. "I don't want 'yes' men. I want people who are going to suggest things and fight for what they believe in. I think all three of those gentlemen have done an excellent job in teaching this defense, and hopefully the results will show on the field on Saturday nights."

And if victory is the result, they'll owe a little credit to Claiborne's Ol' Iffin' Gang. 🐾

UK IN THE NEWS

Things Football

If your appetite for things football is just insatiable, you will definitely want UK's new picture book, "Then and Now," available from the Alumni Association for $39.95.

In addition to the many beautiful color photos of the University by Bill Luster, award-winning Courier-Journal photographer, the book takes you back with old photos to football scenes of the 1920s and '30s.

Among the golden oldies is a photo of the 1922 game against Centre College, a traditional UK rival. Centre was replaced by Tennessee as a major rival after the UK-Centre series ended.

'UK News' in fourth season

"UK News Report," a 30-minute newscast-style program produced monthly, enters its fourth season this month on 22 television and cable stations across the state.

The season premiere is noon Sunday, Sept. 19, on KET (11 a.m. Central time). Other airings will occur on local TV and cable stations throughout the following weeks (check local listings for the sched-

September's program will feature an interview with Rhoda-Gale Pollock, dean of the College of Fine Arts; a profile of multi-talented student Ervy Whitaker; a look at the new Nutter Fieldhouse and more.

Whitaker, a senior from Detroit, Mich., has an unusual combination of talents — competitive body building and opera singing.

What Class

The 1993 entering freshman class not only contains a record 68 National Merit Scholars, but also 125 Governor's Scholars, 94 valedictorians and 47 salutatorians.

Additionally, the average ACT score of the entering freshmen climbed a few hundredths of a point to 24.6 and the average GPA went to 3.34.

New African-American Faculty

At least 20 new African-American faculty members stepped into UK classrooms and laboratories in Lexington and across the state this fall, one of the largest groups in UK history.

On the Lexington Campus, 12 new African-American faculty members started work in the fall semester, bringing to 50 the number of African-Americans on the faculty.

"Our goal each year is to hire African-American faculty from the best graduate programs in the nation, and we've been successful," said Lexington Campus Chancellor Robert Hemenway. Forty-two have been hired on the Lexington Campus in the past four years.

Hemenway said

much of the credit for recruiting African-American faculty is due to a program operated from the office of President Charles T. Wethington Jr. The office funds the first-year salary of any newly hired African-American faculty member who is in a tenure-track position.

In the Medical Center, three new African-American faculty members were added this year including one of the best female African-American neurosurgeons in the nation.

UK People in the News

Harold Bennett of Lexington is taking trombone lessons from UK music faculty member Dale Warren. So, what's news worthy about that? Well, for one thing, we should have called it "refresher" trombone lessons considering Mr. Bennett was in UK's marching band in 1927. His current lessons are as a Donovan Scholar, a program which offers free classes to anyone over age 65 ... James Barker Hall, English professor, recently won a $5,500 fellowship for his photography entry in a Southern Arts Federation competition. 🐾

AROUND THE SEC

What's up with the nation's toughest conference

Compiled By David Kaplan
Host Communications

The Southeastern Conference has agreements to send five of its member institutions to postseason bowl games following the 1993 and 1994 seasons.

The winner of the SEC Football Championship Game will continue to serve as the host team for the USF&G Sugar Bowl in New Orleans, La.

The CompUSA Florida Citrus Bowl has the second selection. The Orlando, Fla., bowl will select from the following: (A) SEC Championship Game runner-up; (B) Conference team that has an equal or better overall record as the SEC Championship Game runner-up; (C) Conference team ranked within five places in the USA Today/CNN Coaches Poll of either participant in the SEC Championship Game as of the first Monday after the regular season ends. If presented with more than one option, the bowl will designate which team it will select that same day.

The Outback Steakhouse Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., will pick third; the Peach Bowl in Atlanta, Ga. will select fourth; and the Sunshine Football Classic will pick fifth for filling its Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., event.

Under NCAA postseason football rules, all teams in bowl games must win a minimum of six games against Division I-A opponents during the regular season. 🐾

THE UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

A Tradition of Value

From its modest beginnings in 1865, when it was known as State College, the University of Kentucky has grown into one of the nation's most outstanding institutions of higher learning. As a comprehensive land-grant university, UK offers an educational experience that cannot be matched anywhere in the Commonwealth. In fact, only a small number of institutions across the nation can offer the wealth of opportunities that await students at UK. At Kentucky, there is a tradition of value.

University History

UK was founded in 1865 as a land-grant institution, and the present name dates to 1916. The Lexington campus has 673 acres. Dr. Charles T. Wethington, Jr., is UK's 10th president.

Students

The University of Kentucky now has more than 72,000 students with 24,000 on the Lexington campus and 48,000 at the 14 community colleges across the state. UK now educates 40 percent of all students in Kentucky attending a public or private college or university. There are 5,100 students enrolled in graduate school with 95 master's and 59 doctoral programs offered.

Faculty

There are 1,643 full-time faculty on the Lexington campus and the Medical Center and another 1,096 faculty in the community colleges. Faculty brought in more than $95 million in grants, contracts and gifts to the University during the last academic year.

Academic Programs

Currently, there are 17 academic colleges and a graduate school on the Lexington campus. Students have a choice of more than 100 majors. The University is recommended in seven books or publications for its value in providing higher education.

Research

UK ranks among the Top 100 research institutions in the nation and is one of only 45 public universities in the United States — the only one in Kentucky — to be classified as a Research University of the First Class.

Library

The UK Library System contains more than two million volumes and is interconnected by computer with each of the 14 community colleges. The Library is ranked 34th among the top 108 university research libraries in the U.S. The University is planning to build a new $58 million state-of-the-art facility.

Historic Memorial Hall symbolizes UK's picturesque campus.

Medical Center

The Albert B. Chandler Medical Center, including a 461-bed hospital, is located on the campus in Lexington. More than 3,500 students are enrolled in its 14 colleges — medicine, dentistry, nursing, pharmacy and allied health professions.

Sports

The current number of UK sports at the varsity level is 21 — 10 men's sports, 10 women's sports and one coed sport. The men's sports consist of football, basketball, baseball, cross country, indoor/outdoor track, tennis, swimming, golf and soccer. For the women, UK sponsors basketball, volleyball, swimming, golf, tennis, gymnastics, cross country, indoor/outdoor track and soccer on the varsity level. The coed sport is rifle. 🐾

How A Little

Town In Kentucky Turned

Steel

Into Gold.

Congratulations to all Georgetown team members on achieving J.D. Power and Associates' prestigious Gold Plant Quality Award.

And not just any gold. This metal is far more precious. Because this gold is worth its weight in people.

Recently, J.D. Power and Associates awarded its prestigious Gold Plant Quality Award-North America to Toyota Motor Manufacturing in Georgetown, Kentucky. Ranking it as the auto manufacturing plant producing vehicles with the fewest reported problems in North America.

Impressive stuff. But not surprising, considering what we had to work with.

The dedication and commitment of the people of Georgetown.

OUR COMMITMENT TO AMERICA IS WORKING.

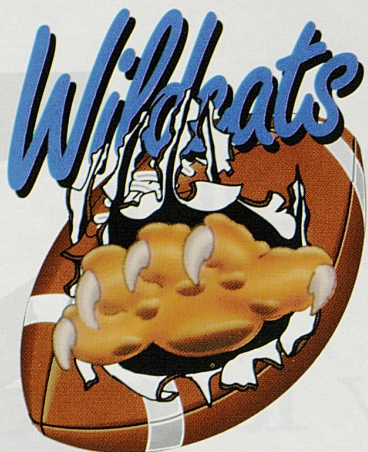

But Toyota Motor Manufacturing does more than win awards. By making most Camry Sedans and all Camry Wagons in Georgetown, selling them in America, and exporting them around the world, TMM has created jobs and economic opportunity that help benefit Kentucky, and America. Nearly 5,000 American men and women are employed at TMM/Georgetown. In addition, 58,000 people have benefited directly or indirectly through jobs in the 32 states and 174 American firms which supply TMM with parts and materials. All of which contributed, in 1992 alone, more than $1.5 billion to the Kentucky economy, and an additional $4.5 billion to the country as a whole.

So we congratulate everyone at Toyota Motor Manufacturing, for proving that when it comes to Georgetown, our commitment to America is working.

"I love what you do for me."

erseverance. Persistence. Tenacity. Steadfastness.

Those four words best describe the characteristics which must be engendered in the tireless efforts of program building. And when speaking of "program building" in Division I-A collegiate football, no one better understands the true meaning of those four terms than Bill Curry.

