By THE EDITOR
With the Interfraternity Council's committee having up a few changes to the recent Hill Week proposal...

From Missouri
After complimenting Joe Creason for his item on the field house, J. R. says "In my varied past, I attended one school in particular that has a field house that does not belong to the university body and soul."

Let UK Run It
Now if the good old engineering department thinks they will save money by bringing in Lexington on the deal, that's fine, but little they are caring about the management of the field house...

Severely Buildings
There has been enough money spent in putting up "severely" buildings on this campus. McVey hall, the men's dormitories, and the library are fine forms of architecture...

On Intramurals
In answer to S. H. C.'s query about the change in track dates, J. C. writes the following: "The prime reason behind the intramural program is to afford competition for men not qualified for varsity or college teams..."

No Discrimination
There has never been any discrimination against football players. This is proven by the fact that one team in the recent basketball tournament was named entirely by group play members...

Two letters this time on hobbies. H. T. claims that it is "clearly apparent that there are those on the campus who cherish prejudices against the Kernel and still others who hold them against the 'Y'..."

ASSEMBLY OF 16 CHOSEN HEADS ARE BILL'S PLAN

YM-YW Final Forum Hears Governmental Revision Scheme

A plan for complete reorganization of student government including shift of administrative, law making, and judiciary powers concerning student affairs to a 16-student legislature elected by general vote and presided over by five student officers also student-elected was submitted last night to the final YM-YW forum by committee chosen for the purpose.

Under the suggested system class officers will be replaced by representatives in the legislature, elected from the four classes. Heading the government will be a president of the student body who has fulfilled scholastic, residence, and examination requirements and has been elected by general vote.

The student legislature, as suggested by the committee, would consist of seven representatives elected by and from the senior class, including four men and three women. Five representatives will be elected by and from the junior class, three men and two women. Two men and one woman will be elected by sophomores. The College of Law will have one representative.

Nomination of these representatives will be made by a student-dominated board who will be selected from each class twice the number of representatives eventually to be elected.

Standing committees with powers in the regulation of discipline, student welfare, publications, curriculum, scholarship, athletics, fraternities and societies, social activities, and finances were included in the plan. Other officers will be a secretary and a treasurer.

The committee making the recommendations was chosen March 29 as a YM-YW forum with Don Irvine as chairman and for the purpose of suggesting an ideal plan for student government to the University. The view with which it was appointed was that such a plan could eventually be adopted and put into operation here. Steps toward the establishment of this plan for the present student government will be taken in the near future, forum leaders declared.

Better Be Confused Than Totalitarian

When the national peace "strike" occupies the attention of collegians on April 20, the numerous student committees and organizations against war will again voice their plea to "keep America out of war."

For instance, the American Student Union believes that peace can be had only by "collective security."

Although we haven't heard much of it lately, the Youth Committee for the Oxford Pledge no longer ago worked strenuously for its pledge: "We refuse to support the government of the United States in any way it may undertake."

The United Student Peace Committee of the National Student Federation of America last year recommended limitation and reduction of armaments, adherence to principles of international law, abstention from use of force in pursuit of national policies and from interference in internal affairs of other nations, support of international cooperation, and the equality of all people and races as basic to the securing of a peaceful world order.

Perhaps some of these "committees" are crack-brained groups with idealistic theories which would never work out in practice—wasn't it Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes who said "a page of history is worth a volume of logic?"

As Struthers Burt stresses in the April Forum, it is a healthy state to be confused over a question as vital and as time-worn as that of the best means of keeping out of war.

Encouraging to the advocates of a better form of student government were answers to the question "Would you support an intelligent movement for student government on this campus?"

From this question asked a carefully tested cross-section of students, interviewers tabulated a 98% "yes" opinion. That, to our way of thinking, should be well-nigh convincing that there is a feeling for student government, no matter how dormant the wish may be.

Last night, too late to be actually "covered" by THE KERNEL, the committee on reorganization of student government was to make its complete report to the student forum.

First of THE KENTUCKY KERNEL surveys—for opinion on this campus alone—was completed the latter part of last week.

unless it is supported by an interested and active student body.

These movements are not new. They have come almost every year, and only a few minor changes have resulted from the best of them. The same will happen this year unless a majority of students actually acquaint themselves with provisions of the proposed constitution and, if they like the plan, support it wholeheartedly.

The complete constitution will be printed soon in THE KERNEL. After that, a meeting of all students will probably be called. Read the constitution, study it, discuss it, and stand ready to make suggestions at the mass meeting.