Program building has different meanings in different arenas. To some, program building is a fixed number of victories in season one, two, five or 50. Not with Bill Curry. It goes much deeper. The process enters the very souls of young people and touches their every angle.

"I'd like to say that I'm a person that really likes to serve young people," said Curry. "It is my wish to have every single one of them be the best they can be in every aspect of their lives, and that certainly includes a championship football program."

Curry's football pedigree weighs heavily in his expectations of championship performance. After all, he did play and work under three of the most successful coaches the game of football has ever known — Bobby Dodd, Vince Lombardi and Don Shula.

Curry, 50, lettered three years (1962-64) as a collegian at Georgia Tech under Dodd and served as team captain his senior campaign. Dodd compiled an impressive 22-year record of 165-64-8, including Southeastern Conference titles in 1951 and '52, at Georgia Tech.

After earning his bachelor's degree in industrial management from Georgia Tech in 1965, Curry began his professional career under Lombardi with the Green Bay Packers. He played on two Packer teams which won the National Football League title (1965-66), including the first Super Bowl, Jan. 15, 1967. The legendary Lombardi guided Green Bay to five NFL championships in seven years during the 1960s.

Following the 1967 season, Curry was traded to the Baltimore Colts and became All-Pro in 1971 and '72. His mentor for two seasons at Baltimore was Don Shula, who today is the winningest active coach in the NFL and has appeared in more Super Bowls (six) than any other coach.

Those qualities opened the eyes of UK Athletics Director C.M. Newton when he began his search in December 1989 to replace Jerry Claiborne, who stepped down after eight seasons with the Wildcats. But Newton took an interest in another side of Curry.

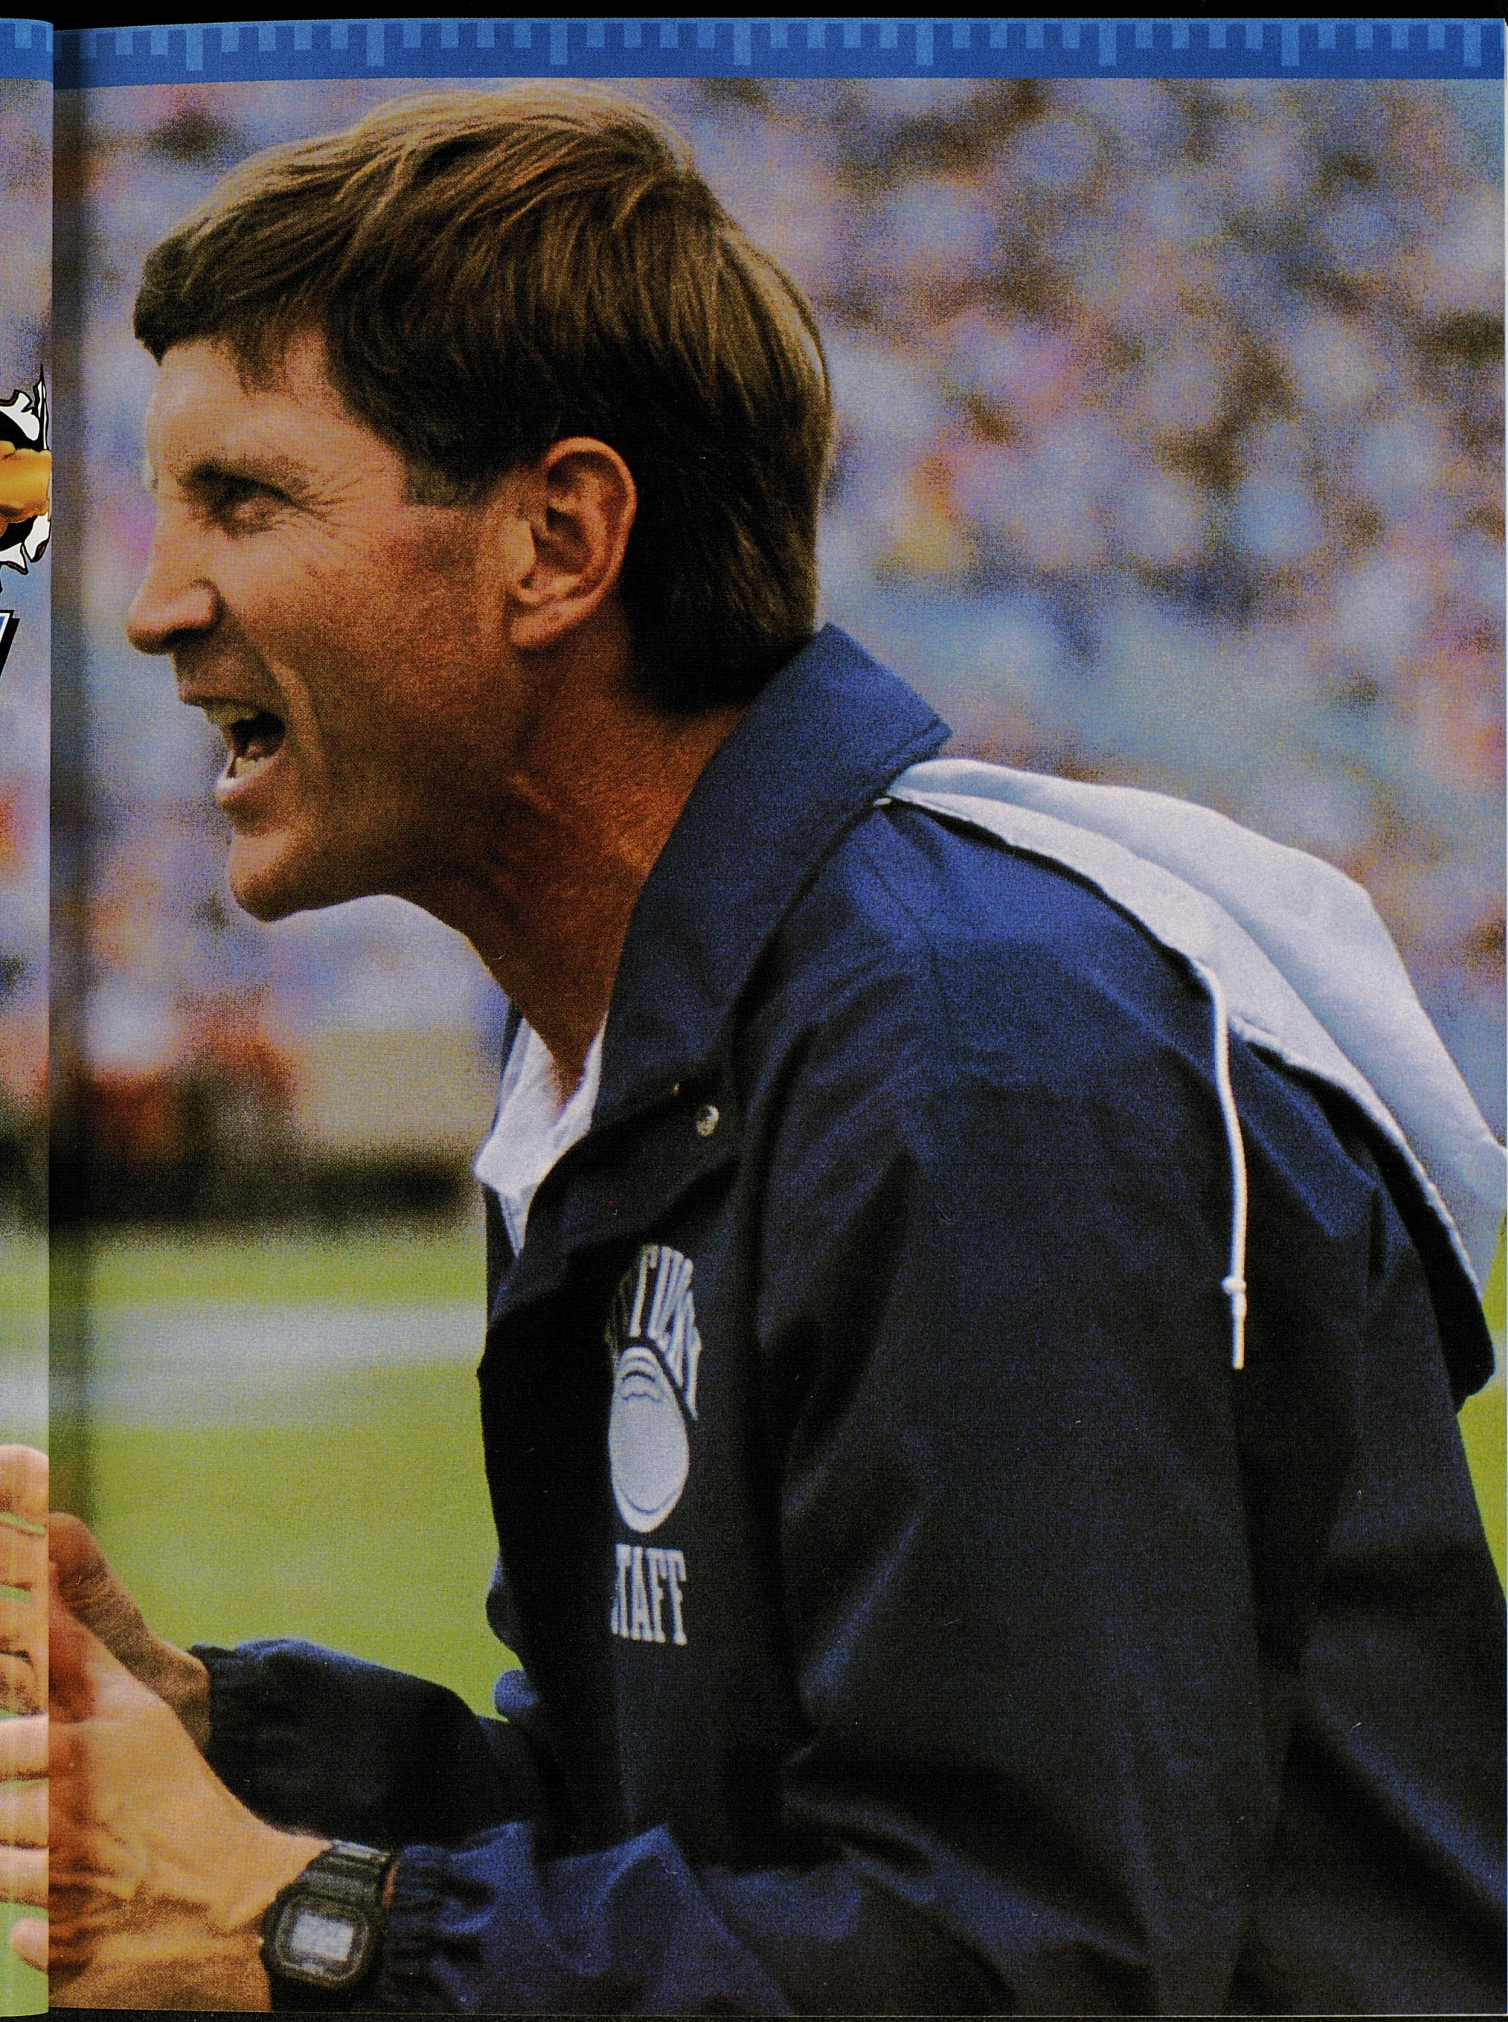

"William A. (Bill) Curry is recognized by many to be at the very top of his profession," said Newton during his introduction of Curry to the media. "He has been credited for dignity, class and integrity with which he conducts his football programs, both on and off the playing field."

Curry has that rare mix of both worlds.

He came to Kentucky from the University of Alabama. His overall record of 26-10 at 'Bama was the Crimson Tide's most successful three-year total since Paul "Bear" Bryant compiled a 27-8-3 record in his final three campaigns (1980-82). In his last season, Curry led Alabama to a 10-1 regular-season mark and a share of the SEC title. He took three Crimson Tide teams to bowls — the 1987 Hall of Fame

HEAD COACH BILL CURRY

Bowl, the 1988 Sun Bowl and the 1990 USF&G Sugar Bowl.

In all, Curry owns a 68-75-4 record in 13 seasons as a collegiate head coach.

Curry, a native of College Park, Ga., signed a scholarship with the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets after a fine prep career at College Park High School. At Georgia Tech, Curry helped lead the Yellow Jackets to a 21-9-1 record and a Bluebonnet Bowl berth during his final three seasons.

Before his professional career was over 10 seasons later, Curry played at Green Bay (1965-66), Baltimore (1967-72), Houston (1973) and with the Los Angeles Rams (1974). Curry was a member of three Super Bowl teams and two National Football League Championship teams. A knee injury forced him to retire in 1975.

A year later, Curry was back at his alma mater as an assistant coach under Pepper Rodgers. Then in 1977, Curry returned to the pro ranks as an offensive line coach with the Green Bay Packers under former teammate Bart Starr. Curry answered Georgia Tech's call once again in 1980, this time as head football coach.

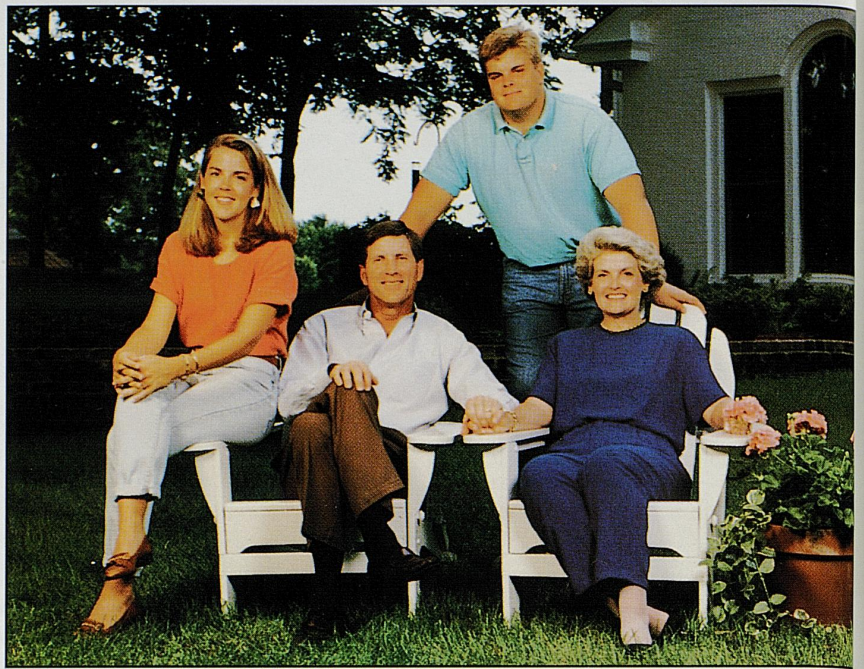

Facing a pair of daunting schedules, Curry and Tech turned in 1-9-1 and 1-10 records in 1980 and '81, before things began to change in 1982. During his final five years at Tech, Curry produced a 29-24-3 ledger which included a sparkling 9-2-1 season in 1985. The successful '85 campaign earned Tech an All-American Bowl bid and victory over Michigan State, 17-14. It was Georgia Tech's first bowl appearance since 1978.

Curry was named the 1985 Atlantic Coast Conference Coach of the Year by the Associated Press and ACC sportswriters, the 1987 SEC Coach of the Year by United Press International and the 1989 SEC Coach of the Year by AP and the Nashville Banner. Curry received a special honor after the 1989 season when he was named the Bobby Dodd National Coach of the Year, in honor of his former collegiate mentor.

Curry is a member of the NFL Former Players Advisory Committee and is serving his second term on the AFCA Ethics Committee. In 1992, he was inducted into the Georgia Sports Hall of Fame.

Curry is married to the former Carolyn Newton of College Park, Ga. Carolyn has a Ph.D. in history and teaches at UK. They have two children — Kristin, 26, and Billy, 22. 🐾

ASSISTANT COACHES

MIKE ARCHER
Defensive Coordinator/
Linebackers

Mike Archer is in his first season as defensive coordinator at Kentucky, 18th coaching the college game. He also coaches field goal/block teams and linebackers.

Archer came to UK following a two-year stint as linebackers coach at Virginia.

He lettered three seasons (1973-75) at Miami (Fla.) as a free safety and punter. As a senior, he was named Miami's Football Scholar Athlete of the Year.

Archer began coaching at Miami as a graduate assistant in 1976. He was promoted to a full-time position in 1979 and spent five seasons as defensive backs coach (1979-83) under Howard Schnellenberger.

He joined the Louisiana State coaching staff, headed by Bill Arnsparger, in 1984 as the Tigers' defensive backfield coach and served two seasons as the LSU defensive coordinator (1985-86).

Archer, 39, served four seasons as head football coach at Louisiana State (1987-90). He led the Tigers to a 27-18-1 record and two bowl appearances in addition to the Southeastern Conference title in 1988. 🐾

DARYL DICKEY
Offensive Coordinator/
Quarterbacks

Daryl Dickey is in his first season as offensive coordinator and his fourth year at Kentucky. He also serves as UK quarterback coach.