Behind The Eckdahl

By ANDREW C. ECKDAHL

Mr. Don Irvine, who sneers delightfully, was in the newsroom yesterday and permitted us to see a copy of the proposed student government constitution drawn up by the CRSG. We don't like it. We protest.

Why if that constitution is adopted a student arranging a dance won't even be able to buy himself a postage stamp with class funds, let alone full dress accessories.

This is deplorable. The CRSG is making a deliberate attempt to take profits out of student offices, and that is bad. Profits to be obtained from class offices have long been a tradition at UK, a tradition that has attracted students to seek office.

Mark our words, if that constitution goes through, the incentive for class office will be lost, and the only ones who will seek office will be those who are qualified to govern their fellow students.

Before this CRSG dominates the campus with honest government we wish somebody would let us arrange a two-bit bet. We need a new pair of shoes.

News Note: Thirty-seven goldfish Monday swallowed a Harvard man.

We have, in recent years, read a bit about the various collegiate peace strikes, one of which will be held here April 20. But we are still a little muddled. Are they strikes for or at peace?

Here are some of the answers you'd like to give when an officer of the law stops you for speeding and says, "Where's your license buddy?"

- 1. "My name's not buddy, you stinker; it's Richard Quarterleek Harrison, the third."
2. "I haven't got the slightest idea; where's yours?"
3. "Which do you want, hunting or fishing?"
4. "Why waste my time? In the end I'll give you five bucks anyway."
5. "License—license. What is a license?"
6. "Oh, you're the messenger boy my little son said was following us."
7. "I haven't got a license, and what's more, the car is stolen."
8. "How dare you, officer! You'll just have to take my word that we're married."
9. "Beat it or I'll call a cop."—Punch Bowl.

Every so often, someone pops into the office all in a huff wanting to know why some story or other didn't get into the paper. This is a waste of reader's time. So as a special service, that's THE KERNEL for you, always helping others, we list five reasons why stories do not appear. Next time a story in which you are interested is not printed just choose whichever reason appeals to you instead of advancing on the newsroom with fire in your eye.

Stories are left out of THE KERNEL because:

- 1. There was not enough room and something had to be left out.
2. Somebody told the story before it got into type.
3. The story got into type but the editor inadvertently pried it. (If you don't know what "pi" means work a few crossword puzzles.)
4. The story was so poorly written that the copyeditors couldn't tell enough about it to write a headline.
5. The story lacked news value.

CAMPUSCENE

- Goldfish Again
The "Campus Grind"
Joe College On Feuding

By JIM CALDWELL

The goldfish-swallowing fad is gaining momentum among U. S. collegians, makes one wonder just when we can expect to see it break out on this campus. So widespread has this custom become that Time Magazine this week devotes two entire columns of its Education section to recounting its origin and development.

The record, at latest count, stands at 89, is held by a Clark university student. That even the supposedly weaker sex has taken up the issue was demonstrated a few days ago when a University of Missouri co-ed gained the "distinction" of being the first female to have gulped a "glitterfish."

Undoubtedly the fad will, like all others, come eventually to Kentucky. If any are interested in getting an early start, here is the technique of the matter as described by an M. I. T. freshman. Said he, "You lay the goldfish well back on the tongue, let it wiggle forward till it hits the top of the throat, then give some big gulp. Same effect as swallowing an oyster."

If you can by any chance stomach the idea and the fish, of course, then go to it and more power to you. If the thing ever does over to the Tavern and have a couple rounds of golf before we go to class."

It will all be very nice, I suppose.

I Saw One, I Tell You!

In the so-called "collegiate" movies, one inevitably sees a feminine character known by everyone as the "campus grind." Her identifying marks, inevitable as the character herself, consist of horn-rimmed glasses, hair worn in straight bangs across the forehead, severely plain black clothes, a statistic-wrought dreaminess in the eyes, and a habit of going around quoting esthetic poetry with too-perfect diction.

I walked over to Memorial Hall last Friday night with the intention of hearing a talk by Mr. Charles Allen Smart, author of the best-seller, "R. F. D." When I entered, a woman was speaking. She was, believe it or not, the "campus grind" incarnate. Every single identification tag was there, horn-rimmed glasses and all. A one hour and five minute talk on ancient poets, modern poets, and the rest of the inspired old boys proved it.