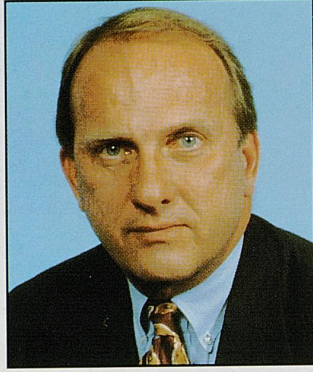

Dickey, 32, is in his fifth year as a collegiate assistant coach.

Most Kentuckians remember Dickey from his collegiate days as quarterback of the Tennessee Volunteers. In 1985, Dickey helped lead the Vols to a 9-1-2 record and the Southeastern Conference title. He was named most valuable player in the 1986 USF&G Sugar Bowl after engineering Tennessee's 35-7 victory over Miami (Fla.).

Following a brief stint with the San Diego Chargers of the National Football League, Dickey returned to his alma mater as a graduate assistant coach for two years (1987-88).

He then moved to Florida State, where he coached quarterback Peter Tom Willis during the 1989 season. Dickey helped Willis earn a No. 7 ranking nationally in total offense and passing efficiency while Florida State went 10-2.

Under Dickey, Kentucky has thrown for more than 2,000 yards in two of the last three seasons. The Wildcats threw for 2,151 yards in 1990 and 2,017 yards in 1991, second and third, respectively, on the Kentucky season charts. 🐾

RAY DORR
Runningbacks

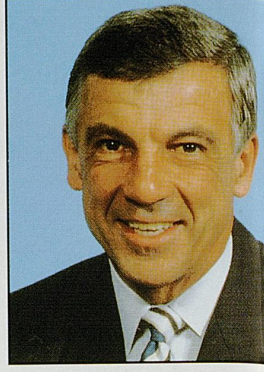

Ray Dorr is in his first season as an assistant football coach at UK and 27th in collegiate coaching. His responsibilities will include coaching the UK runningbacks and punters and coordinating film exchange with opponents.

The 1965 graduate of West Virginia Wesleyan comes to Kentucky from Southern California, where he served five years as an assistant coach.

Dorr began his coaching career in 1965 at Wadsworth High School in Akron, Ohio. He spent two seasons at Wadsworth before taking a position as graduate assistant coach at the University of Akron in 1967. He became a full-time assistant at Akron the following year.

Dorr began a 13-year stint as an assistant under Don James in 1971 when he accepted the position of quarterbacks coach at Kent State. He moved to Washington with James in 1975. The Huskies appeared in six bowl games during that span, including three Rose Bowls.

In 1984, Dorr took over the helm at Southern Illinois, where he posted a 17-27 record in four years. 🐾

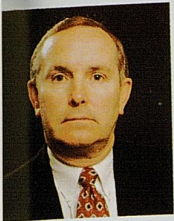

BILL GLASER
Defensive Line

Bill Glaser is in his 17th season as an assistant football coach at the University of Kentucky and his 18th as a college coach. His responsibilities include coaching defensive tackle, coordinating special teams, and coordinating the annual Curry Football Camp during each summer.

Glaser, 50, came to Kentucky in 1977 from Morehead State, where he has worked for three head coaches at UK — Fran Curci, Jerry Claiborne and Curry. Glaser was only full-time UK assistant coach retained by both Claiborne and Curry.

After graduating in 1965 from Bellarmine College, Glaser began coaching at St. Xavier High School, his alma mater, as an assistant football and baseball coach. He was named head football coach in 1974 and led St. Xavier to consecutive state titles and a two-year slate of 25-0.

Glaser was named defensive coordinator at Morehead State in 1976, where he completed work on a master's degree. A year later he moved to UK as defensive coordinator under Curci. In the Claiborne era, Glaser coached the defensive guards. 🐾

New York Life is large, conservative, and dull. Reassuring in times like these, isn't it?

Things are a bit shaky these days in the financial world. Investors are getting a lot less adventuresome. And words like "stability" and "security" are coming back into vogue.

To some, of course, this is just the current economic trend. But at New York Life, we've had a conservative investment policy for 148 years.

A policy that, over the years, has allowed New York Life to amass assets under management of more than $50 billion. And why 95 percent of the bonds in our portfolio are investment grade.*

Does that make us large and conservative? We should say so. And as for dull, well, we look at it this way: If being exciting means investing heavily in junk bonds that end up in default, that's the kind of excitement we can all do without.

RICK SMITH
Defensive Backs

Tommy Limbaugh is serving in his third season as assistant head football coach and his fourth campaign as football recruiting coordinator at UK. On the field, Limbaugh will serve as full-time assistant coach in charge of the tight ends.

Overall, Limbaugh enters his 19th year in intercollegiate athletics and his 11th season as a college assistant coach. He was the first member to be named to Curry's staff at UK.

The Wildcats' recruiting under Limbaugh has gained national attention. In fact, the 1991 UK signee class rated 13th in the country by National High School Football Magazine (Max Emfinger). The 1992 class was rated 19th by the same publication, and the 1993 class ranked 13th.

Limbaugh comes to UK from Alabama, where he had been associate athletics director since 1988, after being named assistant AD the previous year.

The 1967 Alabama graduate got his start in the college football coaching ranks as an assistant to Steve Sloan at Texas Tech (1975-77). He then served as administrative assistant and recruiting coordinator during Sloan's next two stops — Ole Miss (1978-82) and Duke (1983-86). 🐾

Joker Phillips begins his third season as an assistant coach at Kentucky. His responsibilities include coaching flankers and split ends, along with the kickoff return team.

Phillips, a 1986 graduate of Kentucky, was a four-year letterman as a wide receiver. During his career (1981-84), Kentucky appeared in the 1983 and '84 Hall of Fame Bowls. Phillips' best season was 1984, when he grabbed 28 receptions for 305 yards and five touchdowns. Currently, Phillips ranks sixth on the UK career reception list with 75 catches for 935 yards and nine touchdowns.

He played briefly in the National Football League and the Canadian Football League and was a member of the 1987 Washington Redskins team which won Super Bowl XXII.

Phillips began his coaching career as a graduate assistant coach at Kentucky (1988-89) under Jerry Claiborne and was responsible for the receivers. In 1990, he was named assistant recruiting coordinator under Bill Curry. He also worked with UK recruiting coordinator Tommy Limbaugh and coordinated the Wildcats' walk-on program. 🐾

Don Riley begins his second season as an assistant football coach at UK and 29th season in college football. In addition to directing the offensive line, Riley also coordinates the field goal/PAT teams.

The 1956 graduate of East Tennessee State came to Kentucky from his alma mater, where he spent four years as head football coach.

Riley began his coaching career in 1956 as head football coach at his prep alma mater, Lynch High School. After three years, Riley moved to East Tennessee State for one year as a graduate assistant coach. After five more years in the high school ranks, Riley took an assistant spot at Vanderbilt in 1966. He accepted another assistant coaching job in 1972 at Oklahoma State.

In 1976, Riley began a 12-year stint as the offensive line coach at UCLA under Terry Donahue. He was part of the Bruin program which posted a 98-36-7 record during that span, including a 6-2-1 record in nine bowl appearances. When he left for East Tennessee State, Riley was the only assistant to remain from the original 1976 Donahue staff. 🐾

Rick Smith is in his fourth season at UK, his 14th overall as a collegiate assistant coach. He is responsible for coaching the defensive backs and kick coverage teams.

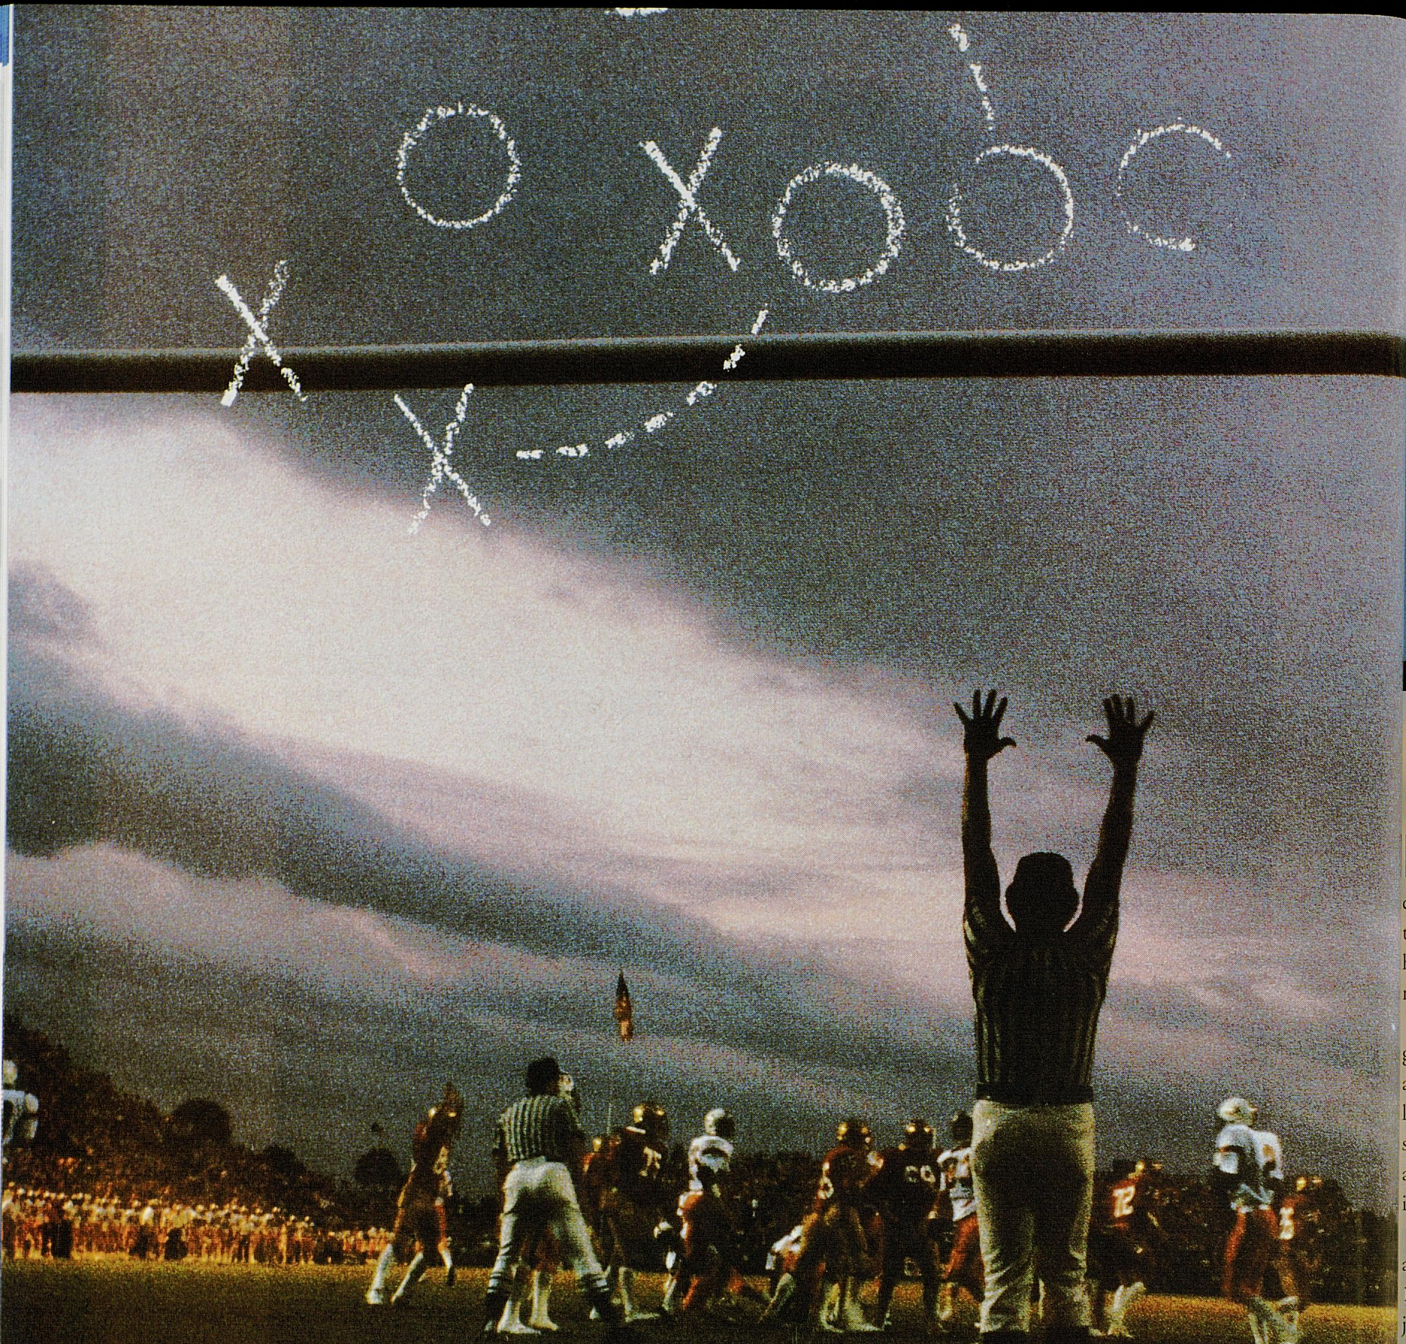

He comes to Kentucky from Baylor, where he was defensive backfield coach for three years.

Smith, 45, began coaching football at Godbey High School in Tallahassee, Fla., in 1970, a year before he graduated from Florida State University. After three years at Godbey, Smith was named athletics director/head football coach at Wakulla (Fla.) High School in 1973.

Four years later, Smith served a year as head junior varsity football coach at Georgia Tech. The following year, he served as an assistant coach at East Tennessee State.

His final high school job began in 1979 at Marianna (Fla.) High. Smith again doubled as AD/head football coach at Marianna through the spring of 1982, when he left for Georgia Tech to become Bill Curry's defensive backfield coach. In 1986, Smith moved to Alabama under Ray Perkins for one year.

Smith moved to Baylor in 1987, where the secondary quickly became one of the most respected units in the nation. 🐾

ASSISTANT COACHES

DAVID TURNER
Defensive Ends

JACK FLIGG
Assistant Athletics Director/
Football Operations

David Turner begins his first season at UK, his eighth as a collegiate assistant coach. In addition to coaching defensive ends, he also coordinates the punt return unit.

Turner, 30, a 1985 Davidson graduate, comes to UK following a two-year stint as outside linebackers coach at James Madison. He helped lead the Dukes to a 9-4 record in 1991 and a berth in the NCAA I-AA playoffs.

He began his coaching career at his alma mater, Davidson, in 1986. After two years, Turner joined coach Dick Sheridan as a graduate assistant at North Carolina State.

In 1990, Turner was named assistant coach at Division II powerhouse Indiana (Pa.) University. He served as defensive line coach as the Indians posted a 12-2 record before losing to North Dakota State in the Division II championship.

Turner, a native of Goldston, N.C., earned three letters as a running back at Davidson. He led the Wildcats in rushing and receiving as a senior and was a three sport standout (football, basketball, baseball) at Chatham Central High School in Bear Creek, N.C.

Jack Fligg is in his third year as assistant athletics director for football operations after serving one year as the UK Football administrative assistant. His primary responsibilities include coordinating football operations and the major administrative duties of Coach Bill Curry.

Fligg begins his 28th year in intercollegiate athletics. He came to Kentucky from Alabama where he spent three years as an administrative assistant. He officially became a member of the UK staff in January of 1990.

Prior to his administrative appointments, Fligg spent 22 years as an assistant coach at four schools — Georgia Tech (1965, 1984-86), West Virginia (1966-69), Texas Tech (1970-74) and South Carolina (1975-82).

C.M. NEWTON

Director of Athletics

When Charles Martin (C.M.) Newton became the University of Kentucky's seventh director of athletics April 1, 1989, he hit the ground running.

After a little more than four years on the job, Newton has become one of the most popular public figures in the Commonwealth of Kentucky. In addition to a lengthy, impressive list of credentials, Newton brought to Kentucky a sparkling reputation of integrity at a crucial time in the history of UK athletics. In accepting the position at his alma mater, Newton summarized his goals and objectives by saying, "I have a resolve to try very hard to continue that great tradition, and at the same time, to totally do it within the NCAA and SEC rules and not sacrifice the academic integrity of this University."

He capped an illustrious basketball coaching career by leading his 1988-89 Vanderbilt University squad to a 19-14 record, a second-place SEC finish and its second consecutive NCAA tournament appearance. He was named SEC Coach of the Year by the Associated Press and received the Kodak NABC District IV Coach of the Year award.

Newton served as head basketball coach and associate athletics director at Vanderbilt (1982-89), compiling a 129-115 overall record. In 32 years of coaching at Transylvania, Alabama and Vandy, Newton compiled a 509-375 overall record, ranking him among the top 10 active coaches in the game in terms of total victories at the close of the 1988-89 season. Newton's Alabama teams won three consecutive Southeastern Conference championships.