Somehow in the course of the evening she got started on the dictators. She said, in so many words, that Mr. Hitler and Mr. Mussolini weren't very nice, and that if Mr. Voltaire were alive today, he would not like them one bit. It was all very nice, and very long, and it made Mr. Smart look very bored. However, being a speech of the intelligent, by the intelligentsia and for the intelligentsia, it must have been perfect.

What Is One To Do

The other day a bunch of boys got to talking about world affairs in general, and about what they would do if the crack-pot flag-wavers got us into a war. One said he supposed he'd be just like the rest of the darnfool sheep and march sullenly off to the scene of the carnage.

The rest, however, weren't so sure. The first said he had a nice hermit's cave dug down in Pike county, to which he would retire in haste at the first bugle-call. Another said he would get married, adopt six or seven kids, rent a farm out on the Paris pike, and so on raising wheat. The last said, with no degree of hesitation, that he would rather be a live coward than a dead hero, and that Leaveyworth looked plenty good to him, should the nation go screwy.

These sentiments are probably, in the eyes of the super-patriots,

Campus Lore

According to an old legend, the arrival of Spring is supposed to make people want to get out and see the world. Week-end victims of this overpowering urge were C. G. Depp and John Bell. Peeling a soft spot in their hearts for New Orleans, the boys three together, a few belongings, borrowed all the "ignoble." But they do show one thing: it's going to take some pretty easy thinking on the part of recruiting officers to get Joe College to join in a virtual suicide pact. He hates war, doesn't want to go to war, and intends to use every faculty he possesses to get out of going.

For he, mule-like, believes that he should be given the opportunity to live to a ripe old age. Let the rest of the world go to pot if it wants to, but for gosh sakes, let's allow the Americans to live a little longer. It's a good, healthy belief, and should be encouraged.

Calling 'Em Wild

By JOE CREASON

With my predictions I always have been tighter than a wet shoe, not much.

But after continued pressure from the people and hours of study over insurance mortality rates, slot machine percentages and finally a coin flip, the pennant winners of the 1935 major league baseball derby are ready to be recorded.

The national league race is slated to close: 1. New York; 2. Cincinnati; 3. Chicago; 4. St. Louis; 5. Pittsburgh; 6. Boston; 7. Brooklyn; 8. Philadelphia. The American league standing no doubt will be: 1. New York; 2. Boston; 3. Detroit; 4. Cleveland; 5. Washington; 6. Chicago; 7. St. Louis; 8. Philadelphia.

Observers say the punch this year will once again come from the National league fight so here are a few reasons, simple as Simon himself, why I think the top four teams in the Senior Circuit will click.

SWORDSMEN WIN OVER TECH, 9-8

Led by Scott Breckinridge, who turned in four wins, the Kentucky fencing team clinched its season with a close 9-8 verdict over Georgia Tech Friday afternoon in Alumni Gym.

In the foil fighting, Breckinridge captured all three of his tests, then took the place of an absent sabreman and clinched the team's wins with a 3-1 nod over Ripberger. Norman Wides was second high for Kentucky with triumphs in both his spee bouts.

The win concluded Kentucky's second year in intercollegiate sword circles. The Wildcats record for the season shows two decisions in 8 matches. The other victory was a narrow verdict over the La Prange Club of Cincinnati two weeks ago.

George Tech held the upper hand in the sabre fighting by 3-1, tied 3-3 in the spee competition and lost the tota by a 6-3 margin.

Chicago

Because of two pitchers, Bill Lee and Clay Bryant, I select the Cubs to hit third place. In most books Gabby Harnett's crew is ranked higher but aside from Lee and Bryant the Cubs have too few dependable pitchers. Still there's hope.

Last year Larry French bested games, he can't do worse than that this season because the law of averages will take care of him. Dizzy Dean can't break a curve because it breaks his arm, yet he should do better than his four wins of the past year. If Dean's arm has recovered from its own depression the Dizzy one could likewise lose the Cubs to their second straight league title.

The securing of Hank Leiber for left outfield post went up as the punch at the plate but the loss of Aggie Galan won't help the cause as Galan pulled up with the measles in his left knee Saturday and won't be able to open the season. Dick Bartel, committed upon at the shortstop, already had carried his rheumatic pains to bed. After a try at the outfield last year Phil Cavaretta bounced back like a rubber check to first base where he seems a fixture. Bill Herman and Sam Hack at second and third are both tested and proven. In case Bartel is out permanently, Steve Metzner, up from the bush, best will cover short.