Perhaps more impressive, however, was Newton's ability to produce winning teams that also possessed exceptional academic credentials. During Newton's tenure at Vanderbilt, 18 Commodores were named to the Academic All-SEC team — over 50 percent more than any other league school. And including his last graduating class, all 21 seniors received their diplomas.

Newton is highly regarded on the national level. He has served on the board of directors of the National Association of Basketball Coaches. He worked six years on the NCAA Basketball Rules Committee, serving as chairman for five years. He currently serves as president of USA Basketball, the nation's governing body for international basketball, and as chairman of its Games Committee, which is responsible for all international competition, including the Olympic Games. He is also a member of the prestigious NCAA Division I Basketball Committee, and is chair on a NCAA committee on basketball issues.

Newton has literally circled the globe to promote basketball. He served as team manager — a combination coaching and administrative position — on the 1984 U.S. Olympic team that won the gold medal.

In 1983 and 1987, Newton took his Vanderbilt squads to the Republic of China (Taiwan) to represent the United States in the R. William Jones Cup International Tournament, winning the gold medal in 1983 and the silver in 1987. He has conducted coaching clinics in numerous countries.

After playing on the 1951 national champion Wildcat squad and pitching in the New York Yankees' minor league system, Newton began coaching at Transylvania College (now Transylvania University) in Lexington.

C.M. Newton is known throughout the U.S. as a man of integrity.

In 1969, with the backing of Adolph Rupp, Newton took on the challenge of building the downtrodden Alabama basketball program. During his 12-year tenure, Newton orchestrated a turnaround in the Crimson Tide's basketball fortunes, compiling a 211-123 record.

With few horizons left to conquer in Alabama, Newton resigned at the end of the 1980 season to accept a job as assistant commissioner of the Southeastern Conference. A year later, when Vanderbilt athletics director Roy Kramer was searching for a coach of national stature to head the Commodore basketball program, Newton was the man for the job.

Newton was born in Rockwood, Tenn. He grew up in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where he was eventually named charter member of that city's Sports Hall of Fame, along with Chris Evert, Julie Boros and the late Brian Piccolo.

Newton and his wife, Evelyn, have three grown children — Deborah, Tracy and Martin — and four grandchildren.

COMMONWEALTH STADIUM

Home of the Kentucky Wildcats

When it comes to football, Kentucky-style, there is certainly no better place than home — Commonwealth Stadium.

The stadium was built in 1973 at a cost of $12 million by the firm of Huber, Hunt and Nichols, Inc. Commonwealth, including parking areas, rests on an 86-acre plot of what was once the UK Experimental Station Farm grounds.

The stadium took on a new look in 1990 with the addition of a $600,000 scoreboard and message center located in the north end zone. The scoreboard is 19 by 78 feet in size, almost 3.5 times the size of the original scoreboard which had been in place since 1973.

The stadium was officially opened September 15, 1973. The Wildcats moved into their new home after spending 48 years at Stoll Field/McLean Stadium across from Memorial Coliseum. Kentucky defeated Virginia Tech in the stadium-opener, 31-26, behind three touchdowns by quarterback Ernie Lewis.

Since its opening, Kentucky has fashioned a 71-50-4 record and .584 winning percentage. The Wildcats have averaged 55,133 spectators for contests at Commonwealth since its inception. In total, 6,891,664 spectators have witnessed Kentucky football at Commonwealth Stadium — that's about 1.8 times the population of Kentucky.

Commonwealth Stadium can officially seat 57,800 fans, though standing-room only crowds exceed that figure. Most sat but many of the stadium-record 58,450 spectators stood to watch the Wildcats defeat rival Indiana, 37-25, Sept. 19, 1992.

UK plans to eventually enclose the south end of Commonwealth Stadium to bring its capacity to 72,000. The addition of luxury suites and boxes is also in the plans. 🐾

UK INDOOR FIELDHOUSE

University of Kentucky Athletics Director C.M. Newton has called this $8.5 million facility the final piece of the puzzle. Finally, the University of Kentucky Athletics Association has an indoor fieldhouse which can accommodate the year-round needs of 11 Wildcat sports — football, baseball, gymnastics, men's indoor/outdoor track, women's indoor/outdoor track, men's and women's golf and men's and women's soccer.

"In my opinion, we already have in place the finest coaches in the country," Newton said. "The addition of this indoor facility, which I consider the final piece of the puzzle, means we have the ability to attract the finest student-athletes.

"The facility is a multi-purpose building, something which will be a tremendous boost to all of our programs."

The indoor facility, constructed by Ce.Pennington General Contractors, encompasses more than 132,000 square feet and is located adjacent to Commonwealth Stadium behind the south end zone in the game-day Yellow Lot. For size comparison, UK's E.J. Nutter Football Training facility is only 48,000 square feet.

"This facility was very crucial in the expansion of our facilities base," UK head football coach Bill Curry said. "I consider this indoor practice facility to be the finest of its kind in the world. With our weather and being the northern-most state in the Southeastern Conference, we have needed a facility of this magnitude.

"We have also needed the indoor facility to allow our skill-position players to work on their respective skills, so we can measure up to the rest of our league. The one thing our staff understands about our skilled athletes today is the importance of practicing every day. Our young men will now be able to do that."

The finest indoor practice facility in the nation rests on the campus of the University of Kentucky.

The indoor facility features an actual playing field area of 108,000 square feet, including a full-size artificial turf football field. The football field is surrounded by a six-lane, 290-meter track which expands to nine lanes down the straight-aways. Areas for the pole vault, high jump and long jump also are included. A 9,000-square foot gymnastics room is located in the front of the building and will serve as the UK GymCats home.

One of the most unique features of this multi-million dollar fieldhouse is the computerized netting system. This system will allow for different combinations of sports to practice safely, all at the same time, by dividing the playing field. The nets can be lowered to separate the entire playing field from the track, or form four batting cages for baseball or driving ranges for golf. The playing field can be divided in halves to create two football, soccer or baseball practice areas.

"This type of facility is also important for the togetherness of our athletics program," Curry said. "It allows us the opportunity to have everyone participating under one roof."

UK President Dr. Charles Wethington says this facility can also be utilized for faculty, staff and students in general.

"This facility is very significant not only to UK Athletics, but to the entire University of Kentucky community," Wethington said.

The height of the indoor facility is 72 feet at its apex. Inside, the netting clearance is approximately 65 feet. This height will allow punting (into the net system) and PAT/field goals during football practices. The playing field of the indoor facility runs perpendicular to the playing field of Commonwealth Stadium.

Also included in the facility is 3,000 square feet of office and lobby space for the facility manager, receptionist and coaches.

E.J. NUTTER CENTER

A State-of-the-Art Training Facility

One of the nation's showcase football facilities rests on the southeast corner of the University of Kentucky campus.

Indeed, the ultra-modern E.J. Nutter Football Training Facility ranks among the best in the nation.

Built at a cost of $5.7 million, the facility officially became the home of Kentucky Wildcat football in September 1987. The Nutter Center, as it is called on the UK campus, encompasses more than 48,000 square feet and is built adjacent to the Shively Sports Complex.

The Wildcat facility is named after Ervin J. Nutter, a UK alumnus who contributed $1 million to get the fund-raising campaign started for the construction to begin. The Nutter gift to the UK Athletics Association is the largest single grant ever received by the Association.

Aside from new dressing facilities which feature large, personal lockers for every Kentucky football player, the Nutter Center is highlighted by a 9,000 square foot weight room with more than 100,000 pounds of equipment. The center also houses 11 meeting rooms, a state-of-the-art video and editing room for coaches' film, equipment and training rooms, staff and player lounges, an interview area, a 60-yard sprint track, sauna and jacuzzi, an aerobic exercise room and three racquetball courts.

"It is a privilege to get to work in a facility such as this every day," said Bill Curry. "The planning and design with the student-athlete at heart is what we're about today." 🐾

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL NETWORK

Veterans Charlie McAlexander (L) and Ralph Hacker will again serve as announcers for UK games.

The University of Kentucky will again package one of the most comprehensive radio and television networks among Division I-A institutions.

Sports Communications, Inc., which owns the radio rights to UK football and basketball, has constructed a massive network. WVLK-AM/FM of Lexington will once again serve as the flagship station for the UK Football Radio Network. The feature attractions of the network are 50,000-watt radio stations WHAS (840 AM) of Louisville and WCKY (1560 AM) of Cincinnati. WHAS blankets over two-thirds of the United States and can be heard in 40 states. WCKY can be heard from numerous states as well.

The UK Football Television Network features full-game, tape-delay action of all Wildcat home football games which are not televised by a network affiliated with the CFA Package. The Network is also one of the nation's largest. Sports Communications, Inc., administers the network with WKYT-TV of Lexington as the telecast's producer.

This fall, Ralph Hacker will be behind the microphone once again to serve as the play-by-play announcer on the UK Radio Network. The president and general manager of Lexington radio station WVLK-AM/FM is joined by veteran broadcaster Charlie McAlexander, who served as Vanderbilt's play-by-play announcer for 14 years prior to joining the UK network last year, WKYT-TV's Dave Baker and WKYT-TV sports manager Dick Gabriel, who doubles as sideline reporter for both radio and television networks.

On television, McAlexander serves as play-by-play man with WKYT-TV sports anchor Rob Bromley providing color commentary and Gabriel reporting.

CENTER FOR ACADEMIC AND TUTORIAL SERVICES

The University of Kentucky keeps the term "student-athlete" in the proper perspective — student first, athlete second.

For that reason, the University of Kentucky Athletics Association opened the nation's first academic center for student-athletes in 1981. The academic center is simply known as CATS — Center for Academic & Tutorial Services.

CATS is located inside Memorial Coliseum. The center, designed with the student-athlete in mind, contains a large general study area, along with several smaller rooms used for tutoring.

CATS expanded during the past academic year and added a language library, additional tutoring rooms, a media center and a new computer facility.

"Our CATS is one of the best academic services in the land and that's based on results," UK coach Bill Curry said. "For Kentucky to be up there with Duke and Virginia and Notre Dame is a real tribute to first, the student-athletes, but also to our academic support staff headed by Bob Bradley."

Kentucky is in the same league with the aforementioned schools in winning the College Football Association Academic Achievement Award, given to the CFA school whose program has achieved the highest graduation rate in the nation. Kentucky won the honor in 1989 after graduating 90 percent of its 1983 freshman class. Kentucky is the only Southeastern Conference school to have won the award.

"We get more response from parents who visit us on the CATS program than any other part of our program," Curry said. "Parents are really excited about it."

Curry is also excited about the combined effort former UK coach Jerry Claiborne and his staff put forth during their tenure. Since 1980, Kentucky has placed 110 players on the All-Southeastern Conference Honor Roll — more than any league school in that period. In 1989, the Wildcats set a conference record with 17 players named to the SEC Honor Roll. And during the 1993 spring semester, UK football had 28 players achieve a 3.0 grade point average or higher.

"With winning the CFA award and leading the SEC in Honor Roll picks, it certainly let everyone know we were serious, and still are serious, about making sure our athletes receive their degree," Claiborne said. "A lot of the credit goes to our CATS Center staff. They do an excellent job in monitoring our student-athletes' academic progress from day one."

Bob Bradley, assistant athletics director for academics, supervises the CATS program. Bradley is assisted by Barbara Deniston, director of student-athlete development, her assistant, Sheila Breeding, and academic counselor Mike Haley. CATS also employs six graduate assistants and numerous tutors, both from the University and surrounding community. Currently, the UKAA budgets close to $500,000 per year for CATS.

"We are extremely proud of what we have accomplished in the academic arena," Bradley said. "The CATS program is focused on winning in the classroom. We look at each student-athlete's individual needs, set goals and develop strategies to attain those goals. Our center (CATS) provides our student-athletes with a definite advantage over student-athletes at many other institutions."

Bradley also says it helps to have head coaches like Claiborne and Curry who place such a strong emphasis on academics.

"Many support systems across the nation do an excellent job at helping their student-athletes," Bradley said. "I have been blessed at Kentucky in having Jerry Claiborne. He really believed in the student-athlete concept. The same holds true for Bill Curry. We are in total sync in the business of educating our student-athletes."

The philosophy at the University of Kentucky is this: Colleges should be able to afford the student-athlete every opportunity to succeed not only in athletics, but in academics as well. Looking at recent statistics in Academic Honor Roll selections and graduation rates, Kentucky is standing by its philosophy.

"We will continue to support our academic staff to the hilt," Curry said. "We're very excited about the work Bob Bradley and his staff have done. We will not accept anything less from our players. We talk about championship performance, we expect championship performance in academics, too." 🐾

The Wildcats have led the SEC in academic honors since 1980.

CHEERLEADERS & MARCHING BAND

Two of the nation's best groups line up beside the Kentucky Wildcats on football Saturdays each fall: the award-winning University of Kentucky Cheerleaders and Marching Band.

Under the direction of adviser T. Lynn Williamson and coach Glenn Cook, the UK Cheerleaders have become the model cheerleading squad in the United States. Four of the last nine years UK has earned the national cheerleading title. They were runners-up in 1988, 1990 and 1993.

This squad's ability to help bring the Wildcat crowd into the games and its precision stunts have become a trademark and a source of pride for the University.

The University of Kentucky Marching Band is recognized around the country for its sophisticated sound and visual images through innovative drill writing.

Under Director of Bands Richard S. Clary, Assistant Director Bradley P. Ethington, Percussion Coordinator James B. Campbell and Drill Designer's Fred

Gebhardt and John Laverty, UK Marching Band was one of the first in the nation to use computers exclusively for drill writing. An average halftime show will contain around 130,000 different moving sets for all members of the band, coordinated simultaneously with approximately 180,000 notes.

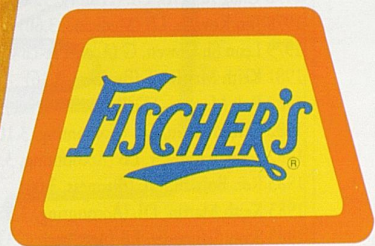

The University of Kentucky Marching Band numbers approximately 250, with members representing many different states. 🐾

The UK Band and Cheerleaders are among the nation's finest.

“Someday,” they said, “the energy used to run your home will run the family car.”

Well, someday is here with natural gas. Because, today, there are many innovative new uses for natural gas for home, business and industry.

In the home, you'll find advanced natural gas heating and water heating systems, ranges and fireplaces. Outdoor security lighting. Space heaters for indoors and out. Even natural gas powered generators to take over your electrical needs during an outage.