A lot of experts are picking the Cubs because they like Manager Gabby so well—but why shouldn't they like him, after all he's the fellow who tells them when they can quit and go home.

St. Louis

The remarkable fighting spirit and player-reserve, that once was so much a part of the Cardinals now has disappeared from the face of the earth like bell bottomed trousers and horse cars. The management has done a thorough job of removing the color from the team, in fact they aren't just faded, they're bleached.

First Dizzy Dean, reddest of the red spots, was shipped away, then Frank Frisch, rough and ready manager, was erased with Ripper Collins. Then Leo Durocher was sold down the river in Brooklyn, leaving the team a total shell.

Still possibilities are lurking. If Manny Blaud, who quit at Rochester to give the Cards a transfusion, can find someone to sing a second base in his chorus, the team might roll. At first base is Johnny Mize, one of the best hitters in the game, while across at third is Don Gutteridge, who will

Vacation

Spring vacation will officially begin at midnight Wednesday, April 17, and will continue until 8 a. m. Tuesday, April 18, according to an announcement from the offices of the University registrar, Dr. Leo M. Chamberlain.

Pre-Meds To Meet With Bacteriologists

The Bacteriology Society and the Pryor Pre-Med Society will hold a joint meeting at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, April 18 on the third floor of the New Biological Sciences building.

The principal speaker of the evening will be Dr. O. Kitchin from the Detroit laboratories of the Parke Davis Company. Doctor Kitchin's topic will be "Status of Modern Endocrinology." All students interested in this talk are invited to attend the meeting.

HOME EC MEETING

Phi Upsilon Omicron, honorary home economics fraternity, will hold a meeting at 7:30 tonight in the Student Room of the Agriculture building.

WEBB TO TALK

Prof. W. S. Webb, head of the department of anthropology and archeology, will be the principal speaker at the Dairy Club meeting at 7 o'clock tonight in the Student Room of the Dairy building. Plans for the honor banquet and judging contest will be discussed.

MEET TO SPEAK TO NEGROES

do because of his fielding. The short stop-second-base combination will be drawn from Joe Orango, Jim Brown, Stu Martin or Maury Sturdy. Joe Medwick probably has no been an outfielder but the remainder of the fly chasers aren't so hot. The halting legs of Martin may keep him out of most of the games leaving Bordagaray, T. Moore and Padgett to carry on.

A couple of young pitchers, Tom Sunkel and Bob Bowman, carry the Cards hope for a first division post. Assie from Len Warnick, Bob Weiland and Curt Davis the remainder of the staff is uncertain. Paul Dean is back for another try after a stay in the Texas League. If the Cards could dress their opponents in Texas League uniforms Dean would probably be a 20-game winner. He reacts to a Texas uniform like Santa Anna.

Because of the long bats of Medwick and Mize and the promising pitchers, I'm taking St. Louis as the fourth place club in my pick and pray party.

DELAY SOFTBALL TOURNAMENT GAMES

Opening round games in the intramural department's annual softball tournament, originally billed to get under way this afternoon, have been postponed until April 19 because of conflict with Spring Vacation.

A total of nine fraternity and two independent teams have listed for the games which will be played on campus fields and at Woodland Park. In order to qualify for the final tournament each team must win three of their first five warm-up games.

Meanwhile badminton, golf and horseshoe, singles and doubles, are advancing into the second round.

What is your I.Q. on Style? (For Men Only)

White handkerchiefs should always be worn with white shirts.

YES NO

Answer: Although white handkerchiefs are perfect with white shirts, there's a steady increasing trend toward colored handkerchiefs that harmonize or contrast with your tie. Arrow handkerchiefs, 25¢ up. Arrow ties, $1.00 & $1.50.

Q. How close to ground should trousers hang?

YES NO

Answer: Puffed trousers should hang just low enough to touch your instep at the bottom faces. Straight-cut trousers should touch between the bottom face and the back of the top cap, and should have one slight "break" above the instep.

Q. Is there such an animal as a comfortable pair of shorts?

YES NO

Answer: There is... and they're Arrow shorts. Arrows haven't the center seam you find in so many shorts—the seam that makes shorts chafe and ride up. Arrow shorts, size up. Undershirts, 50¢ up.

Shirt sleeves should fall below the cuff of your suit coat.

YES NO

Answer: Yes, from one-quarter to three-quarters of an inch of your shirt cuff should show beneath your coat sleeve. And the best shirt to show is an Arrow. $2.00 up.