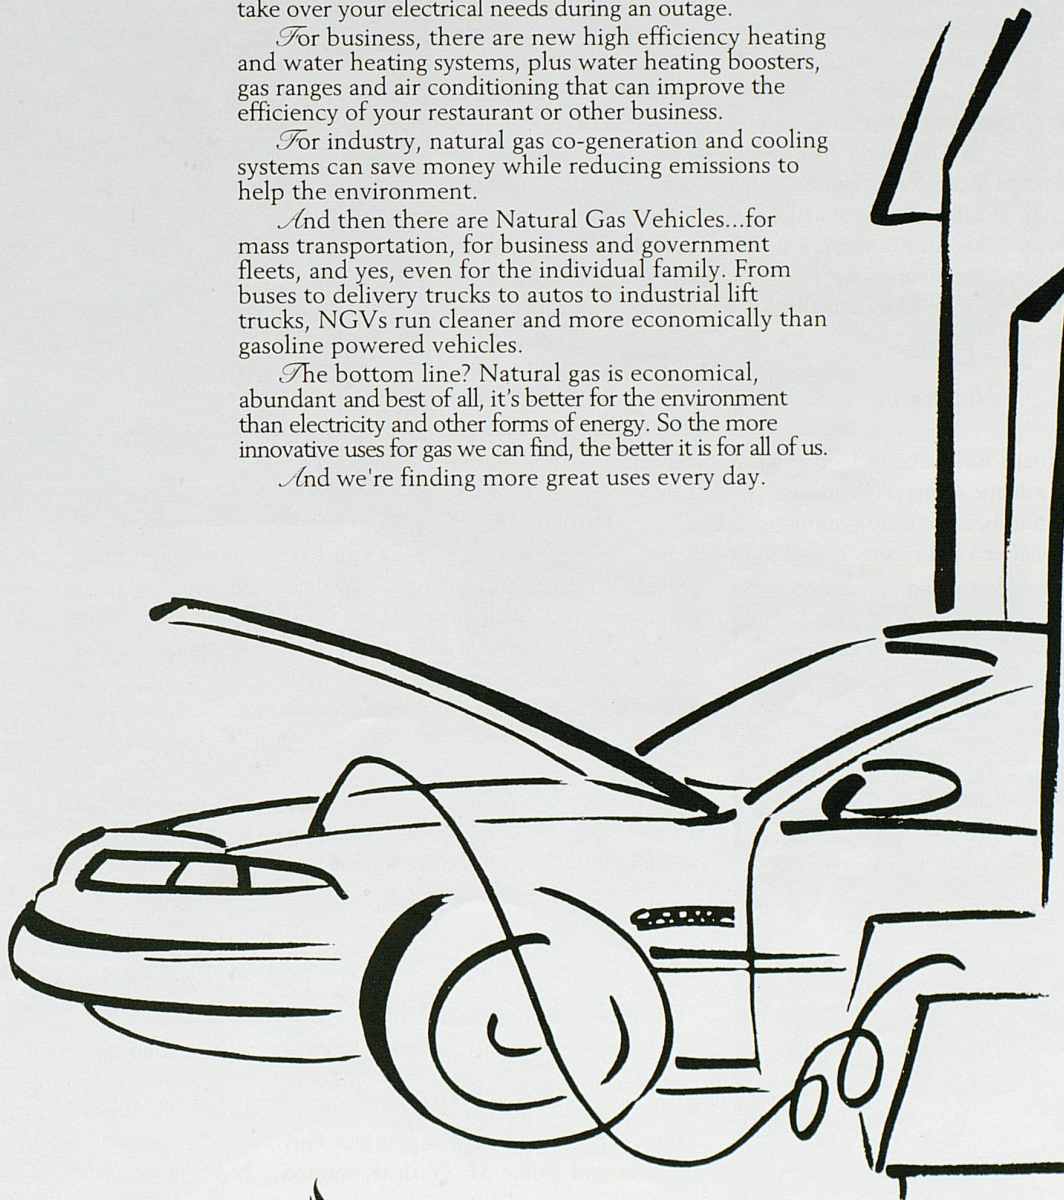

For business, there are new high efficiency heating and water heating systems, plus water heating boosters, gas ranges and air conditioning that can improve the efficiency of your restaurant or other business.

For industry, natural gas co-generation and cooling systems can save money while reducing emissions to help the environment.

And then there are Natural Gas Vehicles...for mass transportation, for business and government fleets, and yes, even for the individual family. From buses to delivery trucks to autos to industrial lift trucks, NGVs run cleaner and more economically than gasoline powered vehicles.

The bottom line? Natural gas is economical, abundant and best of all, it's better for the environment than electricity and other forms of energy. So the more innovative uses for gas we can find, the better it is for all of us.

And we're finding more great uses every day.

FOOTBALL TRADITIONS

Pride of Kentucky

Blue and White

The University of Kentucky adopted blue and white as its official colors in 1892. UK students had first decided on blue and light yellow before the Kentucky-Centre football game Dec. 19, 1891. The yellow was soon dropped from the combination and replaced by white.

The particular Kentucky shade of blue, close to royal blue, was determined without ceremony. After settling on the base colors, a student posed the logical question, "What color blue?" Letterman Richard Stoll looked down at his necktie and raised it to the air. The vote was unanimous.

And so Kentucky Blue is really Stoll necktie blue.

Nickname

The official nickname of University of Kentucky athletic teams is "Wildcats."

The name became synonymous with UK shortly after a 6-2 victory over Illinois on October 9, 1909. Commandant Carbusier, then head of the military department of old State University, told a group of students in a chapel service following the game that the Kentucky football team had "fought like wildcats."

The moniker "Wildcats" became increasingly popular among UK followers and the media. The University has since adopted it as its official nickname.

Wildcat Mascot

The Wildcat mascot originated during the 1976-77 academic year at the University of Kentucky. Gary Tanner was the first Wildcat to dance and entertain crowds at Commonwealth Stadium and Rupp Arena during athletic events. Today the Wildcat mascot also attends academic functions and serves as a friendly ambassador for the University.

In the early 1980s, Wildcat mascot Terry Barney began the tradition of doing a one-armed pushup for each of Kentucky's points in front of the student section after every Wildcat score.

Battle for the Beer Barrel

The Beer Barrel, painted blue, orange and white, is the prize awarded each year to the winner of the Kentucky-Tennessee football game. The first barrel was awarded in 1925. Two Wildcat supporters, Guy Hugelot and Rollie M. Guthrie, wanted to produce something to symbolize the fierce rivalry between the two schools.

The Wildcat has been UK's friendly ambassador since 1976.

ance Union ruled it out. A beer barrel was more acceptable to the ladies.

But there was still the problem of Prohibition and the Anti-saloon League, which voiced displeasure at such a trophy. But the resourceful Hugelot and Guthrie appeased all parties by painting "Ice Water" on the barrel.

Kentucky has won the barrel 23 times in the 88-game series.

UK and Tennessee have battled for the Beer Barrel since 1925.

Battle for the Bourbon Barrel

The Bourbon Barrel is awarded to the winner of the Kentucky-Indiana football game. The series, which was renewed in 1967 after a 40-year break, began in 1893. No one is certain of the origin of this unusual trophy. Some think the blue and red-striped barrel represents the distillery industry in Kentucky and southern Indiana. Indiana leads the series, 14-8-1, but Kentucky has won five of the last eight outings. Both schools have signed a contract to meet each year through 2000. 🐾

A solid brass bar concentrates 75% of the club's weight directly in the center of the putter head, allowing a smooth, controlled stroke and greater accuracy. A bent shaft design gives the club perfect balance. The result? A better feel, and a more confident putting game.

On, On, U of K

On, on, U of K, we are right for the fight today,
Hold that ball and hit that line; Ev'ry Wildcat star will shine;
We'll fight, fight, fight, for the blue and white
As we roll to that goal, Varsity,
And we'll kick, pass and run, 'til the battle is won,
And we'll bring home the victory.

My Old Kentucky Home

The sun shines bright on the old Kentucky home,
'Tis summer, the people are gay;
The corntop's ripe and the meadows in the bloom,
While the birds make music all day.

(Chorus)

Weep no more, my lady,
Oh! Weep no more, today!
We will sing one song for my old Kentucky home,
For my old Kentucky home far away.

The young folks roll on the little cabin floor,
All merry, all happy, and bright;
By-n-by hard times come a-knocking at the door,
Then, my old Kentucky home, good-night!

UK Alma Mater

Hail Kentucky, Alma Mater! Loyal sons and daughters sing;
Sounder her praise with voice united; To the breeze her colors fling.
To the blue and white be true; Badge triumphant age on age;
Blue, the sky that o'er us bends; White, Kentucky's stainless page.

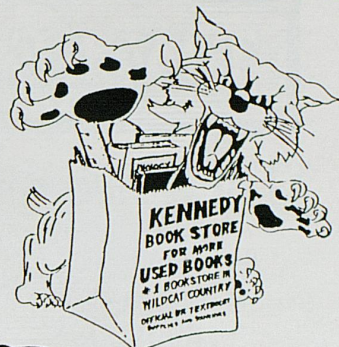

You'll move forward. Fast.

A FEW ARE KNOWN FOR THEIR DEDICATION

Dedication. The few who have it stand above the rest. That's true in sports. And in insurance.

For more than 70 years, we've been dedicated to helping Kentucky families and fans protect what's important to them. Good insurance value at fair prices to insure lives, homes, autos, property and business. With A.M. Best's Superior rating for financial stability.

In recognition of our continuing dedication, we received the Company Award of Excellence twice from the Professional Insurance Agents of Kentucky for our service, support, and claims handling.

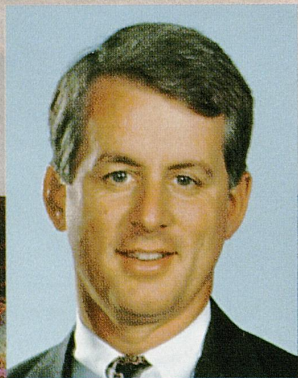

Let us prove our dedication to you. Ask your independent insurance agent about The Ohio Casualty Group for your personal, business and life insurance needs.

There's one hat we place above all others.

As one of America's 50 largest corporations with more than 30,000 employees, we wear quite a variety of hats.

But through all divisions, interests and locations, there's one hat we place above all others.

TEAM VALVOLINE

Breaking From The Pack

At Valvoline, Inc. we believe contests are won before the competition begins. Success depends on preparation and staying a step ahead of the field.

Those same principles guide Valvoline and our subsidiaries. Our companies comprise a full line of lubricants, automotive chemicals and refrigerants, as well as oil-change service and used oil collection.

Valvoline Branded, Valvoline Instant Oil Change, Pyroil Performance Products, Valvoline International, Lube Refinery Sales, Ashland Industrial Products and First Recovery - all of these members of the winning Valvoline team call Lexington home. But more importantly, each is a leader in its field.

With this cast of strong performers, Valvoline has the horsepower to break away to the checkered flag.

VALVOLINE. THE PERFORMANCE TEAM.
